Trustees Announce $60 Million Campaign

COMPREHENSIVE CAMPAIGN MOST AMBITIOUS IN COLLEGE'S HISTORY

Agnes Scott's Board of Trustees has announced a $60 million campaign, the largest comprehensive campaign in the history of the College.

To a gathering of volunteers from Georgia, California, Texas, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, Board Chairperson Joseph R. Gladden Jr. noted that "this campaign will be the most ambitious in the history of the College. It will value the generosity of every individual and charitable organization that loves learning, believes in the education of women at the highest levels of excellence and shares our mission, dedication and bold aspirations for this College."

The campaign will be launched publicly on Founder's Day weekend, Feb. 23-24, and will conclude June 2004. Celebration will be the theme of the launch weekend in February, with tours and dedications of new and renovated buildings and a celebration party at the Egyptian Ballroom of the Fox Theater in Atlanta.

The campaign announcement coincided with the November dedication of the renovated Bradley Observatory and new Delafield Planetarium, which are part of an unprecedented $120 million building and capital improvement program. Last winter, the College completed a major renovation of its 50-year-old Letitia Pate Evans Dining Hall and opened a new parking facility with adjacent public safety headquarters. At the campaign launch in February, the College will dedicate its new 58,000-square-foot Alston Campus Center and the renovated and expanded 70,000-square-foot McCain Library.

Gladden chairs the campaign steering committee, and alumnae Frances B. Graves '63 of Atlanta and JoAnn Sawyer Delafield '58 of New York are national campaign co-chairs.

With a goal of 75 percent alumnae participation, the campaign will be comprehensive, focusing on a variety of avenues of support for faculty, students and buildings.

"We hope this campaign will find the Col. George Washington Scotts and Frances Winship Walters of the 21st century—the truly exceptional individuals who can make institutionally transforming gifts," said President Mary Brown Bullock '66. "But this campaign is primarily about creating a new culture of giving at Agnes Scott. It is a quest to commit all alumnae to the future of academic strength of their alma mater."

CAMPAIGN CO-CHAIR CONTRIBUTES $500,000 TO OBSERVATORY

Dennis and Joie Delafield '58

JoAnn Sawyer Delafield '58, her husband, Dennis, and the Delafield Fund of The New York Community Trust have awarded the College a $500,000 gift toward the new planetarium at Bradley Observatory.

"Agnes Scott is thrilled to receive this generous gift from our dear friends," said President Mary Brown Bullock '66. "Joie Delafield is a strong advocate of academic excellence in general and science and astronomy in particular."

Delafield, trustee of the College as well as an alumna, also served on the search committee that selected Bullock, the first alumna president of the College. She serves as co-chair of The Campaign for Agnes Scott College.

The 70-seat Delafield Planetarium boasts a 10-meter Astro-Tek dome and a computer-controlled projector built by Zeiss Instruments, maker of the world's finest planetarium projectors. Only nine other sites in the country and 23 others in the world house such projectors.

"This building will help Agnes Scott women learn about astronomy and astrophysics, about the heavens and also about our position in the universe," Bullock said. "But it will also position Agnes Scott as a leader in this field of study among Atlanta schools and liberal arts colleges."

Bradley Observatory reopened in November after extensive renovation and the addition of the planetarium.

A WORD FROM GUÉ HUDSON

The Wallace M. Alston Campus Center will be dedicated formally in February, but it is already easy to see how it will unite the residential, co-curricular and academic parts of our campus and transform our shared life. At long last, we have a wonderful building that will be a magnet, drawing all members of the campus together for discussion, service, programs, fun, friendship, relaxation and enrichment. A student working in the library on an essay will be able to finish her composition, if she chooses, in the Alston Center's first floor Cyber Café. A professor may choose the relaxed atmosphere of the Alston Center for a conference with a student and then continue the meeting in the library stacks for a look together at research materials. Commuting students will finally have sufficient space of their own in the heart of the campus. These are just a few of the opportunities the Alston Center brings.

As I have watched the Alston Center take shape over the last few months, I have thought often of the man for whom it is named and the legacy he left Agnes Scott. He was president during my years as a student at the College and for myself, as well as many alumnae, staff and faculty, he was a formative presence on campus. Realizing there are fewer here now who remember this remarkable man, I thought I would try to capture his profound influence and convey how fitting it is that this particular building is named in his honor.

Wallace McPherson Alston served as the third president of the college from 1951 to 1973 and his ties to Agnes Scott were many. He was born on July 16, 1906, in a house still standing on South Candler Street and played as a small boy on the campus. His mother had attended Agnes Scott Institute. He married an Agnes Scott alumna, Madelaine Dunseith '28.

He earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Emory. Dr. Alston held five earned degrees, including a doctorate in theology from Union Theological Seminary. Ordained by the Atlanta Presbytery in 1932, he served with distinction as a Presbyterian minister in churches in Kentucky and West Virginia before returning to Druid Hills Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. He was a talented leader, administrator, pastor, scholar and teacher. He was, in fact, the male equivalent of the "whole woman" he set as the standard for students. All of his considerable gifts were bestowed on the College he loved and led. However, perhaps his most important bequest was the palpable sense of community that pervaded the campus during his years.

Just as we have built the building that bears his name, Dr. Alston carefully constructed this pervasive sense of community through small and large acts, for he believed wholeheartedly in its importance. His personal interest in students was legendary. He spent the month of August reading the admission files of all new students. He met with them in the fall to talk about their interests and goals at Agnes Scott and remembered their name forever. Some alumnae still may have one of the birthday letters he sent to all students with his wishes on their special day. Many alumnae asked him to perform their marriage ceremonies and always found him a welcoming presence when they returned to the College.

I am sorry Dr. Alston is not here to see this marvelous building and its potential for binding us closer together. However, I am reassured by the knowledge that he knew it would come. Just before his retirement, the Board of Trustees passed a resolution stating a campus center would be named for him when a new one was built. I know I will feel his presence in its spaces each time I enter.

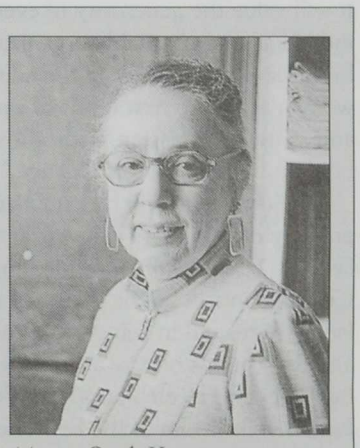
Myrna Goode Young Dies

Myrna Goode Young, professor emerita of classical languages and literatures, died at 86 on Oct. 11 in Decatur. Young taught full time at Agnes Scott from 1957 to 1979 and part time until 1985. She also taught courses at Emory University.

Young was known for bringing the distant past to life in her classroom. She studied classics at Eureka College in Illinois and received her doctorate in classics from the University of Illinois.



Myrna Goode Young

Young is survived by her husband, James Harvey Young, and two sons, Harvey Galen Young of Atlanta and James Walter Young of Phoenix.

STUDENT LEADER PROFILE

ERIKA PEÑA '01
President of Hispanic Awareness Society
Major: Political Science and Spanish
Hometown: San Antonio, Texas

Q: What is the Hispanic Awareness Society?

A: Hispanic Awareness Society is an organization on campus that was created to help raise awareness about Hispanic culture. Unfortunately, not too many people make it a point to learn about other cultures. We try to educate others about who we are as a people, what struggles we have overcome, what struggles we are constantly undergoing, and the importance of being active in the community—not only the Latino community, but the community as a whole. We are also a place that provides a forum for the few Latinas on campus who can come and feel a connection to their heritage and fellow Latinas.

Q: What are some ways in which you raise awareness?

A: We are active not only on campus, but off campus as well. We are very involved in teaching others about our culture. Examples of activities aimed at raising awareness would be our yearly Cinco de Mayo event, our sponsorship of Grupo Cultura, movie nights at the High Museum of Art and our Latin American dinner. The purpose of all these activities is to introduce the Hispanic culture to those who may not be very familiar with it.

Q: Why do you think it is important?

A: I think it is important because if we, the Latino population, do not make our voices heard, then who will speak for us? It is our responsibility to make our presence known, and to be proud of who we are and where we come from.

Q: What does your leadership role involve?

A: As the new president of Hispanic Awareness Society, it is my responsibility to ensure the smooth running of our organization. This involves things like calling and officiating meetings, making contacts and deciding to which events we will dedicate our time.

Q: What have you learned from being part of this organization?

A: I have learned that there are many individuals out there who appreciate and love the Hispanic culture and traditions as much as I do and who are willing to get involved. I have learned the importance of working with others toward a common goal and how great it feels to see others taking an interest in what we stand for as an organization and as a people.

Q: Do you plan to continue your involvement in Hispanic awareness after college?

A: As a Latina, raising Hispanic awareness is something that will be a part of me for the rest of my life. I love who I am and do my best every day to show others what a beautiful culture I and my fellow Latino brothers and sisters have been blessed with.

RTC Program Celebrates 25 Years

PROGRAM RENAMED TO HONOR IRENE K. WOODRUFF

Agnes Scott's return to college program celebrated its 25th anniversary in October and was renamed the Irene K. Woodruff Return to College (RTC) Program in honor of Woodruff and her 1982 gift of $1 million to the College. Woodruff's gift provides financial aid for RTC students.

The Woodruff Program, one of the oldest of its kind in the country, offers opportunities for non-traditional-age women students to complete their degrees. More than 300 RTC students have graduated from Agnes Scott since the program's inception.

According to a recent study by Fern Marx, senior research scientist at Wellesley College Center for Research on Women, Agnes Scott's RTC graduates are achieving success in terms of career mobility and completion of advanced degrees. Almost half (48 percent) went on to complete graduate degrees. Twenty-six percent report incomes greater than $50,000 and 7 percent more than $100,000. Almost all (98 percent) would recommend the program to other women.

Woodruff's mother, Clara Belle Rushton King, attended Agnes Scott Institute from 1892 to 1894. Woodruff herself graduated from National Park Seminary in Forest Glenn, Md., where she studied science, English and music. In 1918, she married George Woodruff, who served as a member, vice chairperson and interim chairperson of the Agnes Scott Board of Trustees from 1939 to 1974. During her life, Woodruff was active in many worthwhile causes, particularly children's health and education. In 1985, Agnes Scott named the main quadrangle on campus the George Waldo and Irene King Woodruff Quadrangle to honor them and their service to the College.

New Science Building to Aid Collaboration

TECHNOLOGY-RICH FACILITY WILL CREATE 'COMMUNITY OF SCIENTISTS'

As Agnes Scott's master plan catapults the College into the 21st century, another key element of that plan is taking shape—the development of an enhanced science curriculum and a new $36.5 million building to house the College's science departments. The approval of the new building by the Board of Trustees in November coincided with the completion of another element of the science program—the reopening of the Bradley Observatory and dedication of the Delafield Planetarium.

The new developments in the natural sciences will focus on interdisciplinary connections, collaborative learning through classes and research, and an integration of the experimental and theoretical sides of the disciplines.

"The new facility will provide 'villages' of specialized facilities for chemistry, biology, physics and psychology as well as many shared facilities where we will regularly come together for interdisciplinary teaching and research," said Sandra Bowden, Dana professor of biology and shepherd of the science building project. For example, a neuroscience track will bring together biology, psychology and chemistry. "We want to be truly interdisciplinary in the way we think about theories and questions in the sciences, not just share a speaker or teach in each other's classes," Bowden said.

Among the features of the new building will be a microscopy suite with electron and light microscopes; a greenhouse attached to the building for ecology, environmental science and plant science; learning centers on two floors where students can gather informally around computers and comfortable seating; a central atrium open to the top of the building; and multiple gathering spaces where research results can be displayed and discussed.

A "racetrack" design will place shared resources (instrumentation and prep rooms, light- and temperature-controlled environments, etc.) in the center of each floor's wings with labs and classrooms around the outer periphery of each corridor. The building will be "technology-rich," says Bowden. "It is laid out to serve a community of scientists, all together, interacting programmatically."

Campbell Hall has served Agnes Scott's science programs for nearly 50 years, but the building could not be renovated to allow configurations required for modern lab facilities. In addition, all four science departments in Campbell currently share 600 square feet of dedicated faculty research space, whereas the new building will provide 400 square feet of dedicated faculty-student research lab space per faculty member. These new labs will allow for ongoing year-round research that was formerly based in laboratories regularly scheduled for courses in the afternoons.

The new facility, to be located on the site of the current tennis courts (which will be moved at another site), will be approximately 115,000 square feet. It will have one garden level, visible from the south side of the building, and three floors above that level. Construction is scheduled to begin this year with a March groundbreaking and be completed by the end of 2002.

"One of my hopes and dreams is that the visibility of the sciences will increase," Bowden says. "It is already increasing with a new second-semester science requirement, participation in first-year seminars and planned changes (like the new environmental studies and neuroscience programs). But two new buildings, with Bradley Observatory reopening and this one in a couple of years—that's increased visibility."

A MESSAGE FROM ANNE

I got married several months ago, about the time I took office as president of the Alumnae Association. Don, my husband, has gotten a quick introduction to Agnes Scott and the role the College plays in my life. I've been to an Alumnae Board retreat, comprehensive campaign meetings and events, Leadership Conference, committee meetings, trustee meetings and other assorted events. Don has accompanied me to some of these events.

One night he asked, "Sometime I want you to tell me why Agnes Scott is so important to you." He attended a university for his undergraduate and graduate degrees and has had little association with the school since his graduation. I'm sure that friends, even Agnes Scott classmates, have wondered the same thing. I'd like to answer that question and encourage you to think about your relationship with the College.

Agnes Scott is my number one commitment outside my family and my career. During my four years as a student, I received a world-expanding education and developed friendships that I hope will continue throughout my life. I learned what it means to live in a society where honor and ethics are the expected minimum. Since graduation, the College has continued to provide me opportunities for growth, new friendships and connections, a place that always feels like home. I work to make sure others know what an outstanding place Agnes Scott is, to make sure other talented young women have the opportunity to define themselves here and to make sure the College continues to be a relevant part of the lives of its alumnae.

Why is my participation needed? We have a wonderful president and talented faculty and staff members guiding the day-to-day activities and developing a vision for the future. Agnes Scott is growing: more students, more faculty members, new and expanded buildings. We have a new alumnae director and staff members who work hard to offer new and interesting programs for alumnae.

These things alone will not ensure our success. A larger college, while essential for future viability, will require more resources. The curriculum will need to be continuously updated and expanded to meet the changing needs of today's students. A single type of program will not meet the needs of all alumnae.

I could say the situation is under control. I could decide that others are paid to make these changes happen. I could say Agnes Scott is a part of my past. I don't say any of those things. As long as I believe in Agnes Scott, I must support it with my words, my talents, my money. I will be a leader. I will be a part of the team.

What does Agnes Scott mean to you? How can you support the College? Some ideas: volunteer, attend a chapter event, make a contribution or increase your gift to the Annual Fund, call or write a classmate you have not spoken to in a while. Be a part of Agnes Scott today.

In Retrospect

THE NEWS HAS MOVED, BUT STILL INSPIRES

When I graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1938, I was elected class secretary. That meant that for the next few years I'd be reporting news of classmates to the alumnae magazine. When the first quarterly issue arrived, I turned its pages rapidly to read my thoroughly researched gossip printed on the last page. News of older graduates always appeared on front pages, but what possible interest might we have in those women who had graduated back in 1906? Nothing had happened as exciting as engagements, weddings, careers, new homes, travels and graduate schools.

As decades passed, others were recording new beginnings and current changes. For me, that was marriage in the '40s . . . children staring school in the '50s . . . one graduating and marrying in the '60s . . . grandchildren arriving and husband dying in the '70s . . . out of the blue came a happy second marriage to brighten the '80s . . . then in the '90s too many heartbreaks and names listed in obits. By now our class news has inched up the front of the quarterly. Is doom and gloom all we can anticipate? Maybe not.

Think about the one who took her two daughters to see the Passion Play in Oberammergau recently. When they returned home, she was off on a cruise to Alaska with her cousin, another widowed alumna. And don't we all secretly smile in remembering our well-preserved classmate who at 80-something, arrived at the 60th reunion on the arm of a charming "significant other"? I'd call that "Life in the Fast Lane!"

Guidelines For Submitting Class News

Class news is published in MAIN EVENTS in January, March, June and September. Please submit news to your class secretary according to the following deadlines:

- August 20 for January publication
- November 20 for March publication
- February 20 for June publication
- May 20 for September publication

Class news may also be submitted directly to the Office of Alumnae Relations. Whether submitting news to your secretary or the Alumnae office, be sure to include your full name (first, maiden, last) and class year.

When reporting births, deaths and advanced degrees, please include as much detailed information as possible. In all cases, exact dates and full names are needed.

Please report weddings and other planned events (vacations, visits with alumnae and friends) only after the fact.

Agnes Scott has nearly 10,000 living alumnae. We want to keep in touch with all of you and keep you in touch with each other.

Contact your class secretary with your news today!

DC Alumnae Launch 'ASC Connections'

On Oct. 19, 30 Agnes Scott alumnae from Washington, D.C., Baltimore and northern Virginia gathered at the Omni Shoreham Hotel for ASC Connections: DC. This was the first of what organizers hope will be a series of networking events across the country. These events allow ASC women to become resources for each other in everything from business and career development to finding the best people to do what needs to be done in everyday life.

The idea for ASC Connections was conceived by W. Burlette Carter '82, trustee; Tina Carr '89, president of the Washington, D.C., alumnae chapter; and Marilyn Hammond '68, director of alumnae relations. At the event, women whose graduation years spanned almost 40 years exchanged information about what they needed from networking partners and what they could give to others in the network.

"The connections that women made in just one evening were amazing," said Hammond. "Women wondering whether careers in law or medicine were right for them found attorneys and physicians eager to share their experiences. And a woman looking for a babysitter discovered that an alumna with a 14-year-old daughter lived in her neighborhood."

For more information about hosting an ASC Connections networking event in your area, contact Marilyn Hammond at mhammond@agnesscott.edu or call 1-800-868-8602, ext. 6325.

Smith '51 Establishes Romanian Connection with House-Church

For Majorie Stukes Smith '51, the latest chapter in her active life could easily be titled "Sudden Decisions." That is how Smith, daughter of former Agnes Scott Dean of the Faculty Samuel Guerry Stukes and Frances Gilliland Stukes '24, says she established a connection with Romania in the spring of 1999.

"On Good Friday, I first heard about a house in Romania from friends who had adopted a Romanian orphan," she says. The house was being considered as a Christian center for children. "I thought, 'I can help with that.' I wanted to honor my mother in some small way, so I purchased the house for $5,000 and named it the Frances House."

Smith and her husband, David, traveled from their home in Wales to Romania last March for a dedication ceremony—a 1,500-mile round trip journey by car to Galgau, where the house is located. "The Frances House looked sturdy but had no plumbing. A well out front was reliable, even used by other villagers. An outhouse, sizable barn, and a few smaller sheds—all surrounded by a wooden fence—completed the picture. Inside there was a gas stove and a big ceramic furnace in the center of the room."

The group appreciated the warmth from the stove and furnace, as March in Romania can be grim, Smith says. "The ground is frozen with much standing water on top."

Despite the weather, the welcome the group received in Romania still brings tears to Smith's eyes. "We had a dedication service on a Sunday afternoon. We had no idea who would come. To my utter amazement, the middle room was so filled with people that the door was lifted off so more could stand in the entry way."

Majorie Stukes Smith '51

Ministers from three denominations participated in the service. "We had a simple communion service," recalls Smith. "I had to stand and give a 'testimonial,' a new experience for me, especially since my words were being translated into Romanian."

The warmth Smith felt from her Romanian friends continued to flow when she and her husband returned to Galgau in September. "David and I flew to Budapest, where we were met by two Romanians, one of whom we trusted completely. Ten hours later we arrived in Galgau to a dinner served at 3:30 a.m."

The next morning, the Smiths walked up the road to the Frances House and received a tremendous surprise. "No roof," says Smith, "only rafters with the sky showing through. One of our Romanian friends said we would have it back on by the next night. We started passing tiles with a small group of volunteers led by one builder. Sure enough, the 2000 or more tiles were all back on by Saturday night—no work is done on Sunday."

A Romanian congregation now uses the house, which was used during Romania's Communist era as a secret meeting place for Christians. "It is theirs now. There is a Sunday service each week and children come to the house all through the summer for Bible school," Smith says.

Smith's involvement with Romania did not end with the Frances House. "I am in touch, albeit infrequently, with two families in Romania by e-mail and phone. I am also now involved with a hospital in Zalau, the center of the 'county' where Galgau is located, in Transylvania." The Smiths are planning a third trip this summer.

The Frances House

Jan Cribbs '69

A New Story for Cribbs '69

While Jan Cribbs '69 is honored by all the attention her recent career change to professional storytelling has earned her, she can't help but be bemused as well. "I could have continued with an illustrious career in public relations and would have received no real recognition for it."

After earning her degree in English from Agnes Scott in 1969, Cribbs completed a master of arts in English at the University of Washington. She then worked in admission for the College for three years before returning to school to earn a master's in early childhood education from Georgia State University. A stint in public relations with Atlanta's famous Alliance Theatre led to Cribbs going to work for the state of Georgia, eventually overseeing a staff of eight in the public relations department.

After nearly 20 years with the state, the situation became too stressful. "My body began to give me signals," she says. "I developed an ulcer."

Cribbs took time off to examine her life. She had been attending the National Storytelling Festival in Jonesboro, Tenn., since 1988 and had enjoyed it tremendously. "I have had a love of language and stories all of my life. After I left my job, I was working part time for an attorney. People began to encourage me to be a storyteller. As 'out there' as it seemed, it is what I wanted to do."

Cribbs visited a friend who was enrolled in the storytelling program at East Tennessee State University. "I sat in on a few classes, including one taught by Flora Joy, who was then director of the program. She offered me a graduate assistantship. Within three weeks, doors began swinging open. I looked heavenward and said, 'I get the message.'"

In 1998, Cribbs moved to Johnson City, Tenn., to pursue a master of arts in storytelling at ETSU.

Now back in Decatur and building her business, Story Connections, Cribbs writes some of her own stories and uses traditional folktales and other sources as inspiration for others. Among numerous other events, she participated in Telebrations at The Carter Center, "a worldwide event that emphasizes the history and craft of storytelling and involves many stories being told in different places around the world."

In addition to participating in storytelling festivals, Cribbs has been developing workshops to teach the use of storytelling in coaching and to help churches go deeper into the scriptures. She sees a wide variety of uses for her art. "Many people from many professions other than educators have now obtained the degree, including ministers, priests, psychologists and a variety of other health care providers, attorneys, actors, and folks like me who are changing directions and following their hearts! I trusted, walked out on faith, and followed my dream."

Livingston MAT '97 Finds Fulfillment in New Directions

Gail Livingston, MAT '97

For Gail Livingston MAT '97, the decision to return to school marked a profound change in the direction of her life. An employee of BellSouth since 1972, she had a chance to take a sabbatical from BellSouth, and she made the most of it.

"I entered the MAT program merely to enjoy the study of literature again and to learn more about education theory and practice," Livingston says. "I had two daughters and wanted to ensure they had a good education. I remember walking across the green in front of the gazebo, just feeling happy because I wasn't in a hermetically sealed office tower anymore—and I could hear the birds and smell the fresh air. I found myself thoroughly invigorated and inspired by the program—but I had to return to BellSouth at the end of my time off. Then, about two years later, I took an early buyout and left the company."

For her last assignment with BellSouth, Livingston requested that the company "loan" her to the United Way, where she worked as part of the agency's annual fundraising campaign. "I really enjoyed it. The thrill of working the United Way campaign and bringing in lots of dollars for wonderful charities has brought me back for five campaigns, and Agnes Scott is now one of my best institutions to work with.

At the end of the first campaign, I returned to ASC to do my practice teaching and complete my MAT, which I did in 1997."

A loaned executive from BellSouth to United Way for her first four campaigns, Livingston was sponsored by the company as a retiree for her fifth.

She clearly finds her work with the United Way fulfilling work because she can "do so much to improve the lives of others, not just by nurturing them directly, but by influencing so many to give to support the work."

This year alone, she has had a hand in raising more than $500,000 for DeKalb County funded agencies and small innovative programs. Though she thought asking for money would be difficult, she says she doesn't mind now. "I know where it goes. This is what I can do to help the community."

Spring Events

MLK CELEBRATION, WRITERS' FESTIVAL HEADLINE ONGOING SERIES

Agnes Scott's three-year celebration of the millennium continues into the spring with more opportunities to commemorate the College's heritage, renew one's spirit and challenge one's mind. Spring events include:

"Realizing the Dream," Martin Luther King Celebration featuring Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee. The husband and wife team of Hollywood entertainers Davis and Dee celebrate the life and legacy of Martin Luther King with the performance of a one-act play. Tuesday, Jan. 23, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

"Civil Rights: Who Needs It," Martin Luther King Convocation featuring Ossie Davis. Wednesday, Jan. 24, 10 a.m. Presser Hall.

Ko-Thi Dance Company. The third oldest African dance company in America makes its Atlanta debut with this performance. Saturday, Feb. 10, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

"The American Vocalist," The Boston Camerata, Joel Cohen, director. This skillful blending of Northern hymn traditions and Southern spiritual melodies makes this performance an authentically American musical experience. Performing with The Boston Camerata will be Sotto Voce, Agnes Scott's chamber choir. Saturday, Feb. 24, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

This performance is sponsored in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in partnership with the Southern Arts Federation and the State Arts Agency of Georgia.

Global Perspectives: "Are Wartime Rapes 'Local' or 'Global'? — Some Feminist Clues," Cynthia Enloe. Enloe, professor of government at Massachusetts' Clark University and author of numerous books, brings a fresh perspective to the role of women and gender in foreign policy and international relations. This lecture, part of ASC's observance of Women's History Month, is one of a series of Millennium Lectures on issues surrounding globalization. Thursday, March 1, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

Writers' Festival, featuring Marsha Norman '69, John Updike, Sharon Olds and Anjail Rashida Ahmad '92. For 29 years, Agnes Scott has held an annual Writers' Festival, hosting authors such as Eudora Welty, James Dickey, Alfred Uhry, Joyce Carol Oates and numerous others. Thursday and Friday, March 22-23. Winter Theatre and Gaines Chapel.

Book Unbound Panel Discussion. In celebration of the renovated McCain Library, a panel of noted authorities on the world of books will delve into the future of books. Tuesday, March 27, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

Piano Book Concert, Ursula Oppens. Oppens, professor of music at Northwestern University and renowned interpreter of both established repertoire and contemporary music, presents the 10 pieces from the Millennium Piano Book, a work commissioned by Carnegie Hall to provide contemporary music at the intermediate level. Oppens' performances with major orchestras throughout the United States and Europe have been marked by a powerful grasp of the composer's musical intentions and an equally powerful command of the keyboard's resources. Thursday, March 29, 8 p.m. Presser Hall.

"An Evening with Madame F," Claudia Stevens. For Holocaust Remembrance Week, Stevens, the daughter of Holocaust survivors, conveys the struggle and ethical dilemma of camp inmates through a musical performance based on factual experiences at Auschwitz and Bergen Belsen concentration camps. Stevens performs at the piano and drum and with electrical sound to convey this story of spiritual survival through the act of expression. Saturday, April 21, 8 p.m. Winter Theatre.

Class of 2004

LARGEST ASC CLASS EVER

Agnes Scott's class of 2004—257 students strong—arrived on campus this fall as the College's largest class ever. The first-years bring the total student enrollment to 901, the largest enrollment in the College's history.

Thirty-three percent of the first-year class was ranked in the top 5 percent of their high school class, and 55 percent were ranked in the top 10 percent of their high school class. The middle 50 percent range of their SAT scores was 1090-1300, their median ACT score was 27, and the average grade point average among them was 3.69.

The most popular interests among members of the incoming class are biology, English, international relations, political science, pre-medicine and psychology.

The class is 57 percent Caucasian, 21 percent African American, 5 percent Asian American or Pacific Islander, 5 percent Hispanic American or Latina, 4 percent international and 8 percent bicultural or other, according to information reported by students on their applications for admission.

The class is also geographically diverse, with students representing 28 states and 6 foreign countries.

Statistics are based on information as of July 1, 2000.

ALUMNAE GUESTROOM NETWORK ENDOWING SCHOLARSHIPS

Need lodging in Atlanta, Boston, Charlotte, Houston or Washington, D.C.? Want to help sustain a scholarship at ASC? You can do both. Through the Alumnae Guestroom Network Endowing Scholarships (A.G.N.E.S.) program, the ASC Alumnae Association will secure affordable lodging for alumnae, students, faculty and administrative staff at the homes of alumnae in a growing number of cities. Revenue earned through the room charges endows a scholarship. For more information about adding your city to the guestroom list or for reservations, call 1-800-868-8602, ext. 6323.

ARTS

Anne Beidler, associate professor of art, has received the Southeastern College Art Conference award for Outstanding Artistic Achievement presented at the SECAC annual meeting at the University of Louisville in October.

Marylin Darling, professor of dance, presented a paper titled "Umbrellas in Dance" on Agnes Scott's collaborative efforts with the Dancers Collective of Atlanta at the International Council of Fine Arts Deans in Miami, Fla., in October. Darling was elected chair of the collaborations committee for the council. In addition, as director of nonprofit agency Abused Women and Children, Darling has been selected to receive a DeKalb County award for outstanding community service and to be presented a proclamation by the Georgia Legislature on behalf of the agency.

Kel Keller, instructor of photography, had one of his images selected for the poster of the second annual "Atlanta Celebrates Photography" program.

Tracey E.W. Laird, assistant professor of music, presented a paper, "Like Hen's Teeth: Sleepy Brown, Country Trumpet, and the Hybrid Culture of Western Swing," in November at Musical Intersections, a conference in Toronto.

Terry McGehee, professor of art, and Chris De Pree, assistant professor of astronomy, collaborated to produce "Celestial Spheres," a 30-foot diameter multi-colored granite terrace based on planetary orbits and other patterns of the solar system. The work was included in the Agnes Scott art opening "A Matter of Scale" and the Nov. 3 reopening of Bradley Observatory, and was reviewed in the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and the Decatur Community Review.

Artist affiliates Kay Paulsen, soprano, and David D'Ambrosio, piano, performed a recital at Nazareth College (N.Y.) with Nazareth faculty members Laura Enslin (Paulsen's daughter) and Kevin Nitsche. Paulsen was also given an Extra Mile Award by the Edwards-Miller Foundation in November in recognition of her work with a visually impaired student.

Donna L. Sadler, associate professor of art, presented by invitation of the International Society of Majestas a paper titled, "Images of Medieval Kingship," at the 19th International Congress of Historical Studies in August in Oslo, Norway.

David S. Thompson, associate professor of theatre, was elected vice president of membership at the 36th annual convention of the Georgia Theatre Conference in October.

HUMANITIES

Christine Cozzens, associate professor of English, led a seminar titled "Making Writing Assignments Work" to the faculty at Brenau University.

Julia K. De Pree, assistant professor of French, presented a paper titled "Writing Transference, Reading Rousseau" at the South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Birmingham, Ala., in November.

Michael R. Lynn, assistant professor of history, presented a paper titled "Electricity in the Air: the Geography of Popular Science in Eighteenth-Century Paris" at the October conference of the Northeast American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies in Portland, Maine.

Rafael Ocasio, associate professor of Spanish and Spanish program coordinator, published a paper, "Autobiographical Writing and the 'Out of the Closet' Literature by Gay Latino Writers," in Antipodas: Revista de Estudios Hispánicos. He also presented "Indoctrination in Cuban Juvenile Publications: Newest Trends in Revolutionary Ideology" at the 70th annual South Atlantic Modern Language Association (SAMLA) conference in November; and "Apropriación del Discurso Femenino: el 'Cross-Dresser' en el Teatro del Siglo de Oro y Sab de Gertrudis Gómez de Avellaneda" at the 50th annual Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference in October at Radford University (Va).

Tina Pippin, associated professor of religious studies, published "Fantasy" in the Handbook of Postmodern Biblical Interpretation (AKM Adam, ed.), Chalice Press, 2000; and "Whore of Babylon" and "Jezebel" in Women in Scripture (Myers, Craven and Kraemer, eds.), Houghton Mifflin, 2000.

Nicholas Radel, visiting professor of English, was co-editor of The Puritan Origins of American Sex: Religion, Sexuality, and National Identity in American Literature, Routledge, 2000. He also published "Queer Romeo and Juliet: Teaching Early Modern 'Sexuality' in Shakespeare's 'Heterosexual' Tragedy" in Approaches to Teaching Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet (Maurice Hunt, ed.), Modern Language Association of America, 2000; and a review of Unspeakable Shaxxxespeare's: Queer Theory and American Kiddie Culture by Richard Burt, in Medieval and Renaissance Drama in England XIII, 2000.

Régine Reynolds-Cornell, professor emerita of French, wrote two book reviews for Bibliothèque d'Humanisme et Renaissance on Blaise de Vigenère: La Renaissance du Regard by Richard Crescenzo and on an edition of Le Chevalier Délibéré by Olivier de La Marche (Carleton W. Carroll, ed.; Carroll and Lois Hawley Wilson, translators). Reynolds-Cornell also presented a program on "Van Gogh: From Lost Faith to Lost Hope" at the High Museum of Art in Atlanta in September.

Michael Schlig, assistant professor of Spanish, published an article, "Spain as Orient in Juan Pablo Forner's Los Gramáticos: Historia Chinesca" in the Fall issue of Dieciocho: Hispanic Enlightenment.

Zrinka Stahuljak, visiting instructor of French, received her Ph.D. in French from Emory University in December.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

Linda Hodges, Kenan professor of chemistry, and Lilia Harvey, associate professor of chemistry, co-authored "Approaches to Promote 'Deep Learning' in Organic Chemistry" at the 16th biennial Conference on Chemical Education in August at the University of Michigan. Hodges also conducted an invited workshop titled "Promoting and Evaluating Deep Learning" at the University System of Georgia Conference on Impacting Student Learning in October.

Amy J. Lovell, assistant professor of astronomy, presented a paper titled "Collisional Excitation of HCN by Electrons in Comets Hyakutake and Hale-Bopp" at the 32nd annual meeting of the Division of Planetary Sciences, American Astronomical Society, in Pasadena, Calif., in October.

Larry Riddle, professor of mathematics, gave two presentations on the results of the 2000 Advanced Placement Calculus examination to the Georgia Association of Advanced Placement Mathematics Teachers and to the College Board National Forum in New York City.

ASC NEWS BRIEFS

FORMER HISTORY CHAIR DAVIDSON DIES

Philip Grant Davidson Jr.

Philip Grant Davidson Jr., chair of Agnes Scott's history department from 1928 to 1942, died in October. He was 98.

Davidson left Agnes Scott in 1942 to be dean of Vanderbilt University's graduate school and became the university's provost in 1948. He was president of the University of Louisville from 1951 to 1967, where he has been credited with integrating the institution and helping convert the school to public status. He left Louisville to become an education adviser for the Ford Foundation in Southeast Asia.

"He was a wonderful person, a great teacher," said Rosalyn C. Robinson '35, who did research for Davidson after her graduation. "His students all thought the world of him."

Davidson died of natural causes at his home in Nashville.

EMERITUS TRUSTEE NEIL DAVIS DIES

Emeritus trustee Neil O. Davis died in June at 85. Davis was longtime editor and publisher of the Auburn Bulletin (Ala.), a Nieman Fellow at Harvard University, a member of the national Advisory Commission on Rural Poverty and chair of the Alabama Ethics Commission. He served the College as a trustee from 1966 to 1985. Agnes Scott's Board of Trustees adopted a resolution of appreciation for his life at the Board's November meeting. Davis is the father of Katherine Davis Savage '62 and Lee Davis Blackman '68.

DIRECTOR OF INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION NAMED

Jennifer Lund has been named director of Agnes Scott's Office of International Education. Lund has most recently served as associate director of the Office of International Education of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. She has also directed the Office of International Services and Programs at Georgia State University and has worked with international programs at the University of Florida. Lund received her bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee, her master's from Vanderbilt University and her doctorate from the University of Florida.

EVANS HALL EARNS DESIGN AWARD

Decatur's Historic Preservation Commission presented a design award to the College for its renovation of Letitia Pate Evans Hall. The dining hall was one of eight new or renovated buildings in Decatur to receive the award.

DEPOT PHOTOGRAPHS NEEDED

The City of Decatur is planning renovation of the old railroad train depot across the tracks from the College and is in need of old photographs of the depot. The city asks alumnae to search their scrapbooks for any photos that might help in the restoration of this building, and contact Julia Levy at (404) 377-5142 with information.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Feng Xu, assistant professor of political science and director of the international relations program, published Women Migrant Workers in China's Economic Reform (St. Martin's Press, 2000).

STAFF AND ADMINISTRATION

Tim Hussey, director of interactive communications, gave a presentation at the Georgia Education Advancement Council (GEAC) in November on recent research technology initiatives Agnes Scott has done with its alumnae and potential students. He was also selected to serve on the GEAC board of directors.

PARTING WORDS

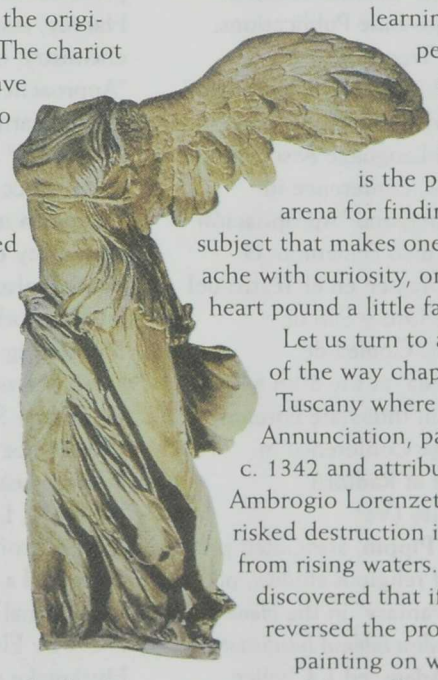
The Intestinal Power of Learning

ON STENDHAL SYNDROME AND PENTIMENTI OF LIFE

Following are excerpts from Associate Professor of Art Donna Sadler's address to the class of 2001 at Senior Investiture.

The first time I saw the Nike of Samothrace at the Louvre Museum, I felt a complex wave of beauty, nausea and lightheadedness that sent me careening down two flights of marble stairs in a dead faint. My right leg and left arm have mended, the humiliation has paled since most of the museum guards from that regime have retired, and I am extremely careful around breathtaking works of art. Was this a case of Stendhal Syndrome? The condition was identified in 1982 in Florence after 107 victims sought help in the psychiatric wing of Santa Maria Novella after being dramatically affected by the city's great works of art. It was dubbed the Stendhal Syndrome after the French writer who recorded a similar emotional experience on his first visit to the Tuscan city in 1817.

It was years later, when (Callaway Professor of Philosophy) Richard Parry and I were leading students on a Global Connections trip to Greece, that I saw the familiar signs of "art sickness" in an Agnes Scott student. We had stopped to pay homage to the Charioteer of Delphi and remark on his astounding beauty, much of which would have been shrouded from the original classical viewer. The chariot he wielded would have hidden the lower two thirds of his body and the vantage point of the statue would have concealed the windswept chiton and sweaty locks of hair clinging to his neck. As I began to wax poetic on the charioteer's correctly rendered inner maleolus and Mortan's toe, I recognized the liquid look in Audra's eyes, the strange lack of gravity playing around the lower two thirds of her body as she succumbed to the bronze statue's unflinching gaze.



Lack of breakfast? Perhaps. But why not swoon in front of a red figure vase? Her symptoms were classic. But I am not advocating Stendhal Syndrome as a way of life—it's far too drastic on the bone structure. What I urge you to heed is the poignancy of those classroom moments, when one is struck by the passion your professor has for his or her work. Somehow, despite the barometric pressure, the hangover, or the jaded je ne sais quoi, one is mesmerized: learning happens. It seems that college is the perfect arena for finding the subject that makes one's gums ache with curiosity, one's heart pound a little faster.

Let us turn to an out of the way chapel in Tuscany where an Annunciation, painted c. 1342 and attributed to Ambrogio Lorenzetti, risked destruction in 1966 from rising waters. It was discovered that if one reversed the process of painting on wet plaster, one could actually remove the pigment that had bonded with the wall. By dampening the painting with a layer of glue, water and linen, the fresco could be rolled off the wall and reapplied to another wall. Beneath the rather prosaic treatment of this scene was a remarkable underdrawing of a Virgin who grasps a column and swoons at Gabriel's glad, but surely unexpected, tidings. Judging from the existing fresco, the patron disliked the originality of Lorenzetti's work and a different painter was summoned to complete the fresco. The existence of this pentimento offers an extraordinary glimpse of an artist working within a tradition-bound era, when iconographic and stylistic change occurred slowly, yet with the impact of a thunderbolt. Though the word pentimento, which refers to the underpainting that is ultimately discarded, comes from the Latin word to regret, I would argue that it is here that life is lived.

What makes college such an extraordinary time are, as with extraordinary works of art, the layers and layers of first drafts that constitute one's journey through a liberal arts education. In college you have the daunting opportunity to sample a varied palette, paint exclusively in cadmium red, or eschew lines for a semester, knowing that these sketches may be tossed the minute you are accepted to law school. It is not the college transcript that provides the palimpsest of one's path, but the overlay of experiences that define one. Find something that makes you weak in the knees, that brings you joy, aesthetic or otherwise. And revel in your pentimenti, for the sum of these unpolished drawings is what forges the handprint one leaves.

Gifts and Contributions, 1999–2000

Special names are etched across the landscape of Agnes Scott memories, names of founders, donors, beloved faculty, cherished classmates, and honored parents. When gifts are given to the College in honor or to memoralize, these names become a living legacy, a dynamic representation of the values, hopes, wisdom, and integrity of those whose lives they evoke. The contributions given in their names ensure a living memory, providing ongoing support to the educational mission of Agnes Scott College.

But special Agnes Scott names are not limited to those who are specially honored: each and every donor to the College is recognized individually in this annual "Donor's List." Your name, your class year, the amount of your gift, your relationship to the College as a friend, parent, student, staff or faculty member is listed herein. This simple list stands as a tribute to the thousands of individuals who take time each year to respond to a call from a student or a classmate, to a solicitation letter in the mail. It is our way of saying a heartfelt thank you, a public thank you to all who make possible the present and future Agnes Scott College.

As I read this list this year I realize that in this sixth year of my presidency I now have met many of you. I am personally grateful for your friendships, for the many different ways in which you assist in the work of the College, and for our shared commitment to strengthening Agnes Scott College for the century that has just begun. I look forward to seeing you again, and I know I can count on your support as together we launch "The Campaign for Agnes Scott College."

Montgomery, AL 36104

Ellen Davis Laws is in Columbus, Ind. She moved to Four Seasons Retirement Center two years ago to join several of her friends. Sadly, Ellen lost her daughter to cancer this year. Though her 90th birthday is approaching, she still drives in town. She sends greetings to all '31 survivors.

Wonderful news came from Margot McCoy Gayle of New York City. She has just received the New York State Commissioner's Annual Lifetime Achievement Award "for her long and distinguished commitment to preserving cast-iron architecture in America." The commendation read, "Margot Gayle is the only reason we have a Soho." Congratulations, Margot!

Elizabeth Heath Singletary writes from Dalton, Ga., that at 89 she lives with her daughter and her daughter's husband in Dalton, where she enjoys cross-stitching and watching the Braves play baseball.

Octavia Howard Smith celebrated her 90th birthday in Fayetteville, N.C., with a memorable party given by her niece, Katherine Wolfe Webb, her family and relatives from many states. She is blessed with good health, plays bridge, drives and has had several of her musical compositions sung by the choir of her church.

Clara Nunnally Williamson and her husband, Captain Williamson, are looking forward to hosting their annual dance group at The Cloister in Sea Island, Ga., in January. Some new members and many regulars will be there. Their fifth great-grandchild arrived in September.

Helen Duke Ingram is in James Town, a retirement home in Fort Valley, Ga. Her sister-in-law, Lena Kay Duke, writes that Helen cannot see or walk and has to have help around the clock. Her brother is in Fort Valley, however, and goes to see her every other day.

According to Ruth Etheredge Griffin's daughter, Susan Griffin Condon, her mother is 92 and does not get out too much because of health problems. Nevertheless, Ruth sends greetings to her classmates.

Anne Hudson Hankins plays tennis, walks or goes sailing daily. She also is occupied with her church, choir, visiting children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Carolyn Heyman Goodstein in Charleston, S.C., says that all is well. Her granddaughter is engaged; a grandson just graduated from law school; and another granddaughter, 12, will go to Ashley Hall this year.

Helen Friedman Blackshear continues her poetry. Her latest book is titled These We Will Keep: Alabama's Poet Laureates. Helen will visit 10 cities or towns in the state to do readings. She drives everywhere, plays bridge and reads. Helen greets all her classmates, asking that they keep in touch.

DEATHS
• Martha Sprinkle Rafferty, April 24.

Sarah Watson Emery published a small volume of poetry in 1999 titled J.F.K. and Other Poems. In September, she read some of her poems at Barnes and Noble in Lewisville, Texas.

47 Kathryn Way
Marietta, GA 30062-5175

Lillian Herring Rosas is thankful that reasonably good health allows her to live in her home of many years. Her daughter, Ellen, and husband, Bob Fisher, are in the vicinity. Their two sons, Jamison, 14, and Cameron, 7, are "both great kids." Scouts for the People to People Sports Ambassador Program chose Jamison as the outstanding student athlete and soccer player to represent his country, school and community in the Gothia Cup Games, played in Sweden in July. Only three students were selected from California. More than 6,000 from around the world participated. The competition was conceived by President Eisenhower to promote better understanding among young people. This was a great honor and opportunity for Jamison.

DEATHS
• Eleanor Williams Knox, Sept. 8.
• Margaret Martin Schrader.

SECRETARY
Betty Lou Houck Smith
6391 Glenridge Drive, NE
Glenridge Commons Unit 200
Atlanta, GA 30328

Betty Lou Houck Smith received pictures from Rosalyn Crispin Robinson of her presence at the "Kiowa Powwow" in Apache, Okla. In one picture, Rosalyn is garbed in an elegant shawl, which had been made for her by the great-great-granddaughter of the tribe's chief, Satanta. Rosalyn goes to book signings with her author son, whose books on Western and Indian folklore are selling like hot cakes. On her own, she pursues civic projects that she initiated. Rosalyn also attended the M.D. Anderson Network's Living Fully with Cancer Conference in Houston, Texas. In addition, Rosalyn is, as usual, seeing that the needs of the elderly in her home town of Harlingen, Texas, are being tended to by the town fathers. She is also continuing to lead the cancer support group.

Fidesah Edwards Alexander's daughter Ina Ruth Peele, from Charlotte, N.C., spent a week with her, helping toss junk mail and other things. They joined a reunion at Fort London and toured Williams Island for their Indian and River Gorge Trust tour. Her older daughter, Doris, and husband are collecting shells in the former New Hebrides. Fidesah lost her older brother to diabetes in August.

Dorothy "Grace" Robinson Hanson has spent the last two months recovering from a broken hip. She had a fall while out watering her flowers early one morning. She is expecting her third great-grandchild next May.

Sarah "Lib" Thrasher Baldwin broke a foot (cast up to her knee) and spent six weeks with her daughter and son-in-law while she was recuperating. She says she is almost a recluse because of arthritis. Six of her grandchildren are married—two still in college. She has three great-grandchildren—two more expected in the months ahead.

Marian Calhoun Murray is happy in her new abode, a retirement home with all amenities for comfortable living. She is close enough to home that visits to and from family members are easily accomplished. Marian has already welcomed daughters and grandchildren.

Elizabeth "Lib" Heaton Mullino remains busy with her civic activities in the arts, symphony and ballet. She considers her Agnes Scott education one of the best things that ever happened to her. Her daughter, Mary Elizabeth Moore, is a professor at Emory University.

Betty Lou Houck Smith's eight years in Tennessee were delightful as far as her relationship with her daughter and her husband was concerned. She lived in the boondocks, 10 miles east of Chattanooga, and simply got bored, being away from her longtime friends and interests in the Atlanta area. So, when her former townhouse came back on the market, she bought it back and returned to her old familiar surroundings on June 29. Although it was a smart move with 20 boxes of books to be unpacked, moving was quite an activity. The Georgian Devereux Treatment Center and Agnes Scott College remain her main interests.

Betty Lou attended the Alumnae Leadership Conference luncheon and collected much information about events, construction, refurbishing, expansion and future plans involving the campus.

Helen Derrick Gardner pulled the same stunt as Betty Lou. She moved back to Augusta on the same day that Betty Lou moved back to Atlanta! She sold her house in Savannah and is glad to be home again.

Vella Marie Behm Cowan, the class's fund chair, will be contacting fellow alumnae in regard to planned giving in 2001.

Enid "Dean" McKoin Bushong drove to Mobile and Baton Rouge (2,300 miles round trip) to visit her three older sisters.

Lita Goss Conrad and Bill have given up high-rise living to move into a "grandparents' apartment" built for them by their daughter and son-in-law.

Francis James Donohue has recovered from eye surgery.

Frances Miller Felts is in an assisted-living home in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Mary Walker Fox has moved to a condominium complex, Clairmont Place.

Sarah "Tay" Spencer Gramling was in Montreat, N.C., for two months, part of the time visiting her daughter who is a counselor at the rehab center in Black Mountain, N.C. While in Montreat, Sarah attended a pleasant tea party gathering for ASC alumnae and students at the Assembly Inn. She saw Douschka "Sweets" Ackerman '33, now a great-grandmother, and said Douschka looked splendid. Not to be outdone, Tay is also a great-grandmother of a girl and a boy.

Sarah Nichols Judge prefers being in her own home, although many friends are urging her to join them in retirement facilities. She had fun at a family reunion at Bodega Bay, Calif. The family plans another reunion at Christmas. Sarah also took a fall foliage cruise from Montreal to Boston with her son, Tommy.

In July, Shirley Christian Ledgerwood and John visited their children, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren on Orcas Island, Wash. They were thrilled by the awesome fireworks over the sound. Shirley and John have the knack and luck of keeping busy, always grateful for good health.

Meriel Bull Mitchell could not go to the reunion in Montreat because her husband had suffered a fall shortly before that event.

Jane Blair Roberson wrote that her sister, Corrie Blair McPeake, died in August at 84. Corrie had practiced medicine for 54 years in her hometown, Loudon, Tenn. She left four children, two of whom are doctors, and one is married to a doctor. Other survivors are 10 grandchildren (one, a doctor in Memphis, Tenn.) and eight great-grandchildren. Among Corrie's many honors was being named "First Lady of Loudon." Jane's 86th birthday was in September.

Miriam Talmage Vann and her sister, Mabel Talmage '34, are content in their next-door apartments in a retirement village. Lovely people surround them. Unfortunately, Miriam has had further loss of sight and is now legally blind, but is helped by the use of a telesensory magnification machine. She participates in church activities and is a member of an exercise class, a garden club and a walking group. Her daughter and three teenage grandchildren live in Spanish Fort, Ala., not too far away. Since she no longer can drive, she feels fortunate that Mabel can furnish transportation.

Ruby Hutton Barron is at her home in Eufaula, Ala.

DEATHS

Tamiko Okamura, now 86, writes that her life's work has centered on interpreting the canon of the Bible. Her books will be published as The Works of Tamiko Okamura.

Elsie West Duval's granddaughter, Kathy Elgar, was married in Atlanta, Sept. 23, to Mark Wisneski. Joining her for the wedding was a mini-reunion of her classmates, Ellen Little Lesesne and Joyce Roper McKey.

Ellen Little Lesesne took her daughters to the Passion Play in Oberammergau this summer. She also went on a cruise to Alaska with her cousin Frances Abbot Burns '40.

Alice Reins Boyd spends her time enjoying small-town life and being with her grandchildren. Alice had two cataract surgeries this summer, both successful. She can now see wrinkles that did not show up in the mirror before.

Bertha Merrill Holt and husband Clary have returned from a California Wine Conference in San Jose and had a fine visit with their eldest son and his family in San Francisco during August. In September, they went to Williamsburg, Va., with senior lawyers. In November they will travel through the Panama Canal. "B" regrets missing the alumnae meeting in Greensboro, having been busy with politics and the campaign.

Mildred Davis Harding has been feasting on all the books she ordinarily has little time for: poetry, history, philosophy and religion. She especially admired Barzun's From Dawn to Decadence: 1500 to the Present. Since May she has been teaching a Saturday morning class in creative writing at a retirement community. She loves working with her contemporaries. Mildred also teaches ESL at St. Petersburg Junior College, an assignment she prefers. In September, she promoted her memoir, Waking up in Egypt, in signings at workshops in Borders, Barnes and Noble and other bookstores. Mildred's daughter, Branwen, is happy in Istanbul; and her son, Brayton, spends about half a year abroad. At present he is in Thailand. Husband Robert is well and remains the light of her life.

Anne Thompson Rose announces the arrival of her new great-grandson, born July 24. He is the grandson of Anne Nancy Rose Vosler '63. At the end of June, she entertained 15 members of her family for a week at Virginia Beach. Anne teaches Sunday school occasionally, volunteers at Westminster Canterbury Presbyterian Church and reminds classmates that life is good.

Elizabeth Blackshear Flinn reports using Lucy A. Rose's collection of devotionals as a guide for her daily devotions. The book, Speak, Lord, I'm Listening, was put together by Lucy's mother and father, Anne Thompson Rose and Ben, after their daughter's untimely death from cancer. Lib comments on the wonderful legacy Lucy has left and on the privilege of knowing that her ASC roommate mothered such a fantastic daughter. She urges sister Scotties to read and be blessed by the words of faith and love in Lucy's book.

Jane Guthrie Rhodes is ecstatic because her organist and choirmaster at Decatur Presbyterian have favorably received her folk opera, Mary and Joseph. A solo from the work was premiered at the Decatur Presbyterian's Annual Arts Festival in September. The church celebrated its 175th anniversary in October. Professors from ASC are lecturing at Jane's Bible and Arts Class on Sunday mornings, with Mary "Mardia" Hopper Brown '43 and Tommy Brown (beloved parents of Mary Brown Bullock '66) teaching right across the hall. The Annual Arts Festival will feature works of Rev. Martha Jane Peterson, retired Presbyterian minister, whose expertise in fabric painting is widely acclaimed.

In August, Nell Allison Sheldon attended the wedding of her niece in Oregon. On the way she enjoyed an excursion into Canada. Nell is an elder at Columbia Presbyterian and a board member of Villa International. She and Jane Guthrie Rhodes attended operas at the Fox, the Leadership Conference, and the celebration of the renovation of Bradley Observatory with an "Evening under the Stars."

Elizabeth Warden Marshall was amused, but also upset over the last class reports; "Her sole worry after 62 years of living alone . . ." She graduated 62 years ago. She was married and lived with her husband. She has lived alone with her dogs for 36 years, and wonders about her present four-legged companion's future when she can no longer care for her. She says it has been a good life with marriage, 40 years in her chosen profession, and her dogs. Also, Elizabeth stays well and happy with her work at the church, the DeKalb Humane Society and the Presbyterian Mission Clothes Closet. She keeps in touch with Mary Hudson Irby, who is recovering from chemotherapy, and with a favorite professor, Mary Virginia Allen '35.

Louise Young Garrett and Blake have built and moved into a one-story home next to the house where they lived for 50 years. A granddaughter and her family are moving into their former home. They are looking forward to lively activities there. Louise sends her best wishes for all her classmates' health and happiness.

They now live in Chicago and Sarah enjoys the time spent with Jessie. Bob is with a new organization, having previously served as Alumni Director at Emory for several years. Sarah's daughter is with NASA in Houston. Sarah also gave news about the death of Cora "Corky" Hutchins Blackwelder's husband. Fae Blackwelder will be remembered well. He was always generous in hauling the girls around during reunions at ASC. The class will miss him and "Corky" at the 60th. "Corky" and children are in the hearts of classmates during this time.

DEATHS

Mary Evelyn Francis Ault and Sophie Montgomery Crane agree that the 60th reunion of the class of '40 was a glorious affair! An amazing 30 were able to attend, along with husbands, daughters and assorted friends, making an impressive group. The class was awarded two silver bowls: one for having the best attendance and the other for contributing the most money to the Alumnae Fund. In the words of Vice President Elizabeth "Dibba" Davis Johnston, "We are a most unusual class, with none like us in love, friendship and loyalty to each other and to the College." Classmates have aged, of course (mellowed may be a kinder word), and although acutely aware of missing members at the reunion, clearly had a good time. Special thanks are due to "Dibba," "Hat," Edith and Sara Lee for all they did to make it a huge success.

In September Marian Franklin Anderson and Paul welcomed their second great-grandchild.

Hazel Solomon Beazley's husband, Jon, marked his 85th birthday with festivities lasting two days, July 11 and 12. Joining in the celebration were family, former office personnel and friends from all over Florida.

Katherine Patton Carssow reports that she and Bill stayed close to home this summer as they braved the record heat and drought of Texas.

In August, Evelyn Baty Christman set forth on a riverboat cruise in the Northwest on the Columbia and Snake rivers.

Kathryn Maddux, granddaughter of Grace Anderson Cooper and daughter of Martha Cooper Maddux '69, is a first-year student at Emory this year. Grace is looking forward to the mini-reunion in Myrtle Beach this fall.

Sophie Montgomery Crane was the recipient of one of the 2000 Outstanding Alumnae Awards, that of Service to the Community. She also took part in the Alumnae Authors' Roundtable for her book, A Legacy Remembered.

Although she stays busy with PEO, a 100-year-old book club, DAR and church, Mary "Boots" Moore Culpepper and Fred found time to tour Syria, Jordan and Lebanon. "Boots" took an icy dip in the Dead Sea on a freezing January day. In August, a family reunion in Tennessee saw most of their 22-member family gathered, including three great-granddaughters. Daughter Dorothy, a teacher of the hearing impaired, received her doctorate in May; and grandson Pepper Culpepper is a faculty member at Harvard.

Harriet "Hat" Stimson Davis, the new class president, welcomed a second great-granddaughter in August. They live close enough that Hat can visit often.

Ernestine Cass Dickerson and Ralph enjoyed a seven-day, inside-passage cruise of Alaska with grandson Tyler McGee. When their grandchildren and great-grandchildren reach the age of 10, Ernestine and Ralph have taken them on trips. So far, they have been to Hawaii, Scotland, California, Mexico, the Canadian Rockies, Key West, Arizona and the Bahamas.

In June, Mary "Polly" Ware Duncan journeyed to England, Wales and Scotland with her daughter, son-in-law and three granddaughters. In spite of lost luggage, delayed flights and a computer failure in Heathrow, Polly insists they all had a great time.

Betty Jean O'Brien Jackson calls this year the "Year of the Eyes." Both she and Charlie had cataract surgery on both eyes. She, for one, can now "see" (particularly, to drive). Her advice: never fail to get a second opinion!

While illness prevented Julie Moseley from attending the reunion, her book, Come to My Sunland, was presented at the Authors' Roundtable.

Marguerite Baum Muhlenfeld and Ed celebrated their wedding anniversary at the Naval Academy, where they were married 53 years ago. In June, they attended Ed's 60-year Naval Academy reunion (85 of his classmates were there).

Mary Lang Gill Olson went to Salisbury in September for her 64th high school reunion and then to the Grand Strand for a mini-reunion of the class of '40.

In August, Mary Lib Chalmers Orsborn and Harry attended a family reunion in Pennsylvania. On their way home, they stopped in Nashville for a delightful lunch celebrating the birthday of Violet Jane "V.J." Watkins and their grandson's completion of his doctoral requirements at Vanderbilt.

Elizabeth "Gary" Horne Petrey and Donald celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. Their children took them to Savannah, the site of their honeymoon. Out of 24 family members, 21 were there.

Violet Jane "V.J." Watkins reports that Philip Davidson, before his death in October, lived about a mile from her and was pleased to hear that eight out of nine members of the class named him their favorite professor.

Martha Zellner Webb suffered a "small stroke" in May, but it has not stopped her from traveling. In July, her husband, George, took her on a river barge trip on the Cumberland, Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Then they drove from Memphis to Cashiers, N.C., and finally home to Orange Park, Fla.

Henrietta Thompson Wilkinson had a wonderful visit with her son in Maine last summer. While she was there, they traveled to Canada. Henri continues to enjoy the retirement home where she has many friends.

DEATHS

She was recently named an artistic director of the Georgia Poetry Society and is also a member of the Arts and Humanities Committee of Learning for Life, Boy Scouts of America.

Nancy Ballengee Brown celebrated her 80th birthday in June with a gala brunch for 150 guests at the Halifax Yacht Club in Daytona Beach. The event was hosted by her son, Dr. B. Thomas Brown, his wife, Dr. Kimlee Brown, and two grandchildren, Brook and Schyler.

Betty Robertson Schear called to say that she and her husband, Bob, had a wonderful time at Nancy Ballengee Brown's party. Betty and Nancy were roommates at ASC 61 years ago.

Also celebrating her 80th birthday was Irma "Polly" Frink Bunnell. A thousand orchids fashioned into leis, crown and scepter, plus balloons and other gala decorations made for a truly memorable occasion at Fernandina Beach. Attending were all of her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and her sisters, Alice and Barbara Frink Allen '45, from California.

In August, Margaret Sheftall Chester's daughter, Laura Chester, published a book titled Kingdom Come. Another follows soon: Holy Personnel, dealing with chapels on private land. After a trip with a group from the Milwaukee Art Museum to Berlin, Dresden and Weimar, Margaret returned to her home in Scottsdale, Ariz., for the winter. She announces the arrival of another grandchild, Benjamin Chester.

Dan Johnson, son of Dorothy Garland Johnson, was sworn in as United States ambassador to Suriname in South America. The ceremony was held in Jacksonville and attended by his family of 23 adults, four children and friends.

Myree Wells Maas and husband Joe are proud to announce that their son, Steven Wells Maas, has been promoted to rear admiral in the U.S. Navy. Myree says it is interesting that a graduate from a liberal arts college, Furman, can do so well, considering that most admirals went to Annapolis. She and Joe attended the "frocking" ceremony in Athens.

Mary Sue Heldmann Mercer sent an updated family report. Two great-grandchildren arrived in 2000. A granddaughter, Jamie Peoples Stovall, graduated with a master's degree in accounting from Georgia Southern University. Another granddaughter, Joella Potts, received a master's in early childhood education from the State University of West Georgia. Her grandson, Phillip E. Mercer, enlisted in the Navy in 1999 and is assigned to the USS Benjamin Franklin, an aircraft carrier.

Additional news of college graduations came from Mary "Beckie" Andrews McNeil. One grandson completed his baccalaureate at Texas Christian University and another at the College of William and Mary, the alma mater of both parents. "Beckie" attended the impressive graduation in Williamsburg, Va., and embarked on a Caribbean cruise in September with both daughters.

Ila Levie Bagwell enjoyed a short visit from Sabre Louise Pruitt Jones in June. Ila keeps busy with multiple church duties, her bridge and book clubs and her grandchildren: Betsy, 12, and Landrum Earle "Buck" Bagwell IV, 14. Her son, Landrum, was recently transferred from Atlanta to Charlotte, N.C., to become the southern sales manager for the supply division of Boy Scouts of America. Ila's daughter, Fran, has a state job and is very active in First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg, where she is a deacon, Stephen minister, wedding director and member of both the chancel and the hand bell choirs. She is also president of the Alumni Association of Limestone College, as well as a trustee of that institution.

Sabre Louise Pruitt Jones was happy having her son, his wife and new baby girl, Avery Jones, live with her for three months until they were relocated in their new home in Dacula, Ga.

Lillian Gish Alfriend describes her last two and a half years as an extended medical emergency because of a multiplicity of medical problems with husband Bill. She refers to him now as her "precious bionic husband." Bill has had two knee replacements, total hip replacement, two angioplasties, gall bladder surgery and prostate surgery. Lillian says she has been blessed with super strength and is ready to celebrate her 80th birthday in February with their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren all present.

Susanna McWhorter Reckard celebrates life in an interesting retirement community in Claremont, Calif. During May, she participated in a tour of Australia and New Zealand, made possible, she says, because of two hip replacements. In addition, she joined Mary Stuart Arbuckle Osteen '41 for the fun at their high school reunion. She stayed on in West Virginia afterward, visiting relatives and friends. Her five sons are flourishing, and she has two grandchildren.

Elise Nance Bridges writes devotional materials for two publications. Her husband, Fred, received the District Governor's Appreciation Medal for his work with the Lions' Club. Her oldest grandson graduated in June from George Mason University.

Elizabeth "Betty" Clarkson Shearer has moved to Lexington, Va., from her former home in Marietta, Ga. She now has happily settled at Kendal at Lexington, a retirement complex. She has a comfortable apartment with a view of the beautiful Shenandoah Valley. Betty has become interested in the area's history.

Julia Ann Patch Diehl is very active at her condo, with church, bridge and three dance classes a week. One of her daughters lives near her with her husband and their two boys. Her other daughter is in Los Angeles, Calif., and her son, in Atlanta, Ga. Julia Ann thinks Atlanta today is unbelievable.

When Gay Currie Fox celebrated her 80th birthday on July 24, she was thrilled as 500 friends, family and a number of ASC buddies showed up for a magnificently organized and produced "Gayla for Gay." The party was held at the Black Mountain Center for Arts and presented the story of Gay's life in prose and pictures. It was clear that she has been a person of strong determination and lofty dreams, with the strength to combine the two characteristics to make for a better reality. The deputy director of the North Carolina governor's western office honored Gay with the Order of the Long Leaf Pine, one of the most distinguished awards in the state. The editor of Black Mountain News expressed great admiration for Gay, who serves on the editorial board of the newspaper and has always brought good ideas to the meetings.

Jane Stillwell Espy's husband, Robert, recently spent a week in the ICU at Emory University hospital. After a heart catheterization and a pacemaker implant, he is recuperating nicely at home.

In August, Maryann Cochran Abbott and husband Forrest boarded an expedition ship, The Explorer, to begin a fabulous cruise to northern Norway and the remote Arctic Islands farther to the north. Among the ice floes they spotted seals, walrus, polar bears and thousands of nesting sea birds. Their trip climaxed at NyAlesund, the world's northernmost permanent settlement.

After being secretary at her church in Stockbridge, Ga., for 33 years, Hester Chafin Martin is presently enjoying her retirement.

Ann Flowers Price fell and broke her hip in November. At present she is receiving therapy and assisted living at the Southminster Retirement Center, Charlotte, N.C. Her husband, Porter, comes to visit each day and eats some meals with her. At other times they go for short trips. The experience has been difficult, but Ann is making progress.

The Agnes Scott Alumnae Club in St. Louis has been very active. Bennye Linzy Sadler hosted a dinner for prospective Agnes Scott students in January, and the Club had a party for all students leaving for ASC in August. Also, Flora Campbell McLain, who keeps in touch with Bennye, reported that Bennye and Dale Drennan Hicks '42 get together several times a week to "pump iron"!

Mardia Hopper Brown and Tommy had a delightful trip to Long Beach, Calif., in June. They spent two days at the Presbyterian General Assembly and received an award for missionary service from Presbyterians for Renewal. It was a thrill to attend the reception for the new moderator, Syngman Rhee, on board the historic ship Queen Mary.

Ruth Farrior counted about 30 alumnae at the annual Montreat Agnes Scott reunion in July. Since she lives in Montreat, she always treasures this get-together. Bobbie Powell Flowers and Aurie Montgomery Miller were among the class of '44 present. Ruth's niece, Ruthie, and her family—two boys, 4 and 1—were visiting, too, and keeping things very lively.

Aurie Montgomery Miller and John like their new home at Highland Farms Retirement Community, Black Mountain, N.C. She says a number of Agnes Scott alumnae reside there. Aurie and John also have a mountain cabin near Little Switzerland, N.C., and plan to get together with Ruth Kolthoff Kirkman and Tom, who have a summer home nearby. Aurie was thrilled at Alumnae Weekend when her sister Sophie Montgomery Crane '40, received an award from the College for Outstanding Service to the Community. One of Sophie's accomplishments has been her book, A Legacy Remembered.

Leila Holmes reports that her summer in Highlands couldn't be more delightful. In her "wee little house" that she found in 1995, she enjoys the escape from Thomasville. Her many friends come to visit her at "Over the Hill"—appropriately named, she says, because both the house and she are at that point!

Liz Carpenter Bardin and her husband spent a wonderful summer in Michigan, and at various times all their children and 10 of 12 grandchildren joined them. Liz is trying to interest one of her granddaughters, an AAU swimmer, in ASC. Liz has just completed her two-year term as president of the Russell Island Property Owners' Association.

Eugenia Jones Reese's husband passed away on April 18. In June, she had an excellent few days in Lynchburg with Ceevah Rosenthal Blatman. They "never stopped talking, having much to tell after 55 years"! Eugenia recalls they had fun but no success teaching their dogs to become friends.

Martha Mack Simons loved the 55th reunion. She thinks that being the only total wartime class must have made their friendship unique. Martha spent most of her summer having a good time on family trips.

Since the reunion, Joyce "Joo Froo" Freeman Marting has enjoyed photos and has renewed acquaintances with classmates. Summer brought home repairs to Joyce, including a new roof and digging up drains.

Hansell Cousar Reardon and John have been in Harrisonburg, Va., for one and a half years and find it great to be in the South again. Hansell and John celebrated their five-year anniversary on Sept. 22. They plan two trips in the near future: one to Montana (if they aren't burned out) to visit her youngest daughter, Nancy, and another to Hawaii in October to swim in the beautiful water. Hansell would love to hear from any other alumnae in the Harrisonburg area.

Ginny Carter Caldwell moved a year ago to an apartment in Bentley Village, a retirement community in Naples, Fla., administered by Hyatt.

Marion Leathers Kuntz's husband, Paul, died on Jan. 28, 2000, after a long illness following a stroke. She is still teaching at Georgia State and has just completed two new books on Venetian history: Venice, Myth and Utopian Thought in the Sixteenth Century and The Anointment of Dionysius, Prophecy and Politics of Renaissance Italy.

When Margaret "Molly" Milam Inserni visited her daughter, Margarita, in San Diego, she called Elaine Kuniansky Gutstadt and Joe. They were off to Tuscany that very day with one of their daughters and her family. Elaine and Joe were also going to the Amalfi Coast and to the south of France to see the French exchange student who stayed in their home 28 years ago. Elaine's daughter, Lynn, is back in Marin, Calif.

Mary Cumming Fitzhugh had an impressive but exhausting trip to Europe and is pleased with her house in Highlands when she is not in the dentist's chair. Elizabeth "Betty" Glenn Stow and the Highlands Flingers will attest to the house's charm and to Mary's hospitality.

Martha Mack Simons, Jean Hood Booth, Adele Dieckmann McKee '48, and Margaret "Molly" Milam Inserni join in confirming Betty's Highlands hospitality. That group missed Elizabeth "Betty" Davis Shingler and Julia Slack Hunter, who had shingles.

Carolyn Fuller Nelson reports a fun-filled summer that just went by too fast. She traveled to Germany for a riverboat trip in August on the Rhine and Moselle, culminating in Vienna. While in Vienna, she took in the opera. Classmates should call Carolyn if they are in the bay area.

Barbara Frink Allen was sorry to miss the reunion because of Lew's sickness but says that he is recovering very well. Their grandchild, Fenton, is the first to be married. His wedding was held in Virginia over Labor Day weekend. She and Lew will spend Christmas in England with their youngest son and his family. They also plan to move to Virginia into an Air Force Retirement Community as soon as a vacancy occurs. The expected wait is three years.

Mary Louise "Bitsy" Law McPherson lost her childhood home in July because of a lightning strike. She has relocated in Atria Assisted Living of Atlanta.

Betty Jane Hancock Moore thought the reunion was exciting and had fun seeing old friends. She lives in Williamsburg, a seniors' retirement community in Decatur, Ga. She enjoys seeing June Lanier Wagner '44, who lives in the same complex. In June, she and her daughter visited Jane Everett Knox for another reunion. This year, two of her grandchildren graduated from college: a granddaughter, from Georgia Tech; and a grandson, cum laude from Auburn. He has entered Mercer Law School. Betty Jane finds that her grandchildren's graduations from college really age her, and so in August she escaped to relax in beautiful Callaway Gardens.

Jane Everett Knox's husband, Lee, died in February of bone cancer. She will stay on Fripp Island, where she has many friends as she does at St. Helena's Episcopal Church, and says: "Only here could I walk the beach every morning."

Inge Probstein reports that all of her minor troubles (allergy, backache and insomnia) vanished, as always, in Italy. Specifically, she was in Verona and Venice. In news of her classmates, Inge says that Wendy Whittle Hoge is still in Milton, Mass., visiting her daughter and young Nicholas; and that Virginia Bowie planned a Canadian Rockies' jaunt in the summer.

Louise McLain Cantrell was attending an Elderhostel in England at reunion time.

Betty Glenn Stow went to Italy in June with an Emory group and then to Cambridge, England, with Julia Slack Hunter and Hugh. They spent two weeks at Cambridge taking classes.

Pattie Dean Curry and Jim celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in June at a reception in their church's social hall in Anderson, S.C. Their daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter came from Massachusetts for the occasion. Son Dean played the same music on the violin that Pattie's Agnes Scott roommate, Mary Quigley Hague, had played at the wedding. Pattie was happy that Gloria Gaines Klugh and Arthur, Jimmie Ann McGee Collings '51 and Tom and Mary Hague attended the celebration.

Elisabeth "Libby" Woodward Ellis' tragic news concerns her son-in-law, Bill, husband of Mary Ellis McBride '78. Bill died unexpectedly of a brain aneurysm while they were all vacationing during Easter. The class extends its heartfelt sympathy to "Libby" and to Mary.

Lura Johnston Watkins is thrilled that her son, Rick, has been made vice president of Cartoon Network and has moved his family to Marietta, Ga. Lura feels that she will get to the campus more often now that she has family in the area.

1999 marked the 50th year of practicing law for Elizabeth "Lib" Osborne Rollins. She was the only woman at a luncheon hosted by the North Carolina Bar Association honoring a group of "49ers" that year. She wrote, "I am telling it as I would like to be told by my classmates so I could begin to envision their lives after 54 years." She and Clyde have moved their office to the guesthouse and continue to enjoy their legal work on a smaller scale. Having done considerable traveling abroad through the years, the Rollins duo are now exploring the United States.

During a weekend in Montreat last summer, Eleanor Reynolds Verdery had a visit with Stratton Lee Peacock.

Ellen Marie Hayes moved in May to Barclay Friends, a Quaker retirement community in West Chester, Pa. Her ancestors had settled in the area in 1709. Ellen retired after teaching in elementary schools in Atlanta, Philadelphia and Framingham, Mass. Her sister, Anne Hayes Berry '48, and husband Sid, together with their brother, Henry, and his wife, Louise "Twig" Hertwig Hayes '51, assisted in the move.

Edwina Bell Davis spent several hours in August in Greensboro, Ga., with Betty Howell Traver at her home, built for Edwina's grandparents in 1849. Betty and her husband, Daniel, bought the house in 1970 and have extensively remodeled and restored it. Edwina's father, the youngest of nine children, was born there. The Davis family occupied the house until 1874.

Boisfeuillet Jones Jr., son of Anne Register Jones and Bo, was named the publisher and CEO of the Washington Post in September.

The last time that Marianna Kirkpatrick Reeves was in Atlanta she visited Ruth Limbert Adams.

C.G. and Conradine "Connie" Fraser Riddle welcomed the arrival of great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Lauren Mitchell, on Sept. 11.

Martha Baker Wilkins is planning to come to the reunion. She enjoys her family, friends, volunteer work and some traveling.

For Memorial Day weekend, Julianne Cook Ashmead and her husband were in Savannah, where Louise "Poochy" Gehrken Howie was one of the hostesses. Julianne and Poochy had a fine visit together. In June, Julianne's granddaughters from Alaska spent time at Big Canoe for the first time by themselves.

Georgia Powell Lemmon and Frank have moved to a retirement community in Davidson, N.C.

Rachael "Binky" Stubbs Farris and Duncan were in Italy for two weeks in May, as was Betty Jean "B.J." Ellison Candler.

Mary "Jo" Heinz Langston's encaustic monotypes-calendar series was on exhibit in Sante Fe in August and September. Jo continues to show regularly at art galleries in Tucson and Tubac, Ariz.

Henrietta Johnson divides her time between homes in Columbia, S.C., and Asheville, N.C. During the summer she attended the Agnes Scott tea in Montreat. She added a pleasant visit with Nancy Parks Donnan, who is quite occupied with six children and eight grandchildren as well as all kinds of church and community work.

Edryce Reynolds lives in Tacoma, Wash., teaching and giving papers in psychohistory and criminal justice. In June, she presented a paper in New York City titled "Can 'Corrections' Really Correct?" In February 2001, Edryce will travel to China to teach for nine months at the University of Beijing. Having wanted to do something like this for years, she is very excited. She plans to keep a journal about her experiences and hopes to get it published.

Elizabeth Williams Henry and her grandson traveled during the summer to Oberammergau and the Middle East, the only U.S. citizens in a Canadian tour group.

During the summer, Betsy Deal Smith enjoyed a happy family reunion at Bar Harbor, Maine, after which she and Gil explored Nova Scotia and Prince Edward's Island.

Mary "Butch" Hays Babcock and Charlie gathered with their family this summer in Idaho, with 16 of them taking a tour that went up the Snake River on a jet boat and down the Salmon River on a raft, leaving them with a raging appreciation for Lewis and Clark.

Charlotte Lea Robinson's son and his wife recently welcomed twin daughters. This arrival makes eight grandchildren. Charlotte recently had to undergo chemotherapy and radiation, but she is hopeful for full recovery.

Several classmates recently noted their 50th wedding anniversaries. Dorothy Quillian Reeves and Harrison enjoyed being with 95 friends and relatives at a daughter's home. Among the guests was Pat McGowan Evans from Chattanooga, one of Dot's bridesmaids of 50 years ago. All seven of her bridesmaids were ASC graduates.

In June, Edith Stowe Barkley and Brock's children gave them a semi-formal luncheon and afternoon reception in northern Virginia, where Edie and Brock were presented a special memory book made up of pictures and notes from relatives and friends. Later the group spent a week at the beach together, 16 people in one house!

Celebrating their golden anniversary in July, Lee Cousar Tubbs and Jim joined their children and grandchildren for a cruise from New York to St. John, New Brunswick, and Halifax, Nova Scotia. In addition, long-time friends were asked to contribute to a memory book given to the couple during their cruise.

Speaking for the class of 1950, Annelle Ward Moore would like to thank President Mary Brown Bullock, the Alumnae Association, Agnes Scott staff and students for a first-class reunion. The class appreciates all the hard work and effort put into the weekend. They are grateful to all the girls who drove them around the campus for being so gracious, to the dining room and kitchen staff for the delicious meals and to the shuttle drivers for their service. Also, Annelle sends a special thanks to the gardeners for the beautiful campus. It was a weekend the class will never forget.

Jane Sharkey Cobb and her husband, John, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with their three children and their spouses on a cruise to Spain and Portugal. They had an unforgettable time.

Dorothy Davis Yarbrough and her husband, Thomas, were the recipients of a surprise dinner for their 50th anniversary after the graduation of their daughter, Shannon, from Virginia Tech. Their two sons, along with their spouses, were there. Col. Stan Yarbrough is stationed on Okinawa; and their other son, Wade, lives in Raleigh, N.C. Dot and Thomas spent a week in June in Pigeon Forge.

Frances Howerton Lucas was in West Palm Beach Gardens attending the North American Butterfly Association Convention. While there she visited Mildred Flournoy de Marcellus and her husband, Robert. Frances will spend two weeks studying art with an Elderhostel in northwest France and Paris.

Jessie Hodges Kryder and Bill went on a cruise on the St. Lawrence Seaway, starting in Quebec City and ending in Toronto. Jessie reports that Vippi's husband had heart surgery.

Paula "Polly" Harris Nettles' daughter, Paula, was married in June in the chapel at Woodward Academy. The reception was held in the amphitheater in front of the Fine Arts Building.

Faye Tynes Dick has been visiting with her family in Montreat and Black Mountain.

Sally Thompson Aycock and Catherine "Cathie" Armfield enjoyed a few days with John and Jo McCall Cobb in Easley.

Sarah Hancock White and husband Marlin spent seven weeks in the Middle East this summer. They returned to the same archaeological site, Khirbet Iskander, in Jordan, with which they been associated for almost 20 years. The group lived in the ancient, biblical town of Madaba near Mt. Nebo. Marlin managed the dig houses and served as treasurer. Sarah was artifact registrar and artist. She had the privilege of cleaning, registering and drawing 67 artifacts. At the end of the dig she presented her drawings and the artifacts to the Jordanian Department of Antiquities. Among these was a small ceramic bull's head, a rare find for an Early Bronze Age site. Also, the Whites took advantage of a mid-dig break to visit Israel. They will share their travel slides and dig experiences with their church forums and with other local groups.

The following people attended the 50th reunion: Jo-Anne Christopher Cochrane and Warren, Dorothy "Dot" Davis Yarbrough, Annelle Ward Moore, Marion "Elizabeth" Flowers Ashworth and Bob, Sally Thompson Aycock and Marvin, Catherine "Cathie" Davis Armfield, Betty Crowther Beall, Joann Plastre Britt, Ann Pitts Cobb and John, Jo McCall Cobb and John, Mildred Flournoy de Marcellus and Robert, Gretta Moll Dewald and Charles, Mary Carolyn Schwab Drakes, Elizabeth Ann Griggs Foster and Asa, Joanne Peterson Floyd and Waldo, Marjorie "Margie" Major Franklin and Ted, Polly A. Philips Harris and David, Mary Ann Hachtel Hartman, Margaret Haden Howe and her daughter, Barbara McArthur, Mabel Burchfiel Hudson and Doug, Virginia Skinner Jones, Jessie Hodges Kryder and Bill, Rosellen Gillam Potter, Patricia "Pat" Buie McKinney, Claire Foster Moore and Jimmy, Elizabeth "Betty" Cole Van Houten, Margaret "Louise" Arant Rice and Hobby, Helen Edwards Propst and Charles, Ann Irwin Smith and Henry, Alline Marshall, Nancy "Jean" Osborn Sawyer and Gordon, Genie Paschal Harvey and Ray, Barbara Lawson Mansfield and Eston, Emily Reid Williams and David, Martha Stowell Rhodes and Erroll, Sarah Tucker Miller and Tim, Leila Walker Vinson and Nelson, Mary Warlick Niblock and Frank, Paula "Polly" Harris Nettles, Barbara "Babs" Young Reiland and Bob, Betty Jean Combs Moore and Park and Jean Niven Morris.

Genie Paschal Harvey writes in complimentary fashion about the reunion in April. She thought it was great to be with college friends and to meet new ones and found the College even prettier than ever. In June, Genie and her husband, Ray, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a trip to The Cloisters and Edisto Island with their three daughters.

In August Joann Peterson Floyd and Waldo celebrated their golden wedding anniversary along with their children and grandchildren, a family of 18, at the Idle Hour Country Club.

A very special thank you to Agnes Scott College for hosting the Class of 1950's reunion, the Fifty Year Club's elegant banquet, the Anna Young Club pins; to Margaret "Louise" Arant Rice and the reunion committee for thoughtful planning; to Mable Burchfiel Hudson for the lovely dogwood pendants; to Libby D. McAliley for celebrating the lives of deceased classmates with a candlelight service; to the 55 classmates who contributed information for the reunion directory and to the 45 who were able to attend.

Dorothy "Dot" Medlock-Bond Irvine writes from Turkey. She's spending time with her children: Cathryn, in Ankara, and Robin, in Golden, Colo. She states, "Right now I still have my apartment in Aiken, but will probably be moving to Turkey this year. I am so sorry to miss the 50th reunion in April, but don't cry for me. We just got back to Ankara after a skiing vacation in Austria, Switzerland and Germany. I didn't ski, but I was glad my family wanted me there to welcome them off the slopes and reminisce about the old skiing days at Mammoth Mountain when we lived in California."

Mildred "Milly" Flournoy de Marcellus, who lives in Palm Beach, Fla., retired after serving as associate mathematician with The Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory in Silver Spring, Md. In addition to her husband, Robert, her family includes six children: four boys and two girls, ages ranging from 26 to 37. Milly's current activities include duties as an elder in the Presbyterian Church and as a volunteer in a homeless shelter, combined with travel and other innumerable projects.

Eleven classmates came to the third annual mini-reunion June 16-18. We met, and some of us lived, at the Alumnae House on campus to make plans for the 50-year reunion, April 27-29, 2001. Present were Jeanne Kline Brown, Sarah McKee Burnside, Anna DaVault Haley, Louise "Twig" Hertwig Hayes, Dorothy Adams Knight, Mary Caroline "M. C." Lindsay, Barbara Caldwell Perrow, Ann Marie Woods Shannon, Jenelle Spear, Martha Ann Stegar and Gail Akers Thompson. Anna reported that the class's Vision Fund, which will be the 50-year gift to the College, already totals more than $89,000. Barbara enticed five of her classmates into the College's swimming pool to learn her program of deepwater conditioning using inflatable wrist and ankle cuffs. It was fun and invigorating, too.

Marjorie Stukes Smith and Charlotte Key Marrow had their own mini-reunion at Marjorie's home in Presteigne, England. On her way home from an Elderhostel situated in Dalkeith, about eight miles south of Edinburgh, Charlotte stopped to see Marjorie and David. The Smiths were excellent tour guides for the area. Marjorie took Charlotte over the Welsh border to see Margaret Andes Okarma '52, whom Charlotte had known in the First Presbyterian Church youth group in Knoxville before Agnes Scott.

In May, Ed and Mary Hayes Barber Holmes introduced Wade and Sarah McKee Burnside to their first Elderhostel in Tuscany. They extended their trip to Bellagio on Lake Como for four days. Sarah pronounced it fabulous.

Jimmie McGee Collings and Tom went to Tom's 50th class reunion at Clemson University in May. In June, they attended the 50th wedding anniversary of an Agnes Scott friend in Anderson, S.C., Pattie Dean Curry '46 and her husband, Jim. Pattie and Jim have two children, Dean and Pattie, and one grandchild. About 16 years ago, Jimmie Ann and Tom moved from Anderson to Greenville, Tenn., where Tom served as pediatric consultant with the state.

Katharine Loemker Kokomoor was back home in Vermont for the summer after an eight-week trip around the country in an RV with her husband, Don, two dogs and a cat, for a total of 10,000 miles of marvelous sights. In October, they returned to Palm Harbor, Fla., and to Captiva Island. There Don will complete his third and final season as minister at the Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Betty "B.J." Foster Deadwyler broke her hip in May, and Martha Ann Stegar had a total hip replacement in July. Both are recovering nicely.

In August, Su Boney Davis and Jim went on a 12-day singing tour of Romania and Hungary with the minister, chorale director and 45 singers from their Unitarian Universalist congregation. Their church has had a partner relationship with a Unitarian Church in a small ethnic Hungarian village in Transylvania since 1992. They gave a total of five concerts in Romania, highlighted by a concert at the Unitarian World Gathering at Szejkefurdo. Arriving in Budapest, Hungary, they sang at an evening concert at the First Unitarian Church. Su went to Warren, Ark., for a high school reunion in October.

Nell Floyd Hall is busy with work at her church and at the Fernbank Museum of Natural History. She is on Fernbank's Board of Directors, of which Jesse was formerly chair. Nell, a childhood friend, and Shirley Ford Baskin '52, toured Europe by train during May and June. They started in Prague and ended in Rome. While in Germany, they witnessed the Passion Play at Oberammergau. In December, Nell plans a trip to Williamsburg, Va. She recently met for lunch with Betty Foster Deadwyler, Saradean Merritt, sister of Caronelle Smith Landiss, and Shirley Ford Baskin. Nell's daughter and son-in-law live in Greenville, S.C., with her two grandsons, ages 16 and 17. Her son is in California. He has completed work on his master's degrees in divinity and theology and has written several study course books.

Joan Coart Johnson and Henry have traveled extensively following Henry's retirement as radiologist at Piedmont Hospital. After Joan injured her back and had to give up tennis, she joined two investment clubs, which she greatly enjoys, proving the existence, she says, of life after tennis. Joan's daughter, Carol, felt called to leave the corporate world to start a bread ministry out of her kitchen in Atlanta. Carol's goal is to open a Christian coffeehouse in the Buckhead section of Atlanta, offering young people an alternative place to hang out. Joan will be happy to talk to anyone interested in learning more about the ministry. Joan's oldest grandson graduated last year from Furman University. Another grandson is a senior at the University of Georgia. Three younger grandchildren live in Atlanta.

Sarah Levy completed her senior year at Centenary College in Shreveport, La. She received her master's degree at Louisiana State University and went to Japan, where she worked with the Army for two years as a librarian. After returning to the United States, Sarah worked at Georgia Tech, married Alvin and raised three children. Then she enrolled at Oglethorpe University and received her teacher's certificate. She was an elementary school librarian for 18 years. In family news, Sarah's bachelor son, Jerry, lives in California. Her son, Ben, is married and located in Suwanee, Ga. He and his wife have two little girls. Sarah lost her daughter, Carolyn, in an automobile accident near the end of Carolyn's senior year at the University of Georgia.

Betty Foster Deadwyler collided in her home with Goldie, her golden retriever, and suffered a broken hip resulting in a partial hip replacement. She expects a full recovery. Betty Jane is fortunate to have her children living nearby. Betty Jane has three grandsons: Tommy, who serves in the Marines; David, at the University of Georgia; and Jimmy, the golfer of the family, who is in middle school.

Cornelia "Nena" Hale Bryans presented a lecture and exhibit on Visible Image and Invisible Faith, October 20-21, at The Carl Howie Center for Science, Art and Theology.

Cecelia Schor Hall and Andrew have four daughters and six grandsons.

Barbara Yowell Schwind

heads the volunteers for the medical clinic her church sponsors in a very small town. A widow since 1981, she says she feels like the Earth Mother, always nurturing someone. The special one of the moment is a 21-year-old grandson who has had brain surgery. She and her second husband had four children in addition to his children by a previous marriage. Now they can count 18 grandchildren (including steps) and some step-great-grandchildren. Barbara keeps a large notebook filled with vital statistics such as clothes sizes and social security numbers. For fun she travels.

Julia Grier Storey was elected as an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia; Bob went along just to have a good time with no responsibilities.

Kathleen Stout Mainland spent June in Great Britain, no doubt seeing many old friends and relatives.

Charlotte "Carolyn" Randolph DeLay and Randy had a great time with a Tauck Tour of Ireland in1999 and plan to do another. She keeps moving doing volunteer work, working out at the Atlanta Athletic Club and trying to finish library books before they become overdue.

Virginia "Bo" Hancock Abernathy has eight grandchildren now, three boys and five girls.

Nancy Lee-Riffe has had meaningful visits with her sisters, Sara Lee Mackay '41, near New Salem, Ga., and Ann Stratton Lee Peacock '46, in Montreat, N.C. Although enjoying retirement, Nancy works overtime in volunteer activities with The Ark as an advocate at local and state levels for the mentally retarded. She is also involved with her local Quaker meeting and with the Friends' Committee on National Legislation. Lobbying is a sport that especially attracts her.

Margaret Joen Fagan reports from last year's trip around the world and many foreign climes.

Though retired, Ellen Griffin Corbett gives private music lessons and does substitute teaching of reading in the public schools. She's apt to take off for France very soon, however, since her younger daughter and two grandchildren now live in Clairmont, France, where her husband works for Michelin Tires. Ellen has a French language tape in her car now! Older daughter Paula has a baby boy, Trevor, her first.

Betty Stein Melaver is enjoying having son Martin, his wife and children, ages 7 and 5, in Savannah for the next two years before they return to Israel. Like their parents, the children are already bilingual. Betty's time and enthusiasm are largely focused these days on building an art museum, the first ever to be built as a museum in Savannah.

Judith "Judy" Promnitz Marine was recognized in the Westminster Magazine Spring/Summer 2000 edition as "A Leader of Leaders." She is a gifted educator who has touched the lives of thousands of elementary students since 1954. Judy has been working on a manuscript with friends, hoping to complete it before a very exciting trip to Kenya in November.

Kathleen Stout Mainland spent last June back home in Britain, touring with relatives and friends. She assembled 13 members of the '49 class of Dunferlin High School for a reunion lunch and altogether had a fine time. She feels, however, like a foreigner over there now. In August, she went to Boulder to visit her grandson.

In June, Mitzi Kiser Law and Ted flew to Madrid and the ancient town of Ubela in Spain for a wedding. Then they traveled to Brussels and Bruge, Bristol, Bath and London. Mitzi said it was a wonderful trip and particularly recommends two plays they saw in London: Stones in His Pockets and The Lady in the Van.

Louise Hill Reaves likes taking short trips to see friends and participates in many volunteer activities.

Chizuko Yoshimura Kojima and her husband, Duncan Stuart, are recovering splendidly from several serious illnesses over the last year.

Caroline Lester Haynes and Jack went to Turkey in September.

Celia Carolyn Alford Beaty and Roy traveled to Scandinavia, Seattle, Yellowstone and the Grand Teton this summer.

Trudy Awbrey Wahle is remodeling and redecorating much of her house. She retired from real estate to see more of her grandchildren and concentrate on travel. A trip to Italy a year ago inspired her.

Constance "Connie" Ballas Stratigos ventured forth on her big trip to Greece this fall. Here at home, she is very active in hard-of-hearing support groups.

Julia Beeman sends profound thanks to all who contributed to the annual fund (or other); the class achieved 68 percent participation! Four of Julia's photos won ribbons at a spring show. In travel, she and her daughter took Julia's long-awaited Mediterranean cruise.

Margaret "Peggy" Bridges Maxwell's oldest daughter, Marie, was married on June 27; and Peggy's husband, Sidney, officiated.

Catherine Blondeau Echalier writes from Paris that she has three children and six grandchildren. She is retired and is president of the historical archaeological association La Montagne Sainte Geneviève et ses abords.

Nancy Clark Bonne's husband, Hans, retired; but she continues as full-time children's librarian at the Beverly Public Library in Beverly, Mass. Two of her five grandsons have moved from Colorado to Maine and therefore, closer to Nancy.

Susanna Byrd Wells spent the summer in the mountains.

Carolyn Crawford Thorsen's oldest son, John Chesnutt, was promoted to regional vice president of Cox Communications. As a result, he left Omaha, Neb., for Atlanta, along with his two children, Dara and Jeff, delighting Carolyn.

In July, Martha Crowell Stewart and seven of her family visited her daughter and her family in London, where Tom has an assignment with Coca-Cola.

Constance "Connie" Curry's new book, Deep in Our Hearts, documents the experiences of nine white women in the freedom movement.

In June, Helen Fokes Farmer and Russell went on their third trip to Scotland.

During the last week of August, Marjorie Fordham Trask rented a large oceanfront house at Fripp Island, S.C., for her family of 15. In September, she traveled to Sweden, Finland and St. Petersburg, Russia, for 12 days.

Jane Gaines Johnson's husband, Ralph, had prostate cancer surgery in April, but the cancer had not spread. In August, they flew to southwest Africa to visit two deserts: the Namib and the Kalahari.

Janet Greene Thompson had a spinal fusion. This fall she took a two-week garden tour of Italy. In November, she spent a week in Sedona, Ariz. Next spring, Provence!

Lucile Brookshaw went to Georgia State after ASC. After working for the state, she retired in 1998. She is an active member of Grace United Methodist Church.

Ann Evans Manchester received a master's degree in library science at Emory, worked as a librarian at Georgia Tech and is now retired. Her current activities include bridge, tennis, biking, library volunteering, Sunday School teaching and volunteering at Bethesda Home for Boys.

Sammie Frierson Mills earned a bachelor's degree in English and had graduate hours toward a master's in education. She taught high school English and later substituted. Next Sammie became a private pilot. Now she breeds and races thoroughbred horses, especially in Kentucky.

Tillie Galanti Tenenbaum earned a B.S. in education from the University of Georgia in 1954, taught a few years, then worked with her husband in their retail store. They have three children and five grandchildren.

After 35 years with BellSouth, Jacqueline Harper retired in 1987. This summer she saw a number of Atlanta Braves' games and also vacationed in New York. Jacqueline lives with her mother in Tucker and is active with Telephone Pioneers.

Gracie Greer Phillips and husband Barry enjoyed taking their two granddaughters (11 and 7) to London for a week. In the fall, Gracie and Barry toured the Middle East with a group from Fernbank Museum.

Patty Hamilton Lee and her husband, Bill, were delighted with an art and music tour of Spain along with five other relatives and the tour group. Patty is again leading Spiritual Journey groups in Tallahassee. Bill has become parish associate of a Presbyterian church there. They are enjoying their grandchildren

This summer, Ann Hanson Merklein and husband Ernest spent two memorable weeks in England with an ASC group led by Mike Brown. Ann and Ernest have two new grandchildren this year!

Jeanne Heisley Adams's granddaughter celebrated her 16th birthday in August; and her daughter, Ginger, bought an 1890s restored house in University City, Philadelphia. Jeanne continues to work part time as a therapist.

Jane Henegar Loudermilk, husband Larry, both girls and their families vacationed on the beach on Amelia Island. Since Larry retired 10 years ago, their hobbies have been golf, gardening and grandchildren.

From April through June, Helen Jo Hinchey Williams and her husband, Roy, visited Greece, Egypt and Turkey. She is chair of the Sarasota-Manatee Chapter of the United Nations Association of the USA Adopt-A-Minefield Committee. They are trying to raise $30,000 to clear a minefield in Croatia.

Dorothy "Dottie" Holcomb Buchanan and husband Andy led a prayer retreat on the Columbia River Gorge in Oregon. They spent a whole week on the Outer Banks in North Carolina with their whole family (17 in all).

Mary Hood Gibson is captivated by her two lively grandsons and working out with a trainer a couple of times a week. After the reunion Elizabeth "Betty Ann" Jacks Miller and Ralph visited Pauline Waller Hoch and Walter at their beach cottage in Florida. In June, they went to Charleston, S.C., and then to Mackinac Island, Mich.

Hannah Jackson Alnutt bought a new boat and cruised as far as Martha's Vineyard this summer. She retired from her job as a high school guidance counselor in the largest high school in Virginia.

This summer's five weeks with her grandchildren provided an "exhausting blessing" for Mary Alice Henning Kemp. Her recovery plans are to find a job and to continue in a spiritual formation certificate program at Columbia Seminary.

Mary Evelyn Knight Swezey attended a family reunion (35 Knights) with her children in early June at Montreat. In July, she and her husband, Charley, had a wonderful getaway in Vail, Colo. They also traveled to Massachusetts with all of their children for a family wedding. In August, M.E. spent two weeks in Montreat with her sister and her family. While there, she had two splendid visits: first, with Ann Hanson Merklein and her sister, Libby, and second, with Jane Frist '56.

Sallie Lambert Jackson's three children have given her six grandchildren.

Catherine "Cathy" Lewis Callaway's son, Gene, will continue to serve in the Georgia House of Representatives, as he had no opposition. She now gets to work again in his office during the session.

Genevieve "Genny" Lucchese Stephens is treasurer of the Savoyards Musical Theater, doing Broadway plays this season.

Sara McIntyre Bahner attended a garden party given by the queen at Buckingham Palace as well as a reception at 10 Downing Street with the Board of Governors of the American Bar Association. The wedding of Sara's friend's children was beautiful; she missed not being at the reunion. Her husband, Max, had a knee replacement in August and is doing well.

Margaret "Peggy" McMillan White had to leave the reunion early because of her mother-in-law's illness. Bill's over-90 parents are now in a nursing home, a skilled-care facility in Knoxville, Tenn. Margaret recently had a delicious luncheon in Chattanooga with Sara Dudney and Sara McIntyre Bahner. Bill and she are enjoying retirement and their condo in Florida.

Grace Olert Dailey served on jury duty, bought a baby grand piano and had a welcome visit with Dave and Bertha "Tunsky" Kwilecki Ausband. Grace will teach 3-year-olds next year at a church preschool three days a week.

Patricia "Pat" Paden Matsen spent three weeks in Hampshire, U.K., with her friend Avril and made day trips to Southampton, Brighton, Portsmouth, Winchester, the Castle and D-Day Museum at Southsea and London to see the new Tate Modern.

Mary "Molly" Prichard Curry and Leonard met Ann Allred Jackson, Kent and Pat Paden Matsen at Peaks of Otter on the Blue Ridge Parkway for a reunion. Son Justin received his Ph.D. in psychology. Molly is retired but does periodic research.

Betty Reiney Henley is competing in ballroom dancing and is scheduled to do a solo cha-cha and a spectacular swing dance with two partners. She just returned from a competition in Knoxville, where she entered 30 heats, receiving 15 blue and 14 red ribbons.

Louise Robinson Singleton was coordinator for an international conference held at Denver University during the first week of August. The Millennium Connection focused on social change, with about 700 people from 30 nations attending. Louise planned to go back to Africa in November.

Margaret Rogers Lee's summer included numerous short, exciting trips. One highlight was whitewater rafting on the Nolichucky River in Tennessee with daughter Lisa and her family.

In June, Agnes Mickey Scott Willoch and husband Ray spent a week in London. They also took a trip to Northern Italy, the lakes, for two weeks in September. They welcomed a new grandson, Karsten, born to daughter Lisa in May. This makes nine grandchildren for them.

Harriet Stovall Kelley's husband, Chuck, had liver surgery that encompassed three operations in two weeks. Harriet became a nurse this summer.

Sue Walker Goddard and her husband, Bill, joined 24 Atlanta friends for two weeks in Bavaria (to see the Passion Play in Oberammergau and King Ludwig's castles), then Italy, staying in Venice, Florence and Rome. Her youngest son, Alan, and family (missionaries in China) were treated to a month in America, most of it with Sue and Bill.

Pauline Waller Hoch reports two more grandchildren. David and Shannon had a son, Harrison Walter Hoch, May 25; Madeline and Paul's daughter, Sarah Jennings Marsden, arrived Aug. 25. They enjoy having their daughter Paula, with her husband and two boys, back in town.

After 21 years, Edith "Edie" MacKinnon Sloan and her husband, Charlie, have sold their bookstore in Waynesville, N.C. They anticipate biking, travel, reading and visits with their children and grandson.

Frances B. Sattes is working hard in Chesapeake, Va. She serves on the membership and legislative committees of the local human resources organization, is fund-raising chair for the women's project of Habitat (The House that Jill Built) and will be program chair for the local training organization.

Hazel Ellis retired in June 1999 from her position as head of counseling at a high school in Bakersfield. She is now working part time as a guidance consultant. Hazel reports that Margaret Woolfolk Webb and her husband, Glenn, traveled to Eastern Europe in September.

The marriage of Jeanette Clark Sparks's daughter, Holly, to Richard Prior took Nancy Alexander Johnson and Pierce to Melbourne, Fla., and then to Pensacola to visit her daughter, Cathy, and her family. In July she and Pierce spent 10 days on Keuka Lake and in Massachusetts and 10 days in the great northwest in August.

Eileen Graham McWhorter and Penn revel in their eight grandchildren and spend as much weekend time as they can at their mountain house. Penn is thinking about retiring, but hasn't done it yet.

Marion "Pinky" McCall Bass has been part of a show called Voices Rising at the National Museum for Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C. This show closed in September, and she will travel around Alabama for the next two years. Pinky's sister has moved to Fairhope. They spent three weeks in Mexico getting alternative medical treatment for her sister's cancer. The latest X-rays indicate that some small spots on her lungs are no longer present, so they assume the treatment is helping. With two pianos in one room, they are working toward a concert some time in the future. Marion's nine grandkids visit from time to time, and her mother and father celebrated their 87th birthdays in August.

Mary Norton Kratt recently published her new chapbook, The Sow's Ear Press.

Anne McWhorter Butler and her sister took 88 at-risk kids, ages 10-18 years, to camp this summer at Kids Across America Kamp. They are now preparing for the beginning of the tutoring program for these young people, covering the school year. Anne's nephew was George W. Bush's national finance director, so she has been very interested in the presidential campaign. Class news should go to her new e-mail address: ambutler1@juno.com.

The word is Ramona Cartwright Burdell has taken up motorcycle riding. The Class of '58 continues its tradition!

Jane Kraemer Scott enjoyed attending the Agnes Scott College Millennium Conference in February at Sea Island, Ga. Other classmates in attendance were Margaret Ward "Wardie" Abernethy Martin, Mary Dunn Evans, Jane King Allen, Lila McGeachy Ray, Ann Rivers Payne Hutcheson and Lillian Shannonhouse Weller. Jane and her husband, Bodie, went with a group of 25 from their church on an intergenerational mission trip in July. Adults and youth traveled to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, to participate in a Presbyterian border ministry.

Caroline Pruitt Hayes, India Clark Benton, Sara Persinger Snyder and Barbara Lake Finch had a reunion in Charleston, S.C., in June. This group all lived on the second floor of Inman Hall as freshmen at ASC. They were enthusiastic about many of the musical events featured during the Spoleto Festival and about some of Charleston's wonderful restaurants.

Donalyn Moore Elich and John moved from southwest Florida to north of Atlanta (address above) in early December. Three married children and five grandchildren nearby make this a joyous change. Donalyn is happy to return to the beauty of four seasons as well as that of the North Georgia mountains. Classmates should send their latest happenings to her periodically for inclusion in the class news section of MAIN EVENTS. Meanwhile, here are more excerpts from the 40th anniversary reunion information sheets.

Carolyn Hazard Jones and Bob live in Virginia Beach, Va., where she takes pride in her flower garden and her granddaughter, Mary Randell. Son Griffith lives with Mary Randell and her mother, Peggy, in Virginia Beach. Son Chester and wife Jenny are in Tampa. Carolyn takes pleasure in reading, bridge, teaching Sunday School, learning mahjong, garden club and babysitting. She says the most valuable thing about her Agnes Scott experience is "that women were respected, valued and encouraged to use all their talents over the entire course of their lives."

Maria Harris Markwalter and Richard divide their time between their homes in Huntsville, Ala., and Satellite Beach, Fla. Maria opened a small tennis shop and watched it grow into a nice sports specialty Serve and Volley Shop, now owned by son Roland. She continues to assist him with the buying and to enjoy tennis actively, play duplicate bridge and travel. Maria is blessed with "four wonderful children and five special grandchildren." She asks, "What else could anyone want?" She believes that "grandchildren are the payback for old age." Both of Maria's daughters graduated from Agnes Scott. Teace Markwalter Sanders '82 and Richard live in Birmingham and have three children, while Marianna Markwalter '94 is a Tauck Tour Director. Son Richard works as a mechanical engineer with Boeing and is the father of two.

Blanche "Boogie" Helm Nichols salutes the relaxation of retirement and not needing an alarm clock. Previously, she taught world geography to high school and university students in Jacksonville, N.C. Now she spends more time with travel, desktop publishing, rubber stamping, reading, church and ADK (an educational sorority) activities. Son Bobby also lives in North Carolina and is employed by the Research Triangle Institute.

Anita Sheldon Barton is executive director of the Cobb County Youth Museum in Marietta, Ga., where she plans museum programs. Her daughter, Anne, resides in Cincinnati with her husband and two sons. Daughter Ginny works at Scientific Atlanta, having completed her master's in fine arts at Florida State. Travel, bridge and a book club are among Anita's hobbies. Agnes Scott helped her "develop the ability to handle more effectively the 'ups and downs' of life."

Mary Morris Hurlbutt writes about her life in Oahu. She thoroughly endorses being semi-retired, working only a day or two a week at Barnes and Noble in Honolulu. While at home on Oahu, she and her friends travel about the island, lunching at the beautiful beachfront hotels or seeing the scenery of the drives up the hills and around the shore. This year was fortunate for Mary because she had two trips to her home state, Pennsylvania, as well as one to Maine. She says fall on the mainland is a glorious sight.

Mary Gillespie Braeunig happily reports that her sister, Margaret Gillespie Sewell, is recovering from extensive cancer surgery she had in January. Despite reconstructive surgery on her mouth and jawbone, she is not disfigured and has regained the ability to talk, eat and drink. Mary and Margaret express their gratitude to all their Agnes Scott College friends, especially those from Hardeman Cottage, for their prayers, flowers, cards, e-mails, care and concern.

Patricia "Patsy" May Touw writes that Kenneth is now working for Medco, a branch of King Pharmaceuticals. As he pursues a degree, their son, Adam, is in Chicago at the Art Institute in the computer department. Daughter Kate spent the summer in Washington as an intern at the Air and Space Museum while living with her sister, Anduin, and husband Brian in Virginia and commuting.

Ann "Bunny" Teeple Sheffield updates her last report with news that her family's trip to Madagascar to see daughter Perry, who was there on a Fulbright Fellowship, was a success and a whole new educational experience. Her husband, John, heads the South Carolina Tennis Association based in Columbia, S.C. They are splitting their time between Columbia (living aboard a boat on Lake Murray) and their home in Roswell, Ga. Their music-theater daughter, Anna, survives in New York City; and Perry has started medical school in Augusta.

Mary Chapman is in her third and last year in a master's program in landscape architecture at the University of Georgia. She spent most of the summer in Cortona, Italy, taking classes in photography, illustration and art with the university's art department program.

Continuing her adventures in corporate America, Eliza Stockman has left the restaurant business to become the paralegal for the general counsel of Milliken and Company. She finished an extensive leadership training program, including the "from dirt to shirt" study of the textile industry. Now Eliza is trying to convince her boss that she's indispensable and should be a part of any upcoming European travel.

Dorothy Schrader reports having re-entry problems after seven weeks of typing on a French keyboard (where key vowels are switched and all numbers are upper case). Her stint directing the University of Oklahoma's Summer School in Paris went well. She and her family found living in an apartment right across from the Sorbonne a charming experience. Her daughter, Elizabeth, enters eighth grade this year. Dorothy's husband, Richard, continues to teach Spanish at Oklahoma Baptist University, and she remains at Oklahoma State.

Patricia Grant Gooding is celebrating having finally gotten all her children into high school and beyond. Paige is a sophomore at University of Georgia and a real Bulldog fan (husband Bob, a Georgia Tech graduate, is trying to cope). Carter is a junior and Grant a freshman at Riverwood High School. Pat sees Sharon Dixon regularly and says she is well and happy working at the Atlanta Regional Commission.

Carol Blessing Ray and Bill are beginning to live the retired life. Bill left BellSouth in June, and they are now at home near Sarasota, Fla., with plans to spend summers in Highlands, N.C. Their son, Chris, graduated from the University of Puget Sound and trekked through Madagascar with Ann "Bunny" Teeple Sheffield's whole crew this summer. Carol visited daughter Calli, who is in France for a semester.

Jo Freiler Van Vliet and her husband John are beaming grandparents. Their daughter, Jackie, and husband Dave welcomed a baby boy, John David Codevilla.

Margaret Tara Swartsel Boyter has discovered her niece, Alex, is a roommate at Wellesley of Sally Wood Rogers' daughter, Anne. Tara caught up with Sally via e-mail and had a good visit.

Christine Engelhard Meade was surprised to see her ASC roommate, Margaret Tara Swartsel Boyter, at daughter Claire's wedding in June. Tara just happened to be visiting her mother over that weekend and invited herself to the wedding. Chris was delighted to see her. Tara reports that the mother of the bride was elegant, as was the bride, of course! Chris' daughter, Elizabeth, graduated from Agnes Scott College this spring, and Chris had to give Marsha Williams Norman a big hug at the ceremony. Her son, Ben, spent the summer studying German at the Goethe Institute in Rothenburg, Germany, and afterward did the backpack and Eurail pass experience with friends. He headed back to Furman in September.

Sandra Earley will spend her fall/winter researching high schools for her eighth-grade son, Bradshaw. He is finishing at a small Friends' school in Pennsylvania. Sandra has a plea. She desperately needs to hire a television producer to help her do editorials on cable television. She wants to know if someone knows anyone who might be interested or if a classmate might want a new career in television.

Ruth Hayes Bruner's son, Marshall, was married in May to Katie Neal. Katie is a social work student at Georgia State University. Marshall is a Methodist minister in Lawrenceville, Ga. Ruth's son, David, will spend this semester in Valencia, Spain, through a Florida State University program.

Melanie Moreland Yulman and her husband are now empty nesters. Both children, Nick and Kait, are at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. Melanie teaches pre-kindergarten at Friends' Central School and works summers at the Philadelphia Museum of Art writing grant requests and applications.

Minnie Bob Mothes Campbell has joyfully relinquished her interim job as director of alumnae relations at Agnes Scott College. She and Mike celebrated with a wonderful trip to Scotland and Ireland in the fall.

The class extends its thanks to John and Laura Watson Keys for hosting the wonderful 30th reunion party at their home in April. A special treat was the impromptu bagpipe serenade by Ruth Goeller Chandler's husband, Walker, who has been playing the bagpipe for two years. He is a criminal defense attorney in Zebulon. The Chandlers have two sons; the older is a sophomore at the University of Georgia.

Mary Hatfield LeCroy and Tom spent two weeks traveling in England and Scotland during the summer. They met their two daughters, MaryBeth and Kemper, in Edinburgh. Mary Wills says it was a wonderful trip, especially since they don't see their daughters often now that they are "grown."

Sally Tucker Lee also met her son, Bronson, in Europe this summer. He was studying at Oxford for several months, and Sally was able to travel in England and Scotland with him. In Wales she visited with a friend and did some shopping there for her antique business in Parrott.

Another traveler to England in June was Caroline Mitchell Smith, who went with her sister and aunt. She caught up with son Charles, who was studying and traveling in Europe at the same time. Caroline's daughter, Emily, is finishing her master's degree in accounting at Auburn.

Janet Pfohl Brooks's oldest son, Chuck, graduated from West Point in May and has been training at Fort Benning, Ga., for most of this year. Next he will be stationed in Alaska for three to four years. Their daughter, Elaine, is a junior at Cornell University with a premed/biology major. Youngest son Steve, a high school senior, hopes to major in marine biology somewhere in a warm climate. They actually had all three children home for a while this summer, something that hadn't happened in four years. As a result, the whole family spent some time rock climbing near New Paltz, N.Y. Chuck was on the mountaineering team at West Point. In a final get-together, they had fun sightseeing and taking in a few Broadway plays in New York City.

Lily Comer Keyes' stepdaughter, Emily Keyes, was married in Bryant Pond, Maine, in August. Lily's husband, Bob, and their 6-year-old daughter, Sidney, vacationed there for two weeks after the wedding. Sidney is a first-grader. Lily works as a senior organizational development consultant at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina.

Nancy Rhodes McCrummen, husband Norman and daughter Meg enjoyed taking a group of 24 to the Passion Play in Oberammergau, Germany. They traveled to Austria and Italy as well.

Frances Maguire Paist has recently accepted a job as a writer with an ad agency in Gwinnett County in metro Atlanta. Fran's daughter, Jessica, is in sixth grade; Katherine is in fourth.

After a 25-year hiatus, Tammi DeVore has returned to the Atlanta area and has bought a house in the Windward neighborhood of Alpharetta. Tammi will be with the Director of Product Development in the information technology unit of McKessonHBOC. Her younger son is a freshman at the University of Washington; the older is a junior at William and Mary.

Mary Anne "M.A." Bleker is the class's newest mom with the adoption of a truly beautiful baby girl named Ella. Classmates were treated to photos at the reunion.

Susan Gamble Smathers brings more clout to the class of '75 with her recent appointment to the Agnes Scott Board of Trustees. It is a well-deserved honor, with none better class member to hold the position.

Ruth McManus Mansfield, Mary Jones Underwood and Susan Gamble Smathers were on a vacation get-together this past summer in Ponte Vedra, where Ruth, Susan and Susan's son, Bruce, had fun scuba diving.

Nancy White Morris teaches school in Gwinnett County and has twin boys attending Georgia Tech.

Allyn Fine Linas reports a "trinity" of news: a new house, a new husband and a new master's degree in special education.

Rebecca "Becky" Thompson continues her practice of law with the court of appeals for the D.C. area.

Allison Grigsby Spears represents portrait artists throughout the Southeast. Her children, a boy and a girl, are now 16 and 13.

Sarah Worman works as a surgical nurse and is the mother of a teenage girl, 15, and boy, 16.

Victoria "Vicki" Burgess Stephan serves as executive director working with strategic planning for Ronald McDonald Houses. Her children are 16 and 20.

Della McMillan continues to do research and consulting in anthropology.

Catherine Pugh Cuneo, a paralegal in the Greenville, S.C., area, has children ages 19 and 22.

Mary Pender Derck manages many retail enterprises, including an art gallery in Grayton Beach, Fla.

Beth Wickenberg Ely is a minister in an Episcopal church in Spartanburg, S.C.

Ruth McAliley Harper is the envy of the class of '75. This summer she played hostess, as it were, not only to Mel Gibson but also to Heath Ledger (as in the recent cover of Vanity Fair) while major parts of the film The Patriot were shot on Ruth and Dickie's farm in South Carolina.

Lily Chan came literally halfway around the world from her home in Singapore for the 25th reunion. Married for 23 years, with a 16-year-old, Lily manages a venture capital fund.

Janey Andrews Brown has three adopted girls and has recently opened a banquet facility in an old Victorian home, Mistletoe Villa (which she and her husband renovated themselves!). They are near Hendersonville, N.C., so anyone who happens to be in the neighborhood should stop by.

Cathy Pirkle Wages and her husband were also part of the Hollywood set this past year as they attended the Emmy Awards. Cathy's husband had been nominated for one of the awards.

Back in Atlanta for about 10 years, Charlotte Gillis is a landscape architect with the park service.

Martha Carr Glocker is Mom to three boys.

Rebecca "Becky" Meador Walsh has recently married and works in insurance in Denver. Becky and her husband plan to build a new home on their 40 acres outside the city.

Ellen Phillips Smith is an artist for an Atlanta magazine. Sally Stenger, a legal secretary, lives in the West End section of Atlanta.

Joyce McKee McDonald is a U.S. attorney with the Department of Justice and deals primarily with white-collar crime. When she's not prosecuting the bad guys, Joyce is Mom to three girls.

Roberta "Robbie" Goodall Boman teaches school and has two children, ages 16 and 13.

Rose Ann Fraistat Cleveland, recently single, has a 16-year-old son and 12-year-old daughter. She works in admission at the University of Maryland.

Margaret Robison Lemon, married for 20 years, has a daughter, 16, and a son, 13.

Margaret lives in Roanoke, Va., where she manages apartments.

Page Lane Hodson's daughter, Challen, is a first-year student at Agnes Scott. She's on second Walters, Page's old hall, and did it bring back memories as they moved her into her dorm room!

Shelby Cave Cobb, the new class president, is now a full-time mom to Forrest, age 6, one of the most delightful little boys one could ever want to meet.

Margaret Williams Johnston is the new fund-raising chair, while Mary Jones Underwood serves as class vice president.

On May 13, Anne Jones married Don Fears, director of strategic planning at DeKalb Medical Center. They had a small wedding at the Druid Hills Golf Club, attended by Elizabeth Wells Lang and Peggy Pfeiffer Elder. Following a honeymoon to St. John's Island, they have settled into Anne's townhouse in Decatur. Don has two sons, making Anne stepmom to a 9-year-old and a 14-year-old. Anne also works at DeKalb Medical Center as director of education services, in addition to serving as president of the ASC Alumnae Association.

Sandra "Sandy" Fowler has registered at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, where she will work toward a master's degree in epidemiology. This program will take three or four years to complete, but those trips to London will be nice! Sandy will continue her work in research at the Medical College of South Carolina in Charleston. In other directions, she has been organizing a church mission trip to Haiti and has had several recent cycling trips, including one amid the wildfires of Montana this summer.

In May, Linda McInnis traveled to England, Scotland and Ireland with her mother. The HMO she has been working for, QualMed, closed shop in Colorado at the end of September. Linda plans to work as a paralegal and assistant to an attorney in Colorado Springs who represents a citizens' group trying to halt the development of a cement plant in Pueblo. Linda suggests that she could be the next Erin Brockovich (without cleavage). In family activities, she has been busy playing with her new grandson, Elijah, born in May. She wonders if she is the first grandmother in the class of '79.

Virginia Rockwell and husband Robert Bradford have been enjoying Stella Rockwell Bradford, born March 20. Virginia's business in Gordonsville, Va., The Gentle Gardener, continues to thrive. She was able to take time off this summer for an extended visit with family in Rhode Island.

Virginia "Ginny" Lee McMurray had a delightful visit with Eleanor Graham in New Orleans over Labor Day weekend, when they met for coffee with Ginny's daughter, Kathleen, and Eleanor's daughter, Caroline (both 13). Eleanor works as an attorney with the New Orleans office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Along with her husband, Jay, and children, Caroline and Benjamin, she had a glorious summer vacation on the beach in Florida. "Ginny" has begun a new part-time job as executive director of Ballet Arkansas. She is also PTA president this year at Carver Magnet Elementary School, which daughter Margaret, 10, and son Michael, 6, attend.

Amy Dodson Goodwin visited Caroline "Carol" Reaves Wilson in Augusta, Ga., and they had dinner with Christia Riley-Ashmore and Emily Hill Ross. Carol invited them to join her in meeting three upcoming Agnes Scott first-years from Augusta. She has been serving on a special grand jury for the past year and has enjoyed learning about city government in Augusta. Amy, who lives in Kobe, Japan, had a busy summer traveling with her children, Danielle and John, to Tennessee, South Carolina, Cincinnati, Ohio and Augusta, Ga. Her husband works for Procter and Gamble in Japan, and the family will be there for about two more years. While living in Japan, the Goodwin family has traveled extensively, to Guam, Bali, Europe and Bangkok, Thailand, with their next stop scheduled for Australia.

Christia Riley-Ashmore lives in Augusta and is occupied with her four children as well as with teaching Bible studies and creating pottery. Her son, Jerry, is 14 and, in addition to being in the ninth grade, works part time with his father in a successful concrete construction business. Her daughter, Alicia, 12, suffered a brain tumor in 1997 but has fully recovered and is in the seventh grade. Christia has another daughter, Claire, who is 8, and a second son, Bryson, 4. After homeschooling her children for five years, she has put them into the school system in Martinez, Ga., a suburb of Augusta.

Sallie Taylor Manning has been serving on Augusta's Animal Control Advisory Board for the past year and has appeared on local news broadcasts on several occasions.

Emily Hill Ross had a visit from Anita Barbee-Cunningham, who lives in Louisville, Ky., with her husband, Michael, and sons Robert and Benjamin. Anita and Michael are both psychology professors.

Margaret "Marge" Long Cianchetti moved to Claremont, Calif., where her husband, Bob, is in law school. They have two sons, Sam and Henry.

Joy Jun Rousso lives in Mill Valley, Calif. (near San Francisco), with husband Paul and their son, Maxwell. They have embarked on an artistic adventure (Paul is an artist), and they hope to meet the rich and the famous!

Allyson Rhymes Raymer and her husband, Chuck, have relocated in San Antonio, Texas. Allyson has started a Latin program at a sixth-through-twelfth-grade school in the area; and Chuck is the new headmaster of an independent school, grades pre-k through eight.

While classmates have had many exciting and memorable vacations since graduation, beach vacations replete with sand, sun and lounging about occupy the top tier of such experiences for members of the class.

Deborah "Ann" Fitzgerald Aichinger comments on her honeymoon in Jamaica, "WOW!" The rest remains for individual imaginations. The food sounded awesome, Ann!

Elizabeth Stevenson Fairleigh celebrated five years of marital bliss with a trip to Kauai, Hawaii.

Marie Wooldridge and her husband, Chris, visited Spain and connected with Lorraine Elder Maxwell, who flew over from England to see them.

Other European travelers include Carolyn "Conley" Simons, Nancy Patierno and Kristen Sojourner Burgess. Both Carolyn and Kristen visited Paris, though they did not bump into each other. Nancy loved Greece.

Katherine "Katesy" Watson's most memorable trip was to the Republican Convention, where she oversaw the arrangements in booking convention spokespersons for TV news appearances throughout the South. If classmates saw one of these appearances, chances are "Katesy" had something to do with it. She is likely hoping for the trip of a lifetime, working in the White House.

Bonnie Crannell Evans' business trip to Hong Kong, Singapore and China provided an eye-opening, unforgettable experience. She toured many factories in all three countries where women were overworked, underpaid and generally lived an impoverished and abused life. She said that this made her aware of the high quality of life and good fortune on this side of the ocean. Bonnie's memories make Joanna Wiedeman Quillen's and Kristen's favorite trip—a recent shopping bender sans enfants at Phipp's Plaza, accompanied by dinner at the Pleasant Peasant—look rather petty and trite. They did, however, have a great time.

Bonnie welcomes a baby boy, Griffin Andrew, in May; he makes a nice bookend to her other son, Brantley, who is 2. Griffin was born just four days before Nancy Patierno's son, Zane Louis. Nancy said little Hugo, also 2, was impressed with his new little brother. Bonnie and Nancy are thrilled to have two boys so close in age.

Glenda "Sharmaine" McNeil is working in Atlanta for Metropolitan Life and keeps busy with travel but would like to hear from anybody who wants to e-mail her, especially cat lovers. She has a cat named Zoe.

Margaret Shippen Saunders received intriguing photos of Katesy Watson at the convention. Margaret is directing a community theatre production of The Miracle Worker.

Jill Whitfill has experienced some difficult times lately. Her mother has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease, and one of her dogs is dying with congestive heart failure. Jill will be in the prayers of her classmates in the hope that things will be better for her and her loved ones.

Deborah "Ann" Fitzgerald Aichinger and husband Frank have adopted a 13-year-old boy, Thomas James (T.J.). They are parents for the first time but have managed to skip all that diaper business. Congratulations to all three!

Carolyn Conley Simons is helping Kristen Burgess via e-mail with ideas for teaching art classes. Kristen accepted a position at the Boulder Country Day School as art teacher for K-8 and also as middle school music teacher and choir director. After 11 years as a member of the diaper brigade, Kristen loves life.

Lauren Snee Booth, Sarah Garland St. Onge and Karen Youngner Garby manage to stay in touch regularly, even though they are in Florida, South Carolina and Michigan, respectively. In fact, they had their second "Girls' Long Weekend Away" in March. They met in Atlanta and had a marvelous time visiting old haunts, shopping, eating and talking. Of course, they had to visit Agnes Scott to check out all the renovations and improvements. It was spring break, so the campus was empty; but they had a lovely conversation with D. Behan on the state of the College. They just can't believe it has been 13 years since their Scottie years! Karen found her family down south, this time on Sullivan Island, S.C. It was there that she saw Sarah and two of her children. The week went quickly as they also spent time with Joan McGuirt Khan '88 and family before they left the Charleston area for Winston-Salem, N.C., where Joan's husband is completing his medical residency. Michigan lakes are fine, but these three truly enjoy the beach vacations. Allison Adams completed her thesis on Edith Wharton in August and graduated from Emory University with a master's in English. She is working for Emory as editor of the Academic Exchange. In addition, Allison and classmates Dustin "Dusty" Hill Matthews, Darline "Dolly" Purvis and Daphne Burt traveled to St. Augustine, Fla., in March and had a wonderful time relaxing at the condominium of "Dusty's in-laws." They enjoyed time on the beach and took in Fantasia 2000 at a nearby IMAX theater.

Cherie Arnette is teaching two honors geography classes, three world history classes, while sponsoring the Scholar Bowl team. She took two small vacations camping this past summer in state parks and traveled to visit with her sister. Cherie recently reconnected with Roberta Daniel '87. When she was in Tallahassee, Fla., for a reading conference, she called Roberta's old phone number and found her!

Daphne Burt is artistic manager for the Milwaukee Symphony. Through her position, she participated in a project that took the symphony on a history-making tour to Havana, Cuba. The symphony became the first American orchestra to play in Cuba in more than 40 years. In her non-professional life, she is a member of the vestry and the choir at St. Mark's Episcopal Church and continues to work as a volunteer for Habitat for Humanity. Daphne vacationed in San Francisco and the Napa Valley, as well as the Cayman Islands, to rest up for the opening of the orchestra's season in September. She also enjoyed her trip to St. Augustine with Allison, Dusty and Dolly in March.

Heidi Staven Carpenter and her husband, Paul, celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary with a trip to Disneyworld. Paul had visited Disneyworld twice before, but this was Heidi's first venture into the Magic Kingdom.

For World Youth Day, Mary Tyrena Carr traveled to Rome with the Arlington Diocese, joining 200 high school students. It was thrilling as well to be so close to the Pope. Tina was confirmed in the Catholic Church this past spring, and has had a very spiritually profound year.

Felrese Bradshaw Carroll is working with mixed success to potty train her 2-and-a-half-year-old daughter, Resa. She is excited that her husband, Bud, has opened his own business, making furniture and cabinets.

Elizabeth Cooper Matthews has moved back to Atlanta and teaches in the Cobb County School System. She has also purchased a new home near Kennesaw Mountain.

Eleanor Dill has returned to Atlanta after living for several years in the Florida Keys.

Cindy Franks bought a new house in Norcross, Ga.

Amy Goodloe has fulfilled two of her lifelong dreams: she and her partner built a horse ranch in Colorado, where they train horses, give lessons and breed Connemara ponies; and she is teaching an upper-level writing course at the University of Colorado, Boulder. She invites her classmates to visit her on the web at www.goodhorse.com.

In May, Aimée Peeples Haines and her husband, Sam, welcomed their third child into their family.

Jeanne Higgins Bressoud has been sharing mothering tips with Thea Mayne, as they both gave birth this year and talk to one another all the time.

Dustin "Dusty" Hill Matthews and her husband also greeted a new baby. They report that their older son, Griffin, is adjusting pretty well to the addition.

Maria "Conchi" Gonzalez Iglesias and her husband, Angel, returned to Atlanta. He is a doctor at the Veterans' Hospital in Decatur, Ga.

Jill Jordan flew to Georgia from Colorado in July for a wedding and stayed with Rebecca Earnshaw and her husband, John. John, Rebecca and Jill drove to Savannah, Ga., and had a wonderful time staying at the apartment Rebecca and John have renovated. The three visited museums while there.

Louisa Parker Mattozzi and her husband, Michael, visited with Pamilla "Pam" Gulley Hardin '90 and her husband, Paul, in Alexandria, Va., in June.

Thea Mayne and her husband, Gray, had their first child this year and declare her the light of their lives.

Sarah Napier is working on her doctorate in education at Harvard teaching at the Fayerweather Street School in Cambridge, Mass.

Nelathi "Nela" Nanayakkara DeSoysa has been selected by World Vision Lanka to follow a course on non-government organization management through Eastern College. This course of study moves "Nela" further toward the completion of her master's in business administration. Juggling her schedule with her baby, Naomi, working full time and finishing her second master's degree are quite challenging.

Ginger K. Patton-Schmitt has left big firm practice to branch out with a law school colleague. They formed Patton & Fletcher, L.L.C., through which Ginger and her law partner are developing a residential real estate, estate planning and probate practice. Hanging out her own shingle gives Ginger more time to spend with her two sons, Ren and Ellis, but less time to sleep.

Darline "Dolly" Purvis' husband, Pat, has begun a four-year course of theological study in order to become an ordained Episcopal deacon. Dolly confirms the good time in St. Augustine, Fla., with Dusty, Daphne and Allison. Dolly decided to leave her position with the College and accepted a position as managing editor of a county paper, The Champion. Her new position affords her the opportunity to help a newspaper grow as she gets back to the type of work she loves.

Alisa Duffy Rogers and her family have relocated to the Chicago area where she is pursuing a master's in public services at DePaul University.

In January, Elsa Jann Newman Schaefer married Scott Schaefer, a commercial diver and submarine pilot/technician. She was promoted to associate professor of mathematics at Marymount University and is now the chair of the mathematics and computing sciences department for the University. Elsa's daughter, Maisie, is beautiful, tall and happy. She started kindergarten this year, an event that was very traumatic for Elsa.

Jennifer Burger is hard at work in her residency, but she did manage to get away to a spa in Mexico during the summer.

Teresa Ramirez Dore got a surprise for her ninth anniversary, a trip to Asheville, N.C.

Hillary Soper Strong and her family took advantage of a long weekend and went camping in a state park in Vermont. They swam in a river, biked on an old railroad bed and hiked to waterfalls.

Michele Moses Lackey is in Phoenix, Ariz., loving married life.

Kim Goodwin Henderson has started her own company, Teedum, Inc., which helps community centers and programs secure funding to provide children with multicultural books. Her company solicits donations from corporate and community organizations to include these types of programs in their community relations. Kim was up and running this fall.

Kimberle Maleski Swaak and her husband, Ewoud, went on a Habitat for Humanity global village trip to Cape Town, South Africa. Kimberle works for Habitat and was a team leader for the trip. Her parents and brother found time this summer to visit Kim and her family in Holland.

Thomas, Blaise and Wendy Worthy Robertet spent their vacation in Quebec. They also went to Paris to introduce Blaise to the rest of his family and to learn some French. Thomas is writing his thesis at NYU and will soon have a master's degree in economics.

Mary Ann Athens spent some of her summer taking a printmaking class at Penland School, which she calls "an art camp for grown-ups." The creative and intense experience helped her recharge before the school year.

Jennifer "Jenny" Brand Gruber visited Erin Gaston while Jenny was on a business trip to Denver. Erin spent July in Missouri with family and then went to Costa Rica to visit her former Peace Corps site.

Kim Lamkin Drew, Rus and Anna Katherine spent a week in Boston, Cape Cod and Newport, R.I. They stayed in Hyannisport about a mile from the Kennedy compound and particularly enjoyed seeing the tall ships in the Newport Harbor. They also took a trip to Savannah and Tybee Island. There Anna Katherine learned to peel and eat boiled shrimp. She has started Montessori school. In professional news, Kim notes that her business is now four years old and that she will co-chair the International PRSA Convention in Atlanta in 2001.

A recent conversation revealed that Francis Daves, the grandfather of Heidi Wilson Ream's husband, was the architect who designed Bradley Observatory at Agnes Scott.

Sarah E. Crane married Scott M. Nichols in February at St. Bede's Episcopal Church in St. Petersburg, Fla. Among those attending was Leigh Bennett-Conner '92. For the honeymoon, Scott and Sarah toured Great Britain. They bought a home in Madeira Beach, Fla, and are busily adjusting to many recent changes.

Ashley Carter rarely has a dull moment these days. Her daughter, Zoe, is 2 and a half. Ashley finished her master's in biology at Georgia State last year and has enjoyed working at the Emory Vaccine Research Center.

Denice Dresser Arnold and Russ proudly announce the birth of their fourth child, Zachary Robert Arnold. Big sisters Ashley and Courtney, along with big brother Chase, are thrilled to have a baby brother. Denice, Russ and family took an extended vacation to Atlanta and Florida to see friends and family over the summer and enjoyed their visit back east.

According to Tammy Shirley, Camila Weise Bottome is still in Caracas, Venezuela, with her husband, Ricardo Bottome. Camila, however, came to Atlanta several months ago and stayed with Tatiana Mejia Fernandez. Tammy visited with Tatiana, Alyssa Hurd and Camila at Tatiana's house in Marietta just before Camila returned home. Tammy hosted a Tupperware party attended by Stephanie Strickland, Annmarie Anderson, Daphne Norton and Erika Stamper, among others.

Kim Kizirian spent the summer in Superior, Colo., with Dave and the kids. On their way back home to Tampa, Tammy was lucky enough to have them stay with her for a few days.

Erika Stamper bought her first home in Lawrenceville, Ga. Tammy calls it "adorable," adding that Erika spends all her free time in the Home Depot.

Daphne Norton is taking jewelry-making classes and is really into beading. Her mom held a jewelry show at her home and sold a large number of Daphne's creations. Consequently, Daphne is teaching Tammy how to make beaded jewelry.

Jennifer Pilcher Duke's son, Sam, is in 4-year-old preschool and loves it. Katie Belle is in "mothers' morning out" once a week; she was 9 months old in August and into everything—Tupperware, pots, pans and Cheerios. Since August Jennifer has spent more time at home with the kids. She may do some part-time work for a medical defense firm, analyzing charts to keep her medical skills sharp. Husband Sandy is still working hard in his surgical residency and will finish in the spring.

AnnMarie Anderson had fun at Tammy Shirley's Tupperware party. She works with Jones Apparel Group and participated in a fashion show in New York, introducing a new Nine West line. She and Chrissie Lewandowski Driggers are planning a March trip to New York on the train for the opening of AnnMarie's mother's art exhibit. Chrissie has purchased a condo in Decatur and is teaching at Stone Mountain High, "looking marvelous." AnnMarie and Stan are living in North Gwinnett with their three cats. Their business, Annmarie's Replacement Bulls, is doing very well and takes up much of their free time.

Holly Henderson Finger left her position with GTE in June to work for Southern LINC, a subsidiary of the Southern Company, as their regulatory affairs manager.

Secretary Betsy Johnson Burn finally finished law school in May, then spent a very tedious summer studying for the bar exam, which she took the last week of July. After the bar exam, she and Chip relaxed for a wonderful week on Mount Desert Island, Maine. They stayed right on the water and had a fabulous time hiking, relaxing and eating lobster. Chip started his last year of law school; and Betsy joined Nelson, Mullins, Riley and Scarborough, L.L.P., in the areas of banking and bankruptcy.

Stacey Langwick, in graduate school at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, is writing her dissertation in medical anthropology.

In June, Hannah Little married the Rev. Patrick Lee Friday. The couple honeymooned in Italy and then traveled to Coventry, England, where Patrick was coordinator and soloist for the International Sacred Music Festival. Following this event, they traveled to Moscow to transport 78 children of Chernobyl back to Alabama for medical treatment. Hannah and her husband currently reside in Riga, Latvia, in Eastern Europe, as missionaries for the United Methodist Church. They will spend time in Belarus working with the children of Chernobyl.

Courtney Alison became a mother in August—of a dog, that is. She and her boyfriend adopted a 6-month-old dachshund of mixed ancestry from the Atlanta Humane Society and named him Halley (derived from Edmund Halley of comet fame because the dog is black with a white streak on his chest resembling a comet and its tail). Courtney is getting used to having another living thing to take care of besides houseplants. Also, during a stretch of record heat (nine days with temperatures over 100), she spent a week and a half in Houston, Texas, tending to her mother, who was recuperating from open heart surgery. After a good visit, Courtney gladly reports that her mother is recovering well.

Anne Bearden Gunn has been busy this summer with school and travels. She started on her master's in education degree at Georgia State University and has three semesters remaining. In a break from school, she and her husband escaped to Germany, Switzerland and Austria, where they put on their tourist personas for a welcome change.

Leigh Bennett-Conner received a promotion with the DeKalb County Department of Family and Children Services (DFCS) in August 1999. She has become an economic program administrator, which means that she supervises supervisors. While she hated leaving Fulton County DFCS, she was excited about the new opportunity. As of this writing, she has been doing the job for over a year and is still enjoying it.

Ruth Blackwood writes that she earned a master's degree in biology from Southern Connecticut State University.

In June, Vanessa Elliott Goggans returned to work after three months of maternity leave with her second son, Nathan Alan, born in March. Big brother, Griffin, and his parents are very excited about their new addition. After spending three months with a 2-year-old and a newborn, it was hard for Vanessa to accustom herself to being back at work; but everyone seemed to make the adjustment well. She is a real estate lawyer with the firm of Morris, Manning and Martin, L.L.P., and loves her job. She even had some of her classmates come through her office when they bought their homes.

Mary Ann Hickman married David Klassen in an August ceremony at Christ Episcopal Church in Media, Penn., with a reception afterward at Swarthmore College, where she teaches. Dave is a planetary scientist studying Mars. They met in graduate school at the University of Wyoming. He is now assistant professor of physics at Rowan University, in Glassboro, N.J., which luckily is within commuting distance of Swarthmore. Their wedding day was beautiful, a relief after a week of humid weather. Mary Ann was thrilled that her ASC roommate, Elizabeth "Ellie" Morgan, and her husband, Danny Rouk, were able to attend. Mary Ann and Ellie had been in e-mail contact, but hadn't seen each other since shortly after graduation, a fact that added to the joy of the occasion. Mary Ann reports that Teresa Beckham is a professor in economics/business administration at Rhodes College, Memphis, Tenn.

Christie Miller has been traveling frequently for her company on trips to Atlanta, Michigan, San Francisco and Los Angeles. In addition, she did some freelance editing on Time Out's Mini-Guide to Miami. Other than celebrating her 30th birthday at a Miami club called Lola, Christie says that's about the sum of it.

Brooke Price joined IBM in June as an instructional designer with IBM Global Learning Services. She designs large, computer-based, training deliverables.

In May, MaryClaire Myers King gave birth to a handsome baby boy named Jonah Jorgen Berger. His father, Pascal, and older brother, Eliot, are delighted. MaryClaire has been promoted to director, distribution business development, Europe, Middle East and Africa, for IBM's Technology Group. She has decided to stay in Lafayette where she now has a full-time job in the Office of Publications as a project editor. Before beginning her new job, Laura traveled to Phuket, Thailand, on a mission trip for six weeks. She reports that Aimee Griffin recently visited and that Soo Chan is back in her home country of Malaysia.

Staci Catron-Sullivan is at work on her master's degree in historic preservation at Georgia State University. She visited Egypt for two weeks and says it was fabulous.

Traci Corum Dunn proudly announces that her family has grown again. Geren, 6, and Aubrey, 5, have welcomed a new sister into their lives, Marley Weston Dunn, born in June. She weighed exactly seven pounds and was 19.5 inches long and has a full supply of brown hair, along with what Traci calls "truly mesmerizing" dark blue eyes.

In June, Anna Crotts Straight married Ben Straight in Charleston, S.C. Anna and Ben live in West Virginia, where Anna is a minister.

Jennifer Garlen and husband David Sparks traveled to Paris and London in May. They had a splendid time, climbing to the top of Notre Dame and visiting the catacombs of Paris. In London they toured more than a dozen museums and stood on the Prime Meridian in Greenwich. They also attended a performance of The Tempest at the Globe.

Terri Grossi has been accepted by Pace University in New York in the master's program leading to a degree as nurse practitioner. She is still acting and working toward being a movie star. In the interim, however, Terri is concentrating on maintaining the "luxuries" of life—running water, rent, electricity and the like.

Stephanie Hawes-Blomberg calls Fort Mill, S.C., home. She is a senior logistics analyst for Intermec Technologies Corp. Last year she traveled to Turkey and fell in love with the people and the food. Stephanie reports that Fotini Soublis Sioris lives in Arizona with her husband and three children.

In Atlanta, Mary Curtis Lanford Pizzano and husband George welcomed Joseph Griffin Pizzano into the world in June. Griffin weighed nine pounds, four ounces, and was 21 inches long.

Ellie Porter married Troy Ivey in May at Fincastle Presbyterian Church, outside Roanoke, Va. Claire Lemme, Sandie Fogle and Barbie Stitt-Allen '92 were bridesmaids; Elizabeth Seward '91 sang during the processional and Brooke Parish read the Scripture. Among the guests were Angela Weaver Barnhart, Heather Flanagan, Jennifer Garlen, Tracy Peavy Roussey, Kristin Lemmerman '92 and Melissa Anne Elebash Creed '91. After a honeymoon in France, the couple resides in Atlanta.

Julie Stowe Garner brought Daniel Scott Garner into the world in July, in Conyers, Ga. He weighed eight pounds, 11 ounces, and was 20 inches long.

In April, Dede Streetman married Tom Wakefield of Louisville, Ky., in Vero Beach, Fla. They live in Atlanta.

Shanika Swift's daughter, Tori, was accepted to The Lovett School in Atlanta. She entered pre-k.

Sara Carruthers' name was incorrect in the September MAIN EVENTS. The last name DeFoor was added to her name, when it should be only Carruthers.

BIRTHS
• Marley Weston Dunn, daughter of Traci Corum Dunn and Gregory, June 2.
• Joseph Griffin Pizzano, son of Mary Curtis Lanford Pizzano and George, June 10.
• Daniel Scott Garner, son of Julie Stowe Garner and Chuck, July 19.

The Class of 1995 had their five-year reunion this past spring and found it great to see everyone.

Stacy Bredendieck spent the last five years as a fire protection consultant with the Atlanta office of a national engineering and design firm. Two years ago she purchased a house in Midtown that she has been renovating ever since.

After graduation, Jenny White Howard went to Georgia Tech for a year and earned her master's in physics. After working at Boeing until the plant closed, she now is at NCR Corporation as a supplier manager. She married her high school sweetheart, Jon Howard, in June 1996; they live in Lilburn, Ga., with their two cats, Tigger and Roo.

In April 1998, Kathryn Durkee married Tom Kovarik. She promises he makes a much better husband than he ever was a boyfriend. After two and a half years of bookkeeping, she is presently at an animal clinic in Atlanta, planning to attend Georgia State in the fall to begin prerequisite science courses for vet school.

Lisa Sebotnick married Jamie McLean in June 1998. They reside in Charleston, S.C. She is in her second year of residency in psychiatry at the Medical University of South Carolina. Lisa and Jamie own their own home and just "increased their debt even further" by buying a boat.

Daka Hermon lives in Los Angeles, where she is a production coordinator on a film called Jackpot, with a cast that includes Daryl Hannah. She's still writing and hopes soon to hear good news on one of her projects.

In Atlanta, Kerry Murphy is employed as a marketing and promotions coordinator for CNN, planning big events like CNN's 20th anniversary bash. She traveled to Philadelphia to help cover the Republican National Convention and to Los Angeles for the Democratic National Convention. Kerry was very glad to hand over her class duties to a new set of officers.

Laura Hinte Cawthon returned home to Williamsburg, Va., and is working in human resources for MCIWorldCom. She has been happily married to Michael for over four years; this summer they bought their first home, a transaction that makes them feel like adults.

Merisa Aranas is director of special projects at Pendleton Memorial Methodist Hospital in New Orleans. She moved into a new apartment and is thrilled with it.

Other Scotties at the reunion were Holly Demuth, Jennie Sparrow, Paula Pendarvis, Pam Peel Holliday, Wendy Riviere Earon, Amy Sweckard Parker, Emily Stone Kandetzki, Emily Pender, Stephanie Riggs Roark, Kristen Thornton, Kelly Holton, Joy Edge and Alexa Horne.

Camille Montgomery Morris has married and is living in Nashville, Tenn. She spends most of her time with her new son, Jeffery Chapman Morris, born in July. In her spare time she specializes in children's photography. Camille would love to hear from any Agnes Scott alum.

Nitya Mariam Jacob received her Ph.D. in biology from the Ohio State University in Spring 2000. She was hired as a post-doctoral fellow by the biology department at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. Knox is a liberal arts school with 1,200 students, fairly similar to Agnes Scott, except that it is co-ed. Nitya's job includes research, mentoring undergraduate students and teaching two courses a year. So far, she is enjoying it and is glad to be back in an environment that reminds her so much of ASC.

Lisa Sandblom was awarded a master's in commercial diplomacy at spring commencement of the Monterey Institute of International Studies, Monterey, Calif.

BIRTHS
• Jeffrey Chapman Morris, son of Camille Montgomery Morris and her husband, July 28.

ADVANCED DEGREES
• Lisa Sandblom, master's in commercial diplomacy, Monterey Institute of International Studies, spring 2000.
• Nitya Mariam Jacob, Ph.D. in biology, the Ohio State University, spring 2000.

Giselle Fernandez Martin has taken a position as territory sales manager with the IBM Business Intelligence Partner, better known as ShowCase Corporation. She covers Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Puerto Rico, as well as all the Latin American divisions of the regional companies. Giselle sends a big thanks to Juan Allende for making her read so many Latin American politics/culture books. In her non-professional life, she and Chris, her husband, purchased their first home in Hickory Flat, Ga.

Jennifer Goad Cuthbertson has been named the chairman of the English department at Forest Park High School in Clayton County. She is also halfway through the Teacher Support Specialist Certificate add-on. After completion of a 50-hour internship in the fall of 2000, she will receive the add-on, which confirms her as a mentor to new teachers and to student teachers.

Sally Thigpen is the advocacy coordinator for the nonprofit DeKalb County Court-Appointed Special Advocates, providing advocacy for abused and neglected children. The position she holds is funded by a grant that she wrote as an intern during her senior year.

Gemma Hall has started her second year of pharmacy school at Auburn, where she is pursuing a doctorate of pharmacy degree.

Janet Rauscher was promoted to assistant editor at the High Museum of Art.

Shaunda Blackwell has been accepted into the MBA program at East Tennessee State University.

Ashlea Mittelstaedt was promoted to junior associate at Robinson-Humphrey Company LLC; she has worked in the equity research department since June 2000, covering telecommunications network equipment companies.

Amy Murphy moved with her husband to Toronto, Canada. She works there for a software company called Centrinty.

Ariana Mahmutovic-Lilic was married in December 1999. She is employed by the Profit Recovery Group International as a billing analyst in the communications division. Ariana also is a full-time student at GSU, pursuing an MBA in finance.

Mazie Lawson is in the doctoral program in clinical psychology at the Georgia School of Professional Psychology.

Jennifer Woodruff is in her second year as a second-grade teacher with the Fulton County School System.

Sandy Miller was the Agnes Scott College aquatic director in the summer swim program.

Kimberly Nelson is completing her master's degree at the Institute of Paper Science and Technology at Georgia Tech. This summer she interned with Westvaco Paper Company, in Charleston, S.C.

Laura Watson is studying law at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

AGNES SCOTT

Embarking on Bold Aspirations

CELEBRATION WEEKEND DEDICATES BUILDINGS, LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN

Nearly 1,000 alumnae and friends of the College joined faculty, staff and students on the Agnes Scott campus Feb. 23-24 for a celebration weekend held in conjunction with Founder's Day.

In addition to celebrating the excellence of the College, the event formally launched Bold Aspirations: The Campaign for Agnes Scott College, a $60 million comprehensive campaign that is the most ambitious in the school's 113-year history and proportionally one of the largest among the nation's elite women's colleges.

The celebration weekend also provided an occasion for the dedication of two buildings—the new Alston Campus Center and the renovated and expanded McCain Library, which President Mary Brown Bullock '66 called "the soul of the campus." Both are signature buildings in the $120 million construction program underway since 1998. The celebration also recognized great strides in academic goals and a 50 percent increase in enrollment since 1995, when Bullock became the first alumna president.

"Institutions have a moment in time when they can either make or break their future," Bullock said. "My predecessors set the sights so high for this College; we, too, must have bold aspirations as we educate women to be citizens of the world."

When completed in 2003, the building project will have touched all aspects of college life; square footage for teaching, residential and community areas will have increased by 56 percent. So far, six new or renovated buildings have been completed, with three more new buildings and three renovations to be completed before the campaign's close. This spring, the College will break ground on a new $36.5-million, 115,000-square-foot science building.

"This campaign will be the most ambitious in the history of the College," said Board of Trustees Chair Joseph R. Gladden Jr. "It will value the generosity of every individual and charitable organization that loves learning, believes in the education of women at the highest levels of excellence and shares our mission, dedication and bold aspirations for this College in Atlanta." Gladden chairs the campaign steering committee; Agnes Scott trustees and alumnae Frances B. Graves '63 of Atlanta and JoAnn Sawyer Delafield '58 of New York City are national campaign co-chairs.

Sadat to Speak at Commencement

FORMER FIRST LADY OF EGYPT RECOGNIZED AS WOMEN'S RIGHTS ADVOCATE

Jehan el-Sadat, activist and wife of the late Egyptian president Anwar Sadat, will deliver Agnes Scott's Commencement address on Saturday, May 12.

Jehan el-Sadat

During her husband's presidency, Madame Sadat was an outspoken advocate of women's rights to an education, to working outside the home and to political participation. Since President Sadat's assassination in 1981, she has continued as an activist in international women's conferences and as a catalyst for women's movements in the Middle East.

Born in Egypt in 1933, Madame Sadat married Anwar el-Sadat when she was 16. They were married for 32 years until her husband's death. A scholar of Arabic literature, she earned bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees from Cairo University. She also established the Talla Society, a women's emancipation movement; helped establish the Al-Wafa Wa Amal (Faith and Hope) Society, which built the largest hospital in the Middle East for handicapped war veterans and their families; initiated the idea of S.O.S. Children's Villages for needy orphans; and participated in the reconstruction of Kasr El Einy Hospital.

Recognition that Sadat has received during her career includes an honorary degree from the Philippines Women's University in 1977; the Human Service Award from the University of Kansas in 1978; the Living Legacy Award from the Women's International Center (WIC) in 1984; and honorary president of WIC and inspiration for the organization's Jehan Sadat Peace Award in 1985.

Since 1993, Sadat has been a professor of international studies at the University of Maryland, where she established the Anwar Sadat Chair for Population, Development and Peace.

Her book, A Woman of Egypt, recounts her life as the first lady of Egypt.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

On Founder's Day, I was reminded that Agnes Scott College has been trying to live up to the bold aspirations of its founders for more than a century. George Washington Scott and Frank Gaines resolved that Agnes Scott would become a school of high standards, intellectually and spiritually. This came to mean an educational institution equivalent to the best in the land. These aspirations are reflected in our high academic standards, our Honor Code, in career aspirations to be a judge, the surgeon general of the United States, an inner-city high school teacher, a devoted mother.

Here is what our Calvinist roots show: This is a college that has always pushed itself ethically and intellectually. It has raised high moral and intellectual expectations for everyone who enters its gates and becomes part of its community.

Succeeding founders James Ross McCain and Wallace McPherson Alston collectively served as presidents from 1923 to 1972. It is in their honor that we dedicated two magnificent buildings on Founder's Day during Bold Aspirations weekend.

Dr. McCain's bold aspirations for Agnes Scott were legendary. He understood that a great college needed a great campus, and that a great college required a strong financial base. But Dr. McCain also understood that Agnes Scott's future was inexorably linked to Atlanta, and that an Agnes Scott education required a sophisticated understanding of the liberal arts.

Both Dr. McCain and Dr. Alston emphasized the richness of Agnes Scott's religious and intellectual heritage, and how both were essential to liberal learning. This is nowhere more evident than in the McCain Library, conceived and built during the most challenging of circumstances—the Great Depression. Those who enter the wonderfully restored library and its great hall are greeted with "Nutrimentum spiritus—Food for the Soul," and inside is a mixture of classical and ecclesiastical quotations. The common themes are wisdom, a word we don't use very much today, and truth, an absolute that makes us a little nervous. When we enter, we are invited to partake in a feast for the mind and soul, the accumulated knowledge, the wisdom of the ancients and moderns, the sacred and the secular, in order to be free. "The Truth Shall Make You Free"—this is still the heart of liberal learning.

If James Ross McCain was a great builder and educator, I like to think of Wallace Alston as the great communicator. He understood that a great college needed to be a community, and that the celebration of ideas, as well as personal relationship, was central to that community. A learned man, Dr. Alston came to his presidency from the pastorate, and his was a pastoral presidency. His recall of names and his personal notes are remembered by all. Professor Emerita Jane Pepperdene once told me how she was offered tenure, not in a formal letter but in person, with a warm handshake from Dr. Alston. A classmate has told of running into him in Buttrick during her sophomore year, when he asked about her plans to transfer. "How did he know?" she thought. But when he said, "We need you here," she stayed. He always seemed to know everything.

During Dr. Alston's tenure, budgets grew tighter, American society became more complex, and political, social and ethnic divisions became more intense. Community became more difficult. Board members remember financial difficulties. Former Board Chair Hal Smith and Bertie Bond paint a poignant picture of Dr. Alston and an old adding machine, trying to make the budget add up. Ben Kline tells how every cent went for faculty salaries. There was little left over for roof repairs. Faculty support and nourishing the life of the mind was what Wallace Alston was all about. But Dr. Alston also believed in the transforming power of community, especially during the 1960s and especially for women. I can hear him speaking at a Wednesday convocation: "We are concerned with the whole person—her mind, her physical welfare, her social development and her spiritual life." How often we joked about becoming "whole women," and yet, we remember, this too is still at the heart of liberal learning.

While honoring the past, we also make a bold new statement about Agnes Scott's future: Agnes Scott's deep humanistic roots are guiding it into a new age of technology, science and global learning. The library and the campus center stand side by side, a witness to what Wallace Alston called "holistic learning." These buildings have been designed to be interconnected so that community life and the life of the mind become inseparable. They have been designed with the latest technology—but in the setting of a learning community.

Presidents McCain and Alston would have been thrilled with the Bold Aspirations celebration. Also, both would understand fully why we need now to turn to fund raising. It was Dr. Alston who wrote in 1957: "We deeply desire, as an educational community, to achieve greatness. . . and this will mean dealing with the need for adequate financial support. . . To secure the money to finance a first-class college is, then, imperative if Agnes Scott is to deserve to be called a great College." It is Dr. McCain who would have been out in front, leading the way.

"Bold Aspirations" is what Agnes Scott has always been about. Now it is our time to follow their lead, to provide for the College of the future.

The Rev. Laura Sugg

The Rev. Laura Sugg was installed as Julia Thompson Smith Chaplain before a gathering of students, alumnae, faculty and staff in January.

The installation formally introduced Sugg to the College community, affirming the relationship of the chaplain to the campus and the College's relationship to the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). The event included a sermon by Pat Hunt, Mary Baldwin College chaplain and a friend of Sugg, and a ceremony based on the Presbyterian Church's Book of Order.

In addition to her pastoral and administrative duties on campus, Sugg will also teach "Protestant Faith and Practice." Her chaplaincy includes responsibility for faith and learning programming; Christian worship on campus; interfaith events and support to non-Christian students; and overseeing volunteering efforts.

Sugg previously served as chaplain and assistant professor of theological studies at Hanover College, Ind. She has also held positions at Davis & Elkins College, W.Va., and James Madison University.

M.A.T.—a Model Program

DEGREE ADDRESSES NATIONAL NEED FOR SECONDARY ENGLISH TEACHERS

Last spring I entered for the first time one of the trailers that accommodates the burgeoning student populations at a number of area schools. Although the physical economy of trailers has long fascinated me in the abstract, I assumed that relegating students to such classrooms was the next worst thing to holding classes in hedge schools or palm-frond huts. Perhaps trailers were even the worst of all, because of the confinement and the closeness of the air.

Not so, I discovered. Reassured by windows and an inviting covered entryway, I was amazed at the homey touches the teacher had provided in the mobile classroom: a decorative table on a small rug by the "front" door; colorful pictures and posters, even a potted plant.

I was even more amazed to watch Lisa, one of Agnes Scott's M.A.T. students, work confidently in this not-so-terrible environment, proving, I suppose, that it is not facilities but the engagement of teachers and students that doth a class create and a classroom make. It was a learning place.

Lively Lisa was discussing Homer's Odyssey with a group of ninth graders, many of whom were designated by the system as "special students." She was a very special young teacher, I soon observed, even more remarkable than I might have expected based on my excellent experience with her in our Agnes Scott classroom. She was confident and self-assured; humorous and engaging as she and the students considered the challenges confronting the struggling Odysseus. I was astonished at how involved this group of presumably sluggish and easily distracted students seemed in the experience, how lively their participation, how germane all this Greek adventure seemed to their own lives.

And hence came my "epiphany," "my spot of time," "my moment of being." It had been a long and exasperating drive to Lisa's school from the Agnes Scott campus. More significantly, the road to this point in our M.A.T. program, though perhaps smoother than it might have been without the investment and support of the College behind it, had not been without risk, struggle and at least occasional frustration.

But if ever a moment redeemed all hardship and worry, this moment worked that way for me. I was as proud as I could be to know that Agnes Scott had helped this young woman, an undergraduate in English from Smith College, bring her considerable talents to the classroom. As I sat in the trailer and contemplated that Lisa was just one example of a fine group of M.A.T. graduates prepared by Agnes Scott, the hairs on the back of my neck bristled with the thrill.

That afternoon, like many an afternoon before and since, I confronted tangible evidence that the world—particularly the world of the secondary English classroom—is much the richer by virtue of the more than a hundred men and women who have earned an M.A.T. degree through Agnes Scott. Their influence is steadily expanding—particularly in the school systems of Atlanta, but indeed throughout the country. And that reality is gratifying.

When Agnes Scott's M.A.T. program began almost a decade ago, the plan was fired from the start with a sense of mission: to help meet the national need for superior secondary teachers. For the College to provide access to a teaching career for individuals who had not completed requirements for certification as undergraduates seemed a natural extension of Agnes Scott's all but lifelong commitment to preparing teachers. Agnes Scott, after all, has for generations been educating on the undergraduate level the kind of teachers who animate our best memories of elementary and secondary school.

The drawbacks of providing teaching certification on the undergraduate level are obvious. Such ambitions represent a particular hardship at Agnes Scott, which has never believed students should major in education. We have insisted that our prospective teachers be exposed to a demanding range of liberal studies as well as being thoroughly grounded in any and all subject matter that they plan to teach. Taking the fundamental education courses and gaining the internship experience required for certification has meant thin major programs and few electives. Agnes Scott's English department decided that a 5-year program was minimal to turn out first-rate teachers. Because of our relatively large faculty, the English department had the flexibility to offer such an option—and the M.A.T. was born.

The program represented a radical shift for the College when it was first conceived. The charter of the College had to be altered to allow for graduate degree study. By law, we could not extend our status as a women's college to new graduate programs. Agnes Scott's first male degree candidates entered with our inaugural M.A.T. class, graduating in 1994. One of these, Doug Talbott, an early retiree from I.B.M., is now a valuable member of Agnes Scott's Information Technology department. He works with instructional technologist Jackie Klock to lead current M.A.T.'s comfortably to the cutting edge of technological proficiency and to equip them to embrace the technological opportunities of today's classrooms.

The design for our M.A.T. program in Secondary English, a prototype for Agnes Scott M.A.T programs to follow, was created almost from whole cloth. We surveyed the few existing M.A.T. programs and tried to imagine the best way to educate teachers for the long haul. Our aim then as now was to prepare creative teachers, thorough professionals who inspire respect for their talents and insights. Our goal is for our graduates to become influential in shaping and promoting enlightened policies and practices. To those ends, we believe that we have fashioned a program that is distinctive in its ambitions and its curriculum—and efficient with respect to the time and financial obligations that it places on our students.

Unique among teacher-education programs is the investment of Agnes Scott's entire English department in its concepts and curriculum. Although a number of us have some experience with teaching at the secondary level, all of us have a dedication to strong teaching and to contributing to the development of teachers—at any level.

Collaborating with the English department in a recent review of the program, the Department of Education rethought and redesigned their graduate education courses in ways that students should find both relevant and appealing. We look forward in the near future to enriching the M.A.T. program with electives that offer ESOL training, opportunities for certification in reading, and graduate-credit credentials for the teaching of Advanced Placement courses.

Clearly the optimum way to prepare excellent teachers and thus to endorse teaching as an honored profession is precisely the way we are doing it at Agnes Scott. We build on a strong liberal arts or science degree; we don't gut it. Our curriculum is rich in opportunities to study the language and literatures of English; it provides a balanced blend of educational theory and application; it requires extensive field and internship experience; and it provokes confrontation with issues, such as gender equity, that challenge the profession. It leads to the master's level certification that is requisite for master teachers. All this in 14 months!

Almost everyone has strong opinions about the state of education in America. Most of the educators, politicians, and representatives of the public at large, who lament the state of American education, have come to endorse the view of teachers that Agnes Scott has long held. Knowledge of the subject matter is the first essential for superior teachers; pedagogical skills, desirable character traits and personal commitment must complement that knowledge.

At Agnes Scott—almost 10 years ago—we pressed past lamentations and talk to purposeful action that resulted in a program we believe is a model of its kind. We invite you to consider Agnes Scott's program if you have an interest in teaching English. We urge you to recommend our M.A.T. program to college and university graduates who would make excellent English teachers.

—Linda L. Hubert '62,
M.A.T. program director

I Teach Because…

PROFESSOR CHALLENGES SOCIETY'S ATTITUDE TOWARD TEACHING

The following remarks on teaching by Ayse Ilgaz Carden '66, professor of psychology, were made during the Founder's Day Convocation on Feb. 24, part of the Bold Aspirations weekend.

Those who can, do; those who cannot, teach. From the original quotation by George Bernard Shaw, "He who can, does; he who cannot, teaches," this gender-neutral version of our society's attitude toward teaching has persisted over time into the new millennium. I have taught at Agnes Scott for 24 years because I am one of "those who cannot."

I teach because I cannot stand a life lived without Awareness; an unquestioning existence, a life lived according to unexamined roles and values; a life without considered choices and options.

I teach because I cannot stand a world without Generosity of spirit and means; a world where people do not care to share with each other, shirk away from giving freely—their resources, their love, their dedication, their time; a world where the focus is "me" instead of "us."

I teach because I cannot stand a world where New ideas are resisted, not because of their lack of merit, but because they are new and challenge the vested ways of seeing and doing.

I teach because I cannot stand a society where Ethical values are ignored or manipulated; a society where equality does not represent a goal; a society where recognition of different needs is deemed to be inconsistent with equality or fairness.

I teach because I cannot stand a person who goes through life without a Sense of humor, without the flexibility and confidence of self that allows for laughter especially at one's own expense.

I teach because I cannot stand a world that does not value Scholarship, does not encourage in the individual a sense of wonder and commitment to continuing the search for answers and forming of new questions and the enjoyment of the process.

I teach because I cannot stand an individual who does not value Community; does not work for a better life for all; has no sense of responsibility or commitment; feels no shame for transgressions.

I teach because I cannot stand a world without Optimism. I want a world where people believe that tomorrow can be better than today, a world where we will be even better human beings in spite of the mistakes of yesterday, and that we will create better lives for all.

I teach because I cannot stand a society without Tolerance, based on assertions, open or veiled, that there is only one correct way of believing, one correct way of doing, one correct way of caring, and only one group of people worth caring for.

And finally, I teach because I cannot stand a society where Teaching is devalued and separated from doing; a society where teaching and learning are considered to take place in the classroom, and doing, outside it; where doing is better even when it is not informed by reflection or wisdom.

I have been a member of the Agnes Scott community for a long time, first as a student, later as an alumna, and currently as a faculty member. I, like all my colleagues here, have been a learner, a teacher and a doer—in and out of the classroom. I have taught and learned from my students; many are here as alumnae today. Through the reflection and actions of all whose lives intersect at this place, our community continues to be a better place for the development of more meaningful and responsible lives. Now, the challenge is: Can we keep on working with intelligence, creativity and tenacity to achieve the goal of widening the limits of our community and to contribute to the creation of a world more hospitable for life and well-being of all its peoples? Agnes Scott's legacy says we can and we must.

ANNUAL AWARDS HONOR EXEMPLARY SERVICE AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Elizabeth "Libba" G. Patterson '68

Dorothy Quillian Reeves '49

Kim Fortenberry Siegelson '84

SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

Keller Henderson Barron '53 has been a community activist since her graduation from Agnes Scott. For 18 years, Barron was the director of research for South Carolina's Joint Legislative Committee on Aging, where she developed and implemented recommendations for legislative priorities to promote quality of life for the aging. She retired in 1997, and in January 2001, she was appointed by the governor of South Carolina to serve on the committee. Prior to that time, she was the associate coordinator and director of Emergency School Aid Act projects, Community Care Inc., a nonprofit interdenominational social action agency dealing with the many challenges facing public school children during the 1970s.

Barron's volunteer activities reflect a lifelong commitment to equal protection under the law and the fundamental rights for all, particularly women and minorities. She served on the National Board of League of Women Voters, was the president of the LWV/SC and president of the LWV of the Columbia area. She chaired the LWV/US campaign for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). She has served on the State Reorganization Commission and State Human Affairs Commission for racial equality and diversity in state government. The Human Endeavor, an organization promoting civil rights, presented her with the Modjeska Simkins Endowment award for her work on behalf of social causes and equal rights.

Currently, Barron serves as vice president of the Southern Regional Council, which serves to promote racial justice, protect democratic rights and broaden civic participation. She is co-chair of the Richland County Task Force on Public Awareness and Citizen Participation for land use planning and serves on the Women's Studies Partnership Council of the University of South Carolina. In her support for the aging, Barron also is an instructor for the AARP Mature Drivers' Safety Program and is a licensed agent for Long Term Care Insurance.

Barron grew up in Atlanta and majored in history and political science at Agnes Scott. In 1953, she married Sherrod Bumgardner and moved to Columbia. Barron was widowed in 1979 and married Bill Barron in 1984. She has four children, three step-children and nine grandchildren. She and her husband reside in Columbia.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER

Elizabeth "Libba" G. Patterson '68 is an attorney, a law professor at the University of South Carolina and an individual who is making a difference for South Carolina's children and families.

When South Carolina Gov. Jim Hodges appointed her director of the state's Department of Social Services, Patterson sought to change the traditional social services approach so that the needs of parents and children were better addressed to focus on families' particular needs. For example, child neglect often is the product of poverty and ignorance, especially in poor and rural areas. Patterson sought to change attitudes and practices so that the entire department, particularly its "front line" case-workers, became partners with parents to teach them basic parenting skills.

Changing the traditional social services model requires behavior change, which in turn requires consensus building. Patterson always works hard and has been successful in getting people to understand and believe in doing the right thing, even though it required that changes be made.

Prior to her gubernatorial appointment, Patterson created the Children's Law Office at the University of South Carolina where she drafted and advocated for the passage of many statutes including living wills, health care powers of attorney along with comprehensive overhaul of the laws dealing with child abuse and neglect. In many ways, her work has come full circle in that Patterson now works to ensure that the laws for which she advocated, are in fact, implemented and enforced.

Patterson is a native of South Carolina and received her law degree from the University of Arizona, where she was editor in chief of Arizona Law Review. She is a mother of two daughters and resides in Columbia.

SERVICE TO THE COLLEGE

For five decades, Dorothy Quillian Reeves '49 has served Agnes Scott College as a steadfast and indispensable volunteer. Her contributions to the College run the gamut—from rolling up her sleeves to work an alumnae event to standing tall at the podium in Gaines Chapel leading the Alumnae Association's annual meeting. In every volunteer role, her warmth, intelligence, commitment, and high spirits have inspired and encouraged those around her.

For the past 15 years, Reeves has made the College the primary focus of her volunteerism, although other community concerns have also been the beneficiaries of her talents. A frequent presence on campus, Reeves has interacted with students and served with alumnae, faculty and staff on numerous committees, many of which she chaired. She has organized her class reunions over the years and welcomed her '49 classmates in her home. Reeves served as secretary-treasurer of the Agnes Scott Alumnae Board and has just completed her two-year term as president of the Alumnae Association. She was a member of the Alumnae House committee and has served on and chaired the nominating and alumnae awards committees. The Alumnae Board is most grateful for the many times she has opened her Atlanta home for board dinners and her Fayette County farm house for board retreats. At present she brings her special talents and commitment to the College's Board of Trustees, Atlanta Chapter Steering Committee and Atlanta Campaign Steering Committee. In every capacity, Reeves has set the standard for alumnae service to our alma mater. Quick to smile, she has never failed to show others that volunteering can be fun.

Just as the Agnes Scott community values Reeves's gifts and commitment, her community and family continue to be amazed by the range of her talents. The Atlanta History Center named her a volunteer of the year during the 1970s. When home-building professionals did not meet her standards, Reeves stepped in as general contractor for the construction of her North Atlanta home, which is built from drawings of homes in Colonial Williamsburg. Relying on her extensive knowledge of history and antiques, she also managed the restoration of the family's antebellum farmhouse in Fayette County, Ga.

Reeves feels at home in Decatur. Her father was an Emory law professor, and she majored in biology and German at Agnes Scott. She met her future husband, Dr. Walton Harrison Reeves while taking science classes at Emory. She and Harrison reared five children and now have eight grandchildren.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG ALUMNA

Kim Fortenberry Siegelson '84 has established herself as an award-winning writer of children's books.

Her first book, The Terrible, Wonderful Tellin' at Hog Hammock, published by Harper Collins in 1996, won numerous honors including the Sunshine State Young Readers Award, the Arkansas Charlie May Simon Book Award List and two honors in South Carolina.

Her second book, In the Time of the Drums, published in 1999, became an American Librarians Association Coretta Scott King Award winner, earned a listing in the New York Public Library Top 100 Children's Books for 1999-2000 and was recognized by the 1999-2000 Booklist's Best African-American Books for Children and Top Ten Black History Picture Books.

With several more children's books on the way, including Escape South, Siegelson is well established in her profession of children's literature. She has been asked to speak at many writers workshops and featured as a guest author at the Disney Institute, Georgia Children's Literature Conference and the national convention of the American Librarians Association in Chicago, and she was featured on a Georgia Authors public television series as well as cable programs.

Siegelson's African-American history genre attempts to make sense of a history that many Southerners find difficult to articulate and contemplate truthfully. Her stories were inspired by tales she heard as a child growing up in Georgia.

Siegelson is a lifetime Atlanta native who majored in biology at Agnes Scott followed by a master's degree in risk management and insurance at Georgia State University. She is the mother of two young sons and is married to Dr. Henry J. Siegelson.

Alumnae Award winners were chosen from a pool of nominations submitted by fellow alumnae. Their selection is based on their personification of the values of Agnes Scott College as stated in the mission statement. The selection committee members are Heidi Wilson Ream '90, chair, Charlotte Allsmiller Crosland '52, Carolyn Newton Curry '66, Barbara Byrd Gaines '77, Agnes Parker Wells '86 and Marilyn Johnson Hammond '68, ex officio.

The winners will accept their awards and speak at a luncheon in their honor on Friday, April 27, at noon in Letitia Pate Evans Hall. They will again be recognized during the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association at 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 28, in Gaines Chapel, Presser Hall.

A MESSAGE FROM MARILYN

The Agnes Scott Community has just emerged from a glorious weekend celebrating our "Bold Aspirations." We dedicated the Alston Campus Center and rededicated the newly renovated and expanded McCain Library. We celebrated Founder's Day and kicked off a $60-million comprehensive campaign. Students and alumnae celebrated all that Agnes Scott is and will be at a Friday night gala at the Fox Theatre's Egyptian Ballroom.

For many of us, the best way to summarize our feelings about all we experienced was "WOW!" But for me, whenever I'm with ASC alumnae, the real "WOW factor" is the women who make up the Agnes Scott community. Everywhere I turned that weekend, I met women who personify a lifelong love of learning and the capacity to reinvent themselves and the world around them.

- There was Christine Hatch '82, whom I met at lunch on Saturday. She is one of Agnes Scott's first Return-to-College students. The first two times Christine applied to Agnes Scott, she was rejected because the College did not have a program for non-traditional age women who might want to take classes part time. She was a woman ahead of her time, and when ASC caught up to her and established the RTC program, she was one of the first women to enroll. She entered Agnes Scott the same year her son entered Princeton and graduated with a double major in art and English on the same day he graduated from law school. Because of Christine's tenacity, she and the College shared a period of mutual transformation. We're a better place because Christine didn't take "no" for an answer.
- There was Tish Lowe '69, who was back on campus as a member of the Bold Aspirations Campaign committee from Washington, D.C. Tish is a perfect example of how love of learning and a willingness to reinvent oneself can also transform the world around us. In college, Tish was a music major and organist who also loved biology. Her first job out of college, which used some of the same skills she applied to her music, was as a systems analyst for IBM. When she moved to Tennessee and started taking courses "just for fun," Tish ended up completing a Ph.D. in biological anthropology. After a period working with the Tennessee Valley Authority as both anthropologist and systems analyst in environmental programs, she realized that she wanted to combine her interest in the environment with international development. At 41, Tish enrolled at Yale where she received an M.B.A. She now heads the Environment Division for International Finance Corporation, supervising a staff responsible for the environmental compliance of the World Bank's financial sector investments in third world countries. Her job and her department didn't exist until Tish convinced IFC that environmental due diligence mattered in their investments. We're a better place because Tish had the courage to navigate her own course.
- There was Ayse Carden '66, alumna and professor of psychology at Agnes Scott. Ayse's remarks at Founder's Day convocation (see "Parting Words") were a powerful reminder of the role that teachers like Ayse play in "the creation of a world more hospitable to life and the well-being of all its peoples." And Ayse is a woman who backs her words with action. This weekend, we learned that Ayse and John Carden have endowed a fund for the development of an alumna-in-residence program that will bring alumnae and students together for teaching and mutual learning. We're a better place because Ayse turns her values into action.

Numerous activities are planned for Agnes Scott alumnae over the coming year in communities across the country. I hope you will come and share your story and become reacquainted with other Agnes Scott women who, like you, are extraordinary women with extraordinary gifts.

A November letter from Fidesah Edwards Alexander assures the secretary that she found her broom in the basement. She belongs to a hiking club and says she attends all of the eating meetings, but very few of the walking ones.

Rosalyn Crispin Robinson participates in her cancer support group and attends book fairs with her author son. At the last meeting, five members, including Rosalyn, got stuck in the elevator. The fire department had to release them! For years Rosalyn has collected manger scenes and has to clear the decks to set them all up. This year was no exception, but she loves it.

Sarah "Carolyn" Cole Gregory sent a Christmas card and enclosed a lovely picture of her holding her adorable great grandchild, Grace Griffin Hall, with Bruce Jr. in the background. She has fully recovered from the broken hip and is back in her apartment on Lenox Road.

Marian Calhoun Murray reports that the Presbyterian home keeps calendars full with movies, concerts, luncheons and visitations to historic churches. In August, Marian had a bout with pneumonia, but by September, she was able to baby sit for son Jim's children while he and his wife went camping. Marian is circle chairperson for the Presbyterian women at the Presbyterian home. In other family news, her youngest grandson is engaged to be married in June.

Eva Poliakoff Goodman's August letter found her waiting for quarters in a new facility. By the time this item is in print, the secretary trusts that Eva will be well situated.

The Department of Theatre and Dance is organizing its archives and requests the assistance of alumnae. Various playbills from Studio Dance Theatre productions are missing, particularly those of spring concerts. The department needs playbills from before 1989 to aid in identifying unmarked photos from these productions. Also, any photos of dance productions throughout the years would be appreciated. Originals of playbills or photos are not necessary. Please contact Marialanna Lee or Marylin Darling at (404) 471-5473 if you can help.

Dalton, GA 30720-8164

After Frances Steele Garrett's husband passed away in March, she continues to live in Lenbrook Square along with numerous other Agnes Scott College retirees.

Mary Alice Newton Bishop and her husband are in good health and active in their church and community. They sold their home and moved into Grove Park Terrace, a retirement home in Dothan, Ala. Their three children, nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also live in Dothan.

Virginia Caldwell Payne and her husband, three children and eight grandchildren are happy and in good health.

Catharine "Kitty" Jones Malone has been in Huntcliff Independent Living since her husband's death in 1998.

Genevieve Baird Farris '38 wrote from her home in Nashville, Tenn., of the death of her husband in September, and also of the passing, at age 98, of Phillip Davidson, former Agnes Scott professor of history and later provost at Vanderbilt University.

Barbara Hertwig Meschter and her husband are in Founder's Village, where multi-level care enabled her to travel to a family wedding in Kansas City in April and to Maine with her daughters in October.

Lillian Whitehurst Corbett is content at Crowfields in Western North Carolina, where she enjoys the company of the diverse retirees who take delight in the natural beauty and many senior services in and around Asheville, N.C.

Sarah Johnson Linney lives in Brandon Wild retirement home in Evans, Ga. After 59 years of shared good things, Sarah's husband, George, passed away after a stroke at age 90. He had good care while he was ill, and his children and grandchildren were able to celebrate his birthday with him. Sarah has been surrounded by many old and new friends.

Lucile Barnett Mirman moved in October from Akron, Ohio, to Long Boat Key, Fla.

Frances King Yager says her best news is that her husband, Charlie, is well and active again after a close call last year. They continue to enjoy their wonderful retirement home at Freedom Plaza. Their daughter, Margaret Yager Dufeny '65, attended her class reunion this year and brought back news of all the great things going on at the College.

Mildred Davis Harding's address was inadvertently given as 955. It is 5955 30th Avenue S, Apartment 212, Gulfport, Fla., 33707-5339. When ordering her newest book, Waking Up in Egypt, please note her correct address. The secretary apologizes for the typo, which was not caught in time.

Ola Kelly Ausley is glad the Class News deadline has been changed from December to November because of the many activities at Christmas time. She has been nursing her husband, Bob, after his massive stroke almost seven years ago. They go down to their condo on the Gulf every six weeks or so with the help of "heavenly Henry," who worked for her husband for 45 years, building houses and developing subdivisions. Now, after years of managing property, Ola says Henry is "maintaining Mr. Bob." Ola counts her blessings, but admits that by night she is tired.

Winifred Kellersberger Vass writes that grandchildren make the only ripples in the events of their lives in Presbyterian Village North in Dallas, Texas. Their oldest granddaughter, Elizabeth, continues her job at Southern Living magazine. Another daughter, Cora Guerin, is now a registered nurse owning her own townhouse in Black Mountain, N.C. Cora works at Mission St. Joseph Hospital in Asheville. Granddaughter Krystal Stucky, a flight attendant with American Airlines, is based in Boston.

Joyce Roper McKey and her husband are back in Orlando, Fla., for the winter after a refreshing summer in Highlands, N.C. Elsie West Duval and Ellen Little Lesesne with her daughter, Laura, visited them this summer. Joyce's children and grandchildren surprised them on Labor Day, eliciting Joyce's comment, "What fun that was!"

Elizabeth "Lib" Blackshear Flinn describes the marvelous trip she and her husband had to New England with their oldest son and his wife to see a granddaughter who is a sophomore at Williams College. The autumn leaves were absolutely glorious. They flew to Hartford, rented a car and toured scenic wonders, staying in wonderful hotels, one of which was a 150-year-old inn, a favorite of Edna St. Vincent Millay. The inn also housed a small museum of Millay memorabilia. At Bar Harbor they enjoyed beautiful nature walks, boat tours and watching for seals, eagles and lobster pots. They ate shrimp, crab, lobster, salmon, halibut and clam chowder as if these were going out of style.

Nell Allison Sheldon and Jane Guthrie Rhodes have planned their fall opera season together. Before attending the opera, they usually have a snack at Nell's favorite Chinese restaurant, the Golden Buddha. Then, in respect for Atlanta traffic, they will take turns driving to the fabulous Fox for the three o'clock matinee performance instead of the evening schedule. Jane finished another after-dinner skit at Decatur Presbyterian, "Who Wants to Be a Biblical Billionaire?" Her seasonal project was the Christmas play, A Christmas Carol, featuring everyone's favorite reformed villain, Scrooge. Jane and all the class hope classmates will share news of their holiday festivities.

Guidelines For Submitting Class News

Class news is published in MAIN EVENTS in January, March, June and September. Please submit news to your class secretary according to the following deadlines:

■ August 20 for January publication

■ November 20 for March publication

■ February 20 for June publication

■ May 20 for September publication

Class news may also be submitted directly to the Office of Alumnae Relations. Whether submitting news to your secretary or the Alumnae Office, be sure to include your full name (first, maiden, last) and class year.

When reporting births, deaths and advanced degrees, please include as much detailed information as possible. In all cases, exact dates and full names are needed.

Please report weddings and other planned events (vacations, visits with alumnae and friends) only after the fact.

Agnes Scott has nearly 10,000 living alumnae. We want to keep in touch with all of you and keep you in touch with each other.

Contact your class secretary with your news today!

Elinor Ruth Tyler Richardson
516 Azalea Lane
Florence, SC 29501-5718

Eleanor Hall has not had any long trips lately, but did see My Fair Lady at the Abingdon Barter Theatre, which she thoroughly appreciated. She also attended her niece's graduation from the University of Georgia in late May. The UGA graduate finished magna cum laude and is teaching third-graders in a special school for one year in Honduras. Eleanor is occupied with her church work, clubs and gardening.

Sara "Mac" McCain McCollum is very happy with her assisted living home in Eden, N.C. She teaches Sunday school about once a month and participates in many other activities. In addition, the food and employees are wonderful. Mac is impressed with the growth of Agnes Scott since 1939.

Susie Elizabeth Furlow Brown thinks classmates will have difficulty believing her news. Within a few days of each other, she and husband Robert had wrecks totaling both cars.

Robert suffered broken ribs and a fractured sternum necessitating a three weeks' stay in the hospital. Elizabeth had only contusion and abrasions from the air bag. She warns everyone to take care.

Secretary Elinor Tyler Richardson also had a wreck, not her fault, but no broken bones, not even sore. She is very thankful her air bag did not deploy. However, it did take almost $6,000 to repair her car at the expense of the other driver's insurance company.

Lelia Carson Watlington certainly has a kind husband. As Lelia is not able to write, he sent a letter to Sarah Cunningham Carpenter and a note to the secretary. Classmates are thankful that her daughter brought her to the 60th reunion.

Sarah Cunningham Carpenter regretted that her letter last fall was so brief, but said she had to leave the Leadership Conference early in order to attend the dedication of the new Alumni House at Emory. Her son was in town for that event, having previously served as Alumni Director. The secretary did not attend the conference. Sarah does a great job.

It was a surprise to learn of the death of Philip G. Davidson Jr., on Oct. 13 in Nashville, Tenn. He was 98. His obituary did not mention Agnes Scott, but he had been dean of the graduate school and provost of Vanderbilt University before going to the University of Louisville as president.

Evelyn Sears Schneider's news was very exciting. What a shame it could not have been available sooner. Evelyn and her husband, Morty, have both had bouts with cancer. He has had pancreatic cancer, but they hope that at this time he is in permanent remission. She says his recovery is a true miracle. At 8:00 p.m., Nov. 20 through Nov. 24, on Discovery Health Channel, they were on an 18-minute segment on the Alternative: Uncovered program. This was filmed at their home in June. Thanks and best wishes go to Evelyn and her husband for sharing this information.

With good news comes some sad news. Mary Alice Newton Bishop '37 writes that her sister, Annie Newton Parkman, died June 18. Mary Alice said that "Toni" was in poor health for many years, but always loved Agnes Scott and her many friends there. She also enjoyed singing in Mr. Johnson's chorus and several operettas. Her husband preceded her in death. Indeed, the Newton family was well represented at Agnes Scott. A younger sister, Louise Newton Wright '43, also deceased, and Jeanne Newton Snipes '45 attended ASC.

Catherine Farrar Davis reports that she is fine these days, with only a few aches and pains. Her most recent visit to the doctor found everything in order. The highlight of her summer was a trip to Hilton Head in late September. Catherine is very active at St. Timothy's United Methodist Church, where she is treasurer for her church circle, working at the church office two Wednesdays a month.

Julia Moseley continues writing local history and is involved in the historical preservation of The Nest. She is concerned about a fungus infection of the laurel tree on the property. Music remains an important part of her life.

Violet Jane Watkins grieves over the death of Philip Davidson, former history professor at Agnes Scott College, and her neighbor for many years. "V.J." is always behind in doing yard work, but manages to include in her activities reading (mostly old favorites), playing bridge, trying to keep business affairs in order and socializing a bit.

Early in October, Mary Lang Gill Olson fell getting out of the shower and broke a bone in each foot. She reports that she is mending nicely.

Betty Jean O'Brien Jackson and Charlie are pleased with the success of cataract surgery on all four eyes.

In October, Lillie Belle Drake Hamilton had visits with a former pupil in Austin, Texas, and with a high school classmate in Fort Worth. While in Austin, she had the special pleasure of making the acquaintance of Katherine Patton Carssow's daughter-in-law.

Evelyn Baty Christman reports the engagement of granddaughter Sarah, daughter of Evelyn's late daughter, Carol, who died of cancer five years ago. Evelyn is rotating off church session and thinks she will take it easy in 2001.

Ernestine Cass Dickerson and Ralph enjoyed a McGee family reunion when they went to the wedding of a great niece in Jackson, Miss., last October.

Although Katherine Patton Carssow has lived in the same place for 21 years, she has had an address change. Her new address is Cedar Park, Texas, instead of Leander, Texas. During last summer, she and Bill spent several weeks in Abingdon, Va., "Kat's" childhood home, and visited many friends.

Mary Francis Ault spent three weeks during the fall in Chennai, India, where she taught conversational English at St. Paul's School and worked at the Dazzling Stone Orphanage.

Last summer, Mary "Polly" Heaslett Hastings and David visited children in Canada and spent eight wonderful days in Bermuda.

Henrietta Thompson Wilkinson enjoyed a summer stay with her son John in Maine and is fondly remembering having three of her children and their families with her at Christmas.

Frances Alston Lewis is always glad to read news of her classmates, and so she and Sam have shared theirs: both old and new. They have four children (three boys and one girl). Susan lives only 30 miles away and watches over them and her three brothers by e-mail. Sam, a Georgia Tech mechanical engineer, designs and solves machine problems. From ages 60 to 72, Frances and Sam's fondest achievement was bicycling, with Euro-Bike tours each summer. Their pictures of Europe by bike are a treasure. They now spend six cold months at their favorite KOA on Lake Corpus Christi with many friends who travel there, too. They have shifted from Tulsa's huge very active church to a smaller one where they can better learn members' names. They are beginning, moreover, to think of a smaller house and yard. For years they have been active in church and in nursing homes. Frances is also proud of campus improvements.

Nina Broughton Gaines and John were in Atlanta for the Georgia Tech homecoming, Jack's 60th. It was a disappointment to miss visiting the Scott campus. They both are healthy and active and hope to return for her 60th in 2001. It is already marked on the calendar as Frances looks forward to seeing old friends.

In August, Doris Dalton Crosby traveled to the Canadian Rockies with a group from her church. They saw many beautiful sites and were blessed with good weather. In November, her children and grandchildren honored Doris on her 80th birthday. Two daughters graduated from Agnes Scott, Carol Crosby Harvey '70 and Elaine Crosby Schauer '87. Elaine and her husband, Chris Schauer, presented her with twin grandchildren, a boy and a girl, Dec.14, 1999. They are so much fun and live only a mile away.

Florence Ellis Gifford and John are in good health and are grateful for it. Their three children are happily married. Two granddaughters are also married, with two children each. The other four grandchildren are in college: the University of Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee and Appalachian State. Florence has happy memories of Agnes Scott years.

Elizabeth Irby Milam is busy enjoying grandchildren, participating in church activities, volunteering, including hospice, and fishing when time allows. She traveled with her son, Tom, Leslie and their six children to Gulf Shores in the summer. The triplets are thriving. In September, she visited her former assistant pastor and family in Victoria, B.C., where he is planting a PCA church. It was wonderful to see that part of the beautiful Northwest and the growing church.

Anna Meiere Culver lost her husband, Lewis, on August 18th in Austell, Ga., following a stroke on July 25th as they were traveling to Greenville, S.C., for a family reunion. Lewis was also the brother of Betsy Culver Iverson and the father of Anna Carol Culver '68.

Margaret Nix Ponder plans to attend the reunion in April.

Cornelia "Connie" Watson Pruett has moved to Rome, Ga., to be near her son, Tom Dasher, provost of Berry College.

Josephine "Betty" Nash Story wrote to tell classmates of the death of her husband of 56 years in May following a massive heart attack. He was also the father of Linda Story Lubitz '72. Betty is very involved as a discussion leader for Bible Study Fellowship, an international Bible-study organization.

Myree Wells Maas and husband Joe, their daughter, Jane Maas Edwards '76 and great grandchildren attended the change-of-command ceremonies at the Norfolk Naval Station, where their son, Rear Admiral Steven Maas, assumed command of the Navy Supply Corps in charge of post exchanges throughout the world.

Big events for Mamie Hallman Ross will be four college graduations and two weddings of various grandchildren.

Rebekah Andrews McNeill enjoyed the beautiful scenery on a trip to Colorado Springs in the fall. Her 16-year-old granddaughter especially liked visiting the Air Force Academy located there.

Julia Harry Bennett had a rather traumatic experience at Christmas time when she moved to a retirement community across town, necessitating much downsizing. She has had a happy year, however, with memorable trips to Florida and the Rockies. Julia has five grandchildren in college and two daughters teaching, all of which makes for a busy life.

In July, Elizabeth "Betty" Clarkson Shearer moved from Marietta, Ga., to a new retirement community, Kendal of Lexington, in Lexington, Va., in order to be near a daughter living in Clifton Forge, Va. In November, Betty's children celebrated her 80th birthday with a special party. All five of her

Reader's Connection

The Atlanta Chapter of the Agnes Scott Alumnae Association recently introduced the Reader's Connection program in metro Atlanta. Reader's Connection brings together women who enjoy reading books for lively discussions with Agnes Scott professors or celebrity authors.

The first Reader's Connection event was held on Feb. 8, when Christopher Ames, Charles A. Dana Professor of English met with 40 women to discuss White Teeth by Zadie Smith. Reader's Connection members were also invited to attend the reading by John Updike, featured author for the Agnes Scott Writers' Festival, on March 22, and a discussion of Waiting by Ha Jin, which will be led by Ayse Carden, professor of psychology on April 19.

The idea for Reader's Connection came from members of the Atlanta Chapter steering committee, with special thanks to organizers Chrissie Lewandowski '91, Jacquelyn Hahne '54, who created the name for the group, and Meg Thrash '73, who organized the events. For more information about starting a Reader's Connection program in your area, contact Marilyn Hammond at (404) 471-6325 or mhammond@agnesscott.edu.

children, 15 of her 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild were present. Also attending were two other Kendal residents, Vicky Alexander Sharp '45 and Mary Price Coulling '49.

Neva Jackson Redfern, Myree Wells Maas and Eleanor "Jane" Stillwell Espy enjoyed a holiday luncheon of the Anna Young Club, formerly known as the Fifty-Year Club. The speaker was Laura Sugg, College chaplain, who apprised guests of her work on campus and outlined exciting plans for the future, including the erection of a small chapel.

Decatur, GA 30030-4539

Margaret Downie Brown writes that her only accomplishment seems to be having six great grandchildren and more anticipated. She doesn't remember taking a course on that at Agnes Scott, but then says she is not remembering many things these days!

Swanna "Betty" Henderson Cameron has joined the computer group and loves getting e-mail. She would love to hear from her classmates (BHCM100@aol.com). She boasts of a 2-and-a-half-year-old granddaughter, 14 years younger than their last grandchild. The family acts as if she were the first and smartest child born. Her father, Swanna's son-in-law, has pledged that although she will be free to choose where she goes to college, he will see to it that she visits ASC several times first.

Regina "Pat" Stokes Barnes and husband Hank swim every day at the Callaway Natatorium in LaGrange, Ga. They went on a wonderful cruise on the Volga River with visits to Moscow, St. Petersburg and Helsinki. They learned much and found pleasure in everything from small towns to big cities. (e-mail RAFHJB@mindspring.com)

Mamie Sue Barker Woolf and Warren are grateful that they can travel, having particularly relished two trips in the fall. In September, they spent three weeks driving 2,200 miles around the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland. They stayed in farmhouses and bed-and-breakfast homes, meeting some fascinating folks. They were there during the national hurling competition. What excitement! In October, they traveled to North Carolina, where the leaves were beautiful. (e-mail ewwoolf@juno.com)

Mary Blakemore Johnston has moved to Westminster/Canterbury Retirement Community in Winchester, Va. It is close to her son, John, and not too far from Fourth Presbyterian folks. Mary comments, "Time has marched on and on, and so have I. Praise God for all his grace in caring for me. I am well."

Patricia "Pat" Perry Reiss had a great two weeks in Ireland in October. She has six great-grandchildren with two more expected. Pat does a great deal of civic work and feels fortunate to be so well at almost 80.

After years of being separated abroad, Iyllis Lee Hutchin is delighted with visits from children and their families. Last winter they had the fun of having their oldest grandson, Eric, in town with them. Iyllis and Walter have four adult children, six grandchildren and one great-grandson. She hopes to attend a reunion at Agnes Scott and loves receiving the newsletter.

Flora Campbell McLain's grandson, son of Joyce McLain Poes and Eddie, was awarded the honor of a Morehead Scholarship to attend the University of North Carolina.

Anne Frierson Smoak brags about her grandson, a freshman at Carnegie Mellon University, Pittsburgh, Pa., recipient of a prestigious Intel Scholarship. He was one of 40 honored in Washington, D.C. She and Harold are moving along, though slowly at times.

In October, Mary "Mardia" Hopper Brown and Tommy took a beautiful Western Mediterranean cruise from Rome to Lisbon, nine ports in five countries. They celebrated the wedding of their first granddaughter, Amy, in November. Also, the Presbytery of Greater Atlanta honored Mardia in November for her long service with the clothes closet at Mission Haven. (e-mail GTBrownSR@aol.com)

Following the death of Raddy Mauldin, Maryann Cochran Abbott has been doing a splendid job as president of the class.

Alice Clements Shinall and her daughter embarked on a wonderful trip to London. They went to see Alice's granddaughter and her husband, who have been there for a year. They had a fine time shopping, going to the theatre and just visiting.

Atlanta, GA 30309-1209

After retiring from teaching chemistry at Vassar, Harriet Frierson Crabb set out in a different direction and in April published a paperback book. It is a study of lifestyle changes in a middle-Tennessee family between the Great Depression of the 1930s and World War II. Harriet carried out her theme through family life in two historic houses: one, her father's childhood home; and the other, her mother's. She felt a sense of urgency since the latter, which had been in her mother's family since 1840, was soon to be demolished. New owners have restored her father's home, however. Classmates should look for Growing up Years in Tennessee: A Tale of Two Houses.

Susan M. Richardson has been in touch with Marilyn Johnson Hammond '68, director of alumnae relations, about one of the events for the Agnes Scott Theatre Lovers' Tour of New York in May. Susan's job at the Gotham Book Mart is rewarding as ever.

Louise Reid Strickler's husband retired in November, and she loves having him home, even for lunch! They have three sons: one, a physician at Mayo's; another, working in computers; and the third, a Methodist minister. The Stricklers have four grandchildren.

Joyce Gilleland Dickinson quit her job, built a house and moved to St. Augustine, Fla., all in the space of six months. She said that her children think she is mad. She chuckles at the thought as she walks on the beach every day.

Elise Marshall Simkins unfortunately has had some health problems and probably won't be at the reunion. Everyone wishes her well.

Bonnie Hope Robinson is active in her church in Fayetteville, N.C. She traveled to Alaska last year and hopes to be at the April gathering.

Mildred McCain Persing likes her patio home at the Presbyterian Church's Retirement Center in Waynesboro, Va. She says that it is well managed.

Dunwoody, GA 30338-3107

Betty Crabill Rogers and Charlie recently enjoyed having an 18-year-old Chinese exchange student for a 10-day visit. Betty continues to be busy with church activities and prison fellowship ministries.

Theresa Kemp Setze and a loosely organized group from the Class of '47, who have met several times for Elderhostels and vacations, took a trip to London. The group consisted of Alice Beardsley Garber and Norm, Emma "Jean" Williams Hand and Jim and Theresa Kemp Setze, Doris Kissling Hamilton, Rosemary Jones Cox and her sister, Lucy Jones Cooley '67. Rosemary served as the fearless leader of the group and, despite her protests to the contrary, was of immense value in such matters as teaching companions how to ride the tube and buy seven-day passes thereto. She also engaged a reasonably priced, convenient, respectable hotel and alerted everyone to the use of ATMs that could take dollars from a bank in Petal, Miss., and have them magically appear as pounds in London. Amazing! Other highlights were sightseeing, theatres, including a visit to the Globe, marvelous dinners and high tea. It proved a marvelous trip, in spite of a petrol strike and a one-day flood.

Rosemary Jones Cox and Jim have a new granddaughter, Cameron Jones Cox, born Oct. 20.

The class of 1947 is proud of Amalea Isabel Hijar, this year's recipient of the Class of 1947 scholarship. A junior from St. Petersburg, Fla., she is majoring in philosophy and is a resident advisor and a philosophy tutor. The class wishes her continued success.

Reporting on her second shoulder surgery, Josephine "Jo" Faulkner James anticipates returning to her favorite recreation, golf.

Jane Alsobrook Miller continues to enjoy museums, especially the new Guggenheim. Traveling to St. Louis, she attended a conference on women in science and gave a lecture on "Chemistry in St. Louis" at the Midwest Regional meeting of the American Chemical Society. Jane is busy with the Wednesday Club, a 110-year-old women's study club, and will chair the science section of the club next year.

Harriet Gregory Heriot managed three exceptional trips with friends and classmates. She and Mary "Sheely" Little Miller trekked through old Himalayan trade routes in Nepal. Then with Harriet Reid she attended a Shakespeare seminar at Trinity College, Oxford. The third was a backpacking excursion on horseback in the Montana Rockies.

Mary Elizabeth Jackson Etheridge is back in Decatur, Ga., as resident manager of Mission Haven, near Columbia Seminary.

Activities of the American Guild of Organists and the Callanwolde Youth singers continue to keep Adele Dieckmann McKee occupied.

The Forest at Duke, in Durham, N.C., has become the home of Anne Elcan Mann.

Barbara Whipple Bitter visited Hawaii in October, touring the islands on the SS Independence with an Elderhostel. She viewed volcanic craters, active lava flows and many beautiful flowers.

Anne Shepherd McKee and husband Charles have a new address in Greensboro, N.C. Anne's mother is in the same retirement community and sees Anne daily.

Mae Osborne Boles and Alvin enjoy church activities, especially Mobile Meals, for which she has volunteered for 30 years, as well as traveling to Europe and cultivating roses.

History professor Michael Brown's tour provided the opportunity for Martha Beacham Jackson and Sid to visit England for the eighth time. Besides a long tour each summer, the couple still spends a few weeks in Highlands, N.C., during that season.

Mary "Mac" Compton Osgood and her husband, John, completed an overseas adventure tour of Egypt and found the tombs, temples and the Nile to be magnificent. A side trip took them to the Sinai Peninsula to visit St. Catherine's monastery and to climb Mt. Sinai, a 10-mile, rocky, straight-up hike to see the sunrise. Mac reported that Martha Humber Porter and Jim celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in October 2000. Mac's e-mail address is josg@mediaone.net.

Marybeth Little Lobdell had a good time with Ben and Anne "Page" Violette Harmon in Richmond, Va., and with Dabney Adams Hart at Thanksgiving in Ponte Vedra, Fla. Dabney was visiting her charming Uncle Dabney at Vicar's Landing, a retirement community where the Lobdells now live, except for Christmas and summers in Armory, N.Y. Marybeth has joined the chorus, writers' workshop and the book club. Her son-in-law, Rob Ackerman, has a hit play, Table Top, in New York City.

Miriam "Mimi" Arnold DeHority and her husband spend the summers in the Blue Ridge Mountains, leaving to follow the sun south when the leaves have ceased to fall. Last year, because of her accomplishments in art, Mimi joined numerous other graduates of ASC listed in Who's Who of American Women.

Betsy Deal Smith and Gil enjoyed three weeks in the summer in Maine, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island with their three daughters and families. The trip focused on hiking, history and seafood.

During a fall trip to the North Carolina mountains, Nancy Dendy Ryle and Dallas visited Barbara Coith Ricker '48.

While participating in a river and loch cruise in Scotland last August, Jane Efurd Watkins and Charles stopped at the Isle of Skye, home of her Scottish ancestors.

On an Elderhostel trip to France in September, Annie "Charlsie" Smith Harris bumped into Frances Howerton Lucas '50, who was among the participants.

In February, Edryce Reynolds left for Beijing to teach oral and written English and organizational behavior and management to Chinese college students majoring in international studies. She expects to be in China for a year.

Marguerite "Peggy" Pittard Bullard and Carmen Shaver Brown had a wonderful trip to Israel and Jordan last spring. Later, during a visit to Portugal and Spain, Peggy fell and broke her elbow. In September, Carmen, Julia Weathers Wynne and Rachael "Binky" Stubbs Farris held a Druid Hills High School mini-reunion in the mountains of North Georgia.

Though widowed for 22 years, Bettie Davison Bruce reports from Opelika, Ala., that she is still living in the same house she and her husband moved into 46 years ago. Slowing down only a little, she enjoys her five married children and 13 grandchildren.

In the spring Julianne Cook Ashmead had a good visit with Louise "Poochy" Gehrken Howie in Savannah. In October, Julianne and Ed attended the 24th annual Bach Festival in California, where their son, Ralph, was especially honored for the extraordinary instruments and bows he makes. The visiting Philharmonic Baroque Orchestra, many of them using Ralph's handmade bows, presented an outstanding program.

After spending some time in Bulgaria and Slovakia in the fall, Nancy Francisco Barbour and her husband went to Madrid for Thanksgiving with their daughter. They returned to Washington, D.C., at the end of November.

Sue Tidwell Paulsen and Chuck have settled happily at Lake Burton and in Clayton, happy to be free of their house in Atlanta and the city's traffic and smog. In the fall they spent three weeks in Bavaria and the Black Forest, ending the trip with four days in London.

As usual, Katherine Geffcken spent the summer in Rome, except for two weeks in July in Cyprus and Rhodes, where the temperature was a torrid 116.

Betty "Bebla" Blackmon Kinnett reports a busy spring and summer in 2000, with a new grandson, three graduations and her husband's knee and hip replacements.

In spite of a busy schedule as library trustee, member of the local hospital's development board and participant in a hospital chaplaincy program, Ellen "Steve" Page Reid travels a great deal. She did a kayak trip on the Baja with three of her children and two grandchildren, and continues to indulge in downhill skiing.

Carol Munger wishes that she could attend the 50th reunion, but is physically unable to fly because she is on oxygen. She hopes everyone has a great time. Five years ago, Carol moved to Erie, Pa., to be near her sister, Joyce Munger Osborn '54.

Julia Cuthbertson Clarkson moved during November into her new home in Charlotte. For the past four years she had opted for living on a lake some distance from town. Now she prefers less yard work and the convenience of being closer to church, museums, concerts, theaters and libraries.

Mary Hayes Barber Holmes is enjoying her first grandchild, Grace, who lives nearby in Chapel Hill, N.C. She accompanied Grace and her parents to Scottsdale, Ariz., for a convention. Mary Hayes serves as president of Friends of the Pittsboro Library (an easy job) and teaches preschoolers at Sunday school (a hard one). She is looking forward to the reunion.

Barbara Stainton Robinson volunteers at church music camp, Pumpkin Patch, and preschool. In addition to daily swims and bike riding, "Babs" stays busy with craft projects. She has made dozens of mini-quilts, which she sent to a nursing home in France, a blind lady in Sweden and elderly people in Norway and Germany. She takes orders for her quilts, mainly from Precious Moments. A percentage of her sales go to the National Parkinson's Foundation. Babs has made trips to Switzerland to purchase discounted and unusual fabrics. She spent Christmas with her son in Los Angeles.

Amy Jones McGreevy had sextuple bypass surgery in September at Emory University Hospital. Since she had had no symptoms of heart problems except for a little shortness of breath, she feels blessed that the major blockages were found during a checkup. By late October, Amy was well enough to travel to North Carolina for the annual time-share getaway and to have lunch at the Grove Park Inn with Jimmie Ann McGee Collings and Tom.

Marie Woods Shannon is the senior warden of the vestry at Grace Episcopal Church in Liberty, Mo. She was one of the readers of the General Ordination Examination given nationally by the Episcopalian denomination to senior seminarians aspiring to the priesthood.

In October, David and Marjorie Stukes Smith made their second trip of the year to the Romanian village where they have established a house church. During their four-day visit, they joined the "work force" to replace hundreds of tiles on the roof of the Frances House. When the house is in order with running water and a bathroom, the children of the village will be able to meet for Bible stories, singing and games. In November, Marjorie and David went to Erddig, a National Trust House in England, to collect their winning raffle ticket check for £10,000!

Martha Ann Stegar recovered quickly from her hip replacement surgery in time to join her husband on a 15-day cruise to Tahiti and neighboring islands in French Polynesia in October. Then she got a new left knee for Christmas. The activity that gave her hip and knees the coup de grace was a trip to China and Tibet last spring, but Martha enjoyed the trip, anyway.

Betty Ziegler Dunn says that life is good. She and Clyde are enjoying retirement years, traveling, working in their church and community and especially being grandparents of eight boys and two girls. They spent a month in the summer of 2000 traveling and visiting family in Germany. In August, they were a host couple at a working farm for Heifer Project International, a world organization seeking to eliminate world hunger.

Mary Caroline "M.C." Lindsay received the 2000 Peacemaking Award from the Presbytery of Greater Atlanta in November.

Marianela Segura Ortiz has two sons with wonderful families and four beautiful grandchildren. Marianela and her husband are very grateful and happy. She remembers telling Dr. Frierson that she could not understand one word of his chemistry lectures because he sounded as if he had a hot potato in his mouth. Dr. Frierson was so amused that he told the story at a faculty meeting. How embarrassed Marianela was! Dr. Frierson said he could never study in Puerto Rico because he did not know any Spanish.

Rene Dudney Lynch continues to put classmates in the shade. Not only does she travel all over the world, but she has just published her second book about her mother's family, the Fairbanks.

One never knows when a dog in the family will provide unexpected assistance. Frances Coley Parry says her new golden retriever is helping with her upper body strength, a conclusion that seems justified, since he weighs 78 lbs. She also mentioned that hubby Tom's 50th college reunion was unforgettable.

Then there are those who never stay home. An example is Keller Henderson Barron. 2000 was a travel year of international and domestic jaunts for her: to Heidelberg, Germany, the Panama Canal and Costa Rica, Expo 2000, Newport, R.I., and Italy. Keller did most of it with some members of the family.

The secretary received a long letter from Ellen Hunter Brumfield telling of the loss of her daughter to cancer in early 2000 and then her decision to travel with Mary Garrard Jernigan to alpine Europe. They were able to see the Passion Play.

Barbara E. West Erwin participated in the Atlanta Cancer Walk in September. She didn't try to walk the 60 miles but served food to the 400 people involved. Daughter Sally and granddaughter Robin did the walking. (Robin is a junior at Agnes Scott this year.) The event was quite an experience, one Barbara hopes to repeat.

SECRETARY
Nancy M. Lee-Riffe
406 Jackson Street
Berea, KY 40403-1746
retleeri@acs.eku.edu

Nancy Lee-Riffe spent a delightful three weeks on the road in October, visiting friends, relatives and other sights. On the way home, the last day, she had lunch with Joyce Munger Osborn and Gordon in Erie. What a treat! Joyce has been diagnosed as cancer-free after nine years and looks fine. Since Gordon retired, they do a great deal of traveling, Elderhostels, cruises and the like. They were concentrating on Florida in February.

Katharine Hefner Gross also travels extensively, including trekking through India, Nepal, Pakistan and Peru. Most recently she spent two months in Central and Eastern Europe, primarily the Republic of Georgia, traveling by Russian jeep into the remote Tulsheti Mountains and staying with families in their primitive houses, enjoying delicious food with much toasting. The class hopes she won't make travel plans that cause her to miss the 50th. Katharine continues printmaking, the work she loves.

Nancy Hall Bond and her now retired husband are building a retirement home in the Pocono Mountains. They will spend time in Texas (her roots) with daughter Lynn and family, in North Carolina with artist son John and in North Delaware with son Jeff, who has his own invisible fence business. In the last two years they have also traveled to South America, Ireland and Scotland. Nancy plays tennis and is taking up golf.

Mary Pritchett Webb lost her mother last summer. She can be contacted by e-mail: MaphWebb@cs.com.

In May, Jane Crook Cunningham joined an Elderhostel to Alaska on a small ship. She saw 17 different animals in the frozen North. In the fall, she stayed at a bed and breakfast near Culpepper, Va., once owned by her great-great-grandparents. Daughter Susan, in Columbia, S.C., won her level of tennis in the state championship. Her tennis partner is a man in a wheelchair!

After retiring last June, Judith "Judy" Promnitz Marine completed editing the manuscript of her mentor, Burney Overton, dealing with relational communication. Judy put it into book form as a tribute to him. Her retirement home in Atlanta is near her younger daughter and family, still convenient to Westminster. In November, she visited her older daughter and family in Larchmont, N.Y., before taking a long trip to Kenya and on across the Indian Ocean to parts of India, including the Taj Mahal. What a way to begin retirement!

Chor Goh Chow and David's travels have mostly involved family: visiting her brother in Vancouver and nearby parts of Canada; seeing daughter Grace with her husband and four children in New Jersey; joining her son, Ivan, and his son in Lake Placid; going to Amherst, to see more of Ivan and his family. Chor says now she'll garden and read in order to relax for a while.

Jacquelyn "Jackie" Josey Hahne hasn't had a guide dog puppy this year to raise, but is proud that a previous one has completed formal training and is matched with a blind owner. With Scout, adopted from Sheltie Rescue of Georgia, she hopes to get involved in Happy Tails, a local program in which dogs visit hospitals and nursing homes. Her youngest daughter, Nancy, recently married; Nancy's husband has provided Jackie with a 13-year-old granddaughter. Classmates can e-mail Jackie: jjhahne@earthlink.net.

Jackie reports additional news items of classmates: Harriet Durham Maloof has a pacemaker. Since her husband is a cardiologist, she must be in good hands. Patti Boring Sellas and Valley Burnett Orr did an Elderhostel to Cumberland Island, Ga.

Last spring Genevieve Guardia Chenault and Hank experienced fall in Australia and New Zealand, deliberately missing Olympic crowds. Less deliberately, they had to miss the expected three days in Fiji because of the coup there, but still had a memorable trip.

Adeline Steans Morrison had an exciting study tour of the Middle East, having been sent there as part of the PCUSA "Come and See" program. She was able to see Gaza, Bethlehem and refugee camps, meeting Palestinian Christians before the shots were fired (as Addie's group was on the Mount of Olives). Afterwards, she spent a week in Egypt. She asks that all keep the Middle East in their prayers.

In Savannah, Betty Stein Melaver, president of the Telfair Museum, is making a big difference. After much work, plans are approved to build a Moshe Safdie-designed building to house appropriately and teach contemporary art. Permits were especially difficult to obtain because it will be built within Savannah's historic district.

Fall foliage drew Kathleen Stout Mainland to Maine and North Carolina. In Maine, she traveled with the Center for Positive Aging, ate lobster, saw many lighthouses, Campobello and Kennebunkport. In Black Mountain, she was with her church's Keenagers, a senior group. She thanks God for planning colorful falls.

Caroline Reinero Kemmerer's six wonderful grandchildren keep her smiling despite her grief at the loss of her husband. Travel also is a favorite activity.

DEATHS

JoAnn "Jo" Hall Hunsinger was recognized in the Home & Garden section of The Atlanta Constitution on Nov. 30 for the redesign of her Brookwood Hills yard. Her garden's main function is as "a bird and wildlife sanctuary, with enough native plants and flowers to provide food, cover and nesting sites."

Margaret (Peggy) Bridges Maxwell is a counselor in the elementary school system of Wornsockot, R.I., promoting a peace curriculum. Her third daughter, Susan, received a full graduate fellowship at the Writers' Workshop at the University of Iowa. Another daughter, Carol, is at Evergreen State College.

Harriet Stovall Kelley judged a couple of poetry contests, an activity that is always demanding as she considers it very seriously, giving it much time and thought. This situation has been complicated by well-wishers calling and coming by with food, since her husband, Chuck, had his liver operations in the summer. He is not doing well, but is in good spirits.

Mary "Bunny" Hall Schmidt attended the Schmidt family reunion in Atlanta.

Carolyn Alford Beaty and Betty Akerman Shackleford had lunch with Ann Hoover Gulley in July. Ann was in Atlanta with her husband, Frank. They were happy to hear about Ann's family, as she was unable to come to the reunion. "Shack" (Harold) and Betty toured China in November for two and one-half weeks.

Beverly Jensen Nash's husband was a securities attorney in New York City for many years, but they have retired to the beautiful mountains of Western North Carolina. They also have a home in Alexandria, Va. One son, a graduate of Duke and Harvard, is with the attorney general's office in Washington, D.C. Beverly and Gordon took a wonderful trip to the French/Italian Rivieras and Corsica.

Louise Robinson Singleton will go to Ghana and Nigeria to do follow-ups on her Millennium Connection International Conference in August. She has completed six years and a presidency on the board of the Institute of Cultural Affairs. Louise is ready for a shift but does not know what it will be. She says, "Hello to all."

Letty Grafton Jernigan has updated her life for classmates. She was married for 20 years to John Harwell, the father of her two girls, who each have three children: one daughter lives in Memphis and the other in Selma, Ala. John died in 1975, and Letty remarried in 1983 but was divorced in 1986. She returned to Memphis and worked as a secretary for a benefit-consulting firm for 11 years. In 1995, she was very fortunate to meet Prent Jernigan, whom she married in 1997. He was retired when she met him; Letty finally retired 15 months ago and loves the experience. She is active in church and volunteer work. His hobby is golf, and she favors duplicate bridge. Thanks to Prent's daughter in North Carolina and his four grandchildren, the family has grown. After Letty's father died in February 1999, her mother moved to an assisted living facility in Virginia. She sees Lib Grafton Greer two or three times a year and wishes they lived closer.

Sandra Dickson Ballentine's son, Steve, lives in Wake Forest, N.C., with his family, which includes Sandra's four grandchildren. Sandra's plans are to continue living the happy life that she has had since her marriage weeks after graduation.

Julia Beeman's Mediterranean cruise with her daughter, Jennifer, was a true cultural smorgasbord from Istanbul to Barcelona. In Turkey, she set foot at last on the soil of her Armenian grandmother's homeland. Santorini's blue-trimmed, bougainvillea-draped white buildings were sheer delight. (Even a blue-eyed white kitten greeted them!) Rome was hot, mega-crowded and too rushed. Julia's usually firmly grounded and well-oriented offspring and she managed to get lost in Florence, briefly—an enlightening, frightening experience. She considers it a miracle she was not permanently left behind somewhere taking photographs. The ship itself was a great indulgence: no cooking or cleaning for two whole weeks, and extraordinary cuisine culminating on the final night with her all-time favorite dessert, baked Alaska. At last she no longer feels the deprivation of the untraveled.

Gwen McLeroy Adams ventured to Ireland with her son and daughter-in-law during the Christmas season. Since Gwen retired at 61 from the University of Tennessee Hospital, she has done a little ghostwriting for the hospital, helping to raise money. Physically she has a bad back and had to have eye surgery. At home, Gwen enjoys her garden. In family news, her youngest son is in Miami; her other son is in Atlanta, and her daughter, in Knoxville. Her granddaughter is a student at the University of Tennessee.

Sammie Frierson Mills and Sid spent an uneventful summer in Kansas. They will spend the winter in their beach home on South Padre Island, Texas. Their son, Bret, from Austin joined them for the holidays. Son Kirk has a home as well on the island. Sammie and Sid will return to Kansas in April. While on the island, Sammie is without her e-mail.

Joann Barrett Faillace is retired and has her 16th grandchild on the way. That is a full-time job.

This summer Beverly Watson Howie and John had an unexpected but delightful thing happen to them. While they were retreating at their summer cottage in Penobscot, Maine, they met Vivian Hays Guthrie and Shirley by total surprise at a chamber music concert on a beautiful Sunday afternoon in Blue Hill, a lovely nearby village. They managed a few good times before they left the area, including a couple of dinners together and an exciting canoe ride down the Bagaduce River. They are hoping for more such events with the Guthries and other alumnae who might be up their way. Their telephone number is 207-326-8311.

Helen "Jo" Hinchey Williams has recounted her memories of the year 2000. Among these are those associated with family, travel, alumnae activities, church events and local and international community outreach. In family she recalls receiving the news that Stef and Dave both completed the Houston Marathon, eating Mexican food with them in Houston, watching Bryan and Bryce play soccer and swim, hearing Stacy tell about winning a couple of team golf tournaments. From her wide travels, Jo remembers dancing in the street on Easter Sunday in Greece, laughing and chatting with children in Istanbul, riding a camel in Egypt. She also has fond recollections of an Agnes Scott weekend at The Cloisters in Sea Pines, Ga., of being a commissioner to the Presbyterian Church (USA) General Assembly in Long Beach, Calif., of teaching Sunday school to children for the first time in 30 years. She chaired the Committee of the Sarasota-Manatee Chapter of the UNA-USA, trying to raise $30,240 to clear a four-acre tract of land in Pakrac, Croatia, of landmines, and also planned and publicized Landmines Awareness Day in October.

Georgia Syribeys is doing well as she reads and writes poetry. A high point of her life occurs when she attends the Poetry Workshops at Callanwolde Fine Arts Center, taught by Memye Curtis Tucker '56.

Katharine "Kit" Sydnor Piephoff's news came to the secretary from the porch overlooking the Intracoastal Waterway at Kit's son and daughter-in-law's condo in Ocean Isle, N. C., and with the latest MAIN EVENTS nearby. She and her husband, Zack, have made another move, this one from Greenwood, S.C., to Mooresville, N.C., one exit up I-77 from Davidson. Their new condo is nearer their children and two granddaughters in Davidson and Charlotte.

Nancy Alexander Johnson and Pierce had a splendid summer vacation in Seattle, taking in the Cascades, Mount St. Helen's, Mount Rainier, a rain forest and Vancouver, B.C. In October they attended the wedding of Nancy's nephew in Hartford, Conn. Jean Clark Sparks and Homer were there as well, along with their daughter, Holly.

Carol Pike Foster and Gene Allen Reinero Vargas got together in 1999 in Tempe, Ariz. Gene and husband Dan live in Bogotá, Columbia; they were in this country when their daughter, Carolina Vargas Reinero '87, received her master's degree from Arizona State University.

Rebecca Fewell had a visit with Nancy Grayson in Montreal during the summer. Then she joined Sibley Robertson Veal '60 for a bike ride around Prince Edward Island. In November, "Becca" married Dan A. McRight, a Presbyterian minister, director of pastoral care education for Baptist Hospital Systems of South Florida. They live in Miami. Congratulations to the newlyweds!

For additions to reading lists, classmates should check on Valley, a book of poetry by Randy Norton Kratt published in 2000, and a color postcard book, Remembering Charlotte, University of North Carolina Press, that came out in time for Christmas. The postcard book is a collection of period postcards that reveal the fascinating story of Charlotte's past. Randy's Small Potatoes won the year's Brockman Book Prize for North Carolina. The class is proud of Randy's accomplishments.

Mary Byrd Davis and her sister, Joan Falcner Byrd '61, helped celebrate the 100th birthday of their mother, Mrs. John D. Byrd, in Hendersonville, N.C., on Dec. 2. Joan is a professor of art at Western Carolina University; Mary writes on environmental issues.

In September, Harriet "Hattie" Talmadge Mill had a visit from Delores Ann Taylor Yancey and her husband, Goodloe, as they passed through Southern Maine. Hattie said life was calm, and the hibernation season was approaching for her.

Trips to Hawaii and Italy were highlights of 2000 for Langhorne Sydnor Mauck. The trip to Italy was especially delightful, with a customized tour of Umbria led by a longtime resident of that area. When Langhorne returned from Italy, she welcomed a new grandchild, her first grandson, after four little granddaughters. She also visited Mary Jo Cowart Jenkins and Bob at their lake home in LaFollette, Tenn.

2000 has been a bang-up year for Gerald and Shirley McDonald Larkey. A month-long expedition to Antarctica and South America, a trip in early June to Alaska with 26 of their best friends from Atlanta and Lake Rabin in North Georgia and a two and one-half week trip to Central and Eastern Europe comprised the itinerary. Coincidentally, Margaret Woolfolk Webb and her husband, Glenn, from Bakersfield, Calif., were on the European trip. Shirley says that now they plan to stay home and spend time with their year-old grandson as they wait for another grandchild scheduled to arrive in early May.

Suzie Ware McGinty and her husband, Ray, left the day after his retirement on Sept. 30 to move across country to Georgia. They are now at Reynolds Plantation, Greensboro, Ga., and love it.

Learning to read Hebrew, taking an art course and playing with her 2-year-old granddaughter take Marilyn Tribble Wittner's time since she retired, but she still fits in a little consulting work on the side. Her husband, Harvey, is also enjoying his retirement and spent 28 wonderful days in China during the summer.

Anne McWhorter Butler is in Jacksonville, Fla., for the winter months and is very happy to have that option in view of the cold winter St. Louis has had.

Eve Purdom Ingle and Clyde's son, Brian, was married on Sept. 14 in Brooklyn, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by Helen Mabry Beglin. Brian is an actuary in New York City; his bride, Juliet, a graduate student at New York University.

On July 15, Suellen Beverly Wilson's son, Christian Hamler, married Celeste Chavez. Their wedding was performed by Helen Mabry Beglin.

Marion Barry Mayes and Frank retired in Beaufort, S.C., in January 2000. Frank, a Presbyterian minister, is working two days a week doing pastoral care and occasional preaching at the First Presbyterian in Beaufort. He grew up in this church, and his father was pastor there for 25 years. Marion is eagerly learning about the environment and wildlife in her new area. She has become involved as well in programs for the arts, outdoor recreation and continuing education through the University of South Carolina. Her sons are in North Carolina: John, in Charlotte; David and wife, Sally, in Wilmington.

After attending the reunion in April, Celia Crook Richardson is sure she doesn't want to miss another one. Both retired, she and her husband, Jimmy, participate in church activities, golf, skiing and hiking. Celia's most rewarding volunteer work is visiting a local nursing home and cancer center twice a week with her therapy dog, Nicholas. Her daughter and family, including two grandchildren, live near Philadelphia. Her older son and his wife are both employed at the Los Alamos National Labs. Their home narrowly escaped damage during the May 2000 forest fires near Los Alamos. Celia's youngest son, a doctor in Denver, was married in June 2000.

Another retiree is Carolyn Hoskins Coffman, after 22 years of teaching computer skills in a middle school. She is occupied now with church work, visiting her children in Panama City, Richmond and Washington, D.C., and patronizing local museum exhibits.

Eileen McCary Cline's literary output includes a book, short stories and articles for a West Virginia newspaper. In addition, she has done research and written analyses for a military advocacy group in Alexandria, Va. She also works part time in an American arts and crafts gallery. On her 62nd birthday, she married Alton Donald Smith ("Smitty"), with a two-months' honeymoon in Europe. They both love to travel and are planning to spend a month in Italy in 2001. Utilizing Smitty's detailed travel journals, Eileen is considering writing a book or short stories about their adventures. Their new extended family includes children and grandchildren from Las Vegas to Pennsylvania.

In December, Rebecca "Becky" Wilson Guberman began working at The High Museum in Atlanta as director of development for individual gifts. During her eight years in a similar position for the Atlanta Opera, Becky directed a successful campaign to raise $6 million for the organization. Her fourth grandchild, Robert, celebrated his first birthday.

The biggest event of recent years for Hope Gregg Spillane was the wedding of her daughter, Elizabeth Page, to Raymond L. Gardner Jr. on Sept.11, 1999. They live in Knoxville; and Hope enjoys visiting them when she gets a chance, which isn't often. She is teaching English to seniors in high school and serving as vice president for programs for the South Carolina Council of Teachers of English (SCCTE). Gregg is home now, having completed his degree at the University of South Carolina; but, unfortunately, the muscular dystrophy prevents him from living as independently as he would like. He spends much time communicating on the Internet, a real lifeline to the outside world for him. Hope's mother, now 92, is actively living on her own in Louisiana.

Mary Beth Thomas retired from the University of North Carolina as a professor.

Nancy Duvall Hargrove, a veteran English professor at Mississippi State, has been recognized for outstanding classroom teaching by the national Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and Council for Advancement and Support of Education. She is among 44 winners selected from a total of more than 470 nominations and is the third MSU professor in the past five years to receive the honor. She specializes in 20th-century British and American literature and is the author of two books, Landscape as Symbol in the Poetry of T.S. Eliot and The Journey Toward Ariel: Sylvia Plath's Poetry of 1946-1959. She is currently working on a third book, also about Eliot. In addition, since joining the MSU faculty in 1970, Hargrove has received numerous awards. Among those were the Outstanding University Honors Program Faculty Award, John Grisham Master Teacher Award, MSU Alumni Association Outstanding Teacher Award and Outstanding Humanist Award. Her scholarly work resulted in four national J. William Fulbright grants, including two teaching and research stints in France and one each to Belgium and Sweden.

Betsy Schenck Kylstra and her husband continue to conduct counseling ministry seminars and to oversee a network of Healing Houses for people needing a week of counseling. They have traveled to Canada, Barbados and England in connection with their work. Betsy's children are doing well: son

James is a doctor in San Francisco; son Lewis teaches at the University of New Hampshire.

Sally Bergstrom Jackson and Charles have returned to Savannah, Ga. Sally's e-mail address is sallyjac@mindspring.com.

Doris Bray Gill has retired after 34 years of teaching but still substitutes occasionally. She works part time as a store co-manager. Doris is the proud grandmother of Keaton Elizabeth Henderson, born Jan. 23. She is also the organist at her church, a member of the local Kiwanis and caretaker of her Tennessee walking horse. She would love to hear from classmates.

Mary Ann Gregory Dean has turned in the gavel as president of the Orlando Rotary Club, but she did get to travel to the Rotary International Convention in Buenos Aires, where she put her Spanish to good use. She often sees Nell Tabor Hartley at Nell and Tom's new Orlando home. Mary Ann's son, Patrick, will marry in Seattle in April and will also complete medical school. Her other son, Greg, lives close by in Florida. Mary Ann can be reached on e-mail at merrann@aol.com.

Elizabeth Thomas Freyer and husband Fred enjoy their grandchildren, Kendall, 3, and Thomas, 1. The Freyers have moved permanently to St. Simons Island, where they built a house.

Sara Ector Vagliano is having a marvelous experience as chair of the ASC Board's Academic Affairs Committee and as a member of the Comprehensive Campaign Steering Committee. She has found working with Frances "Frannie" Bailey Graves and Rebecca "Becky" Bruce Jones to be extremely satisfying. Sally assures us that the Class of '63 is doing its best for the future of the College. Sally and Alec purchased a medieval house in the south of France that she describes as "a doll house for the aging." She is very proud of her son, David Via, who writes a weekly theatre column for The Washington Post.

Nell Tabor Hartley sent the "Hartley Y2K Report." Nell and Tom have purchased a house in Orlando, where Tom now works for Morris Architects. They still have their home in Sewickley, and Nell continues to enjoy her duties at Robert Morris College, as director of the corporate education program. Daughter Britt works at the U.S. Airways Club in Pittsburgh. Her son, Robert, will complete his M.B.A. studies in August and has continued with the photography business he founded as a college freshman. Robert's wife, Barbara, is also an M.B.A. candidate while she does marketing work for an Orlando radio station.

Kathryn Mobley Ridlehoover has become a golf expert, coming in first several times in state competitions in Arizona. She and Ted visit family and grandchildren in Maryland and Georgia. Kathryn writes poetry and children's stories for the grandchildren. Moreover, she plays bridge on the Internet MSN's Zone under the name "azpeach1." She would like to play with some Scotties.

Cornelia Bryant traveled to Sicily in mid-November for two weeks on a tour organized by the Smithsonian. She pronounced Sicily a most incredible place and definitely worth a return trip. The itinerary included Palermo, Agrigento, Syracuse, Catania, Messina and Taormina.

Mary "Mac" Mitchell Saunders quit a job she never liked, effective Dec.31, and hopes "to laze around."

Becky Miller Howard teaches calculus and differential equations at Roane State Community College, and is past president of the Tennessee Math Association of Two-Year Colleges. Daughter Susan is a veterinarian; and son Peter, a post-doctoral student in applied mathematics at the Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences, New York University.

Susan Richards Allen is studying for a second master's, this time in ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages), at the University of Maryland. She finds that "going to school full time was easier at ASC—no meals to cook, laundry to do, house to clean." In addition to school, Susan plays the organ and works with choirs. Husband Bob is business manager at St. John Newman Catholic Church, Gaithersburg, Md., as well as a Catholic deacon. They have three grown sons.

Barbara White Frederic and husband George do much traveling, frequently to Atlanta to see toddler granddaughter, Tori. Thanks to the ASC Bed and Breakfast Exchange, they stayed with Sally Pockel Harper '65 in the Boston area on their way to a cruise to Quebec in September. At home in Incline Village, Nev., they are members of a hiking club and regularly hike 8-10 miles on trails at elevations between 7,500 and 9,700 feet! They are also involved in the local Young Life organization.

Anne Foster Curtis says fall was a "season of homecomings." Anne herself has a new address in Chattanooga, Tenn., and daughter Polly has moved from California to Black Mountain, N.C. While visiting Polly, Anne spent time with Maggie Whitton Ray and Tom, and with Georgia Gillis Herring '65 and her husband.

Victoria Mell Laird Ackerman lives in Grosse Point, Mich., a suburb of Detroit, and is a professor of mathematics at Macomb Community College. Her husband, Hank, works for Associated Press in New York, so they have a commuter marriage. Their son and daughter reside in Atlanta.

Pam Stanley McCaslin retired from teaching learning-disabled children and now owns an antiques business while serving as organist/choirmaster at St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Savannah, Ga. She and Jay have been married 38 years and have twins: Jay VI, who is in dental practice with his father, and Jennifer McCaslin Lobel '89, who lives in Atlanta and who has provided her parents with two grandchildren. Pam plays keyboard for an informal group called the Crabettes, who, prior to Pam's membership, used to perform wearing live crabs on their hats!

Mary Jo Beverly Limbird and Glenn retired to North Carolina last spring, where they have worked on the house and the yard, helped Mary Jo's parents during her mother's recovery from knee-replacement surgery, assisted Habitat for Humanity and joined a church. There, Glenn is an usher, and Mary Jo sings in the choir and serves on the Christian Education committee. In spare time, Mary Jo has been substitute teaching in special education classes; Glenn has been remodeling a rental house in preparation for selling it. They wonder what retirement is like! Sons Mark and Jonathan live in the house in Loomis, Calif., doing some repairs before putting it on the market.

Secretary Mary Womack Cox is busier than she has ever been in her life. (The Web site for the Diocese of Southeast Florida, www.diosef.org, lists some of the events that keep her so busy.) As diocesan communications officer, she attended the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in Denver last summer and became a cover girl. After she was photographed greeting a friend in front of the photo mural that was one of the visual symbols of the convention, the picture turned up on the cover of The Living Church, a national weekly Episcopalian magazine. The secretary prefers to be behind the camera, but the episode did amuse her family and friends.

She appreciates the help given her on her dissertation by Catherine Heffernan, who was advisor to nontraditional students at ASC. After graduation, Jinna spent the weekend with Barbara Beischer Knight and Bernie at their cottage in Highlands, N.C. In addition, she reports a new grandchild, Chelsea Michelle Taylor, born at 9:22 p.m. on Nov. 27 to Chuck and Ginny Taylor, in McDonough, Ga. Chelsea weighed 6 lbs., 10 oz., and was 19 inches in length. Chuck and Ginny are both doing well. Jinna likes being a grandmother.

Barbara Bowers Kendrick-Holmes and her husband, Charles, have operated a Christian Training Center in Alabama for the past 26 years. This center offers Bible study for college students, a high school work-study program and a summer camp for first- to ninth-graders. Barbara and Charles have three children and four grandchildren. One son is a newspaper editor in Clarksville, Tenn., another, a football coach at The Citadel; their daughter teaches second grade in Lexington, S.C. While visiting her daughter, Barbara enjoyed seeing Sarah Timmons Gladden.

Margaret Smith Sollars is a criminal defense attorney in the New Orleans area. In 1999, she succeeded in getting a conviction overturned when DNA evidence was tested. Her client had been in jail for over 20 years. Last year Margaret and her client were the subjects of a Frontline (PBS) show. She is hopeful that a movement in Louisiana to have all convicted felons supply DNA samples will free other innocent people.

Elaine Nelson Bonner's daughter, Beth, is working at an orphanage in Hetauda, Nepal, with Helps International Ministries. Her duties include teaching English, doing accounting for the orphanage, teaching money management and beginning a cottage industry for women.

Ann Durrance Snead, Elaine Nelson Bonner and Sandra Barnwell Christmann and their husbands (all named Tom!) got together in Asheville, N.C. in July. They had a rousing time at a restaurant downtown and an Irish pub.

Laurie and Jason met at Georgetown and survived being apart for two years while Laurie served in the Peace Corps in Africa.

Hope Gazes Grayson is a field director on the Board of Directors of the American Medical Association Alliance. She serves as first vice president and artistic liaison of the Footlight Players in Charleston. Her son, Clay, is in law school at the University of South Carolina; son Peter, at the Medical University of South Carolina; and daughter Athena, a sophomore at Florida State.

Last summer, Janet Pfohl Brooks was in Williamsburg writing curriculum for the Williamsburg Foundation. She attended Bruton Parish Church and heard Mollie LaRoche Douglas preach. Her son, Chuck, was temporarily stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., after graduating from West Point. He joined Carol Crosby Harvey's church and helped with the youth group there. She and her family spent Christmas together on a Caribbean cruise. They were happy to be bonding for a week in anticipation of 2001, when they would be in far-flung places: Chuck in Alaska for three years; Elaine (a junior at Cornell) spending a semester at the University of Sydney, Australia; and son Steve attending Florida Tech in Melbourne, Fla., studying marine biology. Janet and her husband are in Baldwinsville, N.Y., working and paying the bills.

Marilyn Norris Wootton and her husband, David Shivers, have relocated in Kingstree, S.C., where Norris is director of the Williamsburg County Library. Norris most recently supervised learning resources at Griffin Technical College, but says that she had long wanted to get back to the public library environment. David is editor of the Weekly Observer in Hemingway, S.C.

Barbara Kinney has had a job change, becoming the school attendance coordinator for Murray County Schools in Georgia. She writes that schools are combating incredibly poor attendance on all fronts: personal contacts, legal action, as well as changes in policy and procedure. She would like to hear any suggestions to confront this problem successfully.

Martha Cotter Oldham's son Eric is writing his thesis to complete a master's degree in English in May at UNC-Wilmington. Their older son, Charles, finished law school at the University of Georgia last May and is practicing with a firm in the Sanford, N.C., area. She and her husband, Charles, are happy to have him nearby. Charles retired from teaching economics at Fayetteville (N.C.) Community College two years ago and is now a general contractor, building homes in Sanford. Martha has also retired from part-time teaching of math at the local community college to help Charles with his new career and to spend more time with their parents. She still does quite a bit of private math tutoring.

Cathy DuVall Vogel had lunch with Nancy Rhodes McCrummen in Mobile in October, while on a trip to visit husband Steve's mother. After lunch, they took a tour of the Immaculate Conception Cathedral just across the square from the restaurant. They had "a lovely afternoon."

After heading her own public relations agency in Atlanta, Joanne DeLavan Reichardt was lured back into corporate America to become director of external relations for Randstad North America, a position which takes her from Senate offices on Capitol Hill to newsrooms and executive offices around the world.

Tammi DeVore's younger son, Taylor, who began his freshman year at the University of Washington this past fall, enjoys his studies, as well as the view from his dorm window of the Cascades and Mount Washington. Even with her job as director of product marketing for McKesson HBOC, Tammi remains dedicated to working with Canine Companions for Independence and is busy training her second dog.

Susan McLarin Caffery passed the exam certifying her as a licensed professional counselor in Texas. This step allows Susan to have her own private practice in addition to being a school counselor.

Della McMillan continued her work with colleagues in seven East African countries, spending last spring visiting Eritrea, Ethiopia and Kenya. Della, her husband, David, and daughter, Jane, enjoyed a month in Chamonix, France, where her daughter attended a French public school. In conjunction with Africare, Della participated in a three-week trip to Chad and Mali. When not traveling with his wife, David is professor of mathematics at the University of Florida. Della also works for the university in the research area with the anthropology department, and Jane is in second grade.

Susan Landham Carson and Steve's daughter, Cathi, has graduated from UGA magna cum laude with a degree in business administration concentrating in finance. Cathi is a financial analyst for Delta Airlines. Susan's older daughter completed her studies at Auburn in 1999 and is employed by Colgate-Palmolive, in Smyrna, Ga.

Since the reunion in spring, Charlotte Gillis has braved lightning storms, rain, heat, blisters, not to mention port-a-potties, to complete the Avon 3-Day Breast Cancer Walk (60+miles) from Lake Lanier to Piedmont Park. Well done, Charlotte!

In October, Constance "Connie" Bowen Hart had the pleasure of meeting with Susannah Stevens Pitman at her vacation home in New Hampshire for a memorable weekend to rest and refresh. It sounds heavenly.

Knight Webb Upchurch and her husband, Michael, have three children: Mary, who is 14; Richard, 13; and Carolyn, 10. Knight is busy but manages to volunteer at St. Paul's, where Mary and Richard are enrolled, as well as at Austin Elementary, Carolyn's school. They are all good students.

Sharon Pittman Powell and Steve remain in the Nashville, Tenn., area (13 years now) with their daughters, Leigh, 17, and Taylor, 14. Sharon is working part time for a local retirement facility in an Alzheimer's unit. Steve is the director of the Nashville Office for Community Tectonics based in Knoxville. Leigh is a high school junior, and Taylor is in eighth grade. Last fall, the Pittmans enjoyed a weekend in Atlanta, visiting both ASC and Georgia Tech for Leigh's consideration. They were all impressed with the work done on the campus. As Anne Hodges mentioned in her president's letter, the observatory is great and the dining hall (and food), wonderful. Sharon wants to go back to see the completed campus center and library.

Paige Patton Edwards and family are very busy. Paige is an application developer at IBM. Her husband, Wayne, works in marketing at AT&T. Their daughters are active in sports: Lindsey, 15, a cross-country runner; and Lauren, 12, a select soccer enthusiast. Last September, Paige walked 60 miles in the Avon Breast Cancer 3-Day Walk. She found it "an inspiring adventure and an awesome experience." The group passed by the corner of the ASC Campus during the trek from Lake Lanier to Piedmont Park.

Cindy Peters directs enrollment services for the Nicholas School of the Environment at Duke University. She is involved primarily with graduate students, doing recruiting, admissions, student records, progress towards degree, graduation and degree certification, etc. The Nicholas School has about 200 graduate students in professional programs with concentrations in things like resource economics and coastal and environmental management. Kathryn Deane Chambless is keeping busy after the birth of her second child, Zachary. She reports that her daughter, Abby, is adjusting and is helping out—as much as a 2-year-old can!

Deborah Erb Manigault left the Center for a New American Dream in mid-October to accept a position with the Montgomery County Human Relations Commission. She works to enforce local civil rights laws in Montgomery County, Md., investigating complaints of discrimination in employment, public accommodations, real estate and racial/religious intimidation. Deb is truly enjoying working in the civil rights/justice/peace arena again.

Sarah Napier married Rob Baum in September. Sarah Jewett, Karen McNay Bauerle '92 and Nica Poser Moreau '90 were in attendance. Sarah continues to work on her doctoral degree in education at Harvard while teaching at the Fayerweather Street School in Cambridge.

Kimberly Osias has accepted a reporting and fill-in anchor position with the ABC-affiliate station in Birmingham, Ala.

Louisa Parker Mattozzi is studying and completing research in Italy as a Fulbright scholar. Her husband, Michael, accepted a new position with GlobalOne, a subsidiary of France Telecom. Sarah Crane and Scott Mitchell Nichols were married Feb. 5, 2000, in St. Bede's Episcopal Church, St. Petersburg, Fla. In attendance was Leigh Bennett-Conner '92. For their honeymoon, the couple toured Great Britain. They have purchased a home and reside in Madeira Beach, Fla. Sarah is working on her master's degree, playing hand bells with the church and working for Honeywell.

Laura Perry Bates completed the Avon Breast Cancer Walk. It was grueling, but the women she met were amazing. In October, she represented her company by speaking at a conference in Barbados.

Anita Pressley was promoted in her job with the Southern Company. She is in charge of strategic management and contracts for coal purchased for Georgia Power and Savannah Electric. Anita is also working towards a master's degree in theological studies. She went on a retreat at Our Lady of the Angels Monastery and spent five days there with Trappist nuns.

Michele Moses Lackey reports that she and her new husband, Craig, have moved to Dallas, Texas.

Hillary Soper Strong and her family went to Providence, R.I., where her daughter, Katilyn, competed in a cheering competition for New England.

Teresa Ramirez Dore and Greg are busy with their children and their church. They took a trip in November to Baltimore, Md., to visit Greg's grandmother. While there they visited the National Aquarium and stopped at the North Carolina Zoo on the way home.

Wendy Worthy Robertet traveled to Budapest for a conference. She spent a few days in Paris on her way to and from Budapest.

Julianna "Kris" Jones Tenny-Brittian is senior pastor at a congregation on the east side of Seattle. The new pastorate necessitated another move: the third in two and one-half years, the second in eight months. The new home is a lovely one, complete with a hot tub in the back porch and quite conducive to Christmas decorating. Kris is also a member of the third leadership group of the Bethany Project, seeking to initiate and support congregational revitalization through prayer and fellowship. She is co-facilitating the Project's Bethany Fellowship.

Erin Gaston interprets for the State Department. In that capacity she went on a month-long trip with a group of Latin American journalists meeting with the U.S. media. Moreover, she interpreted on the floor of the United Nations' General Assembly and has a photo with Kofi Annan to prove it.

Jennifer "Jenny" Brand Gruber received her professional certification as a senior professional in human resources through the Society for Human Resources Management. The certification involved months of studying followed by a cumulative examination on the body of professional knowledge in human resources. Jenny is a human resources division manager with Intertec Publishing. She and Alan are content on their farm and are the happy "parents" of numerous cows, goats and even a flock of ducks! Now that the testing and studying are over, Jenny is looking forward to spending more time with her Scottie friends and asks classmates to call her if they are ever in the Atlanta/Acworth area.

Katie Pattillo Fisher traveled to Cleveland, Ohio, for the Association of Science and Technology Centers Conference. She presented a workshop on integrating minority youth into science center culture. While in Cleveland, Katie visited the zoo and the science center.

Kim Lamkin Drew's parents and brother moved back to Atlanta.

Jean Wilson Tate spent some time at the Cloisters on Sea Island while she worked at a conference held by the Atlanta Fed in October. Her son, Alex, loved playing in the sand. Also in October, she relaxed at St. Simons Island, and Alex went to his first college football game. Julia Davidson Bellamy and her husband, Dave, visited Jean and her family after Thanksgiving and attended the Georgia/Georgia Tech game in Athens.

Kim Maleski Swaak and her husband, Ewoud, flew to South Africa over the summer to build houses for Habitat for Humanity in Cape Town. They were there for a week and one-half in a township and built two houses. Kim hauled bricks, mixed cement and got blisters and sore muscles. She found South Africa breathtakingly beautiful, despite the hardships experienced by many of its people. She spent Christmas with her family in Tennessee.

Jennifer Burger is surviving the snow in Ann Arbor, where she's doing her internship in dermatology. In September, she visited with her godson, Alex Tate (who gets his good looks from his godmother) and his mother, Jean. She saw Laura Brown Young and her new daughter, Madeline, in October. Then for Christmas she went to Albany to spend that time with her family.

AGNES SCOTT

Davidson Anthropologist Selected Dean of the College

ROSEMARY ZUMWALT CITED FOR 'BROAD INTELLECTUAL PERSPECTIVE'

In choosing Rosemary Lévy Zumwalt as vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college, Agnes Scott College has brought home an intrepid traveler and devoted teacher.

Born in Decatur, Zumwalt was an infant when her family moved to California. She earned her master's and doctorate degrees from the University of California at Berkeley. Since 1983, Zumwalt has served on the faculty of Davidson College in North Carolina, and was the first woman to hold the highest elected faculty position, vice chair pro tem. She begins work at Agnes Scott July 1.

A cultural anthropologist and folklorist, she has researched extensively the role of Sephardic women, culminating in a book written with her husband, Isaac Jack Lévy, titled Ritual Medical Lore of Sephardic Women: Sweetening the Spirits, Healing the Sick.

Zumwalt applauds Agnes Scott's emphasis on global learning, language across the curriculum, and the College's commitment to maintaining a low student-teacher ratio.

"I'm an anthropologist and a folklorist, so the notion of global connections is just part of my orientation," she said. "I think it's crucial in terms of educating young people and keeping ourselves in tune with the world.

"It awakens an appetite for travel and for experience that goes with you throughout life," she said. As a teenager, Zumwalt first dove into world travel as a member of a synchronized swim team touring Europe. As an adult, fieldwork has taken her to Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Israel, Alaska, Sri Lanka and Western Europe. Her favorite destination so far has been India, because the culture is so different from our own.

"It's impossible to react in a neutral fashion to India," she said. "Everything to me in India was so much brighter, smelled stronger—both sweet fragrances, and perhaps not so sweet fragrances if you were there during the torrential downpours and the festival seasons . . . everything was just vivid. I loved that—the vividness and the intensity and the interpersonal relations. People always had time for people, and there was never the rush that we have constantly."

Agnes Scott College President Mary Brown Bullock '66 said Zumwalt's demonstrated scholarship and experience as a faculty leader make her an excellent choice for dean of the college.

"As a folklorist and anthropologist who works with texts, literary and historical traditions, she is inherently interdisciplinary in her teaching and scholarship," Bullock said. "This broad intellectual perspective provides a wonderful foundation for leading the academic programs at Agnes Scott College."

Zumwalt's published work is wide-ranging and she has received several national fellowships, including recognition as a John Simon Guggenheim Fellow and a Mellon Resident Research Fellow. She has also received numerous grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Zumwalt looks forward to seeing how a women's college shapes its students. "I've been very interested about this notion of women finding their voice," she said. "I know that I myself was one of those students who frustrate me now, who sit in the classroom and don't respond—they listen, they take notes. You don't learn about your star students until you've graded the mid-terms, and often they're the ones who don't talk. I think that for many young women, it's really important for them to have a space where they can find their voice and gain a sense of self," she said. She believes the College is reaching that goal, based on her interviews on campus and conversations with alumnae.

"They're remarkable women," she said.

College Breaks Ground on Science Building

FACILITY TO FEATURE ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY

The construction crews and mounds of dirt seen so often on the north side of campus in the last three years have migrated slightly southward, as the College broke ground on its new science building on E. Dougherty Street in March. The College's $36.5-million 115,000-square-foot integrated science building will provide advanced technology and research space in support of Agnes Scott's science program. The March groundbreaking ceremony was held on the site of the tennis courts, which are being relocated to provide space for the science building.

"The new facility will provide 'villages' of specialized facilities for chemistry, biology, physics and psychology as well as many shared facilities where we will regularly come together for interdisciplinary teaching and research," said Sandra Bowden, Dana Professor of Biology and shepherd of the science building project.

The new building will include a suite for electron and light microscopes; an attached greenhouse for ecology, environmental and plant science; learning centers on two floors where students can gather informally; a central atrium open to the top of the building; and spaces where research results can be displayed and discussed.

Construction is expected to be complete in 2003.

Smith Family Gift Provides Chapel

JULIA T. SMITH CHAPEL TO BE BUILT NEAR ALSTON CAMPUS CENTER

The Hal and John Smith Family Foundation of Atlanta has announced a gift to provide a freestanding chapel for the College. The Julia T. Smith Chapel will honor Julia Thompson Smith '31, a Phi Beta Kappa English major and former Alumnae Association board member. Mrs. Smith was the wife of Hal Smith; their son is John E. Smith II.

"The trustees of the Hal and John Smith Foundation are very excited and pleased about this gift to Agnes Scott College and the memorial it provides to Julia T. Smith," said John E. Smith II as he announced the news on behalf of his father to a small assembly of former College trustees. Also on hand from Richmond, Va., was Anne Thompson Rose '38, Julia Smith's sister.

The family previously created the Julia Thompson Smith chaplaincy, which provides for an on-campus minister (currently the Rev. Dr. Laura Sugg), and the Smith Chair of Free Enterprise. Hal Smith is a trustee emeritus who joined the Board in 1952. He was chairperson from 1956 to 1973 and continued as a trustee until 1977. John Smith is also a former trustee.

John Smith said his father believes the promise of a chapel in Mrs. Smith's honor continues the legacy of faith for which she was known.

"The Smith family's gift will provide a place of beauty, reflection and worship for generations of students to come," said President Mary Brown Bullock '66. "I applaud their faith and generosity."

The College's former place of worship, Thatcher Chapel, was housed within the old campus center that was demolished in 1999 to make room for the new Alston Campus Center. Planning for the new chapel (to be located near the new campus center and the amphitheatre) has already begun. The College is in the process of selecting an architectural firm and the chapel is expected to be completed in 2003.

The Power of Memory

In April, I attended my sixth reunion as president of Agnes Scott College, and celebrated once again with my own class, the class of 1966. The weather was spectacular, and the new buildings and renovated landscape sparkled. The new schedule introduced by the Alumnae Association was a huge success, featuring an outstanding alumnae panel on "Ethical Dilemmas in a High Tech World," a panel of both alumnae and student writers on Friday afternoon, and even a mimosa brunch on Saturday morning! One of the featured writers was Helen Blackshear '31, Alabama Poet Laureate, celebrating her 70th reunion.

For those of you who could not attend, I present a poem she read, written long ago, "Reunion" (from her book Along Alabama Roads, 1982):

Go back? To what reunion would I go
When I have with me all that
I hold dear
Of college days? The slow growth of each year
Is part of me. The blue, soft glow
Of lamps on misty nights, the rich, low
Chords of benediction—they are near Me often. And my friends? I still can hear
Their voices, feel their hands, and see them. Oh,
How can you think to see them now would bring Them closer, or can ever bring again
Those long, long talks, that trembling joy in Spring
The bitter hurt, the tramping in the rain,
World-saving visions? None of these remain.
There's no reunion but remembering.

Remembering is very much what Agnes Scott reunions are all about. And, although Helen's poem captures the inner persistence of Agnes Scott memories, the impossibility of replicating our college years, I have seen the collective power of communal memory.

Watching generations of alumnae return to this hallowed place, I have witnessed Gaines Chapel serve as the touchstone of transformative memory, transformative friendships and transformative education. It is there that we remember together the metamorphosis of our early adult personal identities—the awkwardness, the aspirations, the friendships, the intensity, the excitement of learning, and yes, the fear of failure. It is on the occasion of these reunions—our first, our 10th, 25th, 50th—that we benchmark our lives—marriages, births, advanced degrees, jobs, aging parents, illness and deaths. We do so within the communal friendship of those who have grown apace with us.

It is then that we are reminded of our youthful "world-changing visions." And are encouraged, once again, to continue to seek, and often find, a wellspring of personal courage and conviction to continue our multiple personal re-inventions, with the support and in the safety of Agnes Scott's " sheltering arms." And we return renewed to our families, our professions and our communities, and once again set about our daily lives. We will continue not only our own transformative process, but the myriad ways in which we, as women, transform others.

Such is the power of an Agnes Scott College education and of an Agnes Scott College reunion.

NEWS BRIEFS

Media Turn to Bullock for China Commentary

During a tense 11 days in April when China detained an American navy crew, President Mary Brown Bullock '66 appeared often on national news as an expert on Asian history, culture and politics.

Bullock's appearances include two guest slots on NBC's "Today," an interview with Natalie Allen on "CNN Live Today," a spot on MSNBC's "Hardball" with Chris Matthews, and several appearances on CNN's news reports.

The spy plane incident involved a collision between an American surveillance plane and a Chinese fighter jet. Bullock fielded questions ranging from how the incident would affect China's admission to the World Trade Organization to how diplomacy works to resolve conflict with the least amount of damage.

ASC Junior Named Goldwater Scholar

Adeline Ashmore '02 of Portsmouth, R.I., was named one of only seven Georgia college students in 2001 to receive a Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship.

Ashmore has just completed her junior year at Agnes Scott College majoring in biochemistry and molecular biology. She intends to pursue a doctorate in evolutionary biology and conduct research on the evolution of disease. She is Agnes Scott's fourth Goldwater scholar, with the most recent awards given to two students in the 1998-1999 academic year.

Since the foundation was established in 1986 to honor the Republican senator from Arizona, the Goldwater awards have promoted study in mathematics, science and engineering. This year, 302 students from a field of 1164 were selected on the basis of academic merit; the pool included nominations from more than 500 colleges. The scholarship carries an award of up to $7,500 per year.

Goldwater Scholars typically go on to even greater academic accomplishments. In the past eight years, 31 have been selected as Rhodes Scholars and 25 have been awarded Marshall Scholarships. Other awards received by these students include the Fulbright and National Science Foundation Fellowships.

ASC Student Involved in Astronomical Discovery

Because of her involvement in a remarkable fluke discovery last summer, Agnes Scott rising senior Ashley Zauderer '02 spent this year's spring break at the Very Large Array (VLA), a Y-shaped collection of giant radio telescopes in Socorro, N.M. (where parts of the1997 Jodie Foster move Contact were filmed).

Zauderer was part of a 14-student team project at the Very Large Array to observe a brown dwarf, an object that is something between a star and a planet. Long suspected to exist, the first brown dwarf was not visually identified until 1995. The student study marked the first time one has been identified by radio emission.

The college team of mostly undergraduates caught a glimpse of something no one expected: a flare of radio light, suggesting that brown dwarfs behave very differently than previously thought. The research paper discussing the phenomenon was published in the science journal Nature in March.

"This blows all the theories out about what's expected in brown dwarfs," Zauderer said. With only three hours of viewing time allotted, students weren't expecting major findings. They were just learning about the method and how to process what they gathered. At first they thought they had made a mistake in processing the data, Zauderer said.

"The radio emission these students discovered coming from this brown dwarf is 10,000 times stronger than anyone expected," said astronomer Dale Frail, co-author of the Nature research paper. "This student project is going to open up a whole new area of research for the VLA."

SCAD Dedicates Pepe Hall

The Savannah College of Art and Design (SCAD) dedicated Pepe Hall in April in honor of Charles W. and Marie H. Pepe. Mrs. Pepe is an Agnes Scott professor emerita of art, having taught at the College from 1951 to 1986. She was the first Charles A. Dana Professor at the College and served as chair of the art department.

Mr. and Mrs. Pepe both have served as trustees on the SCAD board.

Pepe Hall is a two-story Mediterranean Revival-style building that houses art history and architectural history classrooms.

The "Ginny Fund"

The investments class at Agnes Scott College is fortunate to have some "real money" at its disposal to invest in the market. In 1996, Carl Beck established a fund for the College to be used as a teaching tool for Economics 210 students. The gift was in honor of his late wife, Virginia Beck, and is named the "Ginny Fund." Although the fund performed extremely well during its first three years, this year was a tough one for the Ginny Fund. From the end of April 2000 to end of April 2001, the fund lost approximately 6 percent of its value. The good news is that this performance was better than that of the S&P 500, which lost 14 percent. "Mr. Beck's generous gift has been a wonderful teaching tool," said Rosemary Cunningham, professor of economics.

Board Elects Two New Trustees

J. Phillips Noble Jr. and Mildred L. Petty '61 were elected to serve on the Board of Trustees at the Board's May meeting. Noble is a political and public affairs consultant and founder of PoliticsOnline, the premier international company providing fundraising and Internet tools for politics. Petty is a community volunteer and former assistant dean of the faculty and instructor in history at the College.

Board Chairperson Joseph R. Gladden Jr., J. Wallace Daniel, Kathleen B. Ashe '68 and Sally A. Skardon '70 were re-elected to new terms of service on the Board.

By special resolutions, the Board expressed gratitude to George S. Branch, Kay L. Krill '77 and Susan C. Lowance '55, whose terms conclude June 30, and to W.G. (Guy) Tittle, who ended active service on the Board earlier this year.

162 Graduate at 112th Commencement

FORMER FIRST LADY OF EGYPT ADDRESSES CLASS OF 2001

Agnes Scott College awarded 154 baccalaureate degrees and eight diplomas for master of arts in teaching secondary English at its 112th commencement exercises in May. Of the bachelor's graduates, eight were summa cum laude, 19 were designated magna cum laude and another 24 received cum laude recognition. Seven students graduated with honor.

Jehan Sadat, widow of former Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, addressed graduates, family and friends in an outdoor ceremony held beneath Presser Quadrangle's spreading magnolias.

Sadat has been an advocate of women's rights to an education, to working outside the home and to political participation. She established the Talla Society, a women's emancipation movement, and is a scholar of Arabic literature. She is a professor at the University of Maryland.

Plans for the Class of 2001 include: Peace Corps duty in Uzbekistan, law school, medical school and graduate studies in public policy, architecture, education, English and Middle Eastern studies. Others will begin careers in journalism, finance, architecture and teaching. Graduates have accepted positions at the U.S. Department of Justice, Salomon Smith Barney, a regional hospital, and corporations in Belgium and Germany, among others.

Sadat Tells Graduates of the Importance of Faith

PEACE ACCORD BETWEEN ISRAEL AND EGYPT CITED

In her address to the Class of 2001, Jehan Sadat said intelligence is not a virtue until guided by faith and courage.

"Knowledge is not in short supply," she said. "But knowledge without faith is an empty vessel—without direction, without purpose." Sadat emphasized the importance of family and principle—and parents' roles in the years leading to commencement day. "They are the foundations of who you are and what you will become.

"Conviction can change the course of history," Sadat said, holding up the examples of Gandhi, Nelson Mandela, Mother Teresa, Martin Luther King Jr., and her husband, Anwar Sadat, who was assassinated in 1981. His faith that peace between Israel and Egypt was possible, "when centuries of hatred had thrust us into decades of war," was key to the eventual accord, she said. She underscored the importance of maintaining conviction in the face of doubt as did her late husband during his work for peace in the Middle East.

Now an associate scholar at the University of Maryland, Madame Sadat worked to establish the Anwar Sadat Chair for Development and Peace, endowed in 1997.

As a scholar who obtained three degrees after the age of 40, Sadat applauded ASC founder George Washington Scott as "one man whose mother taught him the value of an educated woman."

Scott Wins Vulcan Award

POLITICAL SCIENTIST HONORED FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

Catherine Scott, professor of political science, was honored with the Vulcan Company's Excellence in Teaching award at Agnes Scott commencement exercises May 12.

Scott is an authoritative writer and respected lecturer in her field, primarily on the subjects of gender studies and the politics of third world countries. She joined the Agnes Scott faculty in 1984 and has served as chair of the Department of Political Science, Sociology and Anthropology and advisor for Washington Semester students. She spent her 1999-2000 sabbatical in South Africa as a Fulbright scholar.

In nominations, colleagues wrote that they considered Scott such a dynamic presence they initially feared she might overpower students. But as one professor wrote, "What makes her a stellar teacher are her energy and humor. She is tough, rigorous and demanding. But students love her classes—in spite of it or because of it."

Scott is the second consecutive political science professor to be honored with the Vulcan award. Colleague Gus Cochran received the honor last year.

Legacy to the 24th Degree

FORSYTHE '01 LATEST OF MANY FAMILY MEMBERS TO GRADUATE FROM ASC

The word "legacy" is not taken lightly in the family of Kathryn Forsythe '01. Forsythe can name sister, mother, grandmother, cousins and aunts among those she has followed as Agnes Scott students.

And as if being the 24th member of her family to attend Agnes Scott isn't enough to constitute an impressive relationship with the College, Forsythe is connected to Agnes Scott through two other significant relatives: great grandfather James Ross McCain, president from 1923 to 1951; and great uncle Paul McCain, former vice president of development.

Forsythe's Presbyterian forebears, including Bessie Evelyn Young Brown, Susan Young Egan and Anna Young, began attending Agnes Scott when it was but an institute and not yet a college.

Despite her family's legacy, Forsythe didn't feel any pressure to attend the College or even to apply. "I was looking at Bryn Mawr, and my mother said, 'If you're going to look at a women's college, you should check out some others as well,'" Forsythe said. "I decided to apply to Agnes Scott, and when I visited for a scholar's weekend, I just fell in love with the students, the atmosphere and everything about Agnes Scott. I just knew it was the school for me."

After graduation this spring, Forsythe, a self-designed medieval studies major, plans to pursue Celtic studies at the University of Glasgow, a goal prompted by a year in Scotland through the College's study abroad program.

Alumna Assists in Honduras

ALLAN '57 HELPS REBUILD AFTER HURRICANE MITCH

Retirement for Elizabeth Ansley Allan '57 has been anything but sedentary.

Since retiring from teaching in 1999, Allan, who grew up in the shadow of the Agnes Scott campus and once served as a campus guide for Robert Frost, has renewed her interest in writing and, along with a friend from Decatur, is on the verge of publishing a volume of poetry. In addition, she and her husband, Frank, have established The Work of Our Hands Inc., a nonprofit art education venture that Frank envisioned as he began to make plans for his retirement as the bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta.

But Allan has often traveled away from her Atlanta home in her retirement activities. Her travels have included a relief effort in Honduras in the aftermath of Hurricane Mitch.

In an article Allan wrote for DIALOG, the newspaper for the Episcopalian Diocese of Atlanta, she notes: "I was one of the lucky ones to make the first 'all-spouses-of-bishops' team to help build houses as part of the Faith, Hope, and Joy: a Project For Living undertaking of The Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief (PBFWR)."

Hurricane Mitch hit Central America in November 1998, and Honduras was especially hard hit. "Mitch destroyed 35 percent of the homes, killed 9,000 persons, and left 8,000 more still missing," Allan said. "The world was horrified and responded generously. Along with other international charitable organizations, the PBFWR had a larger than usual sum of money to meet the emergency and to help with rebuilding. The challenge was to make the wisest decision about how to take advantage of this opportunity not only to provide immediate relief and bring order out of chaos, but also to assist Honduras in developing a lasting infrastructure for a stronger future."

Allan's involvement with the project continues. "Just a couple of weeks ago I listened to the report of a group of parishioners from The Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Decatur tell of its experience in March with that same project, which has come so far in a year. They were kind enough to give me credit for encouraging them to make the trip when I spoke twice to them about my experience last year."

Renewing Old Acquaintances

What is Alumnae Weekend? A time to renew friendships with classmates. A chance to visit the campus to see what is the same and what has changed. A time to remember days of youth (recent or long ago). It is all these things, and for me one more. It is a celebration of Agnes Scott alumnae and our contributions to the College, our families, our communities and our world.

Once a year the College and the Alumnae Association host this three-day program, which is open to all alumnae. Planning begins almost a year in advance. We try to have a weekend that feeds your mind, your spirit and your soul—one that gives each of us the opportunity to reconnect with the College. Why should you come back to Decatur?

To stimulate and challenge minds. On Friday, the first day of Alumnae Weekend, we feature what we have come to call "brain food." This year we heard five of our alumnae participate in a symposium titled "Ethical Dilemmas in a High Tech World." Later we continued with an authors' roundtable, featuring alumnae authors from reunion classes in the 1930s, 1940s and 1950s. During each session, ASC alumnae in the audience joined in the discussion.

To celebrate Agnes Scott women. At a luncheon on Friday, we honored our four Outstanding Alumnae Award recipients. Here we had the opportunity to learn about their lives and to hear them speak about their experiences. At the Anna Young Club dinner on Friday evening, the members of the 50-year reunion class, the class of 1951, were inducted into the Anna Young Club. Saturday, we celebrated the reunion classes, their memories of days at Agnes Scott, their financial contributions to the College and their participation in Alumnae Weekend. President Bullock spoke to alumnae about the College, both recent achievements and future goals.

To renew old friendships and relive college days. At class meetings on Saturday morning, reunion classes elected class officers and discussed final plans for class parties held later that evening. After having their reunion picture made on the steps of Main, they continued their fun at a Mimosa Brunch. Saturday afternoon featured a Sky's the Limit Festival for alumnae and their families.

To feed the spirit and the soul. The weekend concluded Sunday with a worship service and a brunch in the newly landscaped Alumnae Garden. The Rev. Dr. Laura S. Sugg, the Julia Thompson Smith Chaplain for the College, and clergy from two of the reunion classes led the worship service.

By the time you read this, we will be well on our way to creating Alumnae Weekend for April 26-28, 2002. Some things will change, and others will stay the same. Why not plan to attend part or all of the activities on campus? If it's not your "official" reunion year, ask a friend or two to accompany you to the events. It's time to renew your acquaintance with an old friend: the Agnes Scott College campus and community.

Interpreting Success

GASTON '90 FINDS NICHE IN TRANSLATION WORK

For Erin Gaston '90, realizing she could make a living at something she truly enjoyed came as a complete surprise.

An international relations major at Agnes Scott, Gaston did some volunteer interpreting while earning a master's in Spanish literature in Colorado and found that she enjoyed it. "I really just fell into it because it was fun, not because I ever dreamed I could make a living at it," she says.

Relocating to Washington, D.C., led to a "dream job" as a translator/interpreter with the Justice Department. After a two-year stint in Costa Rica with the Peace Corps and a master's degree in translation/interpretation from the Monterey Institute, Gaston is now an interpreter for the district courts in Denver. Her work allows for some freelance assignments for the U.S. Department of State, including special State Department conferences with high-profile people.

In November, Gaston experienced an "interpreter's dream"—an opportunity to interpret on the floor of the United Nations General Assembly room. Gaston met U.N. Secretary General Kofi Annan and introduced him to visitors. She also interpreted for officials from Panama at the inauguration of George W. Bush.

New Alumnae Travel Program

LITERARY LANDSCAPES OF IRELAND

MAY 17-27, 2002

Program Fee $3095

From William Butler Yeats' converted Norman castle home, Thoor Ballylee, to the Belfast hillside profile of a giant's face that inspired Gulliver's Travels, the landscapes of Ireland have given birth to legend and literature. The May 2002 Agnes Scott College alumnae trip to the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland will explore some of these places, taking you to castles and coastlines, along city streets and country roads, and inside writers' homes and haunts. While the itinerary will emphasize places with literary associations, the trip also offers a general introduction to Ireland's history and culture. Planned tours, activities and meals are mixed with liberal amounts of free time for exploring or dining on your own. Two great cities and two lively provincial towns have been selected—Dublin and Belfast, Galway and Derry/Londonderry—as our stopping places on the tour, but we will spend plenty of time visiting the rural landscapes as well.

For a complete registration packet, contact the alumnae office, (404)471-6323 or alumoffice@agnesscott.edu.

CHINA ITINERARY

MAY 16- JUNE 1, 2002

Led by: Ayse Carden, professor of psychology and Harry Wistrand, professor/chair of biology

In May 2000, 18 Agnes Scott students traveled to China to become acquainted with Chinese science, history and culture. Their trip is highlighted in the Fall 2000 AlumnaeMagazine (www. agnesscott.edu/ aas/news/alumnae _mag/fall00/index). This tour recreates some of the highlights of the students' experiences, including lectures from Chinese scholars at leading universities on topics such as U.S.-China relations. Focal points of this excursion are Hong Kong, Shanghai and Beijing. These provide easy access to many of the historic sights of China, including the Forbidden City, Tiananmen Square, the Great Wall, as well as the gardens and silk factories of Suzhou. Our hotels are in convenient areas of each city, and ample free time will allow for some independent exploration. An optional extension to Guilin or Xi'an will be offered.

For a complete registration packet, contact the alumnae office, (404)471-6323 or alumoffice@agnesscott.edu.

Alumnae Weekend 2001

LOOKING FORWARD—The Alumnae Weekend theme of "Looking Forward" aptly described the anticipation of alumnae, meeting old friends and enjoying the newly renovated campus. 1) The Hub Sing tradition was revived this year in the Hub of the new Alston Campus Center. The event was dedicated to the memory of Susan Landrum '66, who died in February. 2) Bertie Bond '53 and Kate McKemie enjoy the new bench donated by the Class of 1932. The bench is situated opposite the new statue of Robert Frost in the Alumnae Garden. Bond and McKemie, along with the late Kay Manuel, were honored by the dedication of the Camellia Garden in their names. 3) Susan Gamble Smathers '75 and Bruce A. Smathers donated the statue of Robert Frost recently installed in the Alumnae Garden. 4) Alumnae get reacquainted and meet new family members. 5) The annual President's Gala was held in Letitia Pate Evans Hall. 6) Alumnae enjoy the new seating area and landscaping in front of McCain Library.

ARTS

Calvert Johnson, professor of music, edited an arrangement for two pianos of Amélie-Julie Candeilee's Concerto Pour le Forte Piano ou Clavecin, op. 2, and Arias from Catherine, ou la Belle Fermière (Hildegard Publishing Company).

Kel Keller, instructor in art, was selected to teach photography at the University of Georgia's program in Cortona, Italy, during spring semester 2002. Keller was also one of four photographers chosen for The Contemporary Art Center's spring studio tours and debuted new work including the large-scale "A Symphony for Harry Callahan."

Tracey E.W. Laird, assistant professor of music, was chosen for the Governor's Teaching Fellows program in May at the Institute of Higher Education, University of Georgia.

Theodore K. Mathews, professor of music, was program chair for the conference of the Georgia Association of Music Theorists at Clayton College and State University in April and presided over four papers addressing the topic of "Bridges into the Twentieth Century."

Kay Paulsen, artist affiliate, contributed to an Internet-based lesson plan on appropriate musical form for sixth through ninth grade students. The Web site, http://www.finermusic.com, is designed as a resource for teachers.

Donna Sadler, associate professor of art, presented a paper titled "When Crozier Meets Sceptre in the Iconographic Program of Reims Cathedral" at the meeting of the Medieval Academy of America in March in Tempe, Ariz.

Sunny Saunders, artist affiliate, went on a 22-day concert tour of Taiwan with the Hollywood Festival Orchestra in December. Saunders, on the violin, gave a concert in each province of the country.

Lyn Schenbeck, visiting associate professor of music, presented a paper titled "A Study of Student-Community Orchestras in the United States and Canada" at the Georgia Music Educators Association Conference in Savannah in January. The paper was written with the help of research scholar Rebecca Jones. Schenbeck was also given the Faculty Award of the Office of Career Planning's Career Initiative Awards for her diligence in locating internships for students.

David S. Thompson, associate professor of theatre, published "Going to Broadway (or Your Favorite Theatre Festival). . .and Getting Someone Else to Foot the Bill" in the winter 2001 edition of Southern Theatre. He also was listed in columnist/editorial board member of the Kansas City Star's Bill Tammeus' nationally syndicated list of people producing the best quotes of 2000 for a quote taken from Thompson's article titled "Politics or Theatre," which was picked up by the New York Times News Service in February 2000.

D. Patton White, assistant to the director of dance, served on the Dance Grants Panel for the Atlanta Bureau of Cultural Affairs for the 2001 grant cycle. He also presented a work-in-progress showing of "Streetscapes," a new dance/theatre piece. The piece was presented at the Performing Arts Studio on the Emory Campus in December.

HUMANITIES

Chris Ames, Charles A. Dana Professor of English, presented his paper titled "Cutting on Emotion: Narrative Juxtaposition and Character in Robert Altman's Short Cuts" at the 26th annual Conference on Literature and Film at Florida State University in February. He also published a review of The Player by Robert Altman in "Portals: A Special Issue of the On-line Cinema Journal Scope" in March.

Julia De Pree, assistant professor of French, gave a presentation at Decatur Presbyterian Church in February. Her topic, "Religion in a Postmodern World," focused on postmodern thought as a critique of Enlightenment ideals.

Violet Johnson, associate professor of history, published "Relentless Ex-Colonials and Militant Immigrants: the Case of Boston's West Indian Immigrants, 1910-1950" in The Civil Rights Movement Revisited: Critical Perspectives on the Struggle for Racial Equality in the United States, Patrick B. Miller, Therese Frey Steffen and Elizabeth Schafer-Wunsche, eds. Johnson also presented a paper, "Racial Frontiers in Jamaica's Nonracial Nationhood: Understanding Race and Nation Through the Eyes of Jamaicans Abroad," at the conference of the Collegium for African American Research in Sardinia, Italy.

Waqas Ahmad Khwaja, visiting assistant professor of English, was a featured participant in "The South Asian Diaspora in the Arts," a roundtable discussion centering on issues pertaining to diasporic writers and artists of South Asian origin. An edited script of the discussion was published in March.

Sally MacEwen, associate professor of classical languages and literatures, presented "Beyond Joseph Campbell: a Cross-Cultural Study of Heroes in Film and Greek Tragedy" at the Dean's Colloquium Dinner at Agnes Scott College in April.

Rafael Ocasio, associate professor of Spanish, published his paper titled "Judith Ortiz Cofer's The Latin Deli" in U.S. Latino Literature: A Critical Guide for Students and Teachers (Harold Augenbraum and Margarite Fernández Olmos, eds., Greenwood Press).

Richard Parry, Fuller E. Callaway Professor of Philosophy, was a visiting fellow in the philosophy department of Princeton University during the fall semester. In addition, his article "Characteristics, Paradigms, and Forms in Plato's Middle Dialogues" was published in Apeiron, a journal devoted to publishing articles in ancient Greek philosophy.

Margaret W. Pepperdene, professor emerita of English, received the Phebe and Zephaniah Swift Moore Teaching Award from Amherst College. She was chosen as an award winner from nominations submitted by graduating seniors. A committee of seniors, faculty and staff evaluated the nominees.

Régine Reynolds-Cornell, professor emerita of French, published a review of Sans autre guide, Mélanges de litérature française de la Renaissance offerts à Marcel Tetel (réunis par Ph. Desan, L. Krizman, R. La Charité, M. Simonin, Paris, Klincksieck, 1999, 272 p.) in Extrait de la Bibliothèque D'Humanisme et Renaissance, Geneva, Switzerland in June.

Michael Schlig, assistant professor of Spanish, presented a paper at the IX Congreso de la Asociación Española de Semiótica in November in Valencia, Spain. The paper, "La Pintura, la Fotografía y la Mirada Masculina en El Profesor Inútil de Benjamin Jarnés," deals with Jarnés' novel and the portrayal of women in the arts.

Willie Tolliver, assistant professor of English, published a book titled Henry James as a Biographer: A Self Among Others (Garland Publishing, 2000).

Ingrid Wieshofer, professor of German, was selected to participate in the Governor's Teaching Fellows program on instructional technology and pedagogical issues in teaching and learning at the Institute of Higher Education, University of Georgia.

Isa Williams, director of The Atlanta Semester, was elected to the National Women's Studies Association Governing Council.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

Chris De Pree, assistant professor of astronomy, received an American Astronomical Society Small Research Grant in January. The grant will fund his research, travel, publication and supply expenses as well as a new Linux workstation for his work with Ionized Gas Velocities of the Hypercompact HII Regions in W49. De Pree also co-authored three published papers: "Hot Cores in W49N and the Timescale for Hot Core Evolution" in The Astrophysical Journal, and "VLA High Sensitivity ^{4}He Imaging of Galactic HII Regions" and "WSRT and VLA Observations of the 6cm and 2cm Lines of H2CO in the Directon of W58 C1 (ON3) and W58 C2" in The Astronomical Journal.

Robert A. Leslie, associate professor of mathematics, presented a paper titled "Introductory Statistics with an International Travel Lab Component in Nicaragua" at the January joint meeting of the American Mathematical Society and the Mathematical Association of America.

Myrtle Lewin, professor of mathematics, presented a paper titled "The Transition from Arithmetic to Algebra: Some Thoughts Gleaned from Euclid" at the spring meeting of the southeastern section of the Mathematical Association of America in Montgomery, Ala., in March.

Ruth Riter, assistant professor of chemistry, co-authored a book chapter titled "Dynamics of Polar Solvent Motion, at Liquid Interfaces" in Liquid Interfaces in Chemical, Biological, Pharmeceutical Applications (Marcel Dekker, ed.). The chapter reviews the current experimental research on the motion of polar solvents that effects many chemical processes at liquid interfaces.

T. Leon Venable, associate professor of chemistry, co-authored a biographical article on Marie S. Curie in the Macmillan Encyclopedia of Energy.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Mary Katherine Crabb, visiting instructor in anthropology, was awarded the Marjorie Shostak Award for Ethnographic Writing from the Emory University Department of Anthropology in May. Crabb also had her article "The Political Economy of Caudillismo" published in the 10th edition of Cuban Communism, Irving Louis Horowitz and Jaimie Suchlicki, eds.

Gus Cochran, professor of political science, published Democracy Heading South: National Politics in the Shadow of Dixie in February (University of Kansas Press). (A review by Constance Curry '55 is in the Spring/Summer issue of the Agnes Scott Alumnae Magazine.)

Rosemary Cunningham, professor of economics, received an $8,400 grant from the Kauffman Center for Entrepreneurial Leadership to continue the Kauffman Internship Program for Women Entrepreneurs for 2001-02. The grant will place 12 students in internships with women entrepreneurs.

George Redmond, visiting associate professor of economics, was named a Sam M. Walton Free Enterprise Fellow for the Students in Free Enterprise Team at the College.

STAFF AND ADMINISTRATION

Stephanie Balmer, associate vice president for enrollment/director of admission, gave presentations at five college admission workshops in January and February, and was named to the National Association for College Admission Counseling's Ad Hoc Committee on Enrollment Management.

Jennifer Lund, director of international education, received an invitation to serve on the College Board of Advisors of the American Institute for Foreign Study for a three-year term beginning in January. She also published part of her evaluation of her spring 2000 Fulbright Seminar for U.S. Administrators. The title of the reflection is "Cranes: The Symbol of Germany," and is published along with three of her pictures in the newsmagazine of the German-American Fulbright Association.

Margaret Shirley, personal counselor, was honored in October by an award in her name by the Return-to-College Student Organization. The Margaret Shirley Return to College Student Spirit Award will be presented every year on Awards Day to a return-to-college student.

Trustees Approve Faculty Appointments

The Agnes Scott College Board of Trustees granted tenure to Phil Gibson, assistant professor of biology, and David Thompson, associate professor of theatre, at its May meeting. Gibson was also promoted to the rank of associate professor. The Board also re-appointed Jennifer Lucas, assistant professor of psychology; Michael Lynn, assistant professor of history; Michael Schlig, assistant professor of Spanish; and Feng Xu, assistant professor of political science.

The Board approved the tenure-track appointment of five faculty members: Mary Cain, assistant professor of history; Waqas Khwaja, assistant professor of English; Hong Qu, assistant professor of religious studies; Edward Sayre, assistant professor of economics; and Edward Tilson, assistant professor of French.

Don't Forget the Chocolate

Edmund Sheehey

Following are excerpts from the Baccalaureate sermon of Edmund Sheehey, outgoing vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college.

I want to dwell for a few moments on the gift of life that God has given us. I'm relying on the perspective of Gabriel Garcia Marquez, author of One Hundred Years of Solitude, winner of the Nobel Prize for literature. Seriously ill and realizing he doesn't have much longer to live, he sent a letter of farewell to a circle of friends on what he would do if God gave him an extension of his life, and what he would do if he were in their position or in our position.

The gist of his letter is that he would depart radically from the conventional pursuit of happiness.

A Genius Bids Farewell, by Gabriel Garcia Marquez

If for an instant God were to forget that I am rag doll and gifted me with a piece of life, possibly I wouldn't say all that I think, but rather I would think of all that I say. I would value things, not for their worth but for what they mean. I would sleep little, dream more, understanding that for each minute we close our eyes we lose 60 seconds of light. I would walk when others hold back, I would wake when others sleep. I would listen when others talk, and how I would enjoy a good chocolate ice cream!

If God were to give me a piece of life, I would dress simply, throw myself face first into the sun, baring not only my body but also my soul. My God, if I could have a heart, I would write my hate on ice, and wait for the sun to show. Over the stars I would paint with a Van Gogh dream a Benedetti poem, and a Serrat song would be the serenade I'd offer to the moon. With my tears I would water roses, to feel the pain of their thorns, and the red kiss of their petals . . .

My God, if I had a piece of life . . . I wouldn't let a single day pass without telling the people I love that I love them. I would convince each woman and each man that they are my favorites, and I would live in love with love. I would show men how very wrong they are to think that they cease to be in love when they grow old, not knowing that they grow old when they cease to be in love! To a child I would give wings, but I would let him learn to fly on his own. I would teach the old that death does not come with old age, but with forgetting.

So much have I learned from you, my friends . . .

I have learned that everyone wants to live on the peak of the mountain, without knowing that real happiness is in how it is scaled. I have learned that when a newborn child squeezes for the first time with his tiny fist his father's finger, he has him trapped forever. I have learned that a man has the right to look down on another only when he has to help the other get to his feet. From you I could have learned so many other things, but in truth they won't be of much use, for when they put me in this suitcase, unhappily shall I be dying.

We are rag dolls that God has miraculously gifted with a piece of life. Let us think deeply, listen carefully, seek the truth, banish fear and hate, and with complete abandonment give ourselves to our immense capacity to love. If you should be so lucky, hold your finger out to your new newborn child to be trapped forever by love.

And, by all means, don't forget the chocolate ice cream.

Last year on April 11, Sara Bullock celebrated her 90th birthday with two nephews and a niece, their children and spouses, and many friends and other residents at her retirement home in Presbyterian Village. She is in an independent living facility, which she finds very pleasant and comfortable. From Austell, Ga., Sara sends greetings to her classmates.

Helen Friedman Blackshear was honored with an invitation to read at Agnes Scott College in April during the Writers' Round Table. She attended an Elderhostel on St. Simons Island in March.

Octavia Aubrey Howard has a correction for MAIN EVENTS. She celebrated her 90th birthday in Wilmington, Va., not South Carolina.

Mary Virginia Allen had a slight stroke on Nov. 30. She is recovering well and by the time this news is published should have moved to Summerville, S.C.

As a gift to her far-flung family, Betty Lou Houck Smith hosted a reunion on Dec. 23, 2000. With over 40 present, it was quite an aggregation of children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and in-laws. Betty Lou has lost count of the greats but estimates the number as 12 or 13 (with more on the way). Cousins greeted cousins they had never met, as family ties were renewed and strengthened. Betty greeted family members from London, Bulgaria, Wyoming, California, North Dakota, Connecticut, New Jersey and Georgia. All told, it was a "bash."

Pensacola, FL 32514-1629

Katherine Bishop Oxford enjoys living in and keeping up her home in Augusta, Ga. She claims the best sons and daughters-in-law "under the sun." One son and family live in Atlanta; another, in Augusta; and the third, in Dallas, Texas. The families have regular reunions at the Texas ranch. Katherine takes part in church activities, plays the piano and organ, reads, plays bridge and follows the activities of 11 grandchildren, ages 10-29.

Ernelle Blair Fife serves on church committees; she was an elder for several years. She is an active Garden Club member. During the past year, she spent a week with her daughter in Highlands, N.C., and another week with her in Galveston, Texas, where Ernelle Jr. delivered a paper to the International Seminar for English Professors. Ernelle Sr. spent three and a half weeks in San Jose, Calif., with son Alex. Her son, James, who works with the Educational Training Service in Collegeville, Pa., gets to Avondale Estates often for a visit.

Mary Cornely Dwight's husband, Kennedy, died last fall. Mary is now in a nursing home near her daughter, Patsi Sheets, who sees her several times a week.

Sara Frances Estes, her sister Jane Estes '37 and Mollie Merrick '57 had a pleasant excursion to north Georgia at the peak of fall colors. The class is grateful for the work Sara Frances does as fund chair.

Sara Cureton Prowell lives in her home in Fairburn, Ga., and regrets that health problems prevented her from attending the class reunion.

Lita Goss Conrad and Bill have moved from Peachtree Road to a "grandparents' apartment" in the home of their daughter in Lilburn, Ga.

Helen Handte Morse's husband of 63 years, Navy Captain John H. Morse, was buried with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery last year. All members of her remarkable family were there with their spouses: sons John and Peter and daughter Joan, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Helen has moved from her home of 23 years in Menlo Park to an apartment near her son Peter, a veterinarian in Napa, Calif.

Frances James Donohue is glad she can live in her home within sight of son Daniel and his family in Accokeek, Md. She teaches a Sunday School class and is an active member of the largest garden club in Maryland. For years, Frances has helped with Christmas decorations for her church, often bringing holly and other greens from her acres. She and Daniel attended the honor service for Navy Captain John H. Morse.

Dean McKoin Bushong was sorry to miss the class reunion. The effects of a stroke prevented her attendance. She has recovered but cautiously spends days at a day-care facility and nights with her daughter and son-in-law. Dean reads a great deal and writes beautiful letters.

Health concerns caused Sadie Morrow Hughes to move from her home of 53 years in Bremen, Ga. She is pleased with her Merrill Gardens apartment in Carrollton, Ga.

Rosa Miller Barnes likes seeing and hearing son Fred in his regular Fox TV program. Daughter Rosa and her husband live in Florida near her mother. Rosa Sr. plays the guitar for a church group and continues her active membership in the DAR.

Sarah Jones Cheatham is teaching Sunday School. Two of her daughters and six Sunday School classmates were missionary volunteers for 19 days in the Philippines, sharing this experience with adult Sunday School classes in Sarah's church. Her two granddaughters graduated from Furman and Monroe Academy in May. The class is grateful for Sarah's contributions to the success of the 65th class reunion.

Mildred Clark Sargent's husband felt honored to be asked to deliver the eulogy for Navy Captain John H. Morse. She and Jim were very happy to see Helen and her outstanding family at the service and the reception following.

DEATHS
• Nicholas W. Mitchell, husband of Meriel Bull Mitchell, Thanksgiving Day, 2000.
• Kennedy B. Dwight, husband of Mary Cornely Dwight, Oct. 11.

Fannie B. Harris Jones
600 Miller Street
Dalton, GA 30720-8164

After 30 years in Cartersville, Ga., Cornelia Christie Johnson has moved to a retirement complex in Mississippi.

Lucile Dennison Keenan writes that she is happy to be in Albany, Ga., with only a slight tremor to limit her activities.

SECRETARY
Jane Guthrie Rhodes
127 West Pharr Road
Decatur, GA 30030-4936

The good news is that Myrl Chafin Hansard was jumping up and down on the trampoline with her grandchildren. The bad news is that she did not realize until later that she had fractured two bones in her right leg. She explains that she did not remove her shoes before getting up on the trampoline, thinking that their being flat would enable her to handle the exercise. Further good news is that the class of '38 seems to be alive and kicking with high hopes for the 65th reunion in '03. A final positive note records the marriage of Myrl's granddaughter, Lindsey, to Steve Alexander in Opelika, Ala., on March 31. Lindsey graduated with a degree in psychology, in time for the wedding.

Ellen Verner Scoville reports that she is blessed with good health. She and her husband are busy with 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. They are active at Presbyterian Home, taking art, line dancing and exercise. She notes they are very happy "in spite of an unexpected crisis now and then."

Elizabeth "Lib" Blackshear Flinn is excited about editing the memoirs of a friend who lived two years in Paris and wrote wonderful letters about her experiences worthy of inclusion in a book. Lib has also updated her history of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church. Her two youngest grandchildren attend Westminster School in Atlanta, where their mother teaches. Lib and Bill are inveterate bridge players. Bill is enjoying the Lifespan classes at Trinity Presbyterian.

Joyce Roper McKey and John celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on May 31. "Our summers are spent in Highlands, N.C.," she writes, "and so our family gathered there for a great time."

Elsie West Duval traveled in mid-February to Vero Beach, Fla., to visit her cousins and then stayed in Orlando with Joyce Roper McKey. On Valentine's Day they lunched with Ella Muzzey Biggers '41, who was there celebrating Brad Biggers' recent marriage. Elsie admits that although she and Joyce spent quality time together, they felt they needed to move at a slower pace now. Elsie's biggest challenge has been a basic computer class with "Lifelong Learners." She is "certainly not having fun yet. Creative writing is still [her] focus, so she hope[s] that new skill will make [her] hobby more productive."

Nell Allison Sheldon and Elizabeth "Lib" Blackshear Flinn attended Founder's Day celebration at ASC, including a tour of the McCain Library, Alston Center and lunch in the Leticia Pate Dining Hall. Nell's son, Andy, recently visited her.

Anne Thompson Rose and Ben are doing well, although continuing to age, "with aches and pains now and then." She has gotten hearing aids since "people seem to speak more softly than they used to!" She hopes to see all classmates in 2003.

Mildred Davis Harding is teaching a class in ESL at St. Petersburg Jr. College in Florida. In mid-February, she taught a one-week course for an Elderhostel class on "Pearl Craigie and the Gay Nineties." This was based on her 1996 biography of Pearl Craigie. Forty students, all 55 and over, attended. The class was so successful that she was asked to repeat the course in March. Also in March, she did a workshop at the Franciscan Center in Tampa called "Write Your Life Story." Meanwhile, she is also editing a training textbook (with CD-ROM) on combating terrorism that she claims is hair-raising material. Mildred's joyful personal news is that her son, Brayton, who teaches ESL abroad for part of every year and lives on a little boat in south San Francisco Bay, traveling from Asia and back, has "splashed" down in the marina at St. Petersburg, about six minutes from her condo. This will be his headquarters in America. Branwen, her daughter, is happy and busy in Istanbul. Mildred and husband Robert delight in their two-story condo in Gulfport with marina, sea-birds and three palm trees outside their big window. Robert works from home on Senior Settlements insurance and investments. For reading, Mildred recommends Barzun's From Dawn to Decadence, Bloom's How to Read and Why, James Hillman's The Force of Character and The Soul's Code, Tolstoy's War and Peace and Rosamunde Pilcher's Winter Solstice and Coming Home.

Jane Guthrie Rhodes at last has a great-grandchild. Her granddaughter, Lynn, called father Billy, Jane's son, and said, "Congratulations, grandpa!" Lynn is married to Steven Shurgly and lives in Jacksonville, Miss., where they are members of a branch of the Presbyterian Church that doesn't believe in women ministers!

SECRETARY
Elinor Tyler Richardson
516 Azalea Lane
Florence, SC 29501-5718

Elinor Tyler Richardson apologizes to her classmates, whose news has been in her possession for some time. It arrived just a little too late to make the last deadline.

June Harvey Eager had three big events in 2000. Her grandson, Andrew Eager, graduated from Erskine College and was teaching and coaching at Madison County High School in Georgia during fall of 2000. Her daughter-in-law, Mary Wilson Eager, was named Georgia's Teacher of the Year. In addition, June and a friend went to Australia and took a camel ride.

Catherine Farrar Davis said one of her mother's elderly friends once expressed her aches and pains as "the infirmities of old age." She and her classmates can now identify with that observation. Catherine enjoyed her annual trip to Hilton Head Island and walking on the beach. She remains active in St. Timothy United Methodist Church, is treasurer of her circle and works in the church office two Wednesdays a month.

Two of Jane Dryfoos Rau's great-grandchildren, ages 3 and 2, live in Paris; as a true grandmother, she says they are adorable. Another great-grandchild, about 10 months and also adorable, lives in Vermont. They were all there for Christmas. Just before the holidays, Jane fell and broke her hip, but is doing nicely after a partial replacement. She was hoping to go to Florida with her sister for a week in February, and then on to Paris in March to visit her great-grandchildren. Jane still summers in New Jersey and up to now was still playing golf.

Many thanks to Sarah Cunningham Carpenter for the exciting article cut from the Jan. 7 edition of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. It was titled "Jews in the Confederacy" and featured a large picture of Helen Moses Regenstein, her son, Reg, a former CIA intelligence officer, and the front of their lovely home. Helen and Reg have always had a great interest in the Confederacy because her grandfather and uncles fought for the South. The article was written to inform the public that Robert Rosen of Charleston, S.C., would talk in mid-March at the Atlanta History Center on the Jewish Confederates. In response, the secretary called Helen and had a wonderful visit. They grew up about 40 miles apart—she in Sumter, S.C., and Elinor in Florence.

In December, Harriet "Hat" Stimson Davis attended a special Agnes Scott College luncheon for members of the Anna Young Club, formerly the Fifty-Year Club. Three residents of Presbyterian Village represented the classes of '50, '40 and '31. "Hat" enjoyed seeing several '40 classmates at the event.

Mary "Polly" Heaslett Hastings, Henrietta "Henri" Thompson Wilkinson and Aurie Montgomery Miller '44, met for lunch at Sophie Montgomery Crane's home. The other local '40 classmate, Mary Francis Ault, was not able to attend because of broken ribs resulting from a fall, complicated by a severe virus infection. Polly plans to move from Asheville back to Chicago in the fall.

Henrietta "Henri" Thompson Wilkinson treasures close ties with her family. At Christmas they gathered for a reunion at the Highland Farms Retirement Center in Black Mountain. This year one child will be visiting her each month, and a grandchild has moved to Asheville. Using her editorial expertise, Henri helps her assistant pastor prepare material for publication. In March she traveled to Clemson, S.C., to participate in the ordination of Kazy Blocher, student worker at Clemson University.

Eleanor Newman Hutchens was recognized with a session in her honor at the 2001 meeting of the Southeastern American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies in Huntsville, Ala. The session theme, "Tom Jones and the Shape of the Future," was inspired by her work with that novel. Eleanor's outstanding contributions to the field of 18th-century studies and her valuable service to the meeting's host institution, the University of Huntsville, led to this professional tribute.

Josephine "Betty" Nash Story wrote of the death of her husband of 56 years in May 2000 after a massive heart attack. He was also the father of Linda Story Lubitz '72. Betty is a discussion leader for Bible Study Fellowship, an international Bible study organization.

Myree Wells Maas, husband Joe, daughter Jane Maas Edwards '76 and grandchildren attended the change-of-command ceremonies at Norfolk, Va., Naval Station. Her son, Rear Admiral Steven Maas, assumed command of the Navy Supply Corps in charge of post exchanges throughout the world.

The year's big events for Mamie Hallman Ross are four college graduations and the weddings of two grandchildren.

Mary Rebekah Andrews McNeill took a wonderful trip to Colorado Springs in the fall. Her 16-year-old granddaughter especially enjoyed visiting the Air Force Academy.

Julia Harry Bennett had a rather traumatic time at Christmas when she moved from her home, an activity entailing much downsizing. She has had a happy year, however, with pleasant trips to Florida and through the Rockies. Julia has five "grands" in college and two daughters teaching, all leading to a busy family life.

In winter Margaret Sheftall Chester appreciates living in Scottsdale, Ariz., where George can ride his horses every day. Their youngest grandchild is 1 year old; two granddaughters are college age. Margaret is looking forward to celebrating her 80th birthday with a return trip to China.

Neva Jackson Redfern, Myree Wells Maas and Jane Stillwell Espy joined others at a holiday luncheon of the Anna Young Club, formerly known as the Fifty-Year Club. The speaker was Laura S. Sugg, College chaplain, who described her responsibilities on campus and told of exciting plans for the future, including the erection of a small chapel.

Other exciting news came from St. Simons Island, where Dr. Betty Ann Brooks was honored for her pioneering efforts that created a tremendous difference in the medical treatment of local HIV and AIDS in Glynn County. In presenting one of two plaques to her, Jeff Clark, Social Service Technician for the Wellness Clinic, stated that "Dr. Brooks was very instrumental in securing the Ryan White Title II funds that made it possible for this area to open the HIV/AIDS Clinic." After retiring from 33 years of OB/GYN practice in Decatur, Betty Ann went to coastal Georgia to accept a part-time job with the Health Department in Glynn County. There she worked with the prenatal, family planning and sexually transmitted diseases units. Dr. Ted Holloway, a physician who has known B.A. since the mid-'80s, estimated that she treated about 500 HIV/AIDS patients while at the Health Department. Dr. Holloway and other co-workers honored her with a retirement party and an elegant mantel clock engraved with her name and time of service to the department. Her classmates are very proud of their class president!

Helen Summerour Zimmerman has moved from Tucson, Ariz., to Avondale. She is now closer to her son.

Maryann Cochran Abbott and Forrest were off on another trip last November to India and the Pushkar Fair. The journey began in New Delhi, and from the bustling capital of India they were transferred to Pushkar in the dry desert state of Rajasthan. Here they stayed in tents at the edge of the desert adjacent to the fair grounds, where under the full moon thousands of pilgrims, farmers, tourists and traders gathered for the annual camel and horse fair. In addition to Pushkar, the itinerary included Jaipur, Agra, the legendary city of the Taj, Varanasi (Benaris), and the traditional boat trip on the Ganges. Maryann found the schedule hectic but the experience well worth the exhaustion. During winter they were in Rome on a trip sponsored by Alumni Holidays International. The group of 50 included alumni from Wofford College (Forrest's college), Southern Medical Associates and alumni from Mississippi State College. They visited many of the usual historical cites at their own pace. Rome was just as grand as the first time they saw it in 1963.

Aileen Still Hendley's husband, Jack, had open-heart surgery for a double bypass and replacement of the aortic valve. After 10 days in the intensive care unit followed by three weeks at Emory, he was transferred to Wesley Woods Hospital for six weeks of therapy. Although those "were difficult days," they "had wonderful prayer support from church, family and friends." Aileen is "thankful now that Jack has fully recovered and is feeling good again."

The class of 1944 and many other classes will be interested to know that Betty Pope Scott Noble's father, Milton Candler Scott, the grandson of Col. George Washington Scott, founder of Agnes Scott, celebrated his 106th birthday on Jan. 14. Four generations of the family gathered at "Popsey's" home to celebrate the occasion. Mr. Scott has often told his children and grandchildren about being taken by his father to Kitty Hawk, N.C., to see the first successful flight of an airplane. He also remembers boyhood visits to Col. Scott's home in Clearwater, Fla., when he was a boy. On one occasion, after attending a wedding reception nearby, he was late getting home. When his grandfather asked him about his late return, he replied that he could not find the gate to the house. As an innocent child, he had consumed too much spiked punch. Another vivid memory recalls Mr. Scott's trying at night to catch a glimpse of his future wife where she lived in the tower room in Agnes Scott Hall. Suddenly, President Frank Gaines appeared on the scene and ordered him off the campus. In 1915 men were not allowed on campus!

Most of Anne Sale Weydert's time for many years has been spent traveling with friends from Texas. Two of her favorite trips were an African safari and Greece and Turkey with a cruise of the Aegean Sea. They have also toured Alpine Europe, the Canadian Rockies, Australia, New Zealand and Fiji. Because cruising is their favorite mode of transportation, last year's trips took them to the Eastern Caribbean and to New Orleans from Galveston on a luxury barge. Sounds great!

Ruth "Rufus" Farrior spent three weeks last fall in Sweden and England visiting two nieces. Then she went to Wales to find a house in which she had spent the night with the family of Sir John Hope Simpson. He had stayed with the Farrior family in China in 1931. She found the house, which is now an inn. "Rufus" also attended the 60th reunion of her high school, Shanghai American School, where she learned to be such a good tennis, hockey and basketball player. She has relocated in the Highland Farms Retirement Community in Black Mountain but has the same mailing address and telephone number.

Ethel Hartwell Rutledge has been elected Murray County Humane Society Director. The activities pertaining to that duty—animal rescue, treatment, adoption and sessions with school children educating them on proper care of pets—take up most of her time.

Barbara Frink Allen has a new address in Potomac Falls, Va. She packed for six shipments—theirs and to each of the five children—since the new place is half the size of their old home.

Molly Milam Inserni and Jaime (the "odd couple") made it to their 50th; and their four kids and spouses and grandchildren took them to a neighboring island, Culebra, boating them to great beaches and crystal-clear, warm, snorkeling Caribbean waters.

Martha Mack Simons reported a busy fall with church music, garden club council flower show and family for Thanksgiving.

Jean Satterwhite's granddaughter, Jessica Todd Harper, married Christopher Zafiriou. They are living in Rochester, N.Y., while Jessica is getting her master's in fine arts at Rochester Institute of Technology. Jean missed all of her classmates at the reunion but was thinking of them.

Emily Bradford Batts wrote that she was sorry she and Larry had a schedule conflict and would miss the reunion. She sent greetings to everyone.

Betty Smith Satterthwaite took her grandchildren to Florida in March for a getaway.

Anne Noell Wyant reveals that she and Jim are beginning to feel the ravages of time and could not make the long trip from Texas to Decatur in April. They have had to cut down on their volunteer work in order to keep all the appointments with doctors and labs, etc. For her birthday last August, her children gave her a computer; she vows she will learn to use it for something besides sending e-mails.

Margaret Scott Cathey has a new great-granddaughter, Margaret Jane Beal.

As a librarian, Lucile "Bunch" Beaver is very interested in seeing the newly renovated McCain Library. She continues to serve as choir librarian for her church and as a trustee for Riverside Military Academy in Gainesville, Ga. She is pleased that a portrait of her father now occupies a permanent spot over the fireplace mantel in the lobby of the new administration building at the school. Bunch's opera score for 2000 was 63 opera performances all over the world.

In February, Conradine Fraser Riddle and C.G. visited their daughter and her family in their new home in Bradenton, Fla. She found the beautiful, warm weather like a little bit of heaven.

The class president and secretary represented classmates at "Bold Aspirations," the celebratory weekend at the College in February.

Since Jack's retirement in 1996, Dorothy DeVane Redfearn and he have been traveling in their motor home. The latest expedition was a barge trip on the Mississippi River. They also celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary with a trip to Charleston. Son Robbie lives in Virginia with his wife and three children; daughter Rebecca is in Marion, S.C., and has 13- and 11-year-old children; their younger daughter is Robin.

Margaret Kelly Wells and Al divide time between Jacksonville, Fla., and their summer home in North Carolina, allowing them to visit their young grandchildren in Tampa, Fla., as well as older ones in New Jersey.

Jean Williams Hand and Jim have had a whole year of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. They toured England in the spring of 2000 with their Atlanta daughter and son-in-law, visiting abbeys, churches, stately homes, castles, Yorkshire Dales, the Bronte parsonage and Herriot Country. In July, their children had a lovely buffet honoring their special occasion. In the fall, they traveled again to London with some ASC classmates.

Doris Kissling Hamilton designs and makes quilts, most recently "Cathedral Windows," a gift for a daughter-in-law, and two "Storm at Sea" quilts for young grandsons, complete with pockets containing little boats to "sail" when the boys might be sick in bed.

Alice Beardsley Garber is very involved with work in her church, the Presbyterian Church of Mt. Kisco, N.Y., where she serves as elder. She also delights in being a world traveler.

Betty Crabill Rogers visited Atlanta to help celebrate the 75th birthday of a friend since kindergarten. While there, she and Charlie had lunch with Rosemary Jones Cox and Jimmy, where they caught up with all the latest happenings.

Betty Allen Young reports that while her husband's health is not as good as it used to be, they are happy that he is still able to be at home, with family close by.

Guidelines For Submitting Class News

Class news is published in MAIN EVENTS in January, March, June and September. Please submit news to your class secretary according to the following deadlines:

- September 20 for January publication
- November 20 for March publication
- February 20 for June publication
- May 20 for September publication

Class news may also be submitted directly to the Office of Alumnae Relations. Whether submitting news to your secretary or the Alumnae Office, be sure to include your full name (first, maiden, last) and class year.

When reporting births, deaths and advanced degrees, please include as much detailed information as possible. In all cases, exact dates and full names are needed.

Please report weddings and other planned events (vacations, visits with alumnae and friends) only after the fact.

Agnes Scott has nearly 10,000 living alumnae. We want to keep in touch with all of you and keep you in touch with each other.

Contact your class secretary with your news today!

From Augusta, Ga., Valeria "Val" von Lehe Williams writes that she and Don celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last June. They have three grown children and five grandchildren.

Nancy Huey Kelly and Thad were feted on their 50th anniversary in Helen, Ark., with marvelous memories and a gorgeous celebration among many friends and the whole family—all 21 of them.

Nelda Brantley Burke and her husband are enjoying their retirement years on St. Simons Island with travel and golf, as well as frequent visits to Atlanta to see their three daughters.

Anne "Bit" Wilson Valentine has had a series of health problems: first, a stroke last August, followed by a long rehab program; then, significant cancer that necessitated surgery, radiation and chemotherapy. The thoughts of her classmates are with her.

Evelyn Foster Henderson and U.V. spent a wonderful month last summer in Wales, attending the international musical Eisteddfod. For those who love vocal music, particularly choral singing, this is the place to go.

Ibby Wilkinson Turnipseed and Lonnie have moved from metropolitan New Jersey to Landsdale, Pa., close to grandchildren, in an area where one of the preferred retirement communities is located. In their new setting they can offer guests the rural beauty of Amish country and the cultural richness of historic Philadelphia.

After nearly five delightful years in Sky Valley, Ga., Mary "Maie" Aichel Samford and Chuck relocated to Jacksonville, Fla. They wanted to be closer to good medical care in a warmer climate. Since Chuck recently had an aortic valve replacement and Maie learned of dormant African parasites she acquired in Malawi more than 20 years ago, they were referred to the Mayo Clinic just in time to be checked, medicated and presumably cured. They are in good shape again, well enough to plan a trip to Scotland and Scandinavia. While there they hope to see Agnes Berentzen Thorensen '48.

Rita Adams Simpson is gradually getting used to her new condominium in Charlotte. She is grateful that daughter Cindy continues to gain strength and adjust to life with her new liver.

From Austell, Ga., Martha Ann Board Howell writes that she and Trent are pleased with life at Presbyterian Village. Located only 25 miles from the Atlanta airport, she finds it much easier now to visit classmates Josephine "Jo" Culp Williams and Elizabeth Williams Henry.

The class is proud that Dorothy "Dot" Quillian Reeves received an award for outstanding service to the College, at the April Alumnae Reunion.

Several classmates from the class of 1949 met at the Founder's Day convocation on Feb. 22: Dorothy Quillian Reeves, Betty Jean "B. J." Ellison Candler, Katherine Geffcken and Carmen Shaver Brown. In addition to touring newly renovated buildings, the four attended the dedication of the Kate Durr Elmore Reading Room, a warm and inviting space with a fireplace at one end. Carmen said that Dorothy read a message from Kate's family, and they toasted classmate Kate with her favorites—Coca-Cola, chocolates and nuts.

After months of chronic illness and weight loss, Frances "Robby" Robeson Hedin underwent major intestinal surgery in February. Grateful that no cancer was involved, Robby reports she is feeling much better.

Sally Ellis Mitchell and George make every effort to stay active in their laid-back life in the Appalachian Mountains of North Georgia. They walk, hike, play tennis, garden and take frequent trips to Atlanta to share the joy of grandchildren's activities.

Joan Lawrence Rogers and Larry continue to be great travelers. Last summer they ventured to Eastern Europe: Berlin, Warsaw, Krakow, Prague, Vienna, Budapest and Romania.

For the class, Margaret "Tootie" Ward Moore expresses her sympathy to the families of Jane Sharkey Cobb, Elizabeth Ann Griggs Foster and Mildred Broyles Carver '49.

Betty Jean Crowther Beall has sold her home and is living in a retirement village in Columbia, S.C. She is enjoying her new home; the food, activities and friends are great. Betty was presented with her eighth grandchild on Oct. 28.

Joann Peterson Floyd and Waldo celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 23, 2000. Present were their 16 children and grandchildren, three of whom traveled with them to Brittany for the wedding of their French friends' son.

Adele Lee Dowd is proud of a new grandson born to daughter Peggy. Her youngest child, Brian, was married last fall in Santa Barbara, Calif. The wedding was a beautiful occasion. The newlyweds reside in San Mateo, Calif. Adele wanted classmates to know that Mildred Broyles Carver's husband, Jack, died in December.

Anne Irwin Smith's biggest news is that son Howard and wife Juli adopted two daughters. Now Anne's grandchildren total five, all under 5. She says that trying to keep up is an awesome task.

Ann Pitts Cobb liked every activity during reunion weekend. Seeing former classmates was the highlight. She is thankful to have graduated 50 years ago from Agnes Scott as she remembers how the College made everyone feel very special. In travel news, Ann and John had an unforgettable trip to Austria and Germany in the summer. For her, "the pinnacle of the 10-day tour was witnessing the Passion Play in Oberammergau." The audience of 5,000 remained "completely quiet and reverent for the six hours," with only a lunch recess in the middle of the performance. Back home in the United States, Ann loved having Jessie Hodges Kryder and Bill stop by overnight en route to Anniston from Richmond, Va. Ann's grandaughter, Ann Sholar Warren, is a junior at The North Carolina School of Math and Science and is meeting the academic challenges. Ann also has had a note from Marie Adams Conyers '46 in Cartersville, Ga., whose condition is improving. Ann's sister, Sylvia, was in the nursing home in Cartersville for nine months before she passed away. During that time Ann saw Marie and John on several occasions. Ann and Marie were both from Seneca and attended the same church.

For their 50th anniversary, Jo Ann McCall Cobb and husband John joined their three children and grandchildren on a cruise to Spain and Portugal. The cruise was fine, but they were especially happy to be with their children. In addition, John and Jo spent some time in Florida this winter on a fishing trip. The secretary sends apologies for this news not being in the earlier edition.

Margaret "Tootie" Ward Moore and a friend were the guests of Catherine "Cathie" Davis Armfield at Wild Wing Resort, Myrtle Beach. They played golf, attended live theater and had dinner at Greg Norman's Australian Grill. That is all they can afford to tell.

Tootie does not lay claim to the world's worst handwriting. She is giving that claim to fame to some of her classmates. She asks that correspondents please help her so that she can read the messages and forgive her if she has not interpreted everything correctly. E-mail tootieward@aol.com.

In February, Cathie Davis Armfield spent time with her tennis buddies in Florida.

Jessie Hodges Kryder underwent back surgery in March.

Dorothy "Faye" Tynes Dick and Marion vacationed at Hilton Head in February.

Jo Ann McCall Cobb and John attended their grandson's graduation from medical school.

A mini-reunion was held at the beautiful Highland Lake in Flat Rock, N.C. (Hendersonville). Among those attending were Jo-Anne Christopher Cochrane, Joann Plastre Britt, Margaret "Tootie" Ward Moore, Barbara "Babs" Young Reiland and Bob, Dorothy "Faye" Tynes Dick and Marion, Emily Reid Williams and Dave, Joann Peterson Floyd and Dr. Waldo Floyd, Alline Marshall, Harriot Ann McGuire Coker and John, Marjorie Major Franklin and Ted, Ann Gebhardt Fullerton, Cathie Davis Armfield, Sally Thompson Aycock, Betty J. After graduating from ASC, Eliza Pollard Mark earned her doctorate in chemistry at Cornell University and spent a number of years as a chemist. She met her husband, James Mark, while she was working for Hewlett-Packard in California. After they were married, they lived in New York, where he taught chemistry and she edited books for John Wiley and Sons. They moved to Cincinnati when Jim accepted a professorship of chemistry at the University of Cincinnati. They were married for 23 years, and Eliza still lives in Cincinnati. She has been retired since 1991. Eliza's daughter, Eleanor, is completing her senior residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Vanderbilt University Hospital. Last August Eleanor married Dr. Lewis McCurdy III, a researcher in infectious diseases at the National Institutes of Health.

Another retiree in 1991, Carol Munger had a successful career as a computer programmer. For many years she was at Computer Sciences Corporation, a consulting firm in Bethesda, Md.; during the last 10 years she worked on a contract with NASA at Goddard Space Flight Center. Six years ago, Carol had to move from her home in Bethesda to Erie, Pa., when she collapsed as a result of serious illness. She now lives in an upscale retirement home near her sister, Joyce Munger Osborn '54. Although Carol has to be on oxygen 24 hours a day, she goes everywhere and has an active social life. Three mornings a week, she travels across town to a rehab center for exercises. After a mild heart attack last year, Joyce also goes to the center for rehabilitation.

Jimmie Ann McGee Collings' daughter, Sharon Collings Licata '77, won a top award at an art show for her stone carving "Reflections." Jimmie Ann says Sharon really is involved in doing stone carving, and so she went to Arrowmont in Gatlinburg in March for more training.

Marjorie Stukes Smith and five English friends flew from London Heathrow in March to attend the Quilters' Heritage Celebration in Lancaster, Pa. This is their second such jaunt under Marjorie's leadership, who enjoys working out all the details. This time, they stayed a full fortnight, taking in more sightseeing and shopping in that quiet corner of Pennsylvania with its charming Amish settlements.

Nancy Cassin Smith and Ralph miss their citrus trees in South Florida, having been among the many whose trees were destroyed to prevent the spread of cancer. Their travels have taken them to Ralph's 50th class reunion at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. They also drove to Branson, Mo., for several entertaining shows. Then, they toured Willamsburg, Yorktown, Jamestown and Carter's Grove, Va., to study the history of those places and to research their own family history.

Winifred "Winnie" Horton Martin has a new grandson, Ian Martin.

Betty McClain Ivy and Kelley specialize in day trips from their Norcross, Ga., home. Betty still teaches Sunday School and stays deeply involved with her grandchildren. Occasionally, she meets for lunch with Gail Akers Thompson, Winifred "Winnie" Horton Martin and Dorothy Adams Knight.

Gail Akers Thompson now understands why the computer is called "Beelzebub," as her daughter, Margaret Riffe, helps her learn how to use one. Gail is trying her hand at writing short stories; so far she has written three. The writing itself is no problem for Gail; the difficulty is in developing plots.

Sarah McKee Burnside is very proud of the successful Vision Fund and of all those who worked on it and have contributed to it. She is reminded of a line spoken by the character she played in Lee Blessing's play, Eleemosynary, which opened in early March in celebration of Women's History Month: "The secret of flight lies in the assurance that we are worthy of flying." Sarah is quite sure that the years at Agnes Scott are at least part of the foundation for that assurance.

In 1996 Catherine Crowe Dickman retired from her position as director of the Women's Center in Chapel Hill. In more recent news, she and William C. Ragland were married Jan. 2, 2000. Bill is a retired C.P.A. from Annandale, Va. They are happy in their new life together.

Muriel Gear Hart and husband Mac went to Ireland last fall on the Davidson College Alumni trip. They took another week to explore on their own, calling this the "week of living dangerously." Their adventure took them off the beaten paths into prehistoric sites and cemeteries. In 2000, their greatest joys were their youngest son's recovery from surgery for a rare cancer and their daughter's being approved for tenure at the institution where she teaches Shakespeare. Muriel is looking forward to the 50th reunion.

Anne Bottoms Wouters moved to Jasper, Ala., in April 2000 to be near her older son. Anne retired in April 1999 with great plans for travel. Unfortunately, heart problems and a recurrence of breast cancer have kept her close to home. She hopes, nevertheless, to be able to attend the 50th reunion in 2002.

Sylvia Moutos Mayson and husband Pen are taking advantage of his retirement as an engineering executive from the DuPont Company. Last summer they toured the southern coast of California, spending time in Laguna Miguel with Sylvia's ASC roommate of four years, Elaine Blane Vafiadis, and her husband Nick. The roommates plan to meet again at the 50th reunion. In family updates, sons Pen III and Mark have given Sylvia and Pen four grandchildren.

Last summer Susan Hancock Findley traveled to Alaska with Jim and Tom, their wives and six grandchildren. From Seattle they embarked on the Norwegian Sky cruise ship, stopping at the Sawyer Glacier, Haines, Skagway, Juneau and Vancouver. At Skagway they took the White Pass Railway along the same route used by Klondike stampeders during the Klondike Gold Rush. All proclaimed the trip a success. In November, Jim and family moved to Dharan, Saudi Arabia, where he works for Aramco as an environmental engineer. Tom remains in Tallahassee, "trying to stay out of the political fire." His partner represented one side of the dispute over the presidential election, while his firm's subtenants upheld the other side.

Dorothy Allison McDougall (Dottie) and Bill celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in August. Bill planned a night at the King & Prince Hotel where they spent their honeymoon and filled the room with 50 red roses. Dottie thinks they are probably the first couple from our class to celebrate the 50th anniversary. Congratulations!

Evelyn Bassett Fuqua merits special congratulations from all her classmates. She and Colonel Edwin Cook were married at sea on Dec.14, then enjoyed a Caribbean cruise and explored the Orinoco River in Venezuela while sailing.

Peggy Hooker Hartwein's section of Texas has had plenty of rain, so the bluebonnets were beautiful. Both Ken and Peg are active in their church, Memorial Presbyterian, in Fredericksburg, Texas.

The secretary was delighted to hear from Rosalyn Kenneday Cothran that she is relishing her retirement. Husband Bob is retired but travels everywhere helping regional theaters with scenic designs. Their three children are on the West Coast and like it. As for "Rosie," she plans to come to the 50th reunion.

The secretary also hopes that everyone has contributed or plans to give to the Comprehensive Campaign. She urges classmates who have not yet done so to contribute now, thinking especially of having a large sum for the 50th year celebration. Best of all, donations to class funds will be included in the Comprehensive Campaign totals, with no need for two checks.

At this time the new James Ross McCain Library was dedicated, as well as the new Wallace M. Alston Campus Center. Quoting Dr. Alston, Lou also led a prayer at the library dedication. Her daughter Carol Reaves Wilson '82 and granddaughter Elizabeth, age 13, were there as well. Mary says both buildings, built to serve a variety of needs for students, faculty, staff and alumnae, are "magnificent."

Maybe Judy Promnitz Marine will bring photo albums of her month-long trip to Kenya and India last fall with her to the 50th reunion, which is coming soon! It is rumored those photos will be well worth seeing. Are classmates making plans for that event? Including the photos to bring?

Managing to miss two Minneapolis blizzards, Barbara Northey Severinghaus and Tom celebrated his retirement with a January tour of Florida and South Carolina, including delightful visits with Martha Guillot Thorpe and Cotton Williams Sweat.

Mitzi Kiser Law says she and Fred are "still in a peripatetic mode;" they went to Ireland and Northern Ireland in October to visit old friends from the Ulster Project, in which they have been involved for 25 years. Each summer the project brings young Protestant and Catholic teens to Wilmington for a month to participate in a reconciliation program.

As full-time manager of the Cathedral of St. Philip Book Store in Atlanta, Jane Landon Baird says she is becoming an endangered species and requests that other classmates who are still working full time please let her know about it at 3960 Vermont Rd., NE, Atlanta 30319-1213, or 404-261-6177.

Connie Ormsby Verdi will retire June 1 as professor of sociology at Prince George Community College in Bethesda, Md., where she has taught for 31 years.

In March, Carolyn Randolph Delay and Jack traveled to the Big Apple to see four plays.

Mary Newell Bridges, Helen McGowen French, Julia Grier Storey, Lou Hill Reaves and Jackie Josey Hahne attended the eight-week winter seminar sponsored by the Atlanta ASC Alumnae chapter; this year the group studied Henry IV, Part I, and King Lear, taught by Jane Pepperdene.

Kathleen Stout Mainland stays very busy though she says she has "no news!" She works at the Tullie Smith House in Atlanta twice a week, reads on the radio for the blind, sings in two choirs (including Mozart's Coronation Mass with one in April) and was storyteller at a re-enactment in Darien, Ga., in March, as well as hosting a Turkish student to help him perfect his English for his studies at GSU. She and Lou Hill Reaves have lunched together. It is Lou's theory that "the best confidence—sharing companionship"—takes place at a table. Anyone disagree?

In March, Helen McGowen French went with a Fernbank tour to Turkey. She had to leave Ted behind because nowadays he has trouble walking more than short distances.

Addie Steans Morrison has four daughters, the youngest two of whom got married in 2000, and three grandchildren. She and Harold spend a good bit of each winter in Florida. They also enjoy traveling and went to France in 2000. Her two weeks in the Middle East have caused Addie to become passionately interested in the situation there and to ask, "What am I going to do when I grow up?"

The news editor, Nancy Lee-Riffe, wonders how many classmates, in the retiring phase of their lives, are asking themselves that same question.

Jane Zuber Garrison and Robert have recently moved to Highlands, N.C., where they had had a summer home, and are building for permanent residence. Their e-mail address is bobjane@yahoo.com. Robert is still practicing medicine, and Jane, who got her RN at Clemson in 1976, is still working part time. They have five children and seven grandchildren. They are expecting another grandchild in August. They stay in close touch with Cissy Schor Hall's husband Andy (whose e-mail is AndrewHall@backroads.net).

An article in The Atlanta Constitution titled "Three who dared: Women share fight against prejudice" recognized Constance Curry for her involvement in the American civil rights movement. Constance tells her story in Deep in Our Hearts: Nine White Women in the Freedom Movement.

Vivian Hays Guthrie reported seeing the following at ASC's fabulous Founder's Day Weekend: Julia Beeman, Gracie Greer Phillips, Pauline Waller Hoch, Sarah Petty Dagenhart and Susanna Byrd Wells. Convocation was moving; and yes, everyone sang "God of the Marching Centuries." The McCain Library addition and new Alston Student Center were awesome. The campus was beautiful everywhere. Tea in the library was a first (and last, the secretary is sure), but so elegant. Gourmet food was served on all four levels of the Alston Center. This was a very special occasion.

Jane Gaines Johnson and Ralph had a quick trip to Costa Rica in January and were off to Chile, Argentina, and Rio in February. They gathered a few friends together from their Boeing Travel Club, rented a boat and had a week's charter trip on the Amazon.

Mary Alice Kemp is working part time at Columbia Seminary, reading a great deal, beginning to work in the garden as the weather allows and is generally quite content with her life. She would like a man in her life but none that she meets seems "significant."

Sue Walker Goddard had a big family gathering to celebrate her mother's 92nd birthday, with her children's choir singing beautifully and correctly, their Christmas play complete with angel wings and halos—her best Christmas present! Day to day a steady schedule of church music work has been intensified by several choral concerts and organ recitals, one of which became her sixth CD of organ music.

Helen Jo Hinchey Williams and Roy met daughter Stacy and her family for a week of skiing in Colorado in February. Life is beautiful in Florida, but rain is needed.

Sarah Petty Dagenhart and Larry met Vivian Hays Guthrie and Shirley in Maine last summer. The four of them are going on a Davidson College trip to Russia. At home Sarah volunteers at the hospital neonatal unit and takes pleasure in knitting and smocking for the grandchildren. Larry is still practicing law, so they are in Charlotte mostly; but they spend as much time as possible at Wrightsville Beach.

Sara McIntyre Bahner and Max took a long-planned trip to India in the fall and were sad that the January earthquake made the lot of so many of its people even harder. Her activities include investing, liturgical dance, choir and being professor of a Sewanee Bible class in Old Testament Hebrew.

Mary Evelyn "M.E." Knight Swezey's daughter Mary has a solo exhibit of fiber art at a Richmond gallery. She is an M.F.A. graduate of Arizona State, on the staff at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and is married to a graduate student in biology at Virginia Commonwealth University. Daughter Margaret is in the Ph.D. program in medieval English at the University of North Carolina and presented a paper on King Alfred's law code this spring at a professional meeting in Kalamazoo. Her son Chris has a Ph.D. in geology and works for the U. S. Geological Survey in Reston, Va., where he just purchased a small townhouse. M.E. is auditing a course her husband is teaching at Union-PSCE on the thoughts of Reinhold Niebuhr and is appreciating it thoroughly.

For Betty Reiney Henley, dancing consumes much of her life; she is classified as a "silver dancer." She has taken on International style and its closed positions in waltz and foxtrot. For a major National Dance Association competition in March, she worked hard to win the "Best of Show" with a Pro-Am foxtrot. Readers will have to wait until the next edition for the outcome of Betty's efforts. Upcoming family events are granddaughter Carrie Henley's graduation from Emory and daughter Natalie Henley's wedding to a wonderful person. Son Walt Henley is president and part owner of a new business named Lasershift, Inc., all about broadband and optical carriers networking. Betty is helping the new music director by service playing (organ and liturgy) while he finishes his doctorate.

Catherine "Cathy" Lewis Callaway and Mayson flew to Israel in February. One night when they returned from dinner, they saw a man sitting in the hall two doors down from their room and another man two more doors down before the suites at the end of the hall. They soon found out that Prime Minister-Elect Ariel Sharon was staying there. A couple of nights later, Shimon Peres arrived. They later went to Camden, S.C., for a meeting at Camden Military Academy and had dinner with Erline Lide Vaughan and her husband.

Amazingly, the youthful class of 1956 celebrated its 45th anniversary this year! The next issue of MAIN EVENTS will carry classmates' news brought to the reunion event in April. The class appreciates all the effort that Elizabeth "Betty" Richardson Hickman and Louise Harley Hull put into planning a wonderful time of getting back together.

Over Christmas, New Year's and her 65th birthday, Jacqueline "Jackie" Plant Fincher luxuriated on a millennium Silversea cruise to Tahiti, Fiji, the Cook Islands and New Zealand, given to her by a retired professor she met on a Zurich-to-Atlanta flight. Winston Churchill II and royal biographer Andrew Morton were interesting guests. Jackie says to choose seatmates carefully. She also reports that daughter Jacqueline has received a national Physician of the Year award from the American Heart Association for her patients education program. In addition, Jackie's mother, Lucile Totty Homer, celebrated her 95th birthday. She is number 13 of 15 children, and she put herself through Peabody and Auburn, where she played basketball from 1924 to 1926. Mrs. Homer was cheered by the crowd when players from the '90s to the '20s walked onto the court and she was last. In other family news, after a difficult pregnancy, their daughter Andrea gave birth to Garrett, who joins 3-year-old Rachel. On the way from California, Jackie stopped in Las Vegas to see the Eiffel Tower, Paris Opera house, Statue of Liberty, Brooklyn Bridge, Sistine Chapel, Grand Canal, St. Mark's Square and Campanile, some of the latest architecture there. Finally, Jackie is building her third and last house.

Linda Guenther Christopher regrets that she will have missed the reunion as she makes final preparations for her daughter Elizabeth's marriage to Vincent Scarlata on May 19 at Pawleys Island, S.C. She is sure all classmates with daughters will understand her mother-of-the-bride jitters.

Nancy Burkitt Foy reports a "fantabulous" experience in Cambridge, England, with husband, Rob, for his 1999-2000 sabbatical year. They celebrated Christmas and New Year's in New York City with daughters Malinda, a transportation expert with degrees from MIT and Northwestern, and Elizabeth, who is in a master's program in public policy at Columbia. In January, she and Rob took students to London for 10 days and to Greece for two weeks.

Classmates watched with both pride and compassion the involvement of Harriet Griffin Harris' daughter, Katherine Harris '79, in the recent presidential election.

After being off the Agnes Scott College Board for three years, Nancy Thomas Hill is now serving on the College Campaign Steering Committee. She enjoys being back on campus again for meetings and seeing all the exciting things going on.

Jane Welborn Greene retired in the fall from the Georgia Association for Pastoral Care. She was hired 20 years ago by Helen Haynes Patton's husband, John. She highly recommends retirement for those who have not yet taken that leap.

Last July, Marijke Schepman Devries retired as doctor of oriental medicine. To celebrate her 65th birthday, her three children, their spouses, her seven grandchildren and her sister Anneke Schepman Corbitt '63 spent a wonderful week at Morain State Park in western Pennsylvania swimming, biking, fishing and canoeing. Marijke's children gave her an electric bike for the occasion.

Elizabeth Ansley Allan has retired from high school teaching and has spent her time traveling to Honduras, where she helped rebuild a house destroyed by Hurricane Mitch, and to the 37 islands of Hawaii. She has now visited all 50 states. Husband Frank retired as Episcopal Bishop of Atlanta. They have started a nonprofit art gallery called The Work of Our Hands.

Betsy Crapps Burch and her new husband, Donald, have also retired and are happy traveling. Their latest trip was a cruise from Budapest to Amsterdam. Their grandchildren, ages 3, 6 and 10, provide much enjoyment. Betsy is writing the history of Suwannee County, Fla.

Margaret "Margie" Hill Truesdale has gotten her certification in scuba and had four good dives in Grand Cayman. She then spent seven days rafting the Colorado River and hiking the Grand Canyon, only to take off to England for two weeks. These activities are in addition to making a couple of quilts, playing golf and tennis and serving on the session of her church.

Marilyn McClure Anderson spent a month last summer in England, Scotland and Ireland. She had a great time tracing some of her Scottish ancestors. Marilyn loves teaching art and American government at Clearwater High School. She says she is the oldest faculty member.

Marianne Sargent Duncan has an interior design business, working only by appointment. At the back of her house is a log cabin that she uses as her office. Husband Kap helps out when needed. Since all three of their children live close by, they stay busy with grandchildren. Marianne has had a small book, Speaking with the Father, published; and she is now doing a second edition. It is a collection of prayers she has written during 44 years of marriage, raising children and learning to live a Christian life. The class sends congratulations to Marianne!

2000 was an exciting year for Judy Nash Gallo. Her son, Roy, married in April and now has a wonderful 13-year-old stepson. Another welcome addition was a granddaughter born in Ireland in June to daughter Anne. Judy and her husband have made two trips to Ireland, but Anne and family arrived back in this country in time to join all the family for a most enjoyable Thanksgiving.

June Stokes Moseley reported that "Reader Connection," sponsored by the Atlanta Agnes Scott Alumnae, was an exciting success for her. Chris Ames, chair of the English department and Dr. Hayes's successor, lectured and led the discussion of White Teeth by Zadie Smith. Other events were a Caribbean cruise with husband Ron in February and another "Reader Connection" in April—this one with Waiting. Perhaps most anticipated of all is this summer's two-week seminar in art history at the Hermitage in St. Petersburg, Russia.

Just after reporting to the last MAIN EVENTS about Katherine "Kit" Sydnor Piephoff and her husband Zack's plans to move to Mooresville, word was received that Zack died unexpectedly before the move and that "Kit" is now in a new condo as of Feb. 2. The class sends heartfelt sympathy and love to "Kit," with the thankful reassurance that she will be near her children in Davidson and Charlotte.

The writings of Sue Lile Inman are included in Southern Dogs and Their People, edited by Roberta Gamble. Among the others whose writings were selected are William Faulkner, Lee Smith, Bailey White, Eudora Welty, Zora Neale Hurston, Anne Tyler, Larry Brown and Flannery O'Connor. Author Clyde Edgerton, married to alumna Susan Ketchin '70, wrote the introduction.

The secretary sends her apologies for missing news publication in March because of a mix-up in new deadlines during her December move from Florida to Georgia. This issue contains news written with March publication in mind plus the latest received information.

Margaret "Wardie" Abernethy Martin and Jim have three new grandchildren born during 2000, one to each of their three children. They travel frequently from Charlotte to Signal Mountain, Tenn., and to Atlanta to visit Jay, Catherine, Margaret and their families, including a new total of 10 grandchildren. Every year the Martins have a whole family reunion over Memorial Day weekend at their home in Montreat, N.C. "Wardie" and Jim have no retirement plans yet. His law firm and her work as administrative coordinator for the Charlotte Junior League keep them happily busy. They had a delightful trip to Scotland and England a year ago, but visits with family and friends are their top travel priorities. When she sent her news in February, "Wardie" was planning to attend the Founder's Day celebration at ASC with the dedication of new buildings.

After 31 years of sitting on an organ bench, Hazel King is happy being a choir member at her Episcopal church. In July, the 47-member group toured England and sang evensong in York, Cambridge, London, Canterbury, Winchester and Salisbury. Hazel continues to serve as assistant conductor and accompanist of the Charleston Children's Chorus but otherwise enjoys the freedom of retirement. Her granddaughter is Caroline Cooper Wilhelm '84.

Betty Lockhart Anglin teaches all the painting and drawing classes for the Fine Arts Department at Christopher Newport University. In recent years her watercolors have been used in instructional texts. Moreover, Betty still actively paints and exhibits her work. U.S. News ranked Christopher Newport numbers two and three for its division. During the past two years a new health center and gymnasium and two dormitories have opened. Summer 2001 will be the groundbreaking for the new Arts Center designed by the I.M. Pei architectural firm responsible for part of the Louvre and the east wing of the National Gallery in Washington, D.C. Betty and her arts colleagues eagerly await the new facilities.

Nancy Leslie Kearns sends her enthusiastic response to the letter with Class President Annette Teague Powell's news about the health and growth of ASC. Nancy missed the 40th anniversary reunion because of health problems, but she is now much better. Her health forced retirement from teaching English at Spelman College in 1991. Since retiring she has been traveling to England, Ireland and France, working on her book about Athol Fugard, the South African playwright. Nancy is collaborating with Simon and Schuster toward eventual publication. She and Jim live in the historic district in Columbus, Ga., and welcome contact from classmates passing through the area. This fall she will return to the classroom, teaching world literature and freshman composition at Columbus State University.

Audrey Johnson Webb is grateful for the love and support of her family, friends and church since Dick's death two years ago. She has continued his volunteer work with refugees, resulting in a touching, miraculous reunion between an Eritrean woman and her seriously ill, deaf mute son who initially was refused admittance to the USA when the rest of his family came from Ethiopia. In another encounter, a Vietnamese couple have become joyful Christians, rising above very tragic family circumstances. Last summer Audrey traveled to visit friends and family in Santa Barbara, Dallas, Savannah, Atlanta and Idaho from her home in Annandale, Va.

Ann Harvey retired as editorial director, SIPs, Oxmoor House Inc., in 1999. She says retirement is good, but 2000 was a difficult year for her and Fletcher with the sudden death of their daughter in February. We look forward to hearing more from Ann in 2001.

Janice Jones Conway and Glenn have moved from Ellijay, Ga., to Panama City Beach, Fla.

Lila McGeachy Ray and Dick welcomed two new grandchildren in 2000—Samuel Cole Ray and Catherine English Rand. These give the Rays five grandchildren. Lila and Dick are enjoying their third year at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. Lila takes classes and is an elder at Shadyside Presbyterian Church, while Dick teaches at the Seminary.

Paula Pilkenton Vail and Chip moved in October to smaller quarters in Roanoke in anticipation of his retirement sometime in 2001. They plan to divide their time between Roanoke and Myrtle Beach, S.C., where they bought a condo last summer. She sends greetings to all classmates.

Carol Promnitz Cooper received a music therapy certificate from Mu Phi Epsilon Music Sorority for participating in volunteer music programs around Atlanta. She also was awarded a guitar certificate from the Atlanta School of Music for classical studies and traditional hymns. Carol enjoys her pets, both dogs and cats.

Helen Smith Rogers and Sam relaxed with four months of travel after he retired in June 2000 from the Methodist ministry. They visited Europe, Florida and North Carolina, allotting much time to children and grandchildren. They had fun seeing former churches, too. Helen and Sam plan to return to involvement in the life of their last church, Tifton First United Methodist Church, after giving the new pastor time to "make his own place."

Annette Teague Powell joyfully sends news of two new grandchildren. Wilson "Will" Powell Flynt was born May 18 to Elizabeth and Mike Flynt. Victoria Caine Powell, daughter of Monteith and Holly Powell, made her debut on Sept. 24.

Carolyn Wright McGarity is in her seventh year of teaching Spanish at the Community College of Denver and loves it. She is also teaching Spanish at Children's Hospital to a wide variety of staff members. Although it involves much commuting, living in Boulder has its special rewards. Son John, his wife and two children live nearby. Megan is in Crested Butte, and son Charlie resides with his wife and daughter in Taos, N.M. Carolyn says "hi to everyone" and comments that "despite being far from [her] southern roots," she finds Boulder "a great place."

Ann Avant Crichton and husband Robin Beechey have settled in Atlanta. After 16 years in Brighton, England, with work in Eastern Europe, Africa and Japan, retirement and four grandchildren brought them to the United States.

Jane Weltch Milligan is busy with eight grandchildren and her 11th year of putting in 40-plus hours per week at Brandon Wilde Life Care Community in Evans, Ga. She writes that "husband David [is] still around doing groceries and meals in self-defense."

Mary Crymes Bywater's husband, Ted, has decided not to retire anytime soon, but wants to "slow down" and travel. The year 2000 proved an adventure as they visited Alaska, Barbados and, best of all, Peru, with their three adult children. They now have five grandchildren and find life "very good."

Harriet Smith Bates' husband, John, has a year of retirement under his belt with a new cluster of activities. He writes book reviews for a local newspaper, amazon.com and his own Web site, Readers Review (http://www.geocities.com/readersreview/index.htm). Their daughter, Robin, is a graduate teaching assistant in the Auburn University English Ph.D. program. Son Andrew is pursuing a master's degree in public administration at the University of Louisville while holding down a full-time job and helping raise two active little boys.

Cornelia "Pete" Brown Nichols has a granddaughter, Emily Margaret, born March 13, 1999, to son Billy and his wife, Susan.

Julia "Panni" Doar Grubb and husband Bobby had a pleasurable trip to Italy in September for his 60th birthday. They rented a villa in Tuscany, near Lucca. She keeps up with former classmates, Betty Mattern York and Mary Park Cross Ford, on her annual trips to Pawleys Island, S.C.

Alice Boykin Robertson and husband Tom are enjoying the extra time that retirement brings to travel to spend time with granddaughter Meagan and to visit their son, who lives in Lakewood, Colo. He is fulfilling his dream of working in broadcasting and sports by serving as program manager for Fox Sports Rocky Mountain.

Guthrie "Dutton" Lemmond Moore retired from the Durham Public Schools in 2000. She is happy gardening, reading, learning to quilt and volunteering at the public library; but "the best times are extra hours with [her] granddaughter, Laurie Ellen." She and Lang are on sabbatical in Washington, D.C., for the 2001-02 academic year.

Lucy Davis Harper is chair of the board of Adventure Unlimited, a nonprofit organization that runs camps in the mountains of Colorado and organizes national youth, family and adult groups for Christian Scientists. She and husband Ed now live in Miami, Fla., where they would love to entertain guests. Their daughter, Elizabeth, married to a Frenchman, lives in Paris and works at the U.S. Embassy. Son Peter, an artist, is located in Atlanta.

Alice Cochrane Swartout and husband Jake celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with their children in southwest Florida at a property they purchased in July 2000. All three of her children live in cities out of state. Having retired from occupational therapy, Alice has been getting back into pottery (wishing Mr. Westervelt were her teacher), various activities at church and her membership in Kiwanis International.

Ann Neal Womeldorf Noland rejoices in the birth of her first grandchild, Margaret Carrie Levin, to daughter Julie and her husband, Dan, both of whom are psychology professors at Case Western and Kent State, respectively. Her son, Daniel, who is doing his family practice residency in Virginia, recently married a nurse. Alice is delighted that "all three children are out of grad school and have jobs!"

Having retired from teaching, Elizabeth "Betsey" Hammond Moore enjoys visiting her grandchildren in North Carolina and Virginia as well as her 85-year-old mother in Georgia.

Eleanor Anne Christensen Pollitzer is another recent retiree. She finds that "after an initial month of frantic rushing about, trying to do everything that has been postponed for five years, [she is] trying to focus on one project at a time: the house, flower gardens, family pictures, VCR movie collection, etc." She and her husband, Rick, are able to do more boating and "airplane junkets." Anne also reports that all in her immediate family are well.

Harriett "Boog" Smith Henderson has nine grandchildren from the ages of 18 months to 14 years. She and her husband go to Georgia Tech games in the fall and Lake Summit in the summer, and she runs throughout the year to keep fit.

Mildred Lafon Zimmerman retired recently after a 38-year career at the Queens Borough Library. She is finding it fun to take life easy.

In December 2000, Joan Falconer Byrd and her sister, Mary Byrd Davis '58, joined family and friends in Hendersonville, N.C., to celebrate the 100th birthday of their mother, Joanna Inger Byrd. "What a blessing it has been to watch one who saw the 20th century from start to finish begin the new millennium with undiminished grace and spirit," Joan writes.

Eleanor "Bunny" Henry Coates is completing a graduate program in anthropology, continuing a photographic record at the classic Maya site of Copán, Honduras, as part of a University of Pennsylvania archaelogical project. She led a trip to Belize and Tikal in February, including three days of diving on Ambergris Cay (where Temptation Island was filmed). Both sons are married and living nearby; and first grandchild, Hayden Alexander, arrived in October 2000 and "of course, is wonderful."

In this the 60th year all have been very busy with travels, celebrations of birthdays and multiple additions of grandchildren. Although classmates have been good about sending information, the secretary has been a little slow about getting it out. She has the usual excuses: doing a major renovation on her house and having grandchildren. The house is still not finished; but life does go on, and carpenters, painters and bricklayers are not her life!

Suzanne Amidon Zoole was recognized in the December issue of Crosswalk for her iconography. She has been "drawn to iconography more through art than through monastic discipline."

Vivian "Biba" Conner Parker

had a great 60th birthday party in Houston, attended by about ten from the class of '62. The secretary wishes the class news had pictures!

Elizabeth Withers Kennedy and her husband, Jim, traveled across country for five weeks, saw their grandchildren and also took a trip to Italy.

Madelyn Eve Clow and her husband, Jim, have moved to a new home at St. James Plantation in Southport, N.C.

Judith Holloway Baum and husband Denis returned from six months in England, where Denis assisted at the parish church at Bakewell, Derbyshire, in exchange for the use of an 18th-century cottage and car of similar vintage! Judith traveled to Jacksonville, Fla., recently for her "routine laughter fix" with Betty Hopkins Stoddard. The Baums are spending four days a week in Panama City for a year, while Denis is the interim pastor at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

Susan Hoagland Fellows is teaching on the SS Universe Explorer Semester at Sea with the University of Pittsburgh. In addition to poetry, travel literature and global fiction, she is going to Cuba, Brazil, South Africa, Kenya, India, Malaysia, Vietnam, China and Japan! Susan also had a welcome visit with Kathy Norfleet Sisk and her husband, Ken.

Someone sent a card that said she had closed her marriage and family practice therapy to paint seriously and had a show of her interiors and Byzantine icons. She didn't sign the card, but guessing suggests it may be Suzanne Amidon Zoole.

Beverly Kenton Mason took a wonderful trip to Provence and Paris with husband Jim, daughter, son-in-law and granddaughters. She is working hard at Harry Norman Realtors, doesn't feel 60 or look it!

Elizabeth "Betty" Kneale Zlatchin's son, David, has joined her catering business. She and husband Carl travel quite a bit. They took a hiking trip to Sicily and spent Christmas in Paris. From a Spanish major, Betty has turned into a confirmed Francophile.

Since Lynne Lambert Andrews lives in Santa Fe, she was surprised to learn at an alumnae brunch of so many alums in New Mexico. She enjoys her grandchildren in Colorado.

Marjorie "Margie" Reitz Turnbull had a fine time at the mini-reunion at Sue Mustoe Lloyd's home in Rutherfordton, N.C. Nancy Bond Brothers, Edith Hanna Holt, Ruth Shepherd Vazquez, Penny Johnston Burns and Violet "Vicky" Allen Gardner were all there.

Ann Wood Corson celebrated her 60th birthday in Germany with Marijke Klein-Wassink Kutter. She is teaching and hopes to retire in '03. Ann's daughter, Claudia, lives in Denver.

Carolyn Benbow Coker was re-elected for a fifth term as property appraiser in Hardee County, Fla. She and husband Larry have four children.

Ellen Middlebrooks Granum went to Athens, Greece, with Jane Nabors Atchison and had a spectacular time. Jane travels a great deal, takes tours and knows about others. Ellen says that Jane is "a delight to travel with," but companions should "take their vitamins!"

Margaret "Peggy" Frederick Smith and Glen have entered into grandparenthood and agree that it is as satisfying as everyone says.

Laura "Ann" Lee Harris and her husband, Bill, had a welcome reunion with Norris Johnston Goss and her husband, Barry, on St. Simons Island. They hadn't seen each other for 20 years. Ann and Bill live in Americus and are very involved in the community there. This summer they had a great trip to Europe; the highlight was the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Their middle son, Lee, has opened an upscale restaurant in Tallahassee called Cypress.

Germaine Calhoun Culbertson and the secretary just returned from their annual trek to the Williamsburg Antiques Forum, where both had their usual enjoyable experience.

Sally Ann Rodwell Whetstone writes from Wilmington, N.C., that she and Jim welcomed their first grandchild, born on Nov. 21, to their son, Jamey, and his wife, Rebecca, who live in Calistoga, Calif. The new arrival is Hattie Meredith Whetstone, named for her grandmother and great-grandmother. Sally and Jim had their first visit with her in early January 2001. "So wonderful!" Sally wrote. Their younger son, David, was married in July in Brevard, N.C., and has completed his first semester of medical school at East Carolina University.

Nancy Duvall Hargrove continues to receive awards. She was named the Mississippi Professor of the Year 2000 by the Carnegie Foundation and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. This is a national award for outstanding undergraduate teaching. Nancy and Guy now have a second grandchild: Margaret Virginia was born last July 25 to Guy and Barbara Hargrove.

Frances E. Anderson received a Fulbright Scholar award for Argentina for the 2001-02 academic year. This is the first time an art therapist has been honored with a Fulbright. She will be affiliated with the Instituto Universitario Nacional del Arte (IUNA), a consortium of seven arts schools in Buenos Aires with 20,000 students. In June 2000, Frances lectured for two weeks in Buenos Aires at the IUNA to open the first art therapy training program in Central, Caribbean and South America. In October, she was named editor of Art Therapy: Journal of the American Art Therapy Association.

Nancy G. Miller retired to Jekyll Island, Ga., in 1998. She now has seven grandchildren.

As a violinist in the Washington, D.C., Friday Morning Music Club, Nancy Wasell Work played in a concert at the Kennedy Center in January. Nancy is a member of the vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church in Georgetown, Md. She and husband Henry are also on the National Cathedral Association's Washington committee.

In addition to her work as a potter, Scottie Roberts Wiest is doing some writing and lecturing about care giving. She says she "had not realized how many millions, mostly women, are giving their lives to care for a loved one."

Carolyn "Kelly" Mulherin Oates and Jack have four grandchildren—Nancy's Claire and Garrett, and Katie's Sam and Lucy. "Kelly" and Jack took a walking tour of England's Lake District in May 2000, covering 8-10 miles a day, but returning each afternoon for a proper tea in the old English manor where they stayed. With a group of adults from the church, they ventured in June on a 50-mile canoe trip down the Missouri Breaks, along part of the Lewis and Clark route. Then Jack and daughter Katie embarked on the same trip, shepherding the church's junior high group. "One hundred miles of canoeing isn't bad for a 61-year-old!" their Christmas letter exulted. Classmates can keep up with the many ministries of Jack's congregation at www.fpcmissoula.org.

Martha Griffith Kelley and Ralph became first-time grandparents July 23, 2000, with the birth of Brian Claybrook Wilmarth to daughter Jenny and her husband, Steve. Jenny, Steve and Brian conveniently live in Maryland, fairly close to Martha and Ralph in Annandale, Va. Son David is music director at a Lutheran church; and his wife, Kathleen, is an attorney. Younger son Robert is working on his Ph.D. in music theory at Florida State, "loving every minute." Martha and Ralph rented a truck and helped him move to Tallahassee right after Christmas.

When Jane Wallace Brosnan's husband, Dee, "matriculated at Retirement U." at the end of 1999, they left Florida for Keowee Key, S.C., about 10 miles west of Clemson. They are living in a rental while they build a house on Jane's parents' property on Lake Keowee. Daughter Sarah continues her doctoral studies in biology under behaviorist Frans de Waal, at Emory. Her work focuses on cooperation and reciprocity among primates. Last summer she presented papers at conferences in Austria and the Czech Republic. Susan graduated last spring from Baylor and works for IBM Global Systems in Raleigh, N.C. Last June, Jane and Susan spent three weeks in Germany, Austria and Poland.

Maria Wornom Rippe is researching the Wornom family genealogy, and through the Internet and telephone has "been reconnected to relatives all over the country." She plans to publish her findings. Her husband, Peter, retired in January 2000, but continues to serve with artist Pat Moss as a consultant and as president of the Moss Foundation for Children's Education. Their new condo in Richmond was completed last spring.

Mary Jo Beverly Limbird and Glenn moved last year to their "retirement" home in Fairview, N.C., where Glenn spent most of the year working on their house and remodeling a rental house for sale. Mary Jo is gardening (they "went a bit overboard purchasing bulbs") and substituting as a special education teacher. They are already active members of New Hope Presbyterian Church. Mary Jo sings in the choir and serves on the Christian education committee; Glenn is an usher. Last spring both helped build a Habitat house. Sons Mark and Jonathan are in Loomis, Calif., where Mark is a deputy sheriff and Jonathan does specialty auto bodywork.

Though Garnett Foster misses parish ministry, she is finding her duties at Louisville Seminary very rewarding—especially the parts dealing with spiritual formation and ministry placements. Before the outbreak of violence in the Middle East last fall, she led a group of Christian educators to Lebanon to teach a weeklong series of workshops for Lebanon and Syria. In October, Garnett spent 10 days in Cuba as a guest of the Cuban Presbyterian and Reformed Church. She found the country "sad" as "wonderful old neighborhoods disintegrate and the commitment to the revolution's vision of equality is gone." She adds, however, that "the church is alive."

Sue Keith-Lucas Carson and George are the presiding couple of their local Winston-Salem, N.C., Association for Couples in Marriage Enrichment. They have been elected to the National Board of ACME. Sue's volunteer work as a docent at Reynolda House has provided opportunities for art-related travel—most astonishingly, a "long weekend" in Ecuador in February. The trip was originally planned for 10 days but was cut abruptly to three because of economic protests that threatened to become violent. They still had time to see some of Quito and Hacienda La Ciénega in Lasso. Later in February, Sue took on an important work on behalf of the class: reclaiming the reputation of the class mascot, Harvey! Informed by daughter Jill '04 that the column in the student center listing all mascots described Harvey as a "bunny," Sue bombarded the Alumnae Office with information from Harvey Web sites, and soon had restored his proper title: "Harvey the Invisible Rabbit."

They began their sojourn with a visit to their son in Japan, then to St. Petersburg, Norway and Scotland before settling down in London. Marnie has a new children's book, Sleepy Me, due out in 2001 from Simon and Schuster. She hopes her classmates will look out for it.

Peggy Bell Gracey now has two grandchildren. Patrick Joseph Gerber was born June 1, 2000; and Caroline Marion Gracey arrived on Oct. 24.

Kay Harvey Beebe and Roger have moved back to Atlanta from Colorado.

Joining the ranks of the newly retired is Margaret Murphy Hunter. She was an employee at Hewlett Packard.

Suzanne "Poppy" Wilson attended the Founder's Day celebration held at Agnes Scott College this past February. Festivities included dedication ceremonies for a number of new facilities funded by gifts to the College. In addition to Poppy, Avary Hack Doubleday and Gerry, Susan M. Phillips and Clair McLeod Muller attended a Friday night student/faculty/alumnae and guests party held in the Egyptian Ballroom of the Fox Theater. The weekend also encompassed the Atlanta launch of the College's Bold Aspirations Campaign at the Buckhead Ritz-Carlton on Saturday.

The February 2001 Financial Times of London featured comments from Deirdre LaPin (Deirdre.A.LaPin@spdc.shell.com) concerning the attention to community development now being paid by multinational oil companies operating in Nigeria. Deirdre's efforts as a development consultant with Shell Petroleum Development Corporation (Royal Dutch Shell's Nigeria subsidiary) have contributed to the company's becoming one of the biggest donors to social projects in Nigeria's delta, with a 130-person community development department and an annual budget of $53 million. In Deirdre's view, moreover, Nigeria's poverty-stricken population has become more sophisticated in obtaining benefits from the oil companies, which have long profited from the country's petroleum resources.

For the third year, Ann Teat Gallant has been selected as one of the Top 100 Women in Maryland by The Daily Record. She was previously honored in 1999 and 1997; an individual cannot be chosen in successive years. The Daily Record is Maryland's business and legal news publication. To be considered for its award, a woman must be nominated by the business community, a chamber of commerce, women's organization or from the community-at-large. Ann will now be listed in The Daily Record's Circle of Excellence, profiled in a special magazine and recognized at a reception at Meyerhoff Symphony Hall in Baltimore. Ann is vice president of corporate communications for CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield. In personal news, she is a new grandmother to Seth Christopher Gallant.

Elizabeth Cooper sends greetings from Scotland, where she is spending two to three years as integration manager of British Petroleum's largest operating facility. Her responsibility is to align five different businesses into one operating complex (and to see as much of her ancestors' country as possible.) Elizabeth's daughter, Elizabeth Johnson, lives and works in Asheville; so Elizabeth has another scenic place to visit on trips back to the States.

Alsie Bell Churchman reports that "daughter Sarah Catherine Churchman graduated from UGA on Dec.16 (a semester early!) with a degree in religion, special emphasis in eastern and Native American religions." Alsie considers her daughter "totally unemployable until she gets a master's or Ph.D., but at least she graduated, and early even!" When Sarah first went to Athens, her favorite T-shirt proclaimed, "UGA—the best decade of my life." Knowing how long it took some of Alsie's friends' children to graduate, she was not encouraged or even amused. Sarah is "going to work and probably start graduate school next fall unless she decides to spend next year's ski season working in Steamboat, Colo."

Gabrielle "Gaby" Guyton Harrelson continues as a systems designer with BellSouth in Florence. Ron has retired from BellSouth and established his own business, the ChoreStore. They enjoy having three grandchildren in Florence: all girls, ages 3, 3 and 1. The grands are the children of Ron's daughter and son, as Gaby is, of course, "not quite that old . . . yet!" Gaby's son, Mitch, is a freshman at the University of Colorado in the school of engineering. This past fall Ron and Gaby traveled to Houston for the wedding of Margaret "Peggy" Whitaker Fisher's son. While there they had a mini-reunion with Margaret "Marnie" Henson Hogen and Lee, Charlotte Hart Riordan and Betty Whitaker Wilson. Gaby has also visited recently with Lynne Anthony Butler and Kevin and with Linda Woody Perry and Don in their new Atlanta home.

Classmates Sally Bainbridge Akridge, Lucy Hamilton Lewis, Christie Theriot Woodfin, Betsy White Bacon, Wallace Bryan Ribnik, Jeannette Wright and Ann Glendinning were among the visitors to campus for Founder's Day Weekend and the launch of the Bold Aspirations campaign. Ann Glendinning spoke to prospective students and their families who were attending Scholars' Weekend, which occurred at the same time. Sally Glendinning '33, Ann's mother, wrote children's books that were part of a display featuring alumnae authors in the new Alston Campus Center.

Betty Miller Layng had a memorable fall trip to England with friends and garden club members. Son Will graduated from the University of Georgia and worked on a volunteer anthropological project in Guatemala. Daughter Blythe is majoring in biology at Georgia.

Margaret "Peg" Barnes Carter and Rock took a vacation without children (a new experience for them). They joined a small group on a cruise to the Alaskan wilderness. She says their heads were swimming with the flora, fauna and geologic information they received.

Frances "Betty" Young von Herrmann has had a very busy year. In May, her son Martin graduated from Georgia Tech and in June married his high school sweetheart. Betty and her mother, however, worked in a trip to France between graduation and the wedding. Son Peter is a sophomore at the University of Alabama.

Glenda Goodman McKinnon and Bill have moved to Virginia Beach from their home of 25 years in Norfolk. Their son, Bill, is a neighbor. She says that Margaret "Peggy" Moore Hall '68 and her husband have bought the lot next to them and plan to build soon. Glenda would like to hear from Agnes Scott friends via e-mail: gmckinnon@mckinnonco.com.

Martine "Tina" Brownley was honored with a second endowed chair from Emory University, becoming a Winship Distinguished Research Professor. Her book Deferrals of Domain: Contemporary Women Novelists and the State was published last May by St. Martin's Press.

Dorothy "Dottie" Duval Nelson sounds like a busy lady! Not only is she president of the Foreign Relations Association of New Orleans and editor of the journal of the Louisiana Branch of the International Dyslexia Association; but she drives Hunter, 13, to soccer and e-mails Lee, 15, in school in New York.

Christine "Chris" Engelhard Meade celebrated another wedding in her family. Her daughter Elizabeth '00 married Ken Johnson in July 2000. According to Chris, the financial implications of two weddings in a year (daughter Claire was married in June) have their pocketbook suffering.

Marion Hinson Mitchell and Jack have finally finished the renovation of their house. Their son, Jack, is a rehab engineer in Knoxville; their daughter, Nancy, a therapeutic assistant on the psychiatry floors at the Medical University of South Carolina. Marion helped Nancy pre-celebrate her graduation from the College of Charleston by going skydiving. In other activities, Marion sings with a women's ensemble, the Greenville Chamber Singers, and rides horses with friends as often as possible.

Mary Anne Murphy Hornbuckle and Jon have their empty nest back since son Jay has moved to Memphis to take a job with Trammell Crow. Son David is still in Gainesville, in the process of forming a new band, and learning to play the accordion. Mary Anne was able to accompany Jon on a business trip to the Napa Valley; summer plans include joining friends to climb Mt. Le Conte, near Gatlinburg.

Carol Jensen Rychly and Bob are recovering from a very rocky year. Bob was hit by a car and suffered broken ribs and emergency surgery to remove his spleen. In addition, his dad, who had lived with them, died from lung cancer. On the brighter side, Carol's parents moved to Augusta and recently celebrated their 50th anniversary. Son David is completing his degree in chemistry at the university where Carol teaches. Son Matt is in the army stationed in Colorado Springs; he and his wife, Jill, are scheduled to return to Augusta before the fall. Busy writing her dissertation, Carol is looking forward to life afterwards.

Shelia Wilkins Harkleroad remains involved in ASC activities. She is a member of the Alumnae Board as well as the Annual Fund Alumnae Committee and serves as the Reunion Giving Chair. She finds that the Agnes Scott network is really a blessing. Recently she had to move her Dad and was able to set him up with her daughter, Susan Harkleroad '96, as a roommate in the home of Peggy Johnston Nesbit.

As moving nightmares retreat into memories, Carol Blessing Ray and Billie have settled into their new house in Sarasota. They keep binoculars handy for watching the birds on the lagoon and for spying on the resident alligator.

Gayle Wunder Hock says "better late than never" is her rule of thumb. She has been married for 30 years and has two daughters. After one of her daughters, 21, graduated from James Madison University in May, she married and moved to England with her Air Force husband. Her other daughter is a freshman dance major at Allentown College and part-time U.S. Park Ranger. Gayle herself is currently the school social worker for her county, teaching at a local community college and becoming certified in American Sign Language.

Carol Hill Hightower has had a wonderful year with international students at Georgia Tech, especially the Chinese. She works through the Westminster Christian Fellowship (Presbyterian Center) on the Tech campus and with the Chinese Friendship Association to show Chinese students hospitality and to link them with the church. Carol issues an open invitation to anyone who might like to join her in this adventure.

Margaret Gillespie Sewell wants to express her appreciation for the messages of support from all her Agnes Scott friends during her illness and recovery. She is continuing her volunteer work, particularly with the Mississippi Symphony, for which she serves as vice president for education on the Board of Governors. She is also on the volunteer council of the American Symphony Orchestra League.

Ruth Everett Whitehead (ruthholmes@hfx.eastlink.ca) writes to catch classmates up on all her news. She lives in Canada and is doing research and writing at the Nova Scotia Museum. Her current project concerns a group of black men and women who escaped to Nova Scotia from South Carolina in 1783 during the American Revolution. Ruth has written extensively on Canadian Native Indian cultures (especially on the Mi'kmaq First Nations people). Currently Ruth is on disability leave while orthopedic surgeons decide what to do with the faulty discs in her back. Her daughter and son-in-law reside in Toronto.

Letitia "Tish" Frances Lowe has thoroughly enjoyed traveling this past year, not only with business, but also on her own. Her destinations included London, India, Sri Lanka, Argentina, Peru, Chile, Germany, Italy, Turkey, Paris, Rome and Ireland. Can classmates say they are envious?

Rebekah Hall Robertson has been quite occupied, too. She and Butch are bursting with pride over their twin girls, Joanna and Emily, who will graduate this year from college and are in the midst of planning and performing their senior music recitals. The younger twins, Adrienne and Kathryn, are freshmen in high school and keep Rebekah busy getting them to after-school activities in music and dance.

Sue Weathers Crannell's son, Scott, is majoring in computer engineering at Georgia Tech; daughter Chole is in psychology at the University of Florida.

Ruth Hyatt Heffron's oldest son, Trey, has moved to Seattle to work for a software company; and her younger son, Jason, has been accepted at the University of Texas Graduate Business School in Austin. Since Jason's wife, Laurie, is a Texan, Ruth and husband John visited with Laurie's parents in Texas this winter. They took in the Houston Rodeo and checked out the University of Texas.

Edith "Edi" McLeod Guyton has been appointed associate dean for educational co-reform of the College of Education at Georgia State University. Edi says that in her position she will have much contact with schools and community leaders in efforts to improve education at all levels. Her third and last stepson was married this fall. Now all three are married and homeowners in Wisconsin, Illinois and Pennsylvania. Edi has two delightful grandchildren. Daughter Gabrielle was their fifth and last college graduate—from the University of Georgia last spring. Gabrielle lives in Charleston, S.C., while her sister, McCall, works in Washington, D.C.

Paula Hendricks Culbreth began a new job in June 2000 as senior project manager for Quintiles Laboratories, a company that tests patient specimens from clinical trials for drug development. Her son Bert is a senior at Georgia Tech and is spending a semester in Australia and New Zealand. Son Paul is a freshman at Georgia Southern. Paula's husband, Al, is doing retirement seminars and investment counseling.

Caroline Turner's stepson, Noah, graduated from Lehigh last June. Her son, Justin, and daughter, Ashley, graduated in May, one week apart: Justin, from the College of Santa Fe; Ashley, from Vassar. Caroline is senior vice president, General Counsel and Secretary of Coors Brewing, where she has been for 15 years. In 1999 she was named Outstanding Alumna from the University of Denver College of Law; in 2000, Corporate Woman of the Year by Women's Vision Foundation for championing women in the workplace.

Jo Perry Ely's husband, Randy, has written and published his first book, Sweet Dreams and Flying Machines. It can be ordered from 1stbooks.com, amazon.com or barnes&noble.com. Jo and Randy welcome comments after classmates read the book. Jo is doing well working with her company HealthELY in the areas of fitness and wellness.

Bernie Todd Smith gave a presentation at a conference held by the American Library Association and the National Library of Medicine in Washington, D.C. While in Washington, she had dinner with Frances "Bunny" Folk Zygmont.

Patricia "Tricia" Lindsay Green loves living on the West Coast, having returned to Atlanta only once since graduation, although she visits family in North and South Carolina. After 20 years in Seattle, Tricia and husband Don are living in Santa Barbara.

Lyn Corder's daughter, Maureen, a junior at Baldwin-Wallace College, spent a semester in Ecuador, with sojourns in Peru and the Galapagos Islands. Son Cory worked last summer in Chicago and volunteered for Ralph Nader's campaign. Ryan is studying at Stony Brook University. Lyn enjoys her work with the University of Buffalo School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences. Last year she traveled to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, in addition to hiking in Utah and Death Valley.

Margaret "Peggy" Thompson Davis' daughter, Lauren, a sophomore at Agnes Scott College, is majoring in astrophysics. She has accepted a summer internship at the Jodrell Banks Observatory in the U.K. Daughter Sarah graduated from the University of Virginia in May 2000 and is in strategic planning with EDS in Dallas. Peggy is working for an interior designer in Jacksonville.

Katherine Setze Horne and husband Bo are planning their retirement home on Lake Hartwell in South Carolina. They are also enjoying their grandson, Bradley James Horne, born Dec.18, 1999.

Jane Duttenhaver Hursey spent five weeks in France during summer 2000, teaching American students in a joint-enrollment program in Toulouse. Then, after the students returned to Atlanta, she spent a week with husband Howard in Paris. Jane teaches French at Stone Mountain High School. Her daughter, Lorraine, is a freshman at the University of Georgia; son Christopher is a junior in high school.

Carlene Kirkman Dockery lives in Blairsville, Ga., and commutes to Atlanta about twice a week, but loves the peace of the mountains.

Dianne Floyd Blackshear-Wood's husband, Gene DuVall Wood, died suddenly on May 29, 2000. With the love and support of her parents, Agnes and Lamar Floyd, her twin sister, Cynthia Floyd Sikes, and her daughters, Allison and Devon Blackshear, she has gotten through this difficult time. She also has three stepchildren, five step-grandchildren and a church family at St. Catherine's Episcopal Church in Marietta. Dianne works at Wellstar Kennestone Hospital as a medical technologist. The class offers sincere sympathy to Dianne.

Kaaren Hunt Lyle's mother, Betty Miller, passed away in July 2000, after a two-year battle with cancer. The class also sends sympathy to Kaaren. In August 2000 Kaaren's husband, Elmer, was transferred to the headquarters of Verizon Wireless in Bedminster, N.J., and appointed executive director. The family has moved to Riegelsville, Pa., and Elmer commutes 40 miles each way. Kaaren is enjoying the country setting and tending to the nearly four acres. Son Greg Sadosky graduated from Ohio State in March 2001.

Helen Tyler McFadden has served as parliamentarian for the Democratic National Committee since 1996 and on the team of parliamentarians for the National Convention in 1996 and 2000. She spent a week in September on a walk/bike tour of Tuscany with Sharon Roberts Henderson and Sharon's husband, David. Tyler regrets not having been able to attend the reunion, but was committed to act as parliamentarian for the Wisconsin Education Association Council.

Charlotte Stringer Stephens has relocated in Louisiana and taken a position as associate professor in the College of Business and Administration at Louisiana Tech University, where she has the opportunity to work with doctoral students. In December she spent two weeks in Australia, presenting papers at a conference and admiring the beauty of the country, including Surfer's Paradise, Ayers Rock, Great Barrier Reef, Sydney and the Blue Mountains. An astronomy program about the Southern Hemisphere constellations, conducted in the outback near Ayers Rock, was the highlight.

Patricia "Pat" Austin is on the faculty at the University of New Orleans; her specialty is children's literature. She has written dozens of articles in educational journals about children's books, children's authors and kids' responses to literature. Now Pat's first picture book, The Cat Who Loved Mozart, illustrated by Henri Sorenson, has been published by Holiday House.

Pam Westmoreland Sholar experienced a memorable trip to South Africa. She visited the Cape of Good Hope, the wine country and the Garden Route to Knysna, also going through the Swartzenberg Pass to Outshoorn. Other highlights included visits to Ostrich Farms and Cango Caves. Back home in Mooresville, N.C., she started a new business with nutritional products and moved her oncology practice to a new office. Looking for a partner, she asks to be called if anyone knows of a medical oncologist "seeking to improve her lifestyle."

Now that her nest is empty, Paula Wiles Sigmon seems to be working harder than ever as product marketing director at Mercator, a software company in Connecticut. Sons Jeremy and Eric are freshmen at Washington University in St. Louis and Vanderbilt, respectively. Noting that the next big reunion for the class is just one year away, she asks that classmates send her their e-mail addresses to facilitate communications and planning for the big event.

Ann Yrwing Hall reports that her son, Phillip, is a senior at Venice High School, Venice, Fla. In December, the Venice Indians won the 5A Florida state championship in high school football. In February, 11 Scotties retreated to Sea Pines, Hilton Head, for an in-depth study of ya-yas, steel magnolias, sweet potato queens and birthdays hovering around the half-century mark. In true ASC tradition, they allocated a portion of their time to quoting favorite passages from books, singing "God of the Marching Centuries" (all verses) and discussing current topics of interest concerning church, state, technologically advanced children and Chaucer. The rest of the time was dedicated to the consumption of chocolates and chips, the playing of Chicago, Credence and Three-Dog Night and shopping in silver convertibles (also in true Scottie tradition). Looking even better than they did in the '70s (who doesn't?) were Sally Bryant Oxley, Janifer Meldrum, Mary Paige Lucas, Margaret "Meg" Lines Thrash, Fortunately, Allyn's husband, Rick, works for Costco Wholesale; so one can imagine a great deal of bulk buying. Their oldest son, Claude, is at James Madison University; second son Bryan is considering Georgia Tech as one of his college choices for the fall. Biggest plans on the horizon for Allyn and Rick involve a trip to Africa this summer to celebrate Rick's 50th birthday. Bon voyage!

Last Christmas Lily Chan spent a delightful holiday in the San Francisco bay area, relaxing and visiting with family and getting in a bit of business as well. She and her husband, Choy-Heng, along with son Michael, devoted one of the holiday weeks to the mountains of Tahoe for skiing and enjoying the food, wine and roaring fire of the ski lodge. Lily anticipates another year of travel, with Boston and Durham, N.C., on the agenda for the East Coast.

Margaret Carter Altom and Kathryn Bireley Plouff visited Jill Worthey Cox's spectacular historic home in La Grange, Tenn., for a weekend last summer. They had a delightful time catching up with each other as if they had never been apart. In addition, they helped Jill feed and take care of all her animals—horses, dogs, cats and a burro. They also rode Tennessee walking horses through the farms of Jill's neighbors, even getting on Jill's champion walker, Gold. At home, Margaret had the pleasure in the fall of having daughter Kelsey, a senior at SMU in Dallas, in the guest quarters while completing her last semester this fall. She reminds Margaret so much of herself. Since Margaret and her husband travel extensively for business, it was comforting knowing that Kelsey was at the house taking care of everything.

In early December, Lee Dillard, Susan Mitchell Crawley and Betsy McDaniel got together for their 15th annual "Girls' Christmas Weekend." They had great fun touring the mansions in Newport, R.I., shopping and celebrating the holidays in Boston.

Melissa Mills Jacobs is teaching communications at Palm Beach Community College. Their daughter, Julia, is a sophomore at Emory, while daughter Lin, whom she and husband Dan adopted from China in 1998 (on their 19th wedding anniversary), is now 4.

Elizabeth "Buff" McIlrath-Jordan lives in Neptune Beach, Fla., with four of her blended family's seven children still at home. Oldest daughter Sarah McIlrath is a senior at ASC. Buff keeps the books for the family's computer consulting business.

Carol Ann Asbell married Mike W. Payne on June 18, 2000. Nita Whetstone Franz '75, Josette Alberts Bulnes '77 and Genevieve New Chaffee and their families attended the ceremony. Carol and Mike both retired from Herman Miller Inc., and live in Alpharetta, Ga.

Harriett Graves-Beckley is battling a second bout of breast cancer. She had just finished chemotherapy and was anxiously awaiting surgery when she wrote last fall. Son Graves is a sophomore at Sewanee; daughter Betts is a junior in high school and plays lacrosse; and stepdaughter Angela is a junior at the University of Kentucky.

Patricia "Patty" Pearson Whitner reports that, in addition to helping plan the reunion, she was "rocking along doing the twins in third grade kind of thing."

After an 18-months' hiatus from working, Susan Grier Bennett made a career change and is now happily teaching English part time at the College of Southern Maryland. Older son Bradley is a freshman at Swarthmore College, while 17-year-old Will hopes to attend art school next fall. Hallelujah, there is light at the end of the motherhood tunnel!

After almost two years with First Citizens Bank in Communications, Ellen Fort Grissett has a new job as senior account executive with a public relations agency specializing in healthcare/high-tech accounts. Her son is a June graduate from Woodberry Forest anxiously awaiting college responses Their daughter, Megan, also completed the eighth grade in June. Ellen continues to get together with Patricia "Pat" McWaters Lehman, Dana deWitt Truitt, Eleanor McCain, Nancy Burnham Stephens and Patrice Davis at least once a year for a "girls' weekend." She stays in touch with Lois Turner Swords, too, while writing and trying to maintain sanity as a single mother of two teenagers.

Lydia Wilkes Barfoot and Alan have three children: Adam, a sophomore at Georgia Tech and soccer player for Christian Campus Fellowship; Allyson, a high school sophomore, who loves running cross-country, performing in One Act and playing soccer; and Alex, a 5th grader and eager participant in soccer and anything else that involves a ball and competition. In between running the kids around, Lydia has enjoyed working part time for eight years at the Technical College.

Susan "Susi" Pedrick McWilliams and Robert have three boys—Robert Jr., 16; Larry, 14; and John, 11. Since all three adore sports from tennis to football and Robert Jr. is thinking seriously about going to Georgia Tech, the family went to the Peach Bowl to cheer for Georgia Tech. Susie practices law in Columbia, S.C.

Mary Anne Barlow, fifth grade magnet teacher in DeKalb County, was voted Evansdale's Teacher of the Year by her colleagues. She is also one of ten finalists for the County's Teacher of the Year honor. An article about Mary Anne's recognition at Evansdale commented, "The honor does not come as a great surprise to those who know her, for she gets high marks and praise from both parents and colleagues." Mary Anne is a math and science teacher and sponsors the safety patrols, plays the piano for the school chorus and serves as an advisor for students in Mathfax. For relaxation, she has six cats, two birds and a Jack Russell terrier named Molly. She loves tennis and her 4.0 USTA team.

Anne Alexander Patterson and David spent the Christmas holidays with their two children, Michael and Sarah, snow skiing in Utah.

Ruth McMullen Bursi and husband Phil enjoyed having their four sons home for the holidays: John and his wife, Shana, from Jackson, Miss.; Chuck on a break from the Air Force Academy; and Alex and Tommy, who are still in junior and senior high.

Linda Shearon loves to ride horses and tries to do so at least once a week. During 2000 she went to the beach with friends in June, sailing school in July and in October met Sarah "Sally" Shurley Hayes in Charleston for a long weekend. It was a great time for catching up and eating some delicious food.

Susan Smith Perry and Mike enjoyed a trip to Europe with their three children. Two are at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Eva Katherine "Kathy" Oates Roos, Steve and their daughters, Rebecca and Deborah, moved to a new house, where they quickly hosted Rebecca's cross-country team for dinner. Kathy teaches piano.

Lynn Wilson McGee, her husband and four boys are back in the states after three years in West Yorkshire, England. They cherished their time there. Now they are living in Columbus, Ohio.

With their two children, Steven and Jennie, Melinda Morris Knight and her husband, Graeme, had a special family wedding gathering at sister Jennifer's wedding in Florida. They all participated in the ceremony and had a memorable time.

Juliette "Jet" Harper visited Cindy Hodges Burns and her family for a fun-filled weekend in Little Rock. They drove to Newport, Ark., and had lunch with Cindy's mother, which was a real treat for all.

Kathryn Hart Bissette and husband Mack adopted a boy, Nathan Hart, born on Sept.18. Ella is enjoying her new role as big sister.

Amy Mortenson Thorne and her family have returned to the states after three years stationed in Okinawa, Japan. She now works as an anesthesiologist at Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton, Calif. She and her husband, Chris, are building a house in Carlsbad and hoping to move in by the time this news is in print. Chris is an instructor at the Field Medicine School at Camp Pendleton. Christopher is 5 and loves kindergarten. David, 2, wants to do everything his big brother does. Amy states that except for housing prices and traffic, they like California.

Maria Inserni Requero is homeschooling her three children: Nika, 10, Jon Paul, 9, and Katia, 6. She is practicing law on a "doing-favors" basis and is president of the Suzuki Violin Association of Puerto Rico. Maria is also starting an information resource center for Puerto Rico and the Caribbean for anyone interested in homeschooling. Husband Juan is an assistant district attorney and coaches Jon Paul's baseball team. Maria enjoys her various activities, especially the mothering ones.

In spring 2000 Marion Mayer Crabb received her master's degree in music from Georgia State University. She is now teaching voice and music appreciation part time at Gordon College in Barnesville, Ga. She writes that the experience has given her a whole new level of respect for her ASC professors.

Bonnie Armstrong excitedly writes of the birth of her second child, Conner Faith, born on Oct. 3, 2000. Since the event, Emily Sharp has called several times to offer her "seasoned mom" advice. Bonnie and her growing family moved out of their "treehouse" and into a structure big enough to accommodate everyone.

Laurie McBrayer Coleman is serving as the 2001 Chair-Elect of the Festival of Trees.

Secretary Margaret Kelly Parry wants to thank all those who sent in news. She encourages all the '83 Boy Scouts to send her news and promises not to miss any more deadlines! Margaret celebrated her 40th on Feb. 11 this year and gave herself gifts of guitar lessons, two backpack trips through the Smokies and a new Flat Coat Retriever puppy. In family news, her husband, Dick, is a group vice president of sales at Fidelity Investments. Kelly is 11 years old and Jack, 7.

Shari Nichols Clifton is living in Brunswick with husband Stuart and two sons Ben and Will. Both boys are on their school chess team. Shari discovered that an ASC alum, Nancy Leasingdale Purcell '76, is a teacher at the boys' school! Stuart holds a position with the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center. Shari was able to get together with Kathy Nelson Brownlee, who has a home in Marietta with her husband, Dave, daughter Melissa and son David. Kathy has a position with Mercy Housing and is overseeing a project in Savannah, Ga. Shari reports that Cathy Zurek Lopez is in the process of moving to Mexico City. She and husband Felipe have accepted new positions with the German company Haarman & Reimer.

BIRTHS
- Nathan Hart, adopted son of Kathryn Hart Bissette and Mack, Sept. 18.

Kari Walters Banks and husband Burt announce the birth of their daughter, Kathryn Faye Banks, on Sept.18. Congratulations! Kathryn is in good company with her brothers Andy, Will and Tom; and the secretary is sure they will all keep Kari and Burt hopping. The new addition is truly a joy and celebration of life as Kathryn's brother, John Banks, died on Oct.19, 1998, following open-heart surgery. Everyone is an angel and a blessing, a point to keep always in minds and hearts.

Allyson Parr Beckley's planned expansion of the house should begin in the fall, when construction is slated to start. She and her husband feel wholly responsible for ending the drought of the South. Good luck!

Doris Butler Truax and family moved from Raleigh, N.C., back to Selma, Ala. Her husband, Jim, quit International Paper to take a job with the family jewelry store. Doris has opened her own shop, Truax & Company. She carries antiques, silver and gifts, and says she is having the time of her life. Her son, Andrew, is in third grade, and they are all happy to be back near the grandparents.

Amy Durand Black is still in the army as a captain. Wow! She was recently reassigned from Korea to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, as chief, officer strength management, U.S. Army Medical Command. Amy lives in San Antonio with her two sons, William, 11, and Joseph, 4.

Susan Danztler Armagost keeps busy "volunteering for everything" and being a hard-working homemaker with three children, Adam, 10, Eric, 7, and Ansley, 3. She and Glenn now live in Fayetteville, Ga.

Laura Salter Braaten bought a new home in beautiful rural upstate New York. Rick is tenured with Colgate University. Congratulations to him! Laura says she would love to hear from fellow Scotties. Her e-mail address is lbraaten@dreamscape.com.

Laura Fleming McKellar is now a mom of three beautiful children: Meghan, 10, David, 6, and Kary, 9 months. She quit her full-time graphic design position at the Christian Index but now does some freelance work. Her husband, Rusty, works with Pattillo Construction in Tucker, Ga. They attend Briarlake Baptist Church in Decatur.

Eileen Altman, husband Mark and Peter, 5, live in Santa Cruz, Calif. Mark is the database administrator for Lightsurf Technologies. Peter is an active and happy kindergartener, who keeps Eileen busy and active, too. She volunteers at Peter's school and at Jacob's Heart Children's Cancer Association. Moreover, she coordinates the K-4 Sunday School and is in her third year of EFM, a four-year program of theological education for lay people. Eileen is sorry she missed the reunion but has been making several trips south to see her mother, who is battling lung cancer. Classmates are equally disappointed about her missing the reunion, but certainly wish her mother good health and both of them well.

Sarah Bell Meekhof, another hardworking homemaker with four kids under the age of 8, says things are crazy in good old Northern Virginia. Her husband, John, has now completed most of his executive MBA program at Georgetown. In her spare time (between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m.?), Sarah volunteers at her kids' schools, plays the piano (this, of course, keeps everybody awake in the wee hours of the night), jazzercizes and works in the inner healing ministry at her church.

Katherine "Katesy" Moffatt Watson has been promoted to vice president of communications and marketing at the American Gas Association, located on Capitol Hill, which represents gas utilities. She says she is sorry she can't help classmates with their gas bills. Katesy spent a month this fall working at all of the presidential debates at the request of the Bush campaign. She traveled to each site and checked with TV stations to make sure they had a Bush representative on their news programs. After the debates, Katesey conducted "spin alley," which, she says, is a little bit like a media mosh pit, but exciting if the spinner can keep from being trampled underfoot. Sounds exciting!

Sharon Bennett Linxwiler has been to India on an assignment. She visited the Taj Mahal and the Lotus Temple in Delhi. She was amazed to look up at times on her way to work and see an elephant, a string of camels or a herd of sheep or goats holding up traffic. (Reminiscent of Dr. Suess' Mulberry Street?)

The secretary heard from Elizabeth Stevenson Fairleigh last month after writing that she was looking absolutely fabulous and driving a stunning red Porsche boxster. She is still looking fabulous and the Porsche will not change, but something special is in the air. Classmates should read carefully in the next issue of MAIN EVENTS.

Carol Buterbaugh Hayes visited Tokyo in October 2000 and marveled at the changes to her old neighborhood. In November, she visited Italy, Nice and Switzerland with her husband, Ed, and their two children, Lauren and William. They currently live in Dunwoody, but are considering a move to Buckhead in order to eliminate some of the mileage from her 50-mile-a-day carpool commute. Ed was recently elected vice president, science, of The Coca-Cola Company.

Finally, if the secretary does not write this one, Belinda Yandell will personally see that she is tarred and feathered. After years and years of hard work and determination, Belinda is finally a published author. Last summer The Audio Book Club held a short fiction contest last summer and the winner (Belinda!) will have her work produced as an audio book. She is thrilled to have signed a real, genuine, honest-to-God contract, complete with royalties and all. She cautions everyone not to "hit her up" for a loan just yet. The line will form only after the first movie deal. The short fiction will be read by a professional actor and should be available by the time this article is printed. Her story, "Small Change," has received glowing reviews; but Belinda assures the secretary no pay-off was involved. Readers should check on www.audiobooks.com. Belinda implores every alumna, as well as every person she has ever known, to run out immediately and buy her book. It is not for her own personal gratification, but so that dear old ASC can claim yet another esteemed author among its graduates. She is indeed very excited. Congratulations, Belinda!

As for Kristen Sojourner Burgess, she is happily teaching art and music at the Boulder Country Day School in beautiful Boulder, Colo., and loving it. (Of course, this is being written during holiday break, so teaching looks pretty darned good right now.) Larry's company, Array Biopharma, finally went public in November 2000. It's not raining cash yet, but one never knows. The prospects are good. And the kids—Ben, 11, Meri, 8, and Sam, 4—are all doing well and keeping parents busy, but not too busy to write. The e-mail address has changed. After classmates make a note of it, they will please communicate: kristen.larry@home.com.

Elizabeth Lee Webb has a new job with the Georgia Department of Education as Program Specialist for Foreign Languages and International Education. This is an additional challenge for her as her young twins are very demanding of her time.

Anna Cheshire Levitan calls a lovely five-story brownstone home in downtown Boston. Moreover, for her, coordinating five children, a husband and a dog in the city constitutes "a ball." Anna also works as a part-time personal trainer and teacher of dance to children 3-5 years old.

Maria A. Gonzalez has been board certified in internal medicine. She stays incredibly busy in the emergency room at the V.A. Hospital in New Orleans.

Last summer Julie Kilgore Willis and her husband, Mark, took their two children to explore castles in Germany. Then they met with the rest of her family and went hiking in the Swiss Alps. Julie has now retired from her job as a children's minister in order to become a full-time mom.

Laurel Seibels Justice and her husband, Steve, and four children are living happily in Colorado Springs. Last fall they adopted a little girl, Anna, from China. Laurel works at home as a writer and artist while Steve is a consultant for Christian Ministries.

Sandra "Sandy" Dell Futch and Trey are at home in Lawrenceville with their two girls. She is teaching preschool and directing the preschool choir. On most fall Saturdays they can be found at the Georgia Tech football games. On one such occasion, the family traveled to the Tech/UNC game and met with Jan Clapp Bomar '87 and family.

Caroline Chestnut Leslie is a registered landscape architect practicing in Atlanta. She is still riding and showing American saddled horses. Recent projects have included a community playground in Decatur, apartment renovations, subdivision entrances and residential jobs.

Jennifer Aultman and her partner, Michelle, took a Thanksgiving trip to Rome and Naples.

Mary Carter Whitten visited Estonia in the summer of 1999 on a Fulbright grant. Last summer she traveled to upstate New York to visit Karen Green. During that same period Mary hosted 18 East European teachers for a Fulbright-funded course in Washington, D.C., and Georgia.

Valyn Roos Erickson has taken on the added responsibility of networking chair for the Washington, D.C., chapter of the ASC Alumnae Association. She has also been on an extended project in Miami. This gave Valyn the opportunity to catch up with "Tricia" Maguire, who was recently found living in Miami. Tricia is serving in the PGI Executive Destination Management Service. She puts together travel plans and itineraries for corporations, keeping her constantly on the go, moving around different travel destinations.

Since 1995 Elizabeth "Nancy" Hardy Noe has been practicing law with Paul, Hastings, Janofsky and Walker, LLP. Effective in February 2001, Elizabeth was elected a partner in the Atlanta office.

Tom and Nancy Carter Cooke celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary on the Mediterranean without daughter Erica. During a wonderful 10-day cruise, they explored the sights of Florence, Rome and Pompeii, Italy, several of the Greek isles and Turkey.

Martha Kate Beckum Leonard and her two children have returned to Atlanta. Kate is fulfilling her busy role as mom and taxi driver.

Hope Hill-Westphal and her husband, Mark, have a new addition to their family: Julia Anne Westphal. Julia was welcomed by her two siblings, Paul, 5, and Maggie, 2.

BIRTHS
- Julia Anne Westphal, daughter of Hope Hill-Westphal and Mark, Jan.12.
- Anna Justice, adopted daughter of Laurel Seibels Justice and Steve, fall 2000.

Lauren Snee Booth and her family have moved to Whidey Island, Wash., where Andrew flies Navy rescue missions. They plan to stay in Washington for about three years.

Beverly Ashmore Nagle married Paul Nagle in August 2000. Since the wedding, both Beverly and Paul have changed jobs: Paul, as plant manager for LAPP; Beverly as manager of HRMS Process Design at IKON North America. Her position keeps Beverly on the road all over the U.S.

Newlyweds Ronda Lynn Deas and Michael Wilkes will celebrate their anniversary on Jan. 20. She is a high school guidance counselor in Jacksonville, Fla., and he works for the Trane Co. as well as serving as the minister of music at Beach United Methodist. They reside in Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

Margaret Hamm Venable teaches chemistry at Georgia Perimeter College. Leon stepped down as chair of the chemistry department at Agnes Scott College so that he could help plan the new $35 million science building. Quentin, 2, is enrolled in preschool several mornings a week. His big accomplishment in 2000 was becoming potty-trained.

Elaine Crosby Schauer's twins—Anne Christine and Caleb Dalton—have been baptized by the Rev. Meda Stamper. Meda is in her second year at Princeton Theological Seminary. Elaine reports that Meda wrote and delivered several beautiful prayers at the baptism.

Catherine Cooke Polkinghorne and her husband, Scott, have returned from living in Sydney, Australia. They now reside in Greenwich, Conn. In July 2000, they had their first child, Trent Ellis. Catherine says that while they missed being in Sydney for the Olympics, they enjoyed watching all of their old stomping grounds on television.

After many years of waiting, Shannon Adair Lowery has been blessed with another child. Colum Gabriel was born on April 25, 2000. Seth, 5, is proud of his status as big brother.

Jeanine Dwinell Henry is home with her two children, Alexander, 3, and Carolyn, 17 months. With Meg Bryant Davenport '88, Jeanine teaches acting to fifth and sixth graders one day a week. Jeanine, Meg, Jeanie Norton Carr '88 and Becky Sanders enjoyed their annual Christmas get-together last year. On the creative side, Jeanine and Meg wrote a children's play that was produced by the ASC theatre department in February 2000.

BIRTHS
- Cristina Isabel, daughter of Monica Duque Miles and Mark, Aug. 30.
- Olivia Pendrill Kovacs, daughter of Rosamund Braunrot Kovacs, Dec.12.

Renée Caudill Schramm and husband Chris welcomed Baylor Thomas on Aug. 15, 2000. Weighing in at 7 pounds, 7 ounces, he was 20 inches long. Baylor joins two brothers, Bennett and Harrison.

Catherine Martin Lindauer and Douglas also added a son on Nov. 18. Jerry Douglas came in at 7 pounds, 14 ounces and 20 inches long. Two sisters, Caty and Carson, are delighted.

Dawn Bennett Baker's son, Bennett, is doing well with his chemotherapy treatments and enjoying kindergarten. He is in the maintenance phase and, thanks to his very good nature, seems to be taking his illness in stride. Dawn had lunch and a great time with Paige "Charay" Norwood Jennings and Elaine Crosby Schauer '87. They hope to get together on a regular basis.

Accompanied by Michelle McGinnis Robinson and her husband, Brian, Sarah Camille Burton went skiing in Switzerland. In September, they also went sailing in the British Virgin Islands

Krista Lankford married Chris Hillyer. They live in Dunwoody not too far from Elizabeth "Beth" Leonard Glover.

Suzanne Heywood Miller and her husband, Chuck, bought a house around the corner from ASC. They have two daughters, Caroline and Audrey.

Elizabeth "Beth" Leonard Glover and husband T.J. are additional Dunwoody residents. Beth's eldest daughter, Anna Pate, is in kindergarten this year. Beth is much occupied with school activities, church and her younger daughter, Keyton.

Another very busy Scottie is Lisa Slappey Whitton, with her decorative painting business, Mona Lisa, Inc. Her work was featured in the Street of Dreams show houses for the third year in a row. Lisa's three children—Alexis, 11, Alaina, 8, and Jake, 5—are all doing well. She says that she is trying to slow down work a bit so that she can travel more with her husband.

Melanie Cliatt Williams and husband Scott live in Peachtree Corners with their two sons, Marshall and Garrett. She works PRN as a respiratory therapist in the neo-natal unit at Georgia Baptist Hospital and at Dunwoody Medical Center.

Kimberly Baker has been accepted into the doctoral program at Notre Dame. Her concentration is in the history of Christianity.

Elizabeth "Ebie" Blizard Camelo's house continues to hum with activity. Her son, Luke, has just celebrated his fifth birthday; his younger sister, Eleanor, and their baby brother, Jack, keep Ebie and her husband, Pete, very busy. Ebie reports that Jack is a "chunk" and that Eleanor is a "little pixie" who makes up for her small stature with her large personality. After a five-year absence, Ebie returned for a weekend visit to Atlanta. She stayed with Eleanor Dill and visited with Kate Baird Hammond, Aimée Peeples Haines, Kimberly Osias and Ginger Patton-Schmitt.

Heidi Staven Carpenter left her job, sadly, to care for her mother, who died of lung cancer in March. Heidi was living with her mom while she underwent chemotherapy and radiation. The diagnosis shocked Heidi and her family, since her mother had exercised regularly, worked three jobs and taken great care of herself.

Anne Leacock Coughlin has begun a new job as membership team director for the City Club in Washington, D.C. This position is with the same company for which she worked for many years in her association with the Tower Club. Anne and her husband, Chris, enjoyed a fabulous trip to Maui, provided by Anne's company. In addition, she traveled with her family to Gainesville, Fla., for the christening of Dee Agee Fabijanic's baby, Gillian Anne. Anne was delighted to be an essential part of her goddaughter's special day. Finally, Ansley Scoville '86, godmother to Anne's daughter, Ansley, visited Anne and her family for Thanksgiving.

In February, Nelathi "Nela" Nanayakkara DeSoysa and her husband, Sheanath, went to Bangkok. Naomi, their 10-month-old daughter, is doing well; and Nela has completed one half of her coursework for her master's in NGO leadership.

Eleanor Dill has had a difficult year. After being diagnosed with breast cancer, she underwent a double mastectomy, requiring complete chemotherapy and radiation treatments throughout the spring and into the summer. Although this has been a trying time, Eleanor has been surrounded by her many College friends; and mini-reunions have occurred at her home time and time again. Among those visiting with Eleanor have been members of the class, including Kate Baird Hammond, Ebie Blizard Camelo, Aimée Peeples Haines, Kimberly Osias and Ginger Patton-Schmitt. Also, Eleanor has been spending a great deal of time with her friends from the class of 1988, including Sarah Camille Burton, Shelly Trabue Castell, Sally Mairs Dugan, Beth Leonard Glover, Krista Lankford Hillyer, Liz Pleasant Hudson, Catherine Martin Lindauer, Amy Gottsche Miele, Suzanne Heywood Miller, Krista Hedberg Russell, Renée Caudill Schramm, Lisa Slappey Whitton and Melanie Cliatt Williams. Eleanor is looking forward to participating in the Avon Walk for a Cure in October, and encourages her classmates to join in her endeavor.

Rebecca Earnshaw and her husband, John Hudson, recently purchased a lot in Atlanta, on which they plan to build a rental property. They are hoping to duplicate the real estate success they have enjoyed with their renovations of downtown properties in Savannah, Ga.

Carolyn Weaver Field has moved from the marketing department to compliance at Bank of America Investment Services, Inc., a brokerage subsidiary of Bank of America. She continues to work part time as she studies for her Series 7 brokerage license. Carolyn and her husband, Pete, relaxed during a memorable vacation in Jamaica, where they snorkeled and took a catamaran cruise. When Carolyn wrote, Rebecca, 2, was struggling with her potty training endeavors, but making progress nonetheless. Also, when Carolyn visited with Kathie White Harper '88, she met her beautiful baby girl, Elizabeth Warren, born in February. Kathie was looking and sounding great.

Conchi Gonzales Iglesias and her husband, Angel, bought a four-bedroom house in Dunwoody, Ga., and Conchi maintains that she will be happy living in her new home "for the rest of [her] life."

Linda Harris has been elected to serve as president of the Joel Chandler Harris Association this year. The association is a volunteer board that oversees the Wren's Nest House Museum, the oldest house museum in Georgia, located in southwest Atlanta, on Ralph Abernathy Boulevard. Linda encourages anyone who would like to know more about the organization to e-mail her at lharris@decaturga.com.

Jill Jordan, owner of Jordan Art Consulting in Denver, Colo., is now serving on the board of directors for an organization that encourages people in their 20s and 30s to become more involved in the arts.

Crystal Collis Landrum has completed her Ph.D. and is serving as director for the University of Georgia's Oxford Study-Abroad Program while also teaching in the University's English department.

In one weekend, Louisa Parker Mattozzi and her husband, Michael, found a small townhouse, just 15 minutes from D.C., and bought it. She calls it "teeny, but super cute;" it is only a 10-minute drive from Tina Carr's home in Reston, Va. In addition, Louisa had a book review accepted by the historical periodical The Sixteenth-Century Journal. The article will be published sometime this year.

Alexandria Kimberly Osias loves working for ABC Channel 33/40 in Birmingham, Ala. She has covered everything from a devastating tornado to plane crashes to more lighthearted feature stories. Recently, Kimberly and Kate Baird Hammond traveled to New York City, where they took in a Broadway show and did a little shopping. Parker, Kate's daughter, and the goddaughter of Kimberly and Ginger Patton-Schmitt, is now calling them by name, a delight to both. Kimberly, an inveterate, avid runner, plans to run in the New York Marathon again in the fall.

Mini Abraham Paniker in living in Maryland, has worked as an internist and partner in a group practice for four years in a suburb of Baltimore. She and her husband, Jacob, have two children: son Jonah, 4, and daughter Meera, 1. Mini reports that Jacob loves his little sister, as does Meera her big brother. This past summer, Mini and her family had a fantastic time visiting with Elsa Jann Newman Schaefer, her husband, Scott, and her daughter, Maisie.

Ginger Patton-Schmitt and her husband, Michael, along with Ginger's law partner and her husband, have begun renovating homes in Atlanta for resale. In conjunction with her law practice, now focused primarily in the areas of real estate and estate planning, Ginger has obtained her real estate salesperson's license to assist in buying and selling her own investment properties. Although she stays busy with her law practice and business ventures, she continues to work around her sons' schedules and tries to be a full-time mom and part-time attorney.

Amanda "Mandy" Roberts, Mitrina Mogelnicki and Tina Carr visited Louisa Parker Mattozzi in March. Together, they had a delightful time touring Mantua, Venice, Padua and Siena.

Hiromi Wazawa Rozett has been volunteering at the Singapore American School, which her daughter, Irene, attends and loves. In travel activities, Hiromi's family enjoyed a trip to Desaru, Malaysia, and to India. She reports an "eye-opening experience" in India, when her family was amazed to see cows, camels and pigs, among other animals, roaming the streets unattended.

Jill Thomas has been hired as a project administrator for SunTrust Bank with its Enterprise Information Services.

DEATHS

- Mary Katherine Maloy Cooper, mother of Elizabeth Cooper, Jan. 12.
- Mary Dye Patton, grandmother of Ginger Patton-Schmitt, January.

At this writing Frances Scrivener Johnson was still in Flower Mound, a Dallas suburb. Because her husband, Lewis, had taken a job at Georgia Tech, however, a return to Atlanta was imminent. Frances will be at home with her daughters, Hannah, 6, and Mary Francis, 3.

Teresa Ramirez Dore had a baby girl on Feb. 9. Carmen Cecilia Dore weighed 6 pounds, 7 ounces.

Hillary Soper Strong and her daughter, Katilynn, were skiing this winter in southern Vermont while her husband, David, was completing his degree in mechanical engineering. After managing to survive a big storm that dumped approximately 32 inches of snow in their area, they did a great deal of shoveling.

Jennifer Boyd Miller's son, Crawford, is walking and throwing everything into the garbage can. Meanwhile, she has been working on her gifted certification and plans to move from teaching a half day remedial to teaching a half day gifted next year.

Michele Moses Lackey and her husband sold their house in Phoenix and now are in Plano, Texas, just outside Dallas. Having actually lived in three different states in one year, she hopes to avoid moving for a while.

Karen Anderson is spending time representing a global biotechnology industry coalition in the Biosafety Protocol negotiations (under the United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity umbrella). In December, she devoted additional time in Montpellier, France, to that same project that had already taken her to Vienna, Montreal and Nairobi. Karen found it hard work but fascinating travel. The highlight of her winter was a January trip to the French Alps with friends from graduate school for an intense six days of skiing.

In addition to teaching reading recovery part time, Andri Akins Pilgrim is taking on another job. She is working as the Bremen City School's grant writer. Furthermore, Andri is enjoying her life as the first lady of Carrollton. She and Gerald have been involved in many projects that have helped improve the city.

Erin Gaston went on her first interpreting assignment with the U.S. Department of State. It was a month-long trip around the U.S. with a group of Latin American journalists, meeting with the U.S. media. She even got to interpret for them on the floor of the United Nations General Assembly (every interpreter's dream) and to have a photo taken with U.N. Secretary General Kofi Annan. No kidding!

Kathryn "Katie" Pattillo Fisher, Jennifer Brand Gruber, Heidi Wilson Ream and Jean Wilson Tate all got together for dinner when Katie and Heidi visited Atlanta.

After graduation Kristy Jay Ramsbottom returned to her hometown of Macon, Ga., and enrolled in graduate school at Mercer University. She has received her master's degree in family studies, while also obtaining a real estate license. Upon completing an internship in the family therapy field, she realized counseling was what she wanted to do. Consequently, she obtained her license in marriage and family therapy. In personal happenings, Kristy married her husband, Billy, in 1995. She was the manager of an employer assistance program for seven years until the birth of their little girl, Kerry Sloane Ramsbottom, on Oct. 2, 1999. She is now working only two days a week and treasures being at home the rest of the time with her daughter. Kristy is also much involved in volunteer work in her church and the community.

Margaret Innes Manning and Sonny have moved to Duluth, Ga.

Ashley Barnes Bagwell reports that Jake, 5, entered kindergarten this year and Bailey is 3. In October, Ashley presented at the Georgia Council for Teachers of Mathematics Conference and is taking courses to receive her certification in gifted education. She is teaching fifth grade as well.

Jennifer Prodgers Johnson and Jim welcomed Mary Elizabeth Johnson into the world on July 1, 2000.

Jennifer Pilcher Duke's husband, Sandy, completed his ENT residency this spring.

They have several job prospects in Georgia that they are excited about, happy and ready to return home after their time in Winston Salem, N.C. Updates on their children reveal that Samuel is 5 and Katie Belle, 1.

Allyson Whitley Burroughs and husband Mark bought their first home in May 2000. They are in Clarkston, Ga., exactly three miles from the Decatur courthouse. Their three dogs have a real yard for the first time and love it!

In Savannah, Sally McMillan teaches chemistry and biology to 10th and 11th graders. She plays soccer on a city league and would like to hear from anyone by mail or e-mail: sally-mac@mindspring.com; 2325 Walz Drive, Savannah, GA 31404.

Chrissie Lewandowski left teaching to begin a new career working for Jostens Publishing Company as a yearbook representative. She sees Annmarie Anderson, Tammy Shirley, Daphne Norton and Cara Cassell on a regular basis. They are in a book group together or were active planning the reunion. Chrissie also recently divorced and has taken back her maiden name.

Davina Crawford McGrail and Dave had their first child, a baby girl named Alexandra Lynn, on July 21, 2000. Her beautiful smiles and curious ways keep them occupied day and night. In order to be at home with Alexandra full time, Davina made the decision a couple of months later to quit her sales job with United Healthcare in Memphis. She may, nevertheless, do some part-time work from home.

Michelle Roberts Matthews and Vince also welcomed their first child, Carter Lee Matthews, into the world on Nov. 29. He weighed 9 pounds, 14 ounces, and is doing very well. While Michelle and Vince and their families are thrilled, their two dogs, Daisy and Max, are adjusting to no longer being the "babies" in the house.

BIRTHS

- Mary Elizabeth Johnson, daughter of Jennifer Prodgers Johnson and Jim, July 1, 2000.

In January 2000, Jennifer Bruce met Lauren Fowler and Helen Harber in Ogden, Utah, for the Sundance Film Festival and skiing. Jennifer will finish her residency in June and in July will be off to France and Italy with her mother. Upon her return, she will travel to Georgia for kayaking with her father. Her new job in Montrose, Colo., (near Telluride in the Four Corners region) begins on Aug. 15; but before that, Christia Holloway '91 will have paid her a visit in May. Between all the traveling and visiting, Jennifer will sell her current home and purchase a new one in Montrose.

Jenessa DeFrees Burney and husband Brad welcomed their daughter, Emily Dasa ("day-sah"), into the world on Nov. 24 at 6:30 a.m. She weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces, and was 18 inches long. Because of maternal toxemia, labor was induced three weeks early; but mother and baby are fine. Jenessa can't wait to introduce Emily to her Scottie "aunts" at the reunion next year.

According to Lauren Fowler's annual Christmas letter, she has been extremely busy. Multiple ski outings in Utah with various family and friends, a scuba/snorkeling trip to the U.S. Virgin Islands, a presentation at the Denver Conference for the International Neuropsychological Society, a mother-daughter hiking venture in Bryce and Zion canyons and another in the Uinta Mountains and Logan Canyon, a kayaking/rafting trip down the middle fork of the Salmon River in Idaho, a family visit in Texas and Christmas holidays in Georgia and Texas make up an impressive list. This doesn't even count all the people who came to visit her! (Lauren also mentioned something about margaritas and day-after Aspercreme as part of her 30th birthday celebration with friends from Georgia.) In other news she began her second year as a professor at Weber State University and spends the rest of her time on schoolwork and writing.

Two weeks before Christmas, Elizabeth Fraser Washburn, her husband, Matt, and parents went on a cruise on Royal Caribbean's ship Explorer. They visited San Juan, St. Thomas, Labedee (the cruise line's private resort off the coast of Haiti) and Nassau. They kept occupied with rollerblading, mini-golf, rock climbing, ice skating and noshing on the delicious food. Elizabeth highly recommends this cruise to everyone.

The second of three births reported in this column is that of Haley Elizabeth, daughter of Amy Higgins Hulsey and her husband, Keith. Haley was born on Nov. 22 at 1:21 p.m., weighing 8 pounds, 5 ounces, and 20.5 inches in length.

Ruth Lightfoot Adams and husband Michael returned to the U.S. in June 2000 after a two-year assignment in Amsterdam. She "finally" passed the CPA exam and works for Highwood Properties in Raleigh, N.C. The only children they have now are of the four-legged furry variety that meow.

Sandee McGlaun is thrilled to report that she completed her degree requirements for her Ph.D. in English at Ohio State University on Sept. 18. A photograph of Sandee at the Dec. 8 graduation ceremony is posted on the Class of '92 e-Circle. She is also happy that she is once again a Georgia resident, having accepted a tenure-track position in rhetoric and composition in the Language and Literature Department at North Georgia College and State University. Sandee shares her cozy townhouse in Dahlonega with her cat, Roscoe, who delights in running up and down the stairs watching birds in the comfort of their backyard. In addition, being back in Georgia afforded Sandee the opportunity to visit with Christine Cozzens and the Writing Center tutors back in August. She also ran into Amy Higgins Hulsey at an event in Gainesville, which was a very pleasant surprise!

Angela Miller Loiselle checks in with much news. She married her husband, Richard, six years ago. Their most recent big news is the birth of their second son, Pierce Franklin, on Oct. 17. His big brother, Graham Miller, born on Sept. 6, 1997, adores his new brother and has not once asked that he be taken back! Along with their dog, Jasmine, and cat, Zachary Taylor, they live in Pensacola, Fla. Angela returned to college to get a bachelor's degree in computer information systems. She says that school offers a great way to be in the company of adults.

Claudia "Christie" Miller was recently commissioned to help write the second edition of the Time Out Guide to Miami, working on that through the month of March. Then, when the editor from the Time Out London offices was in Miami in February, Claudia showed him the town. She has, furthermore, been asked to contribute a chapter on "Gay and Lesbian Tourism" for a book called Gay Tourism that will be published by Continuum Press early next year. Some work she did for OUT Magazine on travel in Fort Lauderdale and Key West was on the stands in March, and the Miami section of the Web site that she helped write—CityChoices.com—went live in February. The February cover story in WHERE, Miami Magazine, called "Guardians of the Gates," was another creation of this prolific classmate. The story tells all about club doormen.

AGNES SCOTT

Regions Launch Campaign

CALIFORNIA EVENT SETS SUCCESSFUL PRECEDENT

In the largest gathering ever of Agnes Scott alumnae in southern California, the College's first of 10 regional launches kicked off a slate of fall celebrations of its $60 million comprehensive campaign on Sept. 8.

"If the California event—attended by 95 people, including 51 alumnae—is an indication, the regional launches will be a huge success, said Joie Delafield '58, national campaign co-chair and a principal speaker at the event. "It was a wonderful event. Alumnae from every decade from the 20's through the 90's were represented."

Bold Aspirations: The Campaign for Agnes Scott College was formally launched with a weekend celebration on the College's campus in February. By Oct. 1, regional launches had been held in Charlotte, Greenville, and Richmond, in addition to the southern California event, which was held at the Hotel Bel-Air in Los Angeles.

"California committee chairs Jeanette Wright '68 and Mary Gay Bankston '74 worked very hard to make this a success. By any standards, it was a phenomenally successful launch," said Adelia Thompson, assistant vice president for development, citing the pride the alumnae expressed in their College and in President Bullock's accomplishments.

The California event was followed the next week by launches at the Bank of America in Charlotte (Sept. 13) and at the Poinsett Club in Greenville (Sept. 14).

Sarah Dagenhart '55, Charlotte regional chair, greeted guests in the 59th floor dining room by pronouncing that "Agnes Scott is on a roll and Charlotte is an important part of that momentum." In Greenville, regional chair Pedrick Lowrey '76 and trustee Sally Skardon '70 stated that "we have not yet seen the full potential of Agnes Scott alumnae."

At press time final plans were being completed for the Richmond event (Sept. 30), where close to 100 alumnae and guests had registered for a reception in the Lewis Ginter Botanical Garden. Next will be an event in Washington, D.C., at the French Embassy.

Other regional events include Memphis at The Brooks Museum of Art, Oct. 26; central Florida at Grand Bohemian Hotel in Orlando, Nov. 9; Houston at the Museum of Natural Science, Nov. 10; and Atlanta at The Atlanta History Center, Nov. 18. The launch set for Carnegie Hall in New York is being rescheduled.

The campaign was announced in November on campus with $31 million toward the goal. The campus launch in February—coinciding with Founder's Day weekend and celebrating the opening of two buildings—attracted more than 1,000 alumnae and friends of the College. To date, the Campaign has raised more than $42 million in gifts and pledges.

"Reconnecting alumnae with the College is a major goal of the campaign," said Delafield. "These regional launches enable alumnae from all over the country to hear personally the message of the Campaign and the good news about their alma mater."

Campaign co-chair Frannie Graves '63 concurred that the College's focus on its alumnae base is essential for the success of the campaign. "We need the overwhelming support of our alumnae to be successful in this campaign," said Graves. "At this point, we believe that support is there."

Butler '28 Gives $1 Million

GIFT WILL ESTABLISH SPEECH PROGRAM

A $1 million gift by Patricia Collins Butler '28 to endow speech education at Agnes Scott was announced by Campaign co-chair Joie Delafield '58 at the southern California regional launch of Bold Aspirations: The Campaign for Agnes Scott College. Delafield's announcement was met with cheers and a standing ovation.

"I am proud tonight to make the first public announcement that an alumna from the southern California region has answered Mary's call. One of your own has seized the time," said Delafield in announcing the gift. "Pat Butler has made a gift of $1 milllion to the Campaign to establish the Patricia Collins Butler endowment for speech education. Pat has made this gift in memory of her parents, Philip H. and Mary Power Collins.

"This gift is truly in the spirit of Bold Aspirations," continued Delafield as she led the toast to Butler. "Pat has set a goal of excellence for Agnes Scott and given the College the resources to reach it. Pat, your gift inspires us all."

The gift from Butler, of La Jolla, Calif., is one of the campaign's largest gifts to date and one of few to focus specifically on a College program. The endowment will establish The Patricia Collins Butler Speech Program. Butler will visit the campus this spring to spend time with students, participate in judging a student speech competition and to discuss improvements to the College's speech program.

"Agnes Scott women have long been known for their writing ability," Butler said.

"It is my hope that with this endowment they will one day be as well known for their speaking ability."

Another gift by Butler was recognized at the campaign's weekend launch celebration in February when the Patricia Collins Butler Center, a room for day students, was dedicated during the ribbon cutting for the new Alston Campus Center.

A post-graduate Phi Beta Kappa, Butler majored in English literature at Agnes Scott and was the third woman to graduate from Emory Law School. She was admitted to practice law before the U.S. Supreme Court in 1939, was appointed legal assistant to the U.S. attorney general in 1942 and served six attorneys general and seven presidents during her career. A pioneer in the field of administrative law, Butler was appointed a member of the Board of Immigration Appeals in the U.S. Department of Justice. She helped found the Supreme Court Historical Society and was a representative to the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

She was nominated for the Margaret Brent Women Lawyers Achievement Award and was honored by the Justice Department in 1960 in recognition of "outstanding performance of the highest order."

A 1976 recipient of the Alumnae Association's Distinguished Career Award, Butler is a past president of the Agnes Scott alumnae chapter in Washington, D.C, and was honored by the College with Pat Butler Week in 1998.

The Gift Outright

As our new students—the Class of 2005, our Woodruff Scholars and our transfer students—gathered on campus in August, I welcomed them with one of the last poems read on this campus by Robert Frost, whose annual sojourn at Agnes Scott was a highlight in the literary life of the College. This poem was read by special request at John F. Kennedy's inauguration: "The Gift Outright." The poem is about the land, the American continent, with its gifts of space and resources existing before we came, and begins:

The land was ours before we were the land's.

She was our land more than a hundred years

Before we were her people.

Agnes Scott College is like the land. It existed for more than a hundred years before we became her people. It is the gift outright. An Agnes Scott education is a gift, next to family love perhaps the most important gift our students will ever receive. Let me elaborate upon what I mean.

An Agnes Scott education is, first and foremost, a gift to oneself. Every Agnes Scott student worked hard to get here. They excelled in high school, and they decided to make college a priority in their young adult lives. Now they are here, enjoying the gift.

An Agnes Scott education is also a gift from parents. They have supported our students for 18 years with nurture and encouragement. Most of them are providing financial support for our students to be here, saving and sacrificing as an investment in their future.

An Agnes Scott education is a gift for a lifetime. Our students are here to gain a liberal arts education—a broad education that will provide them with the intellectual skills to last a lifetime. Our curriculum requires not just a concentration in one field, their major, but courses across the sciences, social sciences, humanities and fine arts. The focus is on critical thinking and on cultivating the discipline, the flexibility and the creativity of their minds so that they will contribute confidently to their careers, their families and their society throughout their lives. They may well go on to graduate school or specific training opportunities, but never again will they have the intellectual luxury—and challenge—of preparing for a lifetime.

An Agnes Scott education is a financial gift from the College itself. We spend more than $35,000 each year to educate one student. Our full tuition, room and board is less than $25,000. In other words, every student, even those who are full pay, receive an automatic gift of more than $10,000. Most of them receive additional scholarship funds. As citizens and as taxpayers, they are entitled to state and government grants and loans. But Agnes Scott's merit scholarships and need-based Agnes Scott grants are not an entitlement; they are, in Frost's words, a "gift outright." They come from alumnae and friends of the College who believe in the importance of educating women.

Finally, an Agnes Scott education is a gift of community. Our students selected a residential liberal arts college because they want to be part of a community, a community that knows and cares for each other. A community of honor, trust and integrity. A community that celebrates and respects differences. They make many friends here—beginning with new roommates and young women on their hall. These become special relationships that last a lifetime. And one of the most important friendships of all is with professors. Agnes Scott professors are accessible. Their greatest joy is to watch students progress over the four years they are here, and to cheer them on when they graduate.

Given Robert Frost's long association with Agnes Scott, I don't think he would mind my paraphrasing this poem for our students:

The College was ours before we were the College's.

She was our college more than a hundred years

Before we were her people. She was ours . . .

(But) something we were withholding made us weak

Until we found out that it was ourselves

We were withholding from our land of living,

And forthwith found salvation in surrender, in participation,

Such as we are we give ourselves outright . . .

To this College, now vaguely, but realizing onward

To become storied, artful, enhanced,

Such as we are, such as we will become.

STUDENT LEADER PROFILE

KINDRA BAER '02
Minority Adviser
Major: Religion and critical social theory (self-designed)
Hometown: Cartersville, Ga.

What does your position as minority adviser entail?
I sit on the executive board of Student Government Association and serve as president of the Minority Council, also named "www.realite." I am also one of the student representatives on the Committee for Community Diversity and am a voting member on the Allocating Committee. My primary responsibility is to represent minority concerns in all facets of campus life. This consists of promoting awareness and education of minority/diversity issues and needs through the programming of Minority Council. On the Executive Board, my role is to act as the voice of the minority population on campus. I also see it as my responsibility to appropriately and respectfully address any actions or activities taking place on campus that overlook or fail to respect the diversity of our community.

What do you feel is the most important aspect of your leadership position?
What I am doing on campus has implications that go much further than Agnes Scott. If I can help educate people about diversity and plant just a tiny seed of awareness, that seed will eventually grow and flourish, and its fruit may change someone's life. Another important aspect of my leadership position is the connections that I am fortunate to develop with varying facets of the College community. I have the opportunity to work with other students who share my concern for minority/diversity issues.

What does your leadership role involve?
In two words: advocacy and commitment.

What have you learned from your leadership experience?
If you want a crew to build a boat, do not waste time drawing complex diagrams, showing them how to use a hammer or barking commands. Instead, teach them undying love for the sea.

How do you hope to affect or change Agnes Scott through your leadership?
If I leave Agnes Scott having changed one person's mind, heart or life, then as far as I am concerned, it will have been a job well done.

Class of '05 Arrives

The Class of 2005 arrived on campus in August, bringing the total enrollment of all students to 885 for fall semester. Class members represent 28 states and 11 foreign countries.

More than 25 percent of the 223 first-year students graduated in the top 5 percent of their high school classes, compiling a mean grade point average of 3.66. Most popular intended majors among them include international relations, psychology, economics/business, biology/pre-med and English.

The class is ethnically diverse, with 35 percent of students representing minority groups. Twenty-one percent are African-American, 6 percent are Asian, 4 percent are Hispanic, 1 percent American Indian/Pacific Islander and 3 percent are bicultural. Five percent are international students.

Seek Wisdom in 'Transformations'

THREE-YEAR EVENTS SERIES BEGINS FINAL YEAR OF MILLENNIUM CELEBRATION

Transformations, Agnes Scott's three-year events series celebrating the new millennium, begins its final year with the theme "Seek Wisdom, Find Your Path." At this pivotal time in history, as the College celebrates the past and anticipates the future, cultural events representative of our rich global heritage explore ways to honor the road behind and envision the path ahead.

- A Night Under the Moon—featuring the opening of the exhibit "Village Works: Photographs by Women in China's Yunnan Province." Experience the lives and homeland of 62 village women from rural Yunnan Province through photos taken with automatic cameras the women learned to use for "photovoice." This project began as part of a Ford Foundation-supported program in women's reproductive health. The Dalton Gallery, through Dec. 9
- Chicago City Limits—In making its debut at Agnes Scott College, the hysterical and unpredictable Chicago City Limits performed the hilarious style of comedy and improvisational theatre for which it has been known for two decades.
- Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company—Infusing the contemporary dance world with Chinese-American heritage, the Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company combined Eastern and Western traditions in a beautifully balanced program in September.
- Thomas Friedman—Global Perspectives: "The Global Economy and American Foreign Policy," one of a series of Millennium Lectures on issues surrounding globalization. Combining the tenacity of a star reporter with the knowledge of a historian, two-time Pulitzer Prize winner Thomas Friedman conveys the drama of global political and economic affairs. A self-described "tourist with an attitude," Friedman travels the world acquiring his vast store of knowledge of the people and places he renders so vividly in his foreign affairs column in The New York Times. Presser Hall, 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 24 (Admission to this event is free but requires a ticket for entrance.)
- The Fantasticks—The Blackfriars, the oldest continuously running theatre troupe in Atlanta, will perform the longest-running musical in the world, The Fantasticks. Writer and lyricist Tom Jones and composer Harvey Schmidt provide the engaging theatricality that has charmed New York audiences for 41 years. Produced by the Department of Theatre and Dance, the Department of Music and the Blackfriars of Agnes Scott. Winter Theatre, 8 p.m. on Oct. 26, 27 and Nov.2, 3; 2 p.m. on Oct. 28 and Nov. 4.
- Kay Redfield Jamison—"Psychological Well-being: Knowledge Is Almost Everything," Bonnie Brown Johnson Women's Health Lectureship Keynote. An international authority and researcher on mental illness, Kay Redfield Jamison has unusual insight into the experience of depression and the epidemic of suicide. Her book, An Unquiet Mind, became a New York Times best seller and transformed Jamison into a national advocate. At Agnes Scott, she will discuss the importance of women learning about psychological health and understanding how a better knowledge of science will be essential for women's choices in the future. The Bonnie Brown Johnson Women's Health Lectureship, named in honor of an alumna who was the College's first female vice president for development and public affairs, was established to provide information on women's health issues. Presser Hall, 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 6 (Admission to this event is free but requires a ticket for entrance.)
- Kronos Quartet—Few groups so successfully bridge the gap between classical and popular music as the Kronos Quartet. Expanding their repertoire to include compositions from rock, jazz and world music, the New York-based artists record a body of work virtually unparalleled in its dedication to innovation and range of expression. Presser Hall, 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14. For ticket information for remaining events, call (404) 471-6430.

Williams Attends UN Racism Conference

NGO SESSION 'PASSIONATE, ENGAGING,' SHE SAYS

Isa Williams, program director of the Atlanta Semester, was a delegate to the United Nations conference on racism in Durban, South Africa, in September. The controversial conference drew criticism and boycotts because of its agenda in defining a wide range of class and cultural discrimination.

The conference's sessions were divided into governmental and non-governmental (NGO) meetings. Williams participated in the latter.

Reports of the U.S. walkout over a potential resolution concerning Israel-Palestinian relations figured prominently in American media, but Williams gained "a sense of promise and hope" from the conference. "I was most impressed with the younger generation of leaders, scholars and activists determined to move the agenda forward," she said.

SUE CLITES PHOTOS

Isa Williams

Williams said that, considering Atlanta's international population and mix of cultures, the conference had a direct bearing on many issues with which the city wrestles. "Atlanta is not the old South anymore," she said. A graduate of both Spelman College and Emory University, Williams has seen Atlanta's continuing journey through racial conflict and discrimination.

At Agnes Scott, with students from approximately 30 countries and an emphasis on non-European study abroad, professors and students become familiar with discrimination on many levels: race, ethnicity, and the fact that "in nearly all cultures, women are discriminated against," Williams said.

The conference's emphasis on gender-related forms of racial discrimination added to Williams' knowledge, she said. But the leadership she observed was particularly powerful. "Individuals participating in the NGO conference displayed a type of passionate, engaging and thoughtful leadership that seemed so absent among the governments," Williams said.

Williams plans to work with several local organizations, also represented at the conference, to implement strategies discussed in Durban. She held post-conference discussions with faculty and students on campus in late September. She said knowledge she gained from the conference will also shape the community engagement sections of the Atlanta Semester program.

NEWS BRIEFS

US News, Princeton Review Rank ASC

Agnes Scott College ranked 52nd among 218 national liberal arts colleges in US News & World Report's annual nationwide listing of colleges and universities. It also received a ranking of 18 in the "Great Schools at a Great Price" category.

The College ranked 13th nationally for the "quality of life" category in The Princeton Review's annual survey of top colleges and universities. Agnes Scott also placed seventh for student satisfaction with financial aid.

Milton Scott Dies at 106

Milton Candler Scott, great-grandson of Agnes Irvine Scott, died Aug. 8 at the age of 106. Scott was the grandson of George Washington Scott and son of George Bucher and Bettie Winn Scott. He had four daughters, all of whom graduated from the College.

Scott was a veteran of World War I and served in France with the American Expeditionary Force. He received the French Legion of Honor medal—the highest honor the French government gives to a non-citizen—in September 1999. He was retired from Georgia Duck and Cordage Mill where he was a principal owner, and was a life elder in Decatur Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include daughters Betty Scott Noble '44 and Agnes Scott Willoch '55, 11 grandchildren and more than 20 great-grandchildren.

Papageorge '28 Dies

Evangeline Thomas Papageorge '28, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate with high honors, died Sept. 15.

Papageorge was the first woman on the faculty of Emory School of Medicine, where she taught biochemistry for more than 20 years and was executive associate dean before her retirement in 1975. She was voted Atlanta's Woman of the Year in 1952.

Theme House Open

Three Victorian homes on the west side of campus were renovated by the College and opened this fall as a residential village for students living in theme-study environments. The three homes will accommodate 26 students. The Environmental House will include reading/discussion groups, environmental activities with children and adults, and study of energy and waste stream audits and the campus retention pond as a teaching area. The International House brings together international and North American students to explore aspects of politics, international relations and area studies. And the Casa Hispanica Language House will house Hispanic students who tutor Spanish students in area schools or work as interpreters in shelters. Pictured is Yuan Mei '04, a resident of the International House.

A WORD FROM MARILYN

Dear Agnes Scott Friends,

The events of Sept. 11 left all of us forever changed. I pray that you, your family and friends are safe, yet I know that many of us are grieving, and some are feeling a deep and personal loss. Please let us know how you are doing. We've heard from many of you but want all of you to know our concern.

Being on the Agnes Scott campus has been a tremendous source of strength for me. In the early days, we leaned into each other and found comfort, and now we're beginning as a community to address the difficult issues of "what next."

On Friday, there was a very moving silent vigil and ringing of the bell at noon. The circle of ASC community holding hands was so large it filled the Woodruff Quad. We were a patchwork of students, faculty, staff and Decatur neighbors, still stunned but no longer feeling quite so alone. Toward the end, a student with a beautiful voice broke the silence with her songs, and we all joined her to affirm that we would stand together during this time.

Our coming together took another form when many of us attended a two-hour "Teach In" organized by members of the faculty. Its purpose was to present alternative ways to understand the issues and possible responses to the events of Sept. 11. Members of the faculty shared their insights and expertise, including a brief history of the Taliban, a historical overview of how terrorism differs from war, and ethical and philosophical perspectives on jihad, justice and revenge. The Teach-In brought another form of healing, because it engaged both our emotions and our intellects, leaving us feeling a little less like victims and a little more like Americans who have both choices and the responsibility for making them.

I have a new appreciation for our connections and what they mean at times like these. Please keep in touch with us and also let us know what you've heard from ASC friends (alumnae@agnesscott.edu).

Be safe,

Marilyn

Frost '70 Appointed Emory VP

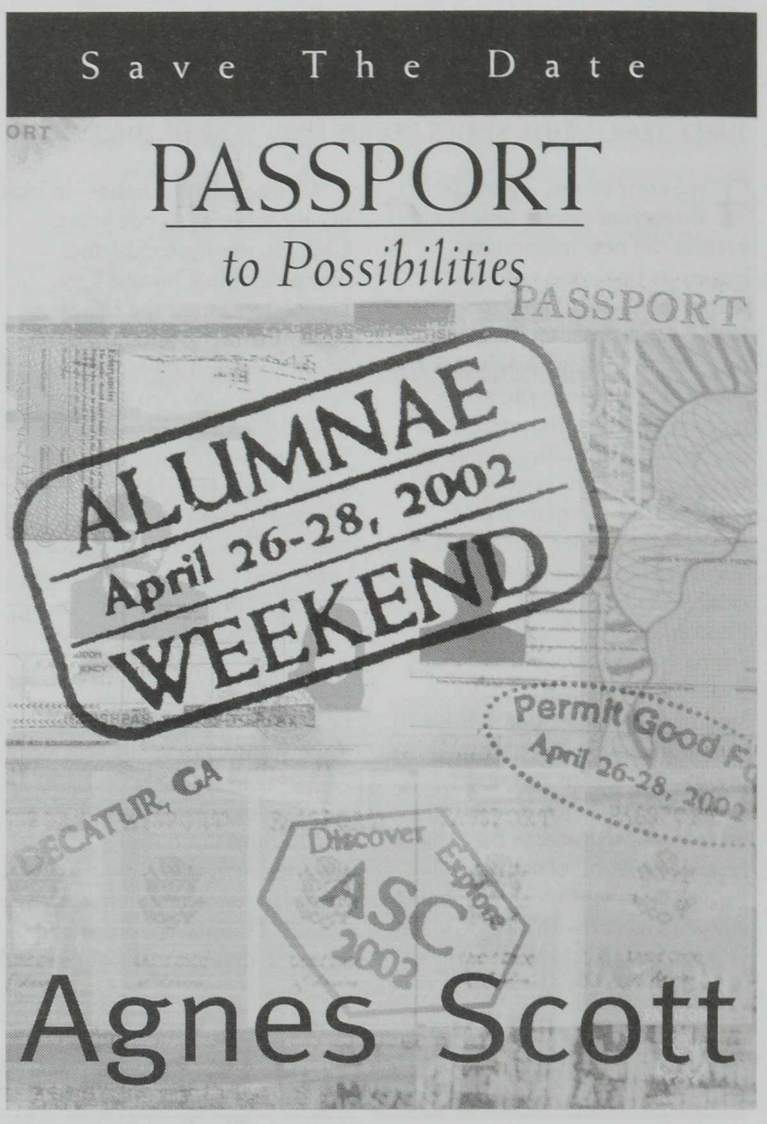
NEW POSITION TO COORDINATE STRATEGIC DEVELOPMENT

Susan Frost '70 has been appointed to a new position at Emory University: vice president for strategic development. She was formerly vice provost for institutional planning and research.

Frost will lead efforts to develop and coordinate strategic initiatives at Emory and strengthen its image.

Prior to her position at Emory, Frost was a faculty member at Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga., where she taught mathematics. She earned her doctorate at the University of Georgia in 1989 and participated in the Management Development Program at Harvard University's Graduate School of Education in 1995.

She has published three books: Using Teams in Higher Education: Cultural Foundations for Productive Change; Inside College: The Future of Undergraduate Education; and Academic Advising for Student Success: A System of Shared Responsibility. She has also written numerous articles for publications such as the Journal of Higher Education, Planning for Higher Education, Research in Higher Education, Review of Higher Education and Tertiary Education and Management. She speaks internationally about strategic planning for universities.



Cochran '98 Enjoys Musical Career

CHAMBER ENSEMBLE RECORDS FIRST CD

Bonnie Cochran '98 remembers the advice she received before entering college: Plan a career that provides a steady income rather than being a "starving artist," she was told.

Cochran followed that advice for a while, beginning at Agnes Scott as a physics and music double major. But it only took half a semester to realize that her heart was only in music, she says. She decided to major only in music and hasn't regretted the decision since.

Now Cochran plays in Boston-based Willow Flute Ensemble, an 11-member chamber group that released its first CD last spring. Cochran plays flute, alto flute and bass flute, and even composed a piece that the ensemble performs.

Cochran also performs with another ensemble, freelances as a solo performer and teaches flute lessons. "I believe I have a long way to go in my musical growth, but I am enjoying the experience," she says.

Cochran's interest in flute ensembles was sparked while she was at the College, participating in a trio and quartet directed by Kelly Via. Those experiences were a main reason that she auditioned for Willow.

The Willow Flute Ensemble has appeared in venues as varied as the Boston Symphony Orchestra Café, Longy School of Music's "Bach's Lunch" series, the Lexington Historical Society, and community fundraisers and events. In 1999, Willow traveled to Atlanta to perform at the National Flute Association Convention.

According to Cochran, the ensemble plans in the next few years to commission a new work for flute ensemble and record a second CD. It will also audition to perform next year at the National Flute Association Convention in Washington, D.C.

New Alumnae Travel Program

LITERARY LANDSCAPES OF IRELAND

MAY 17-27, 2002

Program Fee $3095

From William Butler Yeats' converted Norman castle home, Thoor Ballylee, to the Belfast hillside profile of a giant's face that inspired Gulliver's Travels, the landscapes of Ireland have given birth to legend and literature. The May 2002 Agnes Scott College alumnae trip to the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland will explore some of these places, taking you to castles and coastlines, along city streets and country roads, and inside writers' homes and haunts. While the itinerary will emphasize places with literary associations, the trip also offers a general introduction to Ireland's history and culture. Planned tours, activities and meals are mixed with liberal amounts of free time for exploring or dining on your own. Two great cities and two lively provincial towns have been selected—Dublin and Belfast, Galway and Derry/Londonderry—as our stopping places on the tour, but we will spend plenty of time visiting the rural landscapes as well.

For a complete registration packet, contact the alumnae office, (404)471-6323 or alumoffice@agnesscott.edu.

CHINA ITINERARY

MAY 15- JUNE 1, 2002

Program Fee $3550

In May 2000, 18 Agnes Scott students traveled to China to become acquainted with Chinese science, history and culture. Their trip is highlighted in the Fall 2000 Alumnae Magazine (www.agnesscott.edu/aas/news/alumnae_mag/fall00/index.html). This tour recreates some of the highlights of the students' experiences, including lectures from Chinese scholars at leading universities on topics such as U.S.-China relations. Focal points of this excursion are Hong Kong, Shanghai and Beijing. These provide easy access to many of the historic sights of China, including the Forbidden City, Tiananmen Square, the Great Wall, as well as the gardens and silk factories of Suzhou. Our hotels are in convenient areas of each city, and ample free time will allow for some independent exploration. An optional extension to Guilin or Xi'an will be offered.

For a complete registration packet, contact the alumnae office, (404)471-6323 or alumoffice@agnesscott.edu.

FACULTY/STAFF NEWS

ARTS

Marylin B. Darling, professor of dance, chaired the Partnerships and Creative Collaborations session of the International Council of Fine Arts Deans in Long Beach, Calif., in November.

Calvert Johnson, professor of music, participated in the Jessie Ball duPont Fund Summer Seminar for Liberal Arts College Faculty with "The Uses of Biography: Life Writing Across the Discplines" in North Carolina in June; and the National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminar for College Faculty with "Revolution & Changing Identities in France, 1787-1799" in Chicago in July and August. Johnson also recorded a two-CD set: Olde English: Calvert Johnson Plays Five Historic 18th-Century English Organs (Calcante 2001).

Kay Paulsen, coordinator of faculty development and artist affiliate in voice, organized and co-presented a workshop titled "I Can Do That! Methods and Resources for Including the Visually Impaired Student in Music Classes," in Atlanta in April. Paulsen also served as coordinator and teacher at the Summer Institute for Blind College-Bound Musicians.

Lyn Schenbeck, visiting associate professor of music, chaired a session at the Hollywood Musicals: Music in Hollywood conference at the University of Colorado-Boulder in August.

HUMANITIES

Bo Ball, Leyburn Professor of English, has published a new rendering of his Appalachian Patterns. The volume features a rearrangement and editing of the stories and prose-poems. The original book was reviewed by 40 papers and journals and was listed as one of the best books of 1987. Ball's retirement (December 2001) will correspond with the book's new edition (University Press of Kentucky).

Elizabeth Hackett, assistant professor of women's studies, and Isa Williams, director of the Atlanta Semester, led a roundtable discussion, "The Women's Studies Major: What Should it Look Like?" at the National Women's Studies Conference in June. Williams was also co-presenter of "Symposium: Pedagogy of Engagement—Cultivating Responsive Knowing and Critical Thinking Through Crucial Learning" at the American Psychological Association conference in San Francisco in August. Hackett was awarded the ASC Student Senate Faculty Member of the Year Award in April.

Michael R. Lynn, assistant professor of history, published "Divining the Enlightenment: Public Opinion and Popular Science in Old Regime France" in Isis.

Richard D. Parry, Callaway Professor of Philosophy, was an invited participant in 2400: the Year of Socrates program in Athens and Delphi, Greece, in July.

Régine Reynolds-Cornell, professor emerita of French, published a review of Women in Renaissance & Early Modern Europe (Christine Meek, ed., Four Courts Press, 2000) in Bibliothèque d'Humanisme et Renaissance.

Michael Schlig, assistant professor of Spanish, presented a paper, "Women Artists in Benjamín Jarnés' La Novia del Viento," at the 83rd annual meeting of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese in San Francisco in July.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

Chris De Pree, assistant professor of astronomy, was appointed in July to the Committee on Astronomy and Public Policy, American Astronomical Society. The second edition of De Pree's The Complete Idiot's Guide to Astronomy was published in July, and De Pree gave a poster presentation at an August conference in Boulder, Colo., on Hot Stars III: the Earliest Stages of Massive Star Birth—"W49A from 3.6 cm to 3 mm: Ionized Winds on 600 AU Scales?"

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Mary Katherine Crabb, visiting assistant professor of anthropology, received the Marjorie Shostak Award for Excellence and Humanity in Ethnographic Writing awarded by the Emory University Department of Anthropology in May.

Jennifer Lucas, assistant professor of psychology, co-authored "Know Your Audience: Student-Based Surveys to Enhance Teaching" in Georgia Psychologist; received a professional development summer grant for a project titled "Automobile Accident Survivors"; and received the George Martin Outstanding Circle K Faculty Advisor Award, Georgia district.

PARTING WORDS

The Legacy of Honor

CARRYING THE IDEAL INTO A COMMUNITY OF TRUST

The following address was given by Honor Court President Jocelyn Taylor '02 at Opening Convocation in August.

I believe that honor is more than a law; it is an ideal rooted in the beliefs that we as students all carry within us. When preparing to come to college, I remember neatly folding my clothes, packing away my favorite books and carefully organizing my belongings into nice little compartments that could be easily unpacked when the time was right.

I also packed a small gold cross that I often reflect on when discussing my views on honor. This gold cross was a gift from my great-grandmother when I was a toddler; and as I settled my belongings into Walters Hall, it was the most important object that I unpacked. To me, it represented the memories of my family, my community and all the lessons they had taught me to prepare me for life on my own. That cross symbolized my personal honor system, which I held with me as I took the honor pledge in the fall of 1998.

Each fall, a new group of women enter the halls of Agnes Scott College, each bringing their own ideals on honor, rooted in the memories and lessons that they carry with them. I am sure if we could call on the buildings of our school to reflect on how honor has changed over the years with each incoming class, they would all point us to the College seal, which most eloquently illustrates the purpose of Agnes Scott as intended by our foremothers and forefathers. There, permanently etched, is the quote from II Peter 1:5: "Add to your faith virtue; and to virtue, knowledge." Honor is the main virtue of our College.

If I could call on one building to reflect the recent history of honor on Agnes Scott's campus, it would be Buttrick Hall, which has proudly held the signed honor pledges on its walls year after year. I believe that Buttrick would still have faith in our honor system, pointing out to us that students voluntarily accept the system as their way of life.

I agree. However, I contend that we, simply by living, all carry our own honor system. Just as I carried my honor with me to Agnes Scott locked in the memory of my great-grandmother's gift, so does every woman who enrolls into this institution, her honor packed neatly away with the remainder of her belongings. In this way, we are not taking the pledge under the premise that our way of life was not honorable before we entered these halls. We are saying that as we learn, we unpack our honor and our faith, wherever we keep them, and use them to grow in knowledge as well as in virtue—adding one to the other, but not separating the two.

For this reason, I urge students to remember that our honor system is our bond with our faculty and administration, and with ourselves. It is our diverse beliefs coming together in one accord of trust and camaraderie. As students, it is our responsibility to uphold the honor system for each new class that enters our gates. It is our responsibility to remember that the goal of an Agnes Scott education is not to forfeit your honor for temporary gratification, such as a grade on a plagiarized paper. The goal is to gain knowledge honorably, not breaking the bond between professors and students or inhibiting the legacy of honor that permeates this campus.

This year, I personally challenge all students to reflect on what honor means to you as an individual, and tie this to what honor means to you as an Agnes Scott woman. Beginning at this foundation, we can revamp the world's view on honor, as long as we remember the great things of which we as Agnes Scott women are capable. The Wisdom of the Taoists states: "It is only through order that greater things are born." Using our honor code as the order, let us make continuing the legacy of honor for later generations our greater things.

Laura Spivey Massie passed away peacefully March 9 in Napa, Calif., surrounded by family and friends. Laura was a lifelong champion for human rights and acceptance and was loved and admired by all who knew her. Originally from Eatonton, Ga., born May 29, 1912, Laura got her B.A. from Agnes Scott College and received her master's in social work from the Richmond Training Center. While at ASC, her friend, Margaret Massie Simpson '34, introduced her to her brother, William Massie, whom Laura married in Eatonton in 1936. She lived the first part of her adult life in Lexington, Ky., as a social worker, wife, mother and social activist. In the 1960s, she chaired the Lexington Committee for Religion and Human Rights, and in 1964 received the Humanitarian Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews for her courage and commitment to the work of the civil rights movement. After the death of her husband, Laura moved to Carmel Valley, Calif., where she was co-owner of a boutique clothing shop and an active member of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. Five years ago, she moved to Napa, Calif., to be near her daughter. Laura loved and was loved by all the many friends she made everywhere she went, in each period of her life. The deep friendships she began in her childhood and later at Agnes Scott College remained important throughout her life. An exceptionally generous spirit, an extraordinary listener, Laura lived with openness and humor, with great grace and joie de vivre.

Johnnie Mae York Rumble has moved from Rabun Gap, Ga., to Winthrop at Tucker Retirement Home in Lawrenceville. Ga., to be close to her son.

Mary Sloan Laird, along with Kathryn Maness Nelson and her sister, Margaret, are now at Kings Bridge Retirement Center.

Louise McCain Boyce has recently undergone bypass surgery. She is doing fine and planned to be in Atlanta for the monthly "lunch bunch" get-together at the Piccadilly Cafeteria.

Carolyn Russell Nelson and her daughters took a trip to Aurora, Neb. Her son, Monty, is a Presbyterian minister there. His daughter is a sophomore at Montreat College. Carolyn returned in time for the Russell family reunion at Russell, Ga., in July.

Martha Van Schelven Hill is very happy in the Wyndum Retirement Center in Kalamazoo, Mich. She and her many friends are celebrating the happy events in their lives. Her daughter, Pam, only 30 miles away, is also a big part of her life.

Mary Jackson Chambers sold her home of over 50 years in Lithonia, Ga., to a wonderful group of Buddhists who had long been looking for a place to build their temple. Just at the right time a house in Salem became available, two doors from Mary's niece—the perfect place at the perfect time. Soon afterward, Mary's great niece was married. Naturally, Mary was included in all the special celebrations and instantly became known as the beloved Aunt Mary.

Dorothy Potts Lavendol and Marjorie traveled to Florida for a short cruise out of Tampa, but they missed the boat—literally. The good news is they visited with several of Dorothy's friends and one family of Lavendol grandsons. So they still had a wonderful time!

Thanks to the work of fund chairperson Sara Frances Estes and class president Sarah Jones Cheatham, the class of 1936 came a close second to top class 1956 in contributions to the ASC Annual Fund. Nine members of 1936 attended the 2001 reunion: Ruby Hutton Barron, Sarah Jones Cheatham, Frances James Donohue, Sara Frances Estes, Ernelle Blair Fife, Helen Handte Morse, Katherine Bishop Oxford, Shirley Christian Ledgerwood and Mildred Clark Sargent.

Dean McKoin Bushong regretted not being at the 65th, the first she has missed since graduation. She is recovering from the effects of a stroke, spending nights with a daughter and days at a senior health center.

After the reunion Helen Handte Morse and Frances James Donohue visited Elizabeth Burson Wilson at her home in St. Simons Island, Ga. Classmates recall "Lib's" generous hospitality to the class at the 50th reunion.

Helen Handte Morse, son John H. Morse III, Frances James Donohue and son Daniel attended the Military Honors service for James O'Connor Sargent, husband of Mildred Clark Sargent, in Arlington National Cemetery. On Dec. 1, Jim was pleased to deliver the eulogy for Helen's husband, Navy Captain John H. Morse Jr. at his Military Honors service in Arlington National Cemetery.

Sarah Jones Cheatham's last granddaughter has entered college. Her sister graduated from Furman in June. All the other grandchildren have completed college. Sarah's numerous great-grandchildren also show progress: one 10-year-old won a bicycle for reading the most books and passing a test on them.

Sara Frances Estes and sister Jane '37 were at the 2001 reunion and '36 class dinner. They are glad their home in Gay, Ga., is near enough to Atlanta and Decatur to permit them to go there often.

Sarah Spencer Gramling looked forward to seeing several classmates at Montreat, N.C., and to attending the ASC tea there. She and Richard enjoy their home near the Space Center, where Dr. Gramling worked from its beginning until his retirement. Their youngest grandchild begins high school this fall. Three of their four granddaughters have completed college.

After the reunion and class dinner, Shirley Christian Ledgerwood and husband John attended an Elderhostel in Henderson, N.C. Shirley continues supporting an Opportunity Center for the Homeless. John also does volunteer work for the senior center near their home in Palo Alto, Calif.

Frances James Donohue was happy to have as her houseguest in Accokeek, Md., her ASC roommate and longtime friend, Helen Handte Morse. Frances has heard from Margaret Cooper Williams, who sees Georgeanne Lewis Coker every summer. Frances attended the wedding of a great-niece in New York City and a reunion of her grandmother Aiken's family in Montreat, N.C.

Katherine Bishop Oxford came to the reunion with one of her sons. She received a laptop for Mother's Day and reports her e-mail address: koxford@mailstation.com.

James Ryan, husband of Sarah Turner Ryan, telephoned regrets that he and Sarah could not be at the 65th reunion. They had both enjoyed the 60th so much.

Class officers have been asked to help plan the 65th reunion, scheduled April 26-28, 2002. Jane Estes and Florence Lasseter Rambo promise that every effort will be made to ensure easy access on campus. Members will enjoy seeing the beautiful improvements and additions to the campus.

Mary Erneste Perry Houston and Fannie B. Harris Jones will attend even if they have to get someone to drive them or a personal care person to accompany them.

The class of 1936 had eleven members at their 65th and looks forward to exceeding that number. The secretary urges everyone to plan now!

In April, Goudyloch "Giddy" Erwin Dyer and Bob had the thrill of hearing their grandson, Ted Gresham, play the cello with his high school orchestra at Carnegie Hall. Since Giddy and Bob first met 62 years ago in New York, they also had a great time revisiting old haunts and remembering. After a year of "dreary health problems," Giddy rejoices that they are able to enjoy life again.

Mary Belle Weir Norris' daughter, Mary Olivial Norris, of Orlando, Fla., received La Grange College's 2000-2001 Shackelford Distinguished Alumnus Award. Mary is the corporate director of Clinical Psychosocial Services for Orlando Regional Healthcare System, one of the state's most comprehensive medical systems. She is president of the Florida chapter of Social Work Leaders in Health Care and is on the board of directors of the National Social Work Leaders.

Elsie West Duval and Joyce Roper McKey felt they had "attained celebrity status with that beautifully written story in the winter issue of the Agnes Scott Alumnae Magazine. Author Tish Young McCutchen captured the essence of [their] lifetime friendship." Elsie confesses "they got so carried away that they gave her far more than enough reminiscences to wade through."

Joyce Roper McKey had visits from Elsie West Duval and Ellen Little Lesesne in Highlands, N.C., this summer. Joyce's family also celebrated her 60th wedding anniversary on May 31.

Mildred Davis Harding has at last decided not to work as hard at things as she did when she was 30. "To reduce stress," she tries to do "only pleasant, refreshing things appropriate to these late years." She is enjoying a lazy nouveau régime of reading, letter-writing and simple entertaining. Her son, Brayton, who lives on his own boat in a marina nearby, visits Mildred and Robert often. Daughter Branwen has returned from Istanbul in the wake of Turkey's economic crisis during which all of her ESL and existing jobs disappeared. She accepted a friend's invitation to visit her in Rosa Beach, Calif., and to look for a new job. Mildred and Robert drove her there, where she immediately found temporary work. Mildred was thrilled to read that Madame Sadat would be ASC's commencement speaker. "If I were bold enough," she adds, "I would have liked to put Waking Up in Egypt in her hands. It would interest her."

Anne Thompson Rose was present for the announcement of a gift to the College by her brother-in-law, Hal Smith, in memory of Anne's sister, Julia Thompson Smith '31. At 96, Hal felt the trip from Florida to the College would be too much for him, so he called on Anne to represent the family. While attending this event and other Alumnae Weekend festivities, Anne was "really impressed by seeing the new Alston Campus Center, the renovated McCain Library, the renovated Bradley Observatory and the renewed Alumnae Garden with its statue of Robert Frost—as if he is sitting there, writing. It's still a great college," Anne declares, promising to "see everyone at the 65th reunion in 2003."

Jane Guthrie Rhodes, Nell Allison Sheldon and Elizabeth Warden Marshall attended several of the Alumnae Weekend celebrations. Jane enjoyed the wine and cheese treat on the new terrace of McCain Library. She and Nell still go to the opera together at the Fox.

Nell Allison Sheldon encourages everyone to review the article in the June issue of National Geographic in which the guide of the author of Marco Polo, Part II in China recalls singing "Jesus Loves Me" as a student in a missionary school. The author then joined in as they sang "Holy, Holy, Holy" and "Silent Night." Nell's parents were missionaries to China before the communists came to power. This summer, Nell attended the graduation of her son in San Francisco, where he received his undergraduate degree.

The class extends its heartfelt sympathy to Kathryn Peacock Springer on the death of her brother.

Class President Sarah Cunningham Carpenter wrote early in May that she did attend the weekend celebration of ASC's past, present and future through Founder's Day Convocation. The Alston Campus Center was dedicated; the newly renovated McCain Library was rededicated and other events celebrated. Sarah said Lou Pate Jones resigned as fund chair, and Susie "Elizabeth" Furlow Brown assumed the position. The class sends many thanks to Lou for the years she served. Sarah was leaving for Chicago to visit her 3-year-old granddaughter, Jessie Elizabeth Carpenter, "the light of [her] life."

According to Virginia "Jenny" Kyle Dean, "Though life isn't exciting, it is satisfying." Recently her church celebrated a mother-daughter banquet at which the men prepared the food, served it and cleaned up. The women enjoyed that! At the banquet Jenny was the commentator from Paris for the "goofy" fashion show: tea dress (dress with tea bags all over), print dress (dress made of newspaper), slipover dress (slip over a dress) and a check dress (dress with canceled checks pinned to it). Jenny has become interested in family history and was surprised to find just how much she had. She pulled it together for her cousins, nieces and nephews. Now perhaps she will continue and discover many more cousins. It is amazing just how much one can dig up.

While the secretary did not get to ASC for all the festivities, her friend, Carlanna Lindamood Hendrick '58, did attend and brought her many goodies: her first box of Agnes Scott stationery, snapshots, brochures on the McCain Library and the Alston Campus Center. Thanks, Carlanna!

It is always exciting to hear from a member of another class about one's own classmate. Marybeth Little Weston Lobdell '48 has written about Virginia Hill Thurman, who lives in the same retirement community at Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla. Virginia was active in journalism in Atlanta for many years and published a collection of poems, Confetti Air, in 1966. Also involved in church and civic affairs, she was the founding president of the Atlanta chapter of the Freedom Foundation. Husband Bill has also had a successful career. They have three children, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. The secretary would like to hear from Virginia, but is grateful to Marybeth for the information.

The class sends sympathy to Jane Hamilton Ray on the death of her brother.

Frances Guthrie Brooks enjoyed a visit to Florida and Marco Island this spring with her daughter, Julia, and two granddaughters.

Embarking from Dover, England, Grace Elizabeth Anderson Cooper and Frank went on a Baltic cruise in June for 12 days, as far north as Helsinki. On their return, they visited the foreign exchange student who had lived with them in 1962 on an American Field Service program. They spent July in their summer home in Montreat, N.C.

Class President Harriet Stimson Davis is happy to report good health as she enjoys her church groups and volunteering "here and there."

Robert Kennedy, great-nephew of Nell Moss Roberts and grandson of Marie Moss McDavid '33, was recently married to Nicole van Vleet '01.

ASC alumnae in the Asheville, N.C., area have had several get-togethers this year. In February, Henrietta Thompson Wilkinson, Polly Heaslett Hastings and Aurie Montgomery Miller '44 gathered for lunch at Sophie Montgomery Crane's. In March, Polly "Henri" Emma McMullen Doom '39, Mamie Lee Ratliff Finger '39 and husband Ellis, and Mary "Mef" Francis Ault met for lunch at Tripps Restaurant. Polly and Mamie Lee also attended the Agnes Scott luncheon at Richmond Hill Inn in May.

Sophie Montgomery Crane and Katherine Patton Carssow both underwent hip replacement surgery last spring. They agree that the surgery has helped them tremendously and claim to feel "better than ever."

Mary Lang Gill Olson was looking forward to the wedding in May of her oldest grandson. All four of Mary Lang's grandchildren were to be in the wedding.

In late May, Polly Heaslett Hastings enjoyed a five-day camping trip to Edisto Island Beach in South Carolina. The weather was great, except for one thunderstorm; and she thoroughly appreciated the camping as well as the bus tour of Charleston that was a side trip on her way home.

Elizabeth "Betty" Alderman Vinson and Ed stay active with friends, music and art opportunities and their garden. Betty contributes the following poem:

"Bold Aspirations!"
Great adaptations!
And Mary Brown "B"
As we clearly see,
Has grand inspirations.
Give your dollars, stocks and gold
To match with dreams that are bold;
And Mary Brown "B"
Will thank you with glee,
And rewards will be many-fold.
Your gifts, plus multiplications,
Will lead to manifestations,
And Mary Brown "B"
Will then oversee
ASC's "Bold Aspirations!"

Kathryn Benefield Bartlett and Parker have two sons, two grandsons and two granddaughters. They anticipate moving to a smaller place.

Elisabeth Ruprecht Boyd, a retired school librarian, is busy with DAR, CAR and PEO work, along with historical and genealogical research, travel, church activities and three grandchildren.

Jean Dennison Brooks has three children and six grandchildren, with whom she spends much time. After graduation she pursued interests in graduate school and beyond. Jean exercises daily and plays golf frequently, now with the fourth generation of her family!

Marian Philips Comento is a retired medical technologist with three children. She coordinates the "plant exchange" for two senior groups.

Lillian Schwencke Cook has four children, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild. In 2000, she was in and out of hospitals, but presently is fine, enjoying aquarobics, gardening and garden club activities, bridge and the Methodist Church. She also takes pleasure in reading good books.

Doris Dalton Crosby has four children (two of whom are Agnes Scott graduates) and four grandchildren. She volunteers at church and helps with her 16-month-old grandchild, who replaces hobbies and satisfies any need for exercise. She travels as much as time allows and plans several trips for 2001.

Ethelyn Dyar Daniel has four children and six grandchildren. Rain or shine, she walks five mornings per week. Books she has found impressive this year are Hannah's Daughters, Angela's Ashes and T'is.

Nina May Snead De Montmollin and her electrical engineer husband are proud of their four children, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Nina hopes for good health and more fun-filled activity for both of them this year. She plays golf twice a week and works very hard for her political party.

Valgerdur "Val" Nielson Dillard had so hoped to come to the reunion, but macular degeneration has greatly curtailed her activities. She visited by phone with Lillian Schwenke Cook, Florrie Margaret Guy Funk and Florence "Flonnie" Day Ellis Gifford. For "Val," "turning in [her] car keys two years ago was as big a tragedy as the magnitude of joy and liberation on acquiring them at age 16." Her daughter, Martha, works part time and lives with her in Richmond, Va., acting as chauffeur, chef and shopper, in addition to reading aloud to Val. Her main anchor is her new life in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Daughter Julie works in San Francisco and plans to visit soon.

Anne Martin Elliott keeps busy with farming and tree growing, as she gets accustomed to living in a retirement home with 102 people she has never seen before. She has no children but keeps in contact with one niece, one great-niece and nephew, children of her sister who died 30 years ago. Anne is interested in reading, exercise, bridge, Bible study and helping new residents get acclimated. She was the first female to be elected elder in her church in Fort Mill and served as a member and vice-moderator of the Session.

Florrie Guy Funk and James spend much time at Lakemont, Sea Island, as well as Atlanta, where their children and eight grandchildren live. She values her Agnes Scott friends and was sorry not to attend the reunion, but they were out of town for Jim's med school class reunion.

Six children, nine grandchildren and six grandchildren address Nina Broughton Gaines and John appropriately. Being from Prairie Village, Kansas, Nina knows of only one other alumna from as far away: Betty Waitt White-Hemmick, from San Antonio, Texas. Nina's hobbies are reading, knitting, exercising, walking and caring for a five-bedroom house. She volunteers at the library.

Frances Spratlin Hargrett has three children, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She swims three times a week and works in the library. Her hobbies are reading, swimming and napping. She would have liked courses in interior design and landscaping at ASC.

Betty Waitt White-Hemmick has three children and five grandchildren and spends her time traveling, reading and quilting. She "would not give anything for the closeness [she] felt for teachers and classmates. Agnes Scott offered everything needed for the lives [she and her classmates] live."

Ann Henry is moving into a new retirement home as she reflects on how ASC has enriched her life. She would like to see more study in foreign countries.

Mary Scott Wilds Hill enjoys two children and two granddaughters. She and Joseph live in a life-care community, where they feel secure and loved in a health center with assisted living provided when they need it. They participate in many activities. Mary and Joseph are on the welcome committee and like meeting new residents and serving as volunteers in the really great library. In addition, they are involved in church activities in a great outreaching church. Arizona State University is nearby.

With three children and eight grandchildren, Freda Copeland Hoffman spends most of her time doing paperwork and babysitting.

Dorothy "Dot" Travis Joyner and Hugh are occupied keeping up with house, yard, church volunteer jobs and the Decatur Agnes Scott Club. At the 60th reunion, Dot presented to the Alumnae House library a recently published copy of Elizabeth Stevenson's Henry James—A Crooked Corridor in memory of Betty. Five of Betty's books have been published in paperback by Transaction Publishers of Rutgers University. Henry James—A Crooked Corridor was her first but the last to be released in the new publications. Betty wrote a new introduction for the release.

Martha Dunn Kerby and Dixon have two children. She does volunteer work and delights in her two daughters. Martha's hobbies include bridge, books, study and garden clubs, walking, church circle and several committees she serves on at Peachtree Presbyterian Church.

Sabine Brumby Korosy and Fred count three children and one granddaughter. Hobbies include letter writing, journals, autobiography, reading, scrapbooks and walking. Sabine also volunteers in ICU at the hospital and serves on the Domestic Violence and Outreach and Calling church committees.

Martha Moody Laseter and Brand have three children and nine grandchildren. They participate in church activities and travel. In 2001, they planned to journey to Botswana, Africa. Martha helps with the church's preschool program of 160 children. She advises classmates to spend time with their children and grandchildren.

Sara Lee MacKay, a retired teacher, and Jamie have three children and five grandchildren. They spent most of 2000 at their home on Lookout Mountain, with a month at their beach house at Panama City and a cruise to Alaska. Her hobbies are reading, knitting, church and traveling.

Dorothy Peteet Mitchell has four sons and four grandchildren. Her hobbies are enjoying friends, doing church work and visiting grandchildren.

Gene Slack Morse and Chet take pride in four children and 13 grandchildren. Most of Gene's time is devoted to reading, visiting and family get-together. Her hobbies are aerobics, gardening, flower arranging and church visits.

Mary Stuart Arbuckle Osteen's family includes three children and three grandchildren. Her granddaughter is a missionary in Tanzania. Mary has been president of the Residents' Council in the retirement village where she lives. Golf, leading water aerobics classes, gardening, walking two miles daily, book club and family give her a variety of activities.

Hazel Scruggs Ouzts and Jack have two children and one grandson. She concentrates on keeping up with family, church and social obligations. Her hobbies are reading and travel.

At last count, Tommay Turner Peacock and Cassius reported two children, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. They have a lovely home on a golf course in Naples, Fla., and a summer home near Banner Elk, N.C.

Anita Howard Perry has nine children, 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. She has spent much time writing to politicians, giving to charity, building a home, revising her memoir, It Is Within You, and publishing her book. These have kept her reaching for excellence every day. Anita enjoys writing, answering political surveys and keeping up with a family of 39.

Elta Robinson Posey and Leonard have one son, deceased, and one daughter with five grandchildren. They take pleasure in traveling and in their grandchildren. They are pleased with their country flower garden. Elta is a volunteer and board member of a retirement home. She also participates in a drama group and a research club.

Jane Vaughan Price and Frank treasure two children and two grandchildren. Jane divides her time among reading, caring for her husband, playing bridge, doing church work and traveling. She and Frank look forward to their granddaughter's graduation from the Rhode Island School of Design.

Two children, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren swear allegiance to Cornelia Watson Pruett. In 2000, she was delighted with a trip to France. Volunteering at a nursing home, playing bridge and walking make up her hobbies.

Martha Boone Shaver has four children, 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Last year most of her time was spent caring for her husband, who passed away New Year's Day. She has now resumed her stitching and getting together with friends. Martha's three sisters also attended ASC. They are planning a reunion next year near Atlanta that will include a tour of the Agnes Scott campus.

Margaret Lentz Slicer and Sam have one child, three grandsons and a great-grandchild. Along with reading and walking, Margaret volunteers at the community library, solves crossword puzzles and keeps up with her scattered family. She and Sam live in an elegant retirement home with many attractions. She has had a knee replacement.

Helen Hardie Smith and Bill have three children, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She helps in the Winter Park Towers Thrift Shop and writes that the College enabled her to join the first WAVES Officer Training unit in WWII. Her hobbies are yoga, reading, plants, birds, clouds and people of all walks of life.

Roberta Ingles Steele and Paul have one child and one grandson. She has published two books dealing with family history. In taking care of historic family property—Ingles Ferry and La Rivière, both national landmarks that need developing—Roberta has more than a hobby.

Virginia Corr White reports three children, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She does church work, reads, relaxes at bridge, spends time with family and travels. She feels fortunate to live near her family.

Mary Madison Wisdom has adapted to a new lifestyle at a retirement center living. Her hobbies are reading, water exercise and church-related activities.

Elizabeth "Betsy" Kendrick Woolford and Bill live in the Kendrick family home in Aylett, Va. She keeps in touch with Ann Fisher Stanley, who now lives in a retirement home in Philadelphia, Pa. Ann's daughter also is in Philadelphia, busy with twins and keeping tabs on her mother.

Of interest to note on the questionnaire sent to the class is the dominant response to "Books I have recently read that I can recommend." The favorite was Tom Brokaw's The Greatest Generation.

Decatur, GA 30033-1419

Kirk Allen, husband of Dorothy Nabers Allen, became very ill while serving as chaplain on a cruise ship traveling for 34 days around South America. He was hospitalized in Buenos Aires for five days before flying back to High Point for removal of a kidney. Dorothy and Kirk hope to be able to spend the summer in Montreat as usual. She was looking forward to the Agnes Scott College Alumnae Tea in July at Montreat. Usually in attendance are 30 to 40 alumnae. "Dot" informed the secretary of the death of William C. Still, husband of Shirley Anne Smith Still.

On May 19, Dennis Ray Byerly, grandson of Jane Stillwell Espy and Robert J.W. Espy, was married to Mary Kathryn Wallace, daughter of Janet McClain Wallace '75 and Charles Wallace, at the First Presbyterian Church, Peachtree City, Ga.

Swanna "Betty" Henderson Cameron was happy with a visit from Dorothy "Dot" Holoran Addison and Margaret "Meg" Downie Brown the first week of April. Swanna said the three "had the best time reminiscing and laughing over nothing. They are both just wonderful." She also wants to correct the wrong e-mail address in the winter alumnae news. The correct address is: bhcam@aol.com. She would love to hear from classmates.

Hannah Lee Reeves is back home after spending six weeks in the hospital for treatment of a heart ailment. She and her brother live in Decatur, Ga.

Ruby Rosser Davis reports that President Mary Brown Bullock and Mardia Brown accepted Ruby's invitation to come to Lenbrook Square on March 20 to a program called "Book Talk." The president spoke on China to an eager and standing-room-only audience. Everyone there appreciated her generous gift of time and knowledge on the subject. Since then President Bullock has appeared on CNN sharing her experience on China.

After nearly 50 years in the California Bay Area (Marin County), Mary Miller Guerrant has moved back east to Highland Farms, Black Mountain, N.C. During the war years at ASC, she spent her summers in Montreat, has returned numerous times and has many friends and relatives close by. Mary looks forward to four seasons and fall colors!

Virginia Carter Caldwell's daughter, Beth, has published a book titled Heroes, Monsters and Messiahs.

The Atlanta Woman's Club donated a tree to "Trees Atlanta" in honor of Lila Longley's service to the club. She is presently bridge chairman for the group which meets on fourth Wednesdays. Any alumnae wishing to play bridge at the newly renovated club should call Lila at (404) 874-3808.

Margaret Norris and Dorothy "Dot Lee" McKee Webb had a good visit in Montgomery. Dot has just completed another semester at AUM.

Frances Brougher Garman's life is taken up with grandchildren and great grandchildren. In March, she had a wonderful trip to Germany and Spain, where daughter Linda has beautiful homes. Frances also reports that in May, after experiencing some tightness in the chest, she raced to the hospital hoping to be dismissed home. Instead, she was sent to the cath lab; there an angiogram revealed a narrowing in the main artery to the heart, requiring a stent to keep the artery open. Two years ago the same thing happened, so she now has two stents. She urges anyone who feels the slightest chest area discomfort to go quickly to an emergency room so that damage to the heart can be avoided. No one should be embarrassed. It is better to be wrong and sent home than to be dead or to live with a damaged heart. Frances would love to hear from anyone with a similar experience. Her e-mail address is Brough@Gateway.net. Thinking of "so many dear friends [she] would like to hear about," Frances reminds classmates of the need for news of the class of '45. The secretary concurs.

After back surgery Martha Whatley Yates recuperated at her son's home in Valdosta.

Inge Probstein wrote Margaret "Molly" Milam Inserni that she had just taught Chekhov to 36 people.

In a limerick to Molly, Dorothy "Dot" Hunter and Pat Elam wrote, "From head to toe, we each have woe."

Margaret Norris wants to remind everyone that her e-mail address is MVNorri@AttGlobal.net.

Betty Jane Hancock Moore is having a good time teaching piano. Two of her grandchildren were to be married in the summer; they are her daughter Melanie's children.

Susan "Soozi" Richardson does not anticipate that she will still be employed at the time of the next official gathering and so promises to be present. Her job responsibilities kept her from coming to the 55th.

Jeanne Addison Roberts and Markley have two new grandsons: one from Russia, the other from Romania. In retirement, she is a study group leader at the Institute for Learning in Retirement in Washington, D.C.

Mary Duckworth Gellerstedt and Lawrence are delighted with their new second home in Highlands, N.C. Mary finds it is a joy to be able to relax away from all the activities in Atlanta. They were missed at the reunion.

Elisabeth "Libby" Woodward Ellis should have had credit for providing the "Prom Queen" cartoon enclosed in the reunion follow-up letter. It was close to reality, wasn't it?

Victoria "Vicky" Alexander Sharp and Hank have moved to a retirement home in Lexington, Va.

Pattie Dean Curry teaches piano six days a week and substitutes at an elementary school two days in Anderson, S.C.

Guidelines For Submitting Class News

Class news is published in MAIN EVENTS in January, March, June and September. Please submit news to your class secretary according to the following deadlines:

- September 20 for January publication
- November 20 for March publication
- February 20 for June publication
- May 20 for September publication

Class news may also be submitted directly to the Office of Alumnae Relations. Whether submitting news to your secretary or the Alumnae Office, be sure to include your full name (first, maiden, last) and class year.

When reporting births, deaths and advanced degrees, please include as much detailed information as possible. In all cases, exact dates and full names are needed.

Please report weddings and other planned events (vacations, visits with alumnae and friends) only after the fact.

Agnes Scott has nearly 10,000 living alumnae. We want to keep in touch with all of you and keep you in touch with each other.

Contact your class secretary with your news today!

family sings a great deal, boasting a coloratura soprano, the lead voice in an award-winning a capella group and a piano and viola player. Margaret sings in the choir at her Reform Temple in Chappaqua, N.Y.

For over 40 years, Jessie "Anne" Stevens Ruff and George have lived in Thomaston, Ga., where they are taking advantage of retirement. Anne volunteers as mission action director for The House of Care sponsored by the local First Baptist Church.

Sarah Walker Womack is feeling her age but still playing tennis. She lost her husband, Jim, in 1997, her brother, John, in 1998 and her sister, Lila Walker McRae '42, in January. She enjoys having her three daughters and their families near her in Hickory, N.C.

Betty Howell Traver writes a weekly "Archives" column in the Greensboro, Ga., paper, in addition to doing aerobics three times a week. She and Dan are making plans to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in Japan in 2003.

Ruth Ryner Lay, a tennis pro, continues to teach even after two successful knee replacements. She and Joe have a new home adjacent to tennis courts and a pool.

Since 1978, Alma Frances Malone Del Rosso and Raymond have lived in Rome, Ga. They have two children and six grandchildren. Alma is involved with Friends of the Library, a book club, a garden club and the Coosa River Basin Initiative but finds time to play bridge.

Among the highlights of the last five years, Jane Oatley Hynds lists the celebration of Joe's and her 50th wedding anniversary, the graduations and weddings of her grandchildren, travel and the 50th reunion of the class. She is sorry that she did not get to the 55th.

Mary "Jeter" Starr Horsley and Bob built their present home in Rome, Ga., in 1978. They have two daughters and a son. Her greatest pleasures are her family, church and good health.

Because Jane Bowman Fort and John's son and his family live in Atlanta and they spent Easter with them, she felt that she could not come back the very next weekend for the reunion. She sent greetings to the class.

Jeanne Hale Shepherd's volunteer work involves tutoring, reading to classroom groups and working in a research museum in Baton Rouge, La. She finds the electronic age somewhat bewildering.

The class extends sympathy to the families of Anne Murrell Courtney, who died in March, and Sara Cooksey McGinnis, who died on May 3.

Emma Jacqueline "Jackie" Stewart spent "a wonderful week at Harriet Gregory Heriot's beach house in North Carolina with Harriet Reid and Sheely Little Miller." The group reveled in "beach walking, good food and great visiting." When "Jane Barker Secord called one night, all got to talk with her."

One of the avid travelers of the class, Mildred Claire Jones Colvin sent this report: "In August, my oldest child, Claire, celebrated her 50th birthday in Italy because she loves Italy so much and is fluent in the language. So the family packed up (taking friend George, of course) and spent a beautiful week in Italy. In November, George and I took a 15-day trip to Antarctica. It was really the trip of a lifetime. Having been on all the other six continents, I wanted to say I had visited all seven." Because travelers have to go during Antarctica's summertime, Mildred arranged to be away for those two weeks. Then during spring break, George and she flew to Switzerland for ten days, "lov[ing] the snowfall in Grindelwald especially."

Dabney Adams Hart and Marian Yancey Carroll represented the class on the selection committee for the annual scholarship to a rising junior who makes a significant contribution to campus life. At an April convocation, the presentation was made to a student from Fort Worth, Texas, who will be introduced to the class in Dabney's annual letter.

Josephine "Jo" Faulkner James reports the death of her husband last August, with hospice care at home. Although "death is never a pleasant time," she found the hospice team was caring and helpful. Jo has "learned how to live again and [is] so busy and active" she does not "have time to be unhappy."

Eleanor "El" Bear Wallace and Cam spent 15 days in Spain last fall, after having studied Spanish for a year in preparation for their trip. El had knee surgery in June.

Martha Warlick Brame joined Betty "BJ" Ellison Candler for this spring's ACC basketball tournament in Atlanta. Mott and her daughter, Brandon Brame Fortune '76, spent Easter at The Cloister on Sea Island, Ga., where they again had a pleasant visit with BJ, who owns a home there.

Together with family and friends, Shirley Simmons Duncan and husband Jim celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in October 2000.

Katherine Geffcken is one of 13 visiting Phi Beta Kappa scholars who will be lecturing around the country in 2001-2002. PBK visiting scholars travel to universities and colleges with chapters on their campuses, spending two days on each campus, participating in classroom lectures and seminars, and giving one major address open to the entire academic community. Each year these lecturers make approximately 100 such visits all across the country. Katherine, who now lives in Atlanta, is professor emerita of Latin and Greek at Wellesley College, a past president of the Vergilian Society of America as well as a fellow and former trustee of the American Academy in Rome. One would hope that during her visits, she would get to see a number of friends from the class of 1949.

They enjoyed that anniversary weekend with Anne Irwin Smith and her husband, Henry. The past year has included travels to several countries in Eastern Europe last fall, along with a trip to Hong Kong and Thailand this spring. On May 31, they headed to Arizona to attend a grandson's high school graduation, and then proceeded to Lake Tahoe for a week and a drive through the wine country to San Francisco. Betty and Landon are happy to be in good health and like being on the road. Betty continues her oil painting and sells some, too!

What a glorious 50th reunion this class had! Marianela Segura Ortiz came from Puerto Rico with her two handsome sons, and Marjorie Stukes Smith and husband David traveled from England. Overall, 48 classmates, plus many husbands and other relatives, attended one or more functions.

Elected class officers for the next five years were Mary Caroline "M.C." Lindsay, president; Mary Anna Ogden Bryan, vice president; Anna DaVault Haley and Martha Ann Stegar, co-secretaries; and Marie Woods Shannon, fund chair. On Friday night, the class was inducted into the Anna Young Club (formerly the 50-Year Club). The class dinner in Rebekah Scott Hall on Saturday night provided a wonderful opportunity for sharing memories both funny and poignant. Louise "Twig" Hertwig Hayes showed slides of college days and led everyone in Black Cat songs. Julie Cuthbertson Clarkson served as liturgist at the Sunday morning worship service, during which prayers were offered in memory of all members of reunion classes who have died, including 32 from this class (nine since the 45th reunion).

Anna DaVault Haley received special recognition at the Alumnae Association annual meeting for her extraordinary vision and efforts in establishing the Vision Fund as the class's reunion gift to the College. The class captured second place among the reunion classes for total contributions to the College, giving $483,355, including $29,245 to the Annual Fund; 63 percent participation earned third place.

Others attending the reunion included (apologies for any names inadvertently omitted) Patsy McCartney Boone, Jeanne Kline Brown, Cornelia Hale Bryans, Sarah McKee Burnside, Frances Clark Calder, Jimmie Ann McGee Collings, Sally Lou Dickert Conlin, Betty Rawls Copeland, Virginia Kay Daniel, Freddie Hachtel Daum, Betty Jane Foster Deadwyler, Edna "Marg" Hunt Denny, Betty Ziegler Dunn, Marjorie "Marge" Felder, Julianne Morgan Garner, Nell Floyd Hall, Sara "Sally" Jackson Hertwig, Mary Hayes Barber Holmes, Joan Miller Houston, Nancy Lu Hudson Irvine, Betty McClain Ivy, Elaine Schubert Kester, Virginia Feddeman Kerner, Dorothy Adams Knight, Katharine Loemker Kokomoor, Betty Hollifield Leonard, Tiny Morrow Mann, Eliza Pollard Mark, Charlotte Key Marrow, Winnie Horton Martin, Amy Jones McGreevy, Barbara Quattlebaum Parr, Barbara Caldwell Perrow, Nancy Cassin Smith, Jenelle Spear, Gail Akers Thompson, Josephine Combs Turner, Noel Barnes Williams and Carolyn Galbreath Zehnder.

Bettie Wilson Weakley has been under treatment for a brain tumor, a recurrence of the tumor she developed in 1992, although on the other side of her brain. She is doing fairly well now and feeling grateful for good treatment in Cincinnati, near her home in Shelbyville, Ky. She reports that Page Hutchison Lay and her husband traveled to Ireland.

Unfortunately for Frances "Fritz" Hale Patterson, the reunion coincided with her reunion at the University of Alabama, where she received her undergraduate degree in interior design. She sold her home in Miami, Fla., in order to move to the Boynton Beach/Delray Beach area to be closer to her children, Cornelia "Connie" Martin and Randolph Patterson. Connie is a first-grade teacher in the Tampa public school system. She and her husband, Don, have two children: Karen, 13, and Michael, 15. Don installs security systems and is branching out on his own. Randy, the pastor of the Seacrest Presbyterian Church in Delray Beach, is married to Maggie, and they have four children. Jennifer, 22, graduated from Gordon College and works in the Boston area. Christine, 20, a junior at Gordon, journeyed to Israel for a semester to attend the University of Jerusalem. Daniel, 19, graduated from high school in June. He joined the Army Reserves and spent last summer in boot camp. He was to be there again this summer but under fewer restrictions. Amber, 17, a junior in high school, carries on the family tradition of track running (Jennifer was No. 1 in cross-country in Maine). In other family news, "Fritz" attended a Patterson reunion in Selma, Ala., in June.

Nancy Anderson Benson has been a professor of English at Mercy College in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., for nearly 30 years, and director of its honors program for the last eight. During the ASC reunion weekend, she led a delegation of Mercy faculty and students to a convention of the National Collegiate Honors Council. This year she received a Distinguished Alumni Award from the Graduate Alumni Association of the City University of New York, where she received her Ph.D. in 1980. In June, Nancy attended her 50th reunion at Goucher College.

Tom and Jimmie Ann McGee Collings returned to Spartanburg, S.C., in June. Jimmie Ann says Tom is really retired now, after working for 16 years in Greeneville, Tenn., as a pediatric consultant for the state.

In the past year, Betty Ziegler Dunn and her husband visited with cousins living in Stuttgart and Tübingen, Germany. They also spent a month on a working farm in Massachusetts as a host couple with Heifer Project International.

Mary Ann Jaynes Hynds enjoys helping in the soup kitchen at her church, walking with her group and being a docent at the Georgia Museum of Art in Athens.

Carolyn Galbreath Zehnder stays busy with a Shakespeare club, the Assistance League, church choir and auditing classes at Tulsa University. She and Lawrence travel as much as possible. Last year they went to Portugal, Spain and Paris in the spring and then participated in an Elderhostel in Padua and Venice in September.

Other travelers last year: Nell Floyd Hall took a trip to Oberammergau by way of Prague, Vienna, Munich, Salzburg, Venice, Florence and Rome. JoAnn Craig Hogan went to Israel for 10 days. Joan Miller Houston and her daughter accompanied an Elderhostel to Banff and flew to Ireland with her children and grandsons, Jamie and Andrew. Annelle Simpson Kelly enjoyed Machu Picchu, Peru, and a Nile cruise in Egypt.

In Paris, Louise "Twig" Hertwig Hayes and Henry heard their son-in-law, Jacob Howland, deliver an invited guest lecture at La Séminaire de Philosophie Antique at the Sorbonne. They stayed 10 days in Paris with their daughter, Jennifer, Jake and their two teenage sons, Abe and Nate.

Class of '54 please send e-mail addresses to Nancy Lee-Riffe.

For Caroline Reinero Kemmerer, most of her news concerns travel: Mexico in January, Spain in March, Italy in June to study Italian. She is "doing pretty well." Her e-mail address is johnkem29@aol.com.

Caroline is not the only traveler! Louise Hill Reaves' biggest news was a wonderful trip in June with Dr. Mike Brown, retired ASC history professor, to England and Wales. Her e-mail address is louise.reaves@juno.com.

In September, Mary Pritchett Webb moved to Turtle Bay Drive in Bradenton, Fla., to a house being built to their specifications. She has found it all positively exciting, except the very hard work of downsizing and the actual business of moving. More explicit addresses will come later. Her e-mail address is MaphWebb@cs.com

Phyllis Hess Twinney and husband Marc have been fortunate in that all three sons, their wives and the seven grandchildren lived near them in Michigan. Now, however, one of the families has been transferred to Pittsburgh and will have to be visited by Phyllis and Marc. They continue to take winter vacations in the South and a few weeks each summer in Maine, working in some fly-fishing wherever they are.

After an extensive college search, Helen McGowen French's granddaughter, who lives in Illinois, chose Agnes Scott. Her grandparents will enjoy having her so near. Helen's e-mail address is hmfrench@aol.com.

2000 was Jim and Florrie Fleming Corley's "Year of the Book." They produced A History of the First Presbyterian Church of Marietta, 1835-2000; it may be obtained for $25 from the church. In addition, they had a family retreat at Montreat, with another family gathering at Pawleys Island in August. October took them to Maine, where 13 of the family camped out and partook of a vegetarian Thanksgiving. This May, Florrie and Jim did a walking trip in Italy, a wonderful way to strengthen Florrie's bones. Since hearing disturbing things about her bone density, she has embarked on an exercise program: tai chi, jumping rope, Mephisto shoes, etc. Her e-mail address is jwcorley2@mindspring.com.

Barbara Yowell Schwind has a great-grandson born on Christmas Day, 2000, an exciting way to celebrate! Her new e-mail address is bys1116@earthlink.net.

In March, Chor Goh Chow traveled to Hawaii to see her eldest daughter and has enjoyed visits at home from the other children as they come and go on their travels. Chor's e-mail address is cwchow@ttinational.net.

Nancy Lee-Riffe, whose bones, like Florrie's, are not dense enough, is doing much walking, rejoicing to be able to walk from home around the periphery of a wooded area to the accompaniment of birdsong for an hour each (almost!) early morning. She spent 11 days in North Carolina in May, visiting three of her offspring, their spouses, one grandchild and sister Stratton Lee Peacock '46. Her e-mail address is retleeri@acs.edu.eku.

Libby Wilson Blanton and her 94-year-old mother went to Tallahassee for the graduation from high school of her only grandson. His mother, Donna Blanton, represented Katherine Harris '79, Florida's secretary of state, in the historic Florida election litigation. Libby and a friend plan a paddleboat trip on the Mississippi River this fall.

Clif Trussell had cataract surgery in December and March. Reading is easier, and she has been able to sew mosquito nets for missions. Clif saw Galileo at the Shakespeare Tavern and sat at a table with a small plaque reading: "In honor of Dr. George P. Hayes, by Joann Hall Hunsinger."

Mary Love L'Heureux Hammond's son, James, enjoyed a trip to Egypt and took pictures. He placed them and descriptions on a Web site, http://www.birdnest.org/hammondj1/egypt. Mary Love says they take her back to art history courses at ASC.

Sara Dudney's 42-year-old son was married for the first time June 16 at Seaside, Fla. This year Sara spent a month in Paris with her significant other and had two eye surgeries resulting in 20/20 vision for the first time since she was 7.

Dorothy Sands Hawkins drove to Phoenix, Ariz., with her son's mother-in-law, Betty, to attend the International Fresh Cut Producers Association's annual convention. Dorothy's oldest daughter, Edith Garrett, is the assistant president. They next drove to the Grand Canyon, back down (through a blinding snowstorm) to Tucson, to the Suguaro National Forest and White Sands National Monument and to Dallas. Then they went to Salina, Kan., to visit a young woman who lived with Sid and Dorothy for a few months. Leaving there, they traveled to Independence, Mo., the Truman home and library, to Springfield, Ill., the Lincoln home, memorials and a major Frank Lloyd Wright house, to "My Old Kentucky Home," and finally to their own abode.

Grace "Gracie" Greer Phillips and Barry took a trip on the Amazon River and another to Holland. The tulips were an absolute joy, and the Keukenhoff Gardens must be one of the most beautiful places on earth! The riverboat cruise was a delightful way to see the country.

Jane Henegar Loudermilk and Larry volunteer at the World Golf Village near St. Augustine and are having a great deal of fun. They plan to spend summers in North Carolina near one of their daughters and to be in Florida during winter.

Betty Reiney Henley had a full weekend in Atlanta the middle of May: three parties, one wedding, one Emory graduation (granddaughter Carrie), stayed with her 91-year-old father, and at various times with two teenagers, three dogs, two cats and three birds. Betty has recovered from her foot surgery and can spin on a dime once again.

Jo Hinchey Williams works to save the world by writing newspaper op-ed articles concerning saving a large piece of property from development, attending meetings regarding the proposed missile defense system, and attending county commission discussions in support of height restrictions on development and less phosphate mining in the region. On behalf of the "Bold Aspirations" campaign, she also hosted an Agnes Scott luncheon for Bradenton, Sarasota and St. Petersburg alumnae.

Patricia Paden Matsen finished her 32nd year of teaching Greek at the University of South Carolina, Columbia.

Elizabeth "Betty Ann" Jacks Miller's big news is William Reese Clemons, who came out screaming on May 18 weighing 5 lbs., 2 oz. Betty Ann and Ralph attended her 50th Decatur Girls High School reunion in April along with high school/college classmates Pauline Waller Hoch, Beverly Espy Dayries, Ann Phelps Collier, and Norma Adams Pigeon.

Ann Hanson Merklein and her sister, Elizabeth Duerr '58, returned from a trip to Ireland with retired ASC history professor Mile Brown and Lee. Ireland was especially lovely with the beautiful gardens, old churches, monasteries and homes. Ernest and Ann were planning a leisurely summer with family visits.

In retirement, life goes well for Anne Hoover Gulley with volunteering, grandparenting, and care giving (Frank's 92-year-old mother is in a health care center close to them).

Jane Gaines Johnson and Ralph ventured south to Chile, Argentina, Rio and the Amazon.

Genevieve "Genny" Lucchese Stephens received notes from people not able to attend the mini-reunion: Helen "Nan" Scott Buxton wrote that she had attended Agnes Scott for only one good year and then returned to Oklahoma. She still keeps in contact and visits with Martha Crowell Stewart.

Mary Land attended her 50th high school reunion.

Margaret Rogers Lee's life has been too complicated with a 94-year-old mother-in-law, a pregnant daughter and a trip to Europe at the end of April.

Peggy Pfeiffer Bass' opening day of the golf season found her in charge of one aspect of a women's golf tournament.

Ann Allred Jackson and Kent went to Louisville for Mary "Molly" Prichard Curry's son's wedding in May, her limit for spring travel. They had a rambunctious Silver Diner brunch with Eric, Donna, Emily and Alex.

Celia "Carolyn" Alford Beaty and Barbara Ward Hale were together for their 50th high school reunion in May. They were in the last class of NAPS (North Avenue Presbyterian School) before it became Westminister. Gwen McLeroy Adams was unable to attend.

Class reunions always give class members a chance to catch up with each other's lives. Beginning with this issue of MAIN EVENTS, updates from the 45th reunion will be shared. More will follow in later issues.

Eleanor Swain All was saddened by the death of her 91-year-old mother in June 2000. Mother and daughter had lived as neighbors for many years. Settlements related to this death continue to demand much of Eleanor's attention; but she and Bill have taken time for some travel, notably spending last Christmas in Hawaii with their son and his family. That trip brought back memories of earlier times in Hawaii during Bill's Navy days.

After husband Bob died three years ago, Louise Rainey Ammons decided not to retire from playing the organ, so she maintains a busy schedule as Kingsport's organist who is available for weekday occasions. She also enjoys tennis, bridge and volunteer work related to music. Most of her travel these days is to Texas, where both children live.

Jane Stubbs Bailey missed the reunion this year because she was celebrating her mother's 95th birthday at a family gathering in Williamsburg, Va. Jane reports that her mother "is in good shape and thinks and still tells us what to do."

Alice Johnston Ballenger welcomed her first grandchild just two months after the death of her husband five years ago, helping her get through the emotional trauma of that year of grief. She now is the grandmother of both a boy and a girl. Alice has enjoyed some delightful travel, both in this country and abroad; and she currently coordinates a travel group for her church.

Barbara Battle missed the class reunion this year because it overlapped with a symposium sponsored by the American Foundation for AIDS Research (amfAR), for which she works. She experienced a memorable moment recently as the Old Testament lesson reader at St. Thomas Church, sharing the chancel with the Archbishop of Canterbury and his chaplain.

Saddlebrook, a golf and tennis resort north of Tampa. However, much of Allison's time in recent years has gone into caring for elderly family members. She has made time, nevertheless, for trips to the Holy Land, Egypt, Scandinavia and the Oberammergau Passion Play, and looks forward to more travel in the future.

Music has long played a prominent role in Priscilla Goodwin Bennett's life. She was a volunteer bass player with the Cobb Symphony for 32 years, accompanist for the Cobb Youth Chorus for 11 years and accompanist for Harmony, Atlanta's International Youth Chorus, for six. She says she will continue to do freelance accompanying for students and church as long as she can keep "arthur-itis" at bay. Priscilla and John celebrate 47 years of marriage this year as they enjoy three sons and two grandsons.

Judy Brown loves living in the New Orleans French Quarter and working as a speech pathologist. Last summer, she had a Middle Eastern adventure, traveling "with amazement" through Syria, Jordan and Israel.

Linda Guenther Christopher is a realtor/broker in Charlotte, N.C., where she lives with husband Bill Webb. She likes helping new families get acquainted and settled in the wonderful city of Charlotte. Other interests include travel, arts and education.

Sally Wilt Clifton has retired after 32 years of teaching and special education administration. She is occupied with traveling, banding birds and flying, often in combination. So far this year, she has been in India, Mexico, Australia and New Zealand. She raced in the Women's Classic Air Race in 2000. Sally's three children are married and have given her six grandchildren.

Quilting Lines, newsletter of the Charlottesville area Quilters Guild, published a tribute in its winter 2000 issue to Dorothy "Dee" Walton Smith, "Goodbye to a Dear Friend": Guild members joined with friends and family in late April to say goodbye to Dee Smith, friend, teacher and mentor. Quilting was a big part of Dee's life, and she remained an active member of the guild right to the end, taking the Gwen Marston workshop, coming to QuiltFest and even attending the show just weeks before she died. Knowing Dee's time was short, CAQG members stepped in to help her finish some of her projects. She designed and directed the construction of a quilt for her youngest grandchild so that each of her grandchildren would have one of her quilts. She turned over a group of 80 friendship baskets given to her when she first went through chemotherapy. These were turned into a wall hanging displayed at her memorial service. She chose to be buried "wrapped in the hands" of her family members, and one dear friend made a quilt from their hand tracings. Many contributed flowers and messages to a quilted basket of flowers. Dee's daughter, Marian, sent this message: "I shared some time one evening with Mom reading the messages on the Basket Quilt. She was resting in bed, reliving her memories of each person that signed. She had truly incredible friends, whose support, love and continued caring are almost overwhelming. I'm glad she had you all in her life." Her son, Bud, shared this memory: When he and his mother were test-driving cars, Dee would drive for a while, then she would hop into the back seat and have Bud drive. She wanted to make sure it was a comfortable ride for her quilting friends. Bud's story really says it all.

Leah "Bugs" Mathews Fontaine lives in Tehachapi, Calif., and retired from teaching in 1994. Bugs and a group of fellow alumnae had a delightful luncheon together in early spring. Others present included Elizabeth "Betty" Garrard Saba, Hazel Ellis '58, Marjorie Lindsey '38 and Margaret Webb '58.

In early April, Caroline Pruitt Hayes entertained former roommates Barbara Lake Finch and Anne Moore Eaton. She provided cherry blossoms and museum visits as well as wonderful hospitality. Charles Teague Veronee was ushered in May 9 by Annette Teague Powell's daughter, Caroline, and Charlie Veronee. Little Charlie is Annette's third grandchild born within the last year.

This final item above of news received since last publication date reminds the secretary of statements made by some classmates on the 40th reunion information sheets. Many find the joys of grandparenting to be among favorite activities and special blessings. Some who expressed this joy in various ways were Jean Salter Reeves, Marjorie "Jorie" Muller Mairs and Wynn Hughes Tabor.

The Class of 1961 celebrated a very successful reunion at the College in April. Fifty-two class members attended, as did honorary member John Bates. Several other husbands also enhanced the occasion. At the class meeting, the following slate of officers was elected: Nancy "Madam Prez" Stone Hough, president (by acclamation); Rosemary Kittrell, secretary; Sue McCurdy Hosterman, fund chair; Patricia "Tricia" Walker Bass, reunion chair. Sue and Tricia will fill the post of vice president jointly.

In honor of deceased members, the class voted to establish a fund to buy books for the College library. Those wishing to contribute may send donations to Nancy S. Hough (P.O. Box 56, Fitzgerald, GA 31750) or Mildred Love Petty (451 Ivy Park Lane, Atlanta, GA 30342-4554).

At the Saturday night dinner classmates were delighted to be joined by Dr. Jane Pepperdene.

Thanks are due to those who worked in reunion planning, but especially to Mildred Love Petty, Harriet Elder Manley, Jo Jarrell Wood, Jean "Jeannie" Corbett Griffin and Ginger Marks Espy. Thanks go also to Dee Conwell Irwin, who is creating the class's Web site and collecting e-mail addresses.

In non-reunion news, for her 60th birthday Pamela "Pam" Bevier Abelin and husband Ernest embarked on an age-defying whitewater trip on the Rio Grande near Santa Fe. Pam divides her time between her husband's home in Switzerland and San Antonio, Texas, where her mother receives daily care.

In March, Ginger Marks Espy joined Harriett Elder Manley and Jim, Jo Jarrell Wood and Woody and Jean Corbett Griffin and Em at Cape San Blas, Fla., for fun in the sun.

Willie Byrd Childress Clarke and family moved to Bedford, Va., in May.

Judith "Judy" Houchins Wightman has traveled in recent years with her husband, Hal, to Shanghai, Singapore, Jakarta, Tokyo, Rio de Janeiro, England and Paris.

Christy Hages Demos runs the real estate department in husband Ange's law firm in Miami, where they live close to their two daughters. One daughter is an attorney; the other, a reporter/anchor on NBC, Channel 5, in Palm Beach.

Alice Frazer Evans has been working in Indonesia and East Africa. Husband Bob, a Presbyterian minister, recently baptized their fourth grandchild.

Joan Byrd is writing a book about her major professor in graduate school, glass artist Harvey K. Littleton.

News from Virginia "Gayle" Green Miller reveals that despite her wish to have a Scottie as a grandchild, so far she has collected only grandsons—six of them!

Patricia Holmes Cooper and her husband traveled to California, where he participated in the Los Angeles Times Book Festival.

Betty Bellune Alpern expects to graduate from NYU in December 2001 with a master's degree in occupational therapy.

After 34 years teaching and school directing, Anne Christensen Pollitzer retired. She writes that Ann Russell Hagler is now an ordained minister.

Myrtle Guy Marshall and John are moving to Big Canoe, Ga., and want to know if any classmates happen to be there.

Martha Breitenhirt Rockett retired after 26 years in health care—first as a medical social worker and then as head of a risk management department that she established and implemented. Her time is filled with community activities, travel and visits to her 96-year-old mother.

Helen Everett Smith stepped down from teaching this past year and now works with the local literacy center.

Linda Grant Teasley, a member of the ASC Board of Trustees, is attempting to reestablish an alumnae program in Tampa, Fla.

Any classmates traveling in that area are invited to drop in on Dinah McMillan Kahler in Canon City, Colo., 130 miles southwest of Denver, near the Royal Gorge Bridge. Dinah and her family have a placer gold sample business there.

Having retired from many years as an RN, Virginia Sperling Spence works in a hospital pharmacy. In 2000, she enjoyed a trip to Austin, Texas, for the wedding of her daughter, Annette. Her two sons live in Connecticut.

Mary Ann Lusk Jorgenson is running at the "same ridiculous pace." For the past 10 years, she has headed the corporate practice of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, one of the 25 largest national law firms with numerous overseas offices. She is one of the five members of the firm's elected management committee. Mary Ann finds her work is still fun.

Letitia "Brownie" Faucette is now the business manager and part owner of a restaurant, Sally's Kitchen, in the South Toe Valley on Highway 80 South, Yancey County, N.C. Brownie operated the restaurant at Mt. Mitchell for three years and decided that entrepreneurship is the way to go. Her new address is in Burnsville, N.C.

Karen Haralson Galvez has been doing serious traveling. Last May, she visited Denmark to meet some of her Danish relatives on her mother's side of the family. She next changed directions to the south of France. In October, Karen took the trip of a lifetime: Nepal, northern India, Tibet and Hong Kong, including a five-day camping trek in the Annapurna region. That portion of the trip was, in Karen's words, "the most intense physical effort [she] has ever made, an unforgettable experience." Spending time at her cabin in Tennessee is much less taxing.

Valerie McLanahan Goetz and Charlie are proud grandparents for the second time: Spencer Gordon Goetz Jr. was born on May 8 in Atlanta to Jane and Spencer Goetz. All are thrilled.

Jan Gaskell Ross and husband Art spent the month of May on the island of Sanday in the Orkney Islands, where Art served as guest minister for a small church. Jan read, biked and explored.

Susan Ledford Rust is living in Hendersonville, N.C. Her daughter, Caroline, with degrees in art from Eastern Carolina and Winthrop University, is a painter with large commissioned works hanging in Charlotte and Charleston. Susan's son, Jason, works as a project manager with a commercial construction firm in Charlotte.

Sherry O'Neill Bassett has lived in South Florida for 26 years and manages district claims for Nationwide Insurance Company in southeast Florida, a position she held during and after Hurricane Andrew. Husband Steve is a consulting engineer; her daughter, Erin, is a University of Florida senior.

For those who missed the 35th reunion Hub Sing, Martha Thompson pronounces it a reunion highlight, complete with a special guest appearance at the piano by Linda Marks '67. For the benefit of current students, Betty Derrick '68 provided footnotes for various antiquities in the lyrics such as "Arpège." If present Scotties entertained any thought of '66-ers being old "fuddy-duddies," this was dispelled when the Madelines burst into the ever bawdy "Birthday Cake." Dean Gué Pardue Hudson '68 dedicated the first Hub Sing in the new Alston Campus Center to the memory of Susan Landrum, who was a Hub fixture 35-plus years ago with her legendary rendition of "Teen Angel."

May Day Folk Taylor is working with her oldest son, Scott, at United Buying Service to help people buy cars. Son Thomas graduated from Virginia Wesleyan and is teaching in Chesapeake, Va., while attending William and Mary Law School part time.

Portia Morrison has been installed as president of the Chicago Girl Scout Council. Portia's daughter, Annie, who just "abandoned" (Portia's words) her parents for boarding school, contends that it takes 14,000 girls to fill her place in her mom's life.

During the April class meeting, the class of '66 elected the following new officers: Linda Lael, president; Virginia Quattlebaum Lacy, vice president; Ellen King Wiser, fund chair; Jean Jarrett Milnor, reunion chair; Beverly Allen Morris, secretary.

The class also voted to establish The Susan Landrum Fund and to raise $25,000 by April 2004 in order to name the new Honor Court Room for Susan.

At the April reunion, class members learned of the generous $412,155 gift to the College for an alumnae-in-residence fund from Ayse Ilgaz Carden and husband John; Mary Brown Bullock was unmasked as the "mystery matching mama" who, along with husband George, agreed to match up to $35,000 the amounts of classmates' contributions to the Annual Fund that were in excess of their contributions for the previous year. The class of '66 won the award for the largest contribution to the College by a reunion class: $497,039.

To be with her mother, Dale Reeves moved to Greenville, S.C., last fall and began restoration of a 1900 home off Main Street as a Bed and Breakfast. Sadly, her mother's health failed, and Dale lost her in November. Dale is back in Atlanta but will soon proceed with the B and B. Her son, Michael Seabolt, graduated with honors from Duke Law School in spring 2000 and is participating in professional soccer with the Denver Rapids.

Olivia Hicks and Carol Buell adopted a baby girl from Vietnam in late September 2000. Helen Thi Hicks-Buell celebrated her first birthday on May 12. Just before her birthday, Helen visited the College. Gué Pardue Hudson and Betty Derrick can attest to how adorable she is.

Betty Derrick visited Ann Gallant in Baltimore while Ann was recovering from a broken leg suffered in Crested Butte, Colo., during the winter. Ann was tackling a double black diamond, The Peel, when the accident occurred. The secretary appreciates Ann's proving that the class of 1968 remains forever young. Kathy Harlan and Susan Philips Engle came from Pennsylvania for a mini-reunion. Kathy and Susan have formed a marketing and financial consulting partnership, The Quadrangle Group.

Another mini-reunion occurred at Gabrielle "Gaby" Guyton Harrelson's South Carolina beach house. Joining Gaby for fun and sun were Margaret "Peggy" Whitaker, Lynne Anthony Butler, Charlotte Hart Riordan, Bonnie Rea Christensen and Barbara Hoffman Harkins '69.

Ethel Ware Gilbert Carter and Belfield's son, Nicholas, has graduated from the School of Journalism at the University of Georgia. The Carters' eldest son, Belfield III, is engaged to Nicole Jones; they plan a fall wedding. Belfield III earned his M.B.A. from Georgia and is working for Peachtree Planners, a financial planning group, in Atlanta. Youngest son Gilbert has completed his freshman year at Clemson University. Daughter Eleanor is a sophomore at The Lovett School in Atlanta.

Gué's and Bill Hudson's three sons are all in Atlanta. Will, a graduate of Davidson, is at SunTrust. Burt has graduated from Guilford College and is in interactive communications for CNN (AOL/Turner). Rebekah Hall Robertson's older set of twins graduated this year: Emily, with a bachelor's in music from Vanderbilt; and Joanna, with a B.A. and a double major in music and English from Emory. One set of girls down, and one set of girls to go!

Janice "Jan" Cribbs, master storyteller of Story Connections (recommended by Lalla Griffis Mangin), entertained the Cobb County Media Specialists at their end-of-the-year banquet in Marietta.

Minnie Bob Mothes Campbell reports a glorious but busy retirement. She is a docent at the Atlanta Botanical Gardens and has become something of a general contractor, since she and Mike are adding to and doing some renovations to their house. She does not recommend it, however, commenting that being a tax accountant was easier.

Elizabeth "Libby" Potter is delighted to report that her book, Gender and Boyle's Law of Gases, 15 years in the making, is being published by Indiana University Press. She issues a challenge to all Scotties to top this. Can anyone's book have taken longer to produce?

Carol Blessing Ray and Billie are living in Osprey, Fla., just south of Sarasota, during the winter months and in Highlands, N.C., during the hot season. Billie retired from BellSouth in June 2000, having served 22 years in both legal and management capacities. Their son, Chris, is considering graduate school; daughter Calli will be a senior at Duke.

Linda Gay Gibson Wages returned to Atlanta to visit her parents and took her daughter, Elise, to visit Agnes Scott. She was quite impressed with the beauty of the campus and wonderful new additions like the Student Center. Elise is a student in a Waldorf School; and Linda has been very active in working with her class, even to the point of writing grants—some of which have been fully funded. Linda is a psychotherapist in private trauma-oriented practice. Dan retired from Lucent Technology but works for Avaya this year. This summer they chaperoned the youth orchestra with which Elise plays on a European tour. Linda enjoys singing with an a cappella choir and hopes to continue the experience.

Ruth Holmes Everett Whitehead's her 12th book, Tracking Dr. Lonecloud, Memoirs of a Mi'kmaq Indian, has been accepted for publication this year. She says that spring has finally come to her area of the world; everything is flowering.

Mary Bolch Line and Robin had an eventful June this year. Their son, Chris, graduated from medical school, married Jackie Woodley and started his ER residency at Emory. Daughter Julie is pursuing a master's in education while she teaches at Christ the King School in Atlanta. Cory, 15, finished ninth grade. Mary and Robin keep up with Cory's activities and even find time to play in the dirt!

Catherine Auman DeMaere has retired from teaching (and grading papers!) She plans to relax and see what comes next. Her son, Tom, has finished his second master's and will begin work with Duke Energy in Charlotte as a computer scientist. Her daughter, Christine, is a rising senior at North Carolina State; Carolyn is a sophomore at University of Virginia. Of course, Guido gets to keep working in his legal practice in Chapel Hill.

Bevalie "Bev" Lee Turner's work as a software trainer for Avaya in Denver has taken her to Amsterdam, Paris, London and Prague. She says being a grandmother is wonderful. Her older son, Jeremy, and wife Julie welcomed a daughter, Lauren Abigail, Aug. 6, 2000. Bev flies often to see them in San Francisco. Husband Kyle's engineering company, McCallum Turner, is doing well and keeping him extremely busy. His son, Kyle III, a United States Naval Academy graduate, was on the USS Cole when it was bombed last year. Fortunately, he was not injured and by now should be back in the Middle East. In June, Bev and Marcia Caribaltes Hughes traveled to Budapest.

Mary Agnes Bullock Seabrook's older daughter, Ginger Bergstrom, completed requirements for a master's degree in theology from Fuller Seminary in Pasadena, Calif. She is specializing in children's ministry. Ginger's husband, Andrew, is at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, pursuing a master's degree in communication. Ginger will take additional courses there at Trinity Seminary. Mary Agnes' younger daughter, Ann, just received her master's degree in physical therapy at the University of St. Augustine for Health Sciences in Florida. Mary Agnes teaches on John's Island, S.C., working with students learning English as a second language. Her mother, who is 91 and legally blind because of macular degeneration, lives with them on Wadmalaw Island. Mary Agnes invites anyone who goes to Charleston to visit her.

Sue Snelling DeFurio's older son, David, 28, has received three awards in the 2001 Alabama Better Newspaper Contest. He won first place in Best Sports Photograph, first place in Best Sports In-depth Story and second in Best Sports Feature Story. In 1996, David graduated from the University of Tennessee and is sports editor of the Scottsboro, Ala., newspaper. Younger son, Roger, 24, also graduated from the University of Tennessee and works for a satellite dish company in Huntsville, where Sue lives. To celebrate receiving her M.S. degree in May, Sue took a trip to London and Paris in June.

Mary Wills Hatfield Lecroy writes that her older daughter, MaryBeth, a Yale graduate, began studies at Princeton Theological Seminary this summer. Younger daughter, Kemper, a voice major at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, finished her sophomore year and studied in Florence, Italy, during the summer. Rita Davis Enfinger's world revolves around her 10-year-old, Paige, a fifth grader in the French program at the Atlanta International School in Buckhead. They moved to Vinings—halfway between her school and their family business in Mableton and Lithia Springs. Rita's husband, Mike, and her mother—still working full time at 72—let her work part time so she can encourage Paige to develop the talents they have always dreamed of.

Anne Callison Stokely and Jim live in Massachusetts with their two children: Elizabeth, 10th grader, and Will, eighth grader. Anne is president of the local chapter of the League of Women Voters and has really enjoyed working with the diverse group of women on topics ranging from education to cell-phone towers.

Kay Lawther Krill has been named president of the Ann Taylor Loft Division of Ann Taylor, Inc. Prior to joining Ann Taylor in 1994, Kay was president of Carol Reed from 1992-1994 and executive vice president for Hartmarx Corporation from 1990 to 1992. Congratulations, Kay!

The secretary urges all the class of '77 to attend the 25th reunion. Having everyone makes it so much fun and special.

In Florida, Lynne Oswald enjoys having her own law practice. Last year she was appointed to the First Circuit Judicial Nominating Commission, the group that submits names to the governor for judicial appointments.

Jeanie Moores Tauss lives in Redwood City, Calif., with her husband and their toddler, Charlotte. (Charlotte's godparents are Cynthia "Cindy" Hodges Burnes '77 and Kevin.) In 1996, Jeanie earned a dual master's in social work and gerontology from the University of Southern California and currently works in private practice as a geriatric consultant.

Ralee Cates Durden was selected as George Walton Academy's STAR Teacher for 2001. The student who selected her, Nicole Sims, is a freshman at ASC this fall semester. Ralee is also the National Honor Society Teacher of the Year, chosen by NHS members at George Walton Academy. Now for some really big news: she received a SAKS Incorporated Fellowship to attend the Faulkner-Yoknapatawpha Conference at the University of Mississippi this summer. The award was based upon Ralee's curriculum for As I Lay Dying.

Janet Blount is employed by the Small Business Administration in Washington, D.C. She travels professionally at least once a month. Her "most exciting trip" was a weeklong work session in the Virgin Islands! Janet's family—Jonathan, 15, Benjamin, 12, and husband Earl Lowe—are well.

DEATHS

Emily Moore is a founding ministry leader/psalmist/prayer coordinator for the Capital City Church of God Inc. (CCCOG), a new ministry in Tallahassee. In family news, after undergoing cervical spinal cord surgery in November, Emily's mother has made a miraculous comeback.

In her first-ever news sent since she left ASC, Kim Robinson Sincox reports that she received a master's in American history and certificate in museum studies from the University of Delaware in 1991. She lives in Wilmington, N.C., serving as curator for the battleship North Carolina. Douglas John Sincox, son of Frances Barker Sincox '57, and Kim have been married for 14 years. Kim's mother died in October 1997.

Keller Murphy Torrey reports that her business specializing in monogrammed gifts for baby, home, etc., has gone on line: monogramsltd.com.

At the time of the reunion Judith "Judy" Smith Willis and her family had just moved into a new house. In addition to the challenges of the move, Judy's father, Levie D. Smith, 76, from Lakeland, Fla., passed away in August 2000. On the bright side, ballet kept the Willis daughters busy as usual this past year, making chauffeuring and volunteering the major family activities.

Susan Wilkie Welch also sent in her first news since graduation. After receiving a master's degree from the University of Alabama in 1982, she married her Georgia Tech sweetheart, Matt Welch. The Welches moved to the Jacksonville, Fla. area and have been there ever since. In 1997 Susan earned a second master's—this one in nursing—at the University of Florida and became a nurse practitioner in pediatric endocrinology. Susan and her husband bought some property in the Fleming Island section of Jacksonville and finally moved into their dream home on the St. John's River in May 2000. She stays in close touch with Beverly "Bev" Roberts. Bev has an undergraduate degree in finance and an MBA. She lives in Franklin, Tenn., and is doing well.

Patricia "Trish" Elebash resides in Atlanta and works for Investors Financial Group in their Compliance Department, where her primary responsibility is reviewing advertising and sales literature prior to use. In October, when Trish was in Washington, D.C., for an NASD Advertising Regulation seminar, she visited Ginnie Risher Wilcox '79 and her five children.

Ann Huffines Neel has earned the title of certified window treatment consultant. She is now a full-time operator of her home-based business, Windows Sew Beautiful. Ann and her family are in Fort Mill, S.C., just outside Charlotte, N.C.

Kathleen "Kat" Boushell Shirk regrets not being able to attend last year's reunion. She is with Aon Consulting in Atlanta; husband Bill is a musician. On Aug. 10, 2000, Kat gave birth to a son, James Thomas.

Sarah "Sally" Harris passed the certification exam for operating room nurses. On the health front, Sally had surgery this year for a large ovarian cyst, inside of which was a malignant tumor. It was stage II ovarian cancer, for which the cure rate is close to 100% for the stage and for her age group. She received chemotherapy after the surgery and stresses the importance of paying attention to one's body; most ovarian cancers occur in women over 50, so early detection is the key to survival. Sally's prognosis is good.

Paxson Collins MacDonald published a cookbook, A Taste of the 18th Century, with recipes dating back to the 1700s for the Michie Tavern in Charlottesville, Va. The book compiles old family recipes from Virginia.

Rebecca Burtz Melton is busy decorating a new house and caring for three boys: Jarrett, 14; Joey, 9; and Jonathan, 5. Husband Wayne has been at Nortel Networks for two years. The Meltons keep in touch with Dawn Sparks Shields, a classmate and Nortel employee. They attended a Christmas dinner at Dawn's home, joined by classmate and Rebecca's first-year roommate, Margaret "Maggie" Evans Porter. Occasionally, Rebecca will encounter other ASC alumnae in Alpharetta, Ga.: Catherine "Cathy" Winn Courtney '79, Lissa Herndon Suda '85 and Patricia "Patty" Tucker Register. Rebecca still corresponds with Beng-Sim Lee Khor, who now lives in Australia.

Cynthia "Cindy" Dantzler Shearer calls Albany, Ga., home. Husband Bruce works for BellSouth. Their oldest two boys, Phillip and Brent, attend a local private school; the youngest, Scott, continues to be home schooled. For fun, Cindy drives to Atlanta with adopted class of 1980 member Glennda Cleland and requests that other class members meet her in Buckhead at the height of rush hour for "drinks and laughs." In March Margaret "Peggy" Somers Shepard, Keller Murphy Torrey, Allison Taylor Turk and Pat Arnzen Brookshire accepted the invitation and had a mini-reunion with Cindy and Glennda at the Tavern at Phipps Plaza.

Lisa DeGrandi is working with clients on a few projects regarding government and public relations as well as marketing. Lisa and her beau, Brian Flippo, went to Charlottesville as guests to watch the Maryland Terrapins (his alma mater) play at Virginia. While in Charlottesville, they lunched with Paxson Collins MacDonald and husband Greg at Mitchie Tavern.

Sandra "Sandy" Burson Hosford and her family—David, Sandy, Katherine, 15, and Anna, 13—lived in the village of Ickleford, England, about one hour north of London, until this summer. They moved there in August 1999 so that David could do research with GlaxoSmithKline. During their stay, the Hosfords traveled elsewhere in the British Isles and in Europe: Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Italy, Austria and the Czech Republic. They moved back into their previous home in Durham, N.C., as soon as the kids finished school in July.

Sharon Maitland Moon has recently retired from the practice of law to enjoy being a full-time mom to her and J's daughter, Mattie.

Christina "Tina" Robertson Bass and family have relocated to Dallas from Houston. They have three teenage boys.

Jodie Jeffrey lives in the Arkansas Ozarks with her husband of three years. She is co-owner of Brooks-Jeffrey Marketing, which has won over two-dozen national awards for design and writing. Jodie communicates with several classmates and offers the following:

Casidy Ward and her husband have a vineyard in Santa Rosa, Calif., where she handles financial investments from their home. For more than 10 years Catherine "Cathy" Beck has been working as a stockbroker in Santa Fe, N.M. After completing her master's in economics and French, Jenny Whitmire Clark married and moved to Huntsville, Ala. She has two identical twin daughters—Sara and Ann (Jodie's godchildren). Jenny operates her own management consulting business, specializing in accounting software development and implementation.

In Georgia, Jennifer Williams Fagbemi loves being a school psychologist with the DeKalb County School System.

Margaret "Maggie" Evans Porter and her husband, Chris, have spent the last year "hopping the pond" between the States and Europe. Dawn Sparks Shields and Ted visited the Porters in New Hampshire. Last Christmas, Maggie and Chris attended a party at the Shields', where they saw Rebecca Burtz Melton and husband Wayne. December also was the release date of Maggie's latest novel Improper Advances; so she has spent several months on a book tour throughout New England.

Kathleen "Kathy" Hollywood spent the last school year with all three Smith children, for the only year of their lives, in the same school in grades 5, 4 and kindergarten. Kathy is in the middle of a two-year stint as PTA president in addition to being a troop leader for the Girl Scouts. Besides all the typical PTA, Girl Scout and household duties, Kathy worked with Ruth Feicht '86 to establish a student financial award in the name of Ayse I. Carden for a psychology student going on to graduate school. Fellow alums Marybeth Hebert '81, Margaret Shirley '81, Michele Ingram-Mobley '86 and Connie Patterson-Haywood '84 helped pull it together. Any members of the class wishing to make a donation to the award should contact Toni Allen at ASC.

Jennifer "Jenny" Spencer Osorio was invited to do a four-months' detail in the CDC/Washington Office, so she worked on the Hill from October through January—an exciting time to be in D.C. The timing worked well for Jenny since during this period her youngest son Lee was an exchange student in Valencia, Spain, and her oldest, B.J., was attending the University of Georgia.

While in Washington, Jenny saw Dixie Lee Washington several times. Jenny attended the grand opening of Dixie's new office building in November. The building houses Dixie's RE/Max franchise and K&G Computer business.

Sheryl Cook is president of the Florida Jewelers of America, for which she travels frequently, lobbying senators and congressmen on the issue of conflict diamonds. In addition, on July 1, Sheryl became the first female president of her Rotary Club of 180 members.

Gwendolyn "Gwen" Spratt announces that "all is well" in her world. On April 3, her daughter celebrated her first birthday.

After five years in Colorado learning to ski, snowshoe and survive subzero weeks, Cheryl Brown and Lynn are heading home. She has accepted the position of associate professor of sociology at Greensboro College, Greensboro, N.C.

Cheryl Walker Smith serves as remedial project manager with the Environmental Protection Agency. She is responsible for oversight of hazardous waste sites (Superfund) in both Tennessee and Florida. In addition, Cheryl is a full-time mother and assistant pastor at Word of Hope Ministries. She plans to pursue a master's in Christian education with an additional focus on pastoral counseling.

Krista Wolter Skelton continues to home-school her youngest daughter and to volunteer weekly at her two older girls' schools. She also teaches art from her home. Krista has made a new connection with a dealer in Durham, N.C., to show and sell her art, and recently did a painting for a magazine cover.

Christiana "T" Lancaster Reese and family are moving (again)—this time to Houston, her home.

Debbie Boelter Bonner changed jobs within the Albemarle Corporation to join the International Finance Group as a business support manager. Travels in this position have included trips to Singapore, Tokyo and Brussels. Debbie has the further responsibility of project manager for the company-wide implementation of the Euro currency.

Debbie spoke with Lisa Johnson Kiel by phone over the Christmas holidays. Lisa keeps busy with her four children.

After living in Germany for the past two years, Katherine "Kathy" Zarkowsky Broderick has returned to Corning, N.Y. They moved into a new house, which her husband decided to christen by falling off the roof attempting to remove Christmas decorations. Although John incurred some serious complications early on, he is recuperating.

Cynthia Evans and her husband, Barry Custer, welcomed a baby boy, Langley Skye Custer, on July 8, 2000.

In June 2000, Mary Anne Hill flew up to New York for a few days to see Sandra "Sandy" Burson Hosford, who was stateside to attend a medical symposium. In the fall, Mary Anne came to Atlanta for a get-together with Sherri Brown. While in Atlanta, when Mary Anne had to be brought to the Emory Eastside Emergency Room late one night, she encountered Susan Gledhill Pendergrass '79. "Scotties really are everywhere," Mary Anne observed.

Sally Anne Brown Smith is now with Coldwell Banker Spectrum Properties in Atlantic Beach, N.C., doing full-time real estate sales.

After 20 years of classroom teaching at Decatur High School, Sherri Brown has moved into a new position with the City Schools of Decatur: coordinator of community development and student services. She also serves as executive director of The Decatur Foundation, Inc., an educational foundation that supports the City Schools of Decatur.

While shopping at Pike Nurseries, Class Secretary Pat Arnzen Brookshire encountered Marina Costarides. Marina has her own business in marketing and the travel industry, with Canada as a primary client. Her father passed away quite suddenly last year, but she is doing well otherwise.

BIRTHS

- James Thomas, son of Kathleen "Kat" Boushell Shirk and Bill, Aug. 10.
- Langley Skye Custer, son of Cynthia Evans and Barry Custer, July 8.

DEATHS

- Levie D. Smith, father of Judith "Judy" Smith Willis, August.
- Father of Marina Costarides, 2000.

Class of 1981 Web Page: http://home.mindspring.com/~forman21/index.html

The "Yellow Pages" enjoyed a frenetic 20th reunion in April. The secretary is still a bit hoarse.

When Elizabeth "Liz" Steele Forman got home, she was so weary that she tripped down some brick steps and broke her wrist. Despite her misfortune, Liz has built the class a Web site—the address listed above next time classmates are on line.

New class officers for the next five years were elected: Elizabeth "Liz" Steele Forman and Susan Nicol Dobbins are Co-Presidents. Vice President is Lisa Lynn Merrifield. Elizabeth Dorsey Starr stepped into Laura Klettner Bynum's well-worn shoes as Treasurer/Fund Chairman. Co-secretaries are Jeanne Cole and Melanie Merrifield Podowitz. Mary Hurd Roark and Becky Durie Cottingham are Reunion Co-Chairs.

Reunion directories provide much great class news. Copies are still available at $10 each (OBO). Members will help the secretary clear out her home office by ordering theirs today. Late-breaking news includes the following.

Virginia Balbona is a research coordinator at Emory's Georgia Model Brain Injury System. She spends her spare time whitewater canoeing and traveling.

Leigh Clifford Drake lives in Tampa, Fla., with her high-school sweetheart and husband, Martin. She is a manager with Cisco Systems. Off the clock, she enjoys running 5Ks, sailing and playing step-mom to teenage stepsons, Ryan and Jason.

Julie Ellington Caron, currently a director of Christian education in the Cocoa, Fla., area, nears completion of her master's in elementary education. Her children—Lance, 16, and Jennifer, 11—occupy Julie with their innumerable sports and extra-curricular activities.

Lisa Lynn Merrifield is teaching as an adjunct faculty member in the Counseling Department of the University of Nebraska, Omaha. Recent course loads have included Advanced Assessment Techniques and Clinical Supervision of Master's Level Counseling Students.

Debra Yoshimura Rainwater and Mary Beth Hebert cut the ASC class reunion to indulge in a raucous weekend of fine dining and scandalous relaxation at the New Orleans Jazz Fest, a tradition they have shared for several years. The remorseful pair pledges to make an appearance at the 25th.

Finally, the class was deeply saddened to learn of the sudden death of Paul H. "Tripp" Pittman, husband of Laura Newsome Pittman. Members are asked to keep Laura and her family in their thoughts and prayers during the painful weeks and months to come. Condolences may be sent to the Pittman home; 1404 Paramore Drive. Greenville, N.C. 27858.

It was grand seeing everyone and catching up in April. So that the secretary won't be reduced to regaling everyone with her endless home remodeling or the amazing feats of her 4-year-old Lydia, classmates should keep the updates coming.

DEATHS

- Paul H. Pittman, husband of Laura Newsome Pittman, April 12.

She is pursuing several hobbies: playing the hammered dulcimer and Irish harp, horse riding, gardening and folk dancing. In addition, she co-leads the singles' ministry at Howick Baptist Church. During July and August 2000, Tobi spent time in Ireland, the United Kingdom and the United States, visiting family and friends.

As reported last quarter, Jodi Belinda Yandell has a published book and has recently hired an agent who is helping shop her book around to major publishers. Class members should keep fingers crossed and eyes on the bookstores for her next major publication. Belinda's audio book is available on Amazon.com. While in Atlanta for the reunion, she had lunch with Karen Grantham Green '86, her sister Vicki and Kitty Cooper Lyon '86. Kitty brought her daughter, Sarah Katherine, who is, by all reports, a "cutie." Belinda commented on getting lost in Decatur. The landmarks surely are different, and the times changing, Starbucks and all.

Anne Coulling's husband, Tim McMahon, completed requirements for his Ph.D. in modern British and Irish history at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. During July Anne and Tim moved to Milwaukee, where he is a visiting assistant professor of history at Marquette University. In other developments, they welcomed a baby girl, Mary Catherine, to the family on April 28. Son Liam is 3.

Carolyn Conley Simons is teaching and planning two trips for next year: one student/parent trip to Great Britain and another personal one to Tuscany to visit monasteries and convents. By the time this news is in print, she will also have taken her children on a train trip to D.C., with a warning to classmates. Those who heard nothing from her after July 10 should assume that she has flung herself off the train from sheer insanity. Carolyn was nominated for a Disney American Teacher Award and was not to know until August if she was a finalist. She must have more patience than she gives herself credit for.

While Jon and Ann Colona Bennett renovated their house, they managed to maintain their marriage in the process. She says people "just don't appreciate a kitchen counter until [they] don't have one!" While looking for a job, Ann was doing temp work.

Congratulations go to Elizabeth Stevenson Fairleigh and David on the birth of their first child, daughter Lauren Elizabeth, born May 21 at 2:01 p.m. She weighed in at 5 lbs, 10 oz., and was 19 1/4 inches long—healthy in every way. According to Elizabeth, motherhood is wonderful; and Dave is an involved Super Dad. As a further gesture of well being, she disabled the air bag on her Porsche and bought the Porsche baby seat so they can both ride around town in style this summer.

As for Kristen, she completed her first year of teaching and readied herself for a long and lazy summer. From her personal experience she urges class members knowing teachers who have put on musicals with their children to bow down and kiss their feet because they deserve utmost reverence! With the hope that everyone is doing well and in the need to receive "the latest," Kristen reminds all of her e-mail address: larry@home.com.

Kathryn P. Sanchez received a juris doctor degree cum laude from Stetson University College of Law, St. Petersburg, Fla. After graduation she moved back home to South Georgia and is restoring her family home built in 1904. Kathryn passed the Florida bar examination and is an associate with DuBois and Cruikshank, P.A., in Tallahassee, Fla., specializing in workers' compensation defense. She is studying for the Georgia bar exam.

Several class of '88 alums and two '89-ers made their annual pilgrimage to St. George Island again this year. This was the 11th annual trip! Greta "Renee" Caudill Schramm, Melanie Cliatt Williams, Sarah Camille Burton, Lisa Slappey Whitton, Catherine Martin Lindauer, Beth Leonard Glover, Elizabeth "Liz" Pleasant Hudson, Amy Gottesche Miele, Ginger Patton Schmitt '89, Eleanor Dill '89, Krista Hedburg Russell and Shelly Trabue Castell all arranged to play, party, gab, scrapbook, read, etc., for the week. Everyone had a great time sitting on the beach and remembering all the fun they had at ASC. Their families have been programmed to expect that when the first week of May comes around every year, the group will be going to the beach for a girls-only trip. Plans for next year began a few months after they got back.

A note from co-secretary Lisa Slappey Whitton asks everyone to send, phone or e-mail news. P.S.: Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Julie Beth Kalendeck should contact Lisa: (770) 466-1663, monalisainc@yahoo.com.

Beth Brubaker Cornelison enjoyed a fabulous vacation to Orlando/Disney World in January and saw her ASC roommate, Rebecca "Becky" Rankin, and her boyfriend. Beth's writing career is going well. The class boasts an author! Last year she sold a romantic suspense novel to an electronic publisher. Chasing a Dream was available until mid-August at www.avid-press.com in the Umbra Imprint. She was in New Orleans in July for the Romance Writers of America National Conference and was a finalist for their Golden Heart Award for a second year. Beth's homepage is at www.bayou.com/~pbcornel

Elizabeth "Liz" Pleasant Hudson has been keeping busy working part time as an architect and raising Grace, 4, and Kate, 1. She also had a week of fun at the beach on St. George Island with her sister Scotties. "Liz" is training hard for the Avon Breast Cancer Walk in October—60 miles in three days. Others participating with her are Melanie Cliatt Williams and Eleanor Dill '89.

Annette Pate Konicek was married on Aug. 6, 1999, in Jackson Hole, Wyo., in the Grand Teton National Park to Tim Ronald Konicek of Racine, Wisc. Johna Wardman Porter '87 was a bridesmaid. In 1991, "Annie" transferred from Atlanta to the Southern California Orange County area and has been there ever since. She is a due diligence manager and research analyst for Venture Capital Firm Odyssey in Newport Beach, Calif. She was also training to make her second climb of the Grand Teton Mountain on Aug.10 with husband Tim, brother Brent and five great friends. "Annie" and Tim visited with Johna Wardman Porter '87 and her husband, Tim, when they were in San Diego in May for a weekend getaway. They had a good time catching up. Johna has been busily involved in raising her two children: Nicholas, 3, and Kaitlin, 1.

Donna Beck Blanton finished her fifth year of teaching high school French at Providence Christian Academy, Lilburn, Ga. In observance of National French Week in November, Donna and her students had a blast serving a hot lunch of specialties from La Madeleine Bakery and Café to the rest of the student body. This spring, Donna's first-year students participated for the first time in the National French Contest exam; and she was thrilled to learn that they had all scored well—in the top fifth in Georgia. Donna and her husband, Robbie, have lived in their present house in Norcross for about three and a half years. In April, they celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary with a long weekend in the mountains of Georgia and North Carolina. If all goes as expected, they will be traveling to China in early fall 2002 to get their adopted daughter, who will probably be about a year old then. Donna welcomes any advice, info, encouragement, etc., from Agnes Scott alumnae who have adopted internationally. Her e-mail address is dotpot@mindspring.com. In addition, Donna has enjoyed being part of the personal ministry team at their church for the past several months and was looking forward to teaching Vacation Bible School this summer. Having been bitten by the "scrapbook bug," Donna is chronicling her teaching years as well as a few trips that she and Robbie have made and a spring-break 2000 jaunt with her French students to Montreal and Quebec City.

Leigh "Elizabeth" Adams Bengtson is at home these days with her two children. Her younger child, Annesleigh Hope, was adopted from China at 10 months of age in December 1999. Beth calls that occasion the "most exciting thing in [her] life." Annesleigh is now 2. Proud mom's crowning achievement with her so far is training her to keep a bow in her hair. Son Forrest is 5 and a kindergarten graduate. When Laura Allen Vail substituted for his teacher one day, Beth had the pleasure of seeing her in action.

Felicia Perritt Otterbourg started a new job as a human resources manager for CSX Transportation. Classmates might know that she is mother to two children: a 7-year-old girl, Lindsey, and a 3-year-old boy, Logan. Did anyone, however, know that they were born on New Year's Day and the Fourth of July? Felicia and husband have celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary. They have been in their 1940s home for nine years and love it. They spend their free time with the kids and going to the beach.

Lynn Wilson Watkins and her husband, Gordon, also celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary. They have resided in Winston-Salem, N.C., for seven years and are very happy there. Lynn and Gordon are parents to Kate, 4, and Sarah, 2. Both girls keep them busy, but they also cherish their involvement in the Shallowford Presbyterian Church. Among other things, they have been helping to lead the senior high youth group there for six years. They have found it a great way to keep connected to the way young people think, while getting to play and be silly sometimes. In Charlotte, N.C., Lynn visited with Katherine "Kathie" White Harper, her husband and new baby earlier this year. Both couples had a pleasurable time catching up and talking about being parents. Lynn would love to hear from old ASC friends, too.

Rebecca "Becky" Rankin (at ASC 1984-1986 but graduated from the University of North Carolina) is living in Orlando, Fla., and working for CNL Investment Company in institutional sales. CNL is a national financial services and real estate investment firm. Running is a hobby of Becky's, and she completed the Disney half marathon this year—a major accomplishment! When Beth Brubaker Cornelison and her family visited Orlando earlier this year, Becky spent some time with her.

Allison Adams recently enjoyed the second annual St. Augustine rendezvous with Daphne Burt, Dusty Hill Matthews, and Dolly Purvis. Allison reports that it was also Biker Week in St. Augustine, so they all joined in the fun and purchased T-shirts to commemorate the occasion. The four flew kites on the beach, shopped at the outlet malls, took pictures of their feet (a tradition of the trip) and played with Dusty's adorable boys, Graham and Griffin. Allison visited again with Daphne in Chicago in April, where they took in a performance of the Chicago Symphony. The Symphony performed the score of the 1931 Charlie Chaplin silent film, City Lights. Finally, Allison and Dolly recently scored an invitation to the 20th anniversary celebration of Dailey's restaurant in downtown Atlanta. Everything was free, so they ate five desserts, and Allison reports that it was one of the most self-indulgent evenings of her life.

Kimberly Baker has been accepted into the doctoral program in theology at Notre Dame. Kimberly will be relocating to South Bend, Ind., where she will study the history of Christianity.

Jeanne Bressoud Higgins is busy with her three children. Her oldest son, Jason, will begin third grade in the fall, with her middle son, Noah, beginning preschool. Her baby, Elijah, is taking steps and is beginning to talk. Jeanne and her family had a great visit with Thea Mayne, her husband, Gray, and their daughter, Merilee. Thea and her family were on their way to a conference in Tampa and stopped in Jacksonville. Jeanne reports that Thea's baby is precious, with blonde hair, and that she looks like her dad. Jeanne also reports that Rose King '89 was recently married and is living in Savannah, Ga.

Mary Tyrena "Tina" Carr has been nominated to the Alumnae Board to serve as chapter advancement chair for a term of two years. She will be putting the time she volunteers leading the Washington chapter to work in helping other chapters across the country.

Heidi Staven Carpenter's mother, Joyce Waddell Staven Manget, died after a battle with cancer. Heidi's mom was only 64-years-old, and had worked in the College library for many years. Heidi and her husband have moved into her mother's house in Decatur, and they are settling into their new home.

Elizabeth Cooper recently attended the College's black tie function in the Egyptian Ballroom of the Fox Theatre with Agnes Parker Wells '86, and had a wonderful time.

Alisa Duffey Rogers reports that the winter was long and cold, and that she and her son, Dalton, suffered from cabin fever. Her family is doing well, but every member of the Rogers household is in school, so they are very busy.

Rebecca Earnshaw and her husband, John Hudson, celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary in Italy, mostly devoting their time to enjoying Rome. She continues to teach high school in suburban Atlanta, and is teaching all advanced placement classes.

She and her husband are continuing the renovation and resale of homes, and she recently took several of her students on a tour of the College. She was pleased and amazed by all of the changes.

Maria "Conchi" Gonzalez Iglesias and her husband, Angel, welcomed the arrival of their son, Peter. He weighed only five pounds, but was very healthy, and Elizabeth Cooper reports that he "has lots of hair and looks like an angel." Conchi is enjoying her new home in Dunwoody, and is working on her dissertation while taking care of her new son.

Dustin "Dusty" Hill Matthews enjoyed her visit with Allison, Daphne, and Dolly in St. Augustine. She also attended Heather Goodall Abdy's wedding in Gainesville, Fla., and recently visited with Virginia Rosenberg, too.

Louisa Parker Mattozzi will be giving a paper titled "Empowered by Blood and Marriage: Duchesses as Ducal Representatives" at the Sixteenth Century Conference in October in Denver, Colo. Louisa is looking forward to staying with Jill Jordan when she is in Denver, and she reports that Jill continues her work as a board member with CultureHaus, a group that targets people in their 20s and 30s and organizes social events around art.

Margaret "Molly" McCray Finke is in Chevy Chase, Md., where she has been living for two years. She is enjoying her newest baby, Hannah, who is walking and talking, and is trying her best to keep up with her big sister, Sophie, who recently turned three.

Alexandria Kimberly Osias continues to report for ABC Channel 33/40 in Birmingham, Ala., and loves it. Kimberly visits Atlanta almost every week to see her goddaughter, Parker, daughter of Kate Baird Hammond. She plans to go biking in Burgundy this summer, and reports that she plans to run the New York Marathon in the fall again, as "someone needs to pull up the rear."

Susan "Susie" Rights Gatland is enjoying her new daughter, Anissa. The week before Anissa's birth, Susie was featured on her local news channel in a feature on prenatal yoga classes.

Jill Thomas recently purchased a condominium near Chastain Park.

Thao Tu has been accepted into Duke University's Global Executive MBA program. This is a 20-month program, and Thao plans to complete her studies in December 2002. Most of the coursework will be completed online, but each semester she will be required to complete a two-week residential learning experience in North Carolina, Asia, Europe, or South Africa. While completing her studies, Thao will continue working at Ford, and of course, raising her one-year-old son, Tristan.

Karen Wiseley and her longtime boyfriend, John, enjoyed being hosts Easter weekend in Atlanta for out-of-town family members. Karen's brother, Colin, sister, Megan, and Megan's husband, Vinny, came to visit from Virginia and New York City and were treated to tours of Atlanta, the Chattanooga Aquarium, and a wonderful Easter brunch at Ray's on the River. Karen is anxiously awaiting the next family visit. Her youngest sister, Marissa, a soon-to-be seventh grader from New York City and a potential member of the ASC Class of 2011, is coming to visit in June. A fun-filled vacation to the gulf coast of Florida and to St. Augustine is planned. Karen's goals for the summer include grilling, gardening, and getting together with friends.

After living in Denver, Colo., Joy Zimmerman has moved back to Atlanta.

BIRTHS

- Hannah McCray Finke, daughter of Margaret "Molly" McCray Finke and Gabe Finke, July 21, 2000.
- Anissa Susanna Gatland, daughter of Susan "Susie" Rights Gatland and Ray Gatland, April 11.
- Peter Inglesias, son of Maria "Conchi" Gonzalez Inglesias and Angel Inglesias, April 9.

To be closer to family, Wendy Worthy Robertet and her family moved to Paris, France, in June.

Susan Haynes Mahoney and her husband celebrated the first birthday of their son, Isaac William, on Aug. 20 and their eighth wedding anniversary on Aug. 21. Susan is doing adoption home studies and loving it. In addition, she is helping to collect toys and clothes for Chinese and Ukrainian orphanages. Her goal is to send two sea-cargo containers every year. Many items are needed to fill one of those containers. Susan is trying to get toy companies to donate exersaucers, bouncy seats and johnny jump-ups for the orphans.

Julianna "Kris" Jones Tenny-Brittian became senior pastor of the Bellevue Christian Church in Bellevue, Wash., last September, moving for the third time in two and a half years. She enjoys her new ministry. Her husband is now solo senior pastor of the church they started together in Auburn, Wash. With two growing churches, two children still at home (Shannon, 17, and Brittian, 15), along with their activities, two dogs and three cats, Kris is quite occupied. Beyond the local congregation, she participates in the third leadership team of the denomination's Bethany Project as well as being a co-facilitator of the first Bethany Fellowship Group, mentoring recently ordained Disciples ministers. This July, she was one of three ministers in the region asked to preach at a local Kansas City, Kan., church during her denomination's general assembly—quite an honor!

Michelle Moses Lackey directs public relations and marketing for Consumer Credit Counseling Service of North Central Texas. She loves her job and is getting to travel all over central Texas. She has seen armadillos, longhorn cattle and beautiful wildflowers. Michelle is very active as well in several of the area's Chambers of Commerce. She and Craig enjoy life in Plano, Texas, and hope to buy a house at the end of the year.

Teresa Ramirez Dore and Greg are involved in remodeling their home and looking after three inquisitive little children.

Jennifer Boyd Miller and Tracy Perry Willoughby hosted a wedding luncheon for Claire West in April. Leigh Echols Cameron and Kim Goodwin Henderson were there. Next year Jennifer expects to teach first- and second-grade gifted classes on a half-day assignment. Her son, Crawford, is 18 months old and "into everything."

Kim Goodwin Henderson's little girl was born at home, but not intentionally. Kim went to the hospital on Friday night, only to be sent back home and told she had plenty of time. The next morning she went to the mall, purchased a shower gift and attended Claire West's bridal shower at Tracy Perry Willoughby's home, where she saw Leigh Echols Cameron and Jennifer Boyd Miller. During the shower her contractions grew stronger, but she was determined to get through it. When she got home, she lay down and took a three-hour nap. All the while her daughter, Kayla, was expected home at any moment, and husband Kevin left to go to work. She got up, and then her water broke. Kim called Kevin to return, informed the sitter not to bring Kayla home and finally dialed 911. After the fire department came and panicked, paramedics arrived, along with Kevin. Amidst more confusion and intense pain, Khloe was born. On a less dramatic note, Kim has a new phone number, (678) 567-1541, and would like to hear from classmates.

BIRTHS

- Ryan Dawson, son of Kimberly Lamkin Drew and Russ Drew, June 2.

Courtney Alison, her boyfriend, Jimmy, and their dog, Haley, moved to a house from an apartment in the beginning of June (change of address appears above). Haley loves the fenced backyard while Courtney and Jimmy are thrilled with the extra room. Courtney invites fellow Blues Brothers to become members of the Yahoo Club created for the class. Those interested should e-mail her for the invitation to join.

Anne Bearden Gunn did her student teaching in April and had four more classes to take before completing requirements for her master's degree in education. She already has a job for the fall, teaching physics and physical science at Roswell High School, Atlanta.

Lauren Fowler finished her second year as a professor at Weber State University in Utah. This summer, she went on a week-long kayaking trip in Idaho and backpacking through Denali in Alaska. While in Alaska, she visited Jessica Carey in Anchorage.

Jessica Carey and her fiancé, Jason, bought a house in Anchorage last December, where they live with her collie, Jenny. In March, Jason and she took a vacation cruise to the Eastern Caribbean. Back at work for Perkins Coie law firm, Jessica is responsible for labor and employment and products liability cases. She contacted Wendy Allsbrook-Javiar '93 after reading in MAIN EVENTS that Wendy also lives in Alaska.

Shannon Grace Greene met Lisa Rogers Wilson and Davina Crawford McGrail '91 for lunch in Memphis, Tenn., and reminisced about old times while catching up on new ones. In May she traveled to Scotland with her husband, Jeff, and had a great time on their first vacation since their honeymoon back in 1992.

Susan McTier Crain is busy with her own marketing consulting business, LTV Marketing, which focuses on building lifetime value for high-tech and high-growth companies. Having spent most of 2000 in New York and San Francisco consulting with dot-coms, Susan now focuses more on Atlanta-based business to cut back on the road-warrior style of travel. Out of the office, she and her husband, Steve, play golf and enjoy their backyard putting green. She is also training for the Avon Three-Day Breast Cancer Walk in October, when she will join 3,000 others in a 60-mile walk from Lake Lanier to downtown Atlanta.

In March, Claudia "Christie" Miller moved to Williamsburg, Brooklyn, N.Y., and works for the same Internet company, Gsociety. The freelance work keeps coming in, as she finished two chapters for the Time-Out Guide to Miami as well as a chapter for a book about gay tourism to be published by Continuum Press next year. Claudia also contributed a travel piece to OUT magazine and wrote the cover story for the July issue of WHERE Miami magazine.

Laura Shaeffer Gray is a stay-at-home mom to three boys: Ethan, 3, and twins Adam and Noah, 1. She hopes eventually to return to work outside the home but doesn't know yet when that might be.

Sadly, the mother of Dawn Sloan Downes, Clara Sloan, passed away in May. Courtney Alison traveled to Gallatin, Tenn., to be with Dawn for the funeral, held on May 12.

Barbara Stitt Allen and husband Brett proudly announce the birth of their daughter, Sophia Grace, on April 22. Narrowly missing being born on mom's birthday, April 21, little Sophia appeared at 11:08 p.m., weighing 7 lbs., 11 oz., and was 20 and three quarter inches long.

BIRTHS

Elena Adan Esquen teaches Spanish at Woodstock High School in Georgia, starting with the 2001-02 school year. She previously taught Spanish at Northwestern Middle School in Alpharetta, Ga., for five years.

Laura Barlament graduated from Emory University on May 14, with a Ph.D. in English literature. She also received a certificate in comparative literature, based on her work in German literature. Her specialization was American and German literature, 1850-1940. Her dissertation dealt with Wagner's Tristan and the Limits of Love: Tristanism in Thomas Mann, Kate Chopin and Willa Cather. She wrote about the particularly involved, even ecstatic, response that many 19th- and early 20th-century listeners had to Wagner's Tristan (what she called "Tristanism") and how this response is reflected in the fiction of Mann, Chopin and Cather.

Julie Bragg Cassell, husband Brad and older brother Jack welcomed Adam Lee into the world on Feb. 20.

The class has heard from Laura Camp, who ran into Tracy Peavy Roussey while on vacation in Florida. Laura (mlauracamp@msn.com) lives in Plantation, Fla.

Sarah Carruthers is a team manager at The Coca-Cola Company.

Class President Jennifer Garlen and husband David Sparks are the proud parents of Catherine Rose Sparks, born May 15, eight years to the day after the class graduated. "Cate" weighed 8 lbs., 1 oz., and was 20 inches long. In the hopes of having a beautiful, completed scrapbook in time for the next reunion, Jennifer is collecting scrapbook pages about the class. Wanting the scrapbook to represent the entire class, she solicits everyone's participation.

Wendy Jones received her master's degree in exercise and sport science from East Carolina University in December 2000. She lives in the Raleigh, N.C., area and is working as assistant coach in volleyball and basketball at Peace College.

In May, Mary Curtis Lanford Pizzano, Amber Martin Deitz, Deborah "Debbie" Miles, Helen Nash, Niki Twilla Kurusu and Miranda Walker Svindland met for an informal reunion in Tennessee.

Angela "Michelle" Martin-Heaton and husband Robert also welcomed a little boy to their family in May. Robert Adrian Heaton arrived May 12, at 10 lbs., 9 oz., and 21 inches in length.

A May 12 addition came to Tina Wells Davenport and husband Kevin, proud parents of Ethan Glenn. He weighed 8 lbs., 10 oz., and measured 21 and a half inches long.

The class has heard from Alaina Williams Crenshaw, who reported her activities since graduation. In 1995 she married Capt. Reggie Crenshaw, a West Point graduate. They built a home in Duluth, Ga., and have two young sons, Jhavon-Gabriel and Christian. In 1997, Alaina created a bath-and-body-product business, Anissei Naturals (www.anissei.com). Because Anissei is seasonal and under special requests, Alaina is finding investors while she pursues other interests. In 1998-99, she had a short-run business teaching English as a second language to mostly Spanish speakers in the Gwinnett County, Ga., area. Her ESOL business, "Aprende Ingles" or "Learn English," is on hold, but she might start it again or sell it. For the last few years, she has also taken acting classes around Atlanta in addition to writing plot lines for screenplays. Alaina and her family recently moved to Dearborn, Mich. As soon as she reached the Detroit area, she decided to pursue acting and registered with the Detroit Rep Theatre Workshop. After auditioning for The Matrix Theatre—her first audition in Detroit—she got the lead in the play, Ambassador, which ran through May 6.

BIRTHS

- Adam Lee Cassell, son of Julie Bragg Cassell and Brad, Feb. 20.
- Catherine Rose Sparks, daughter of Jennifer Garlen and David Sparks, May 15.

Lisa Sandblom has accepted the position as European consultant to the USA Poultry and Egg Export Council (USAPEEC), an agricultural trade association headquartered in Stone Mountain, Ga. She will be based in Europe, starting in Sweden and then moving south in the fall. In May 2000, she graduated from the Monterey Institute of International Studies with an M.A. degree in commercial diplomacy.

Margaret Bickers moved to Garden City, Kan., to start an exciting new job flying an air ambulance over several states: Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas. Her new plane, a King Air, is a light-seat turbo prop.

For two years Annette Dumford has been living in Boulder, Colo., where she joined DesRosiers Advertising as senior art director. Previous accomplishments that impressed DesRosiers were her design for the award-winning annual report for Inter-Roller Corporation and her lobby display for multiple-state branches of Wachovia Bank.

On Oct.14, 2000, Alana Noble married Randy Booker in Savannah, Ga. Scotties in attendance were Mary Snyder Loeb, Angela "Angie" Dorn, Cheryl Reid, Pam Peel Holliday, Holli Hutson Fahnestock, Mary Wohlfeil, Merisa Aranas, Wendy Wheless, Jessica Lake and Mary Elizabeth "Betsy" Horton. Alana and Randy live in New York City, where Alana is a freelance writer and Randy works as an environmental engineer. Having decided to return to the teaching profession, she accepted a position at a private boarding school north of Manhattan.

Pam Peel Holliday and her husband, Mallard, are the proud parents of Charles Alexander "Alex" Holliday, born April 3.

After serving as a Park Ranger with the National Park Service for two years and delving into the land and culture of Thailand on her own for two months, Holly Demuth has settled down with a long-searched-for dream job with the Community Foundation of Henderson County, N.C. She facilitates the distribution of grants and scholarships allocated from that charitable nonprofit agency. To add to her transitions, Holly moved into a beautiful apartment reminiscent of the historic ASC dorm rooms. Anyone wishing traveling tips to western North Carolina, Southeast Asia or the national parks should contact Pam.

In December, Kim Wright Whaley left her job of two years to be a stay-at-home mom to Rheanna, 3, and Piper, 2. In addition, Kim works full time at home in her three-year business: Whaley Design (http://www.whaley-design.net/). She and her husband, Chip, provide computer support, Web design and training. Classmates needing those kinds of services should let Kim know.

Lisa Sebotnick McLean obtained her permanent license to practice medicine in South Carolina. Although she could stop her residency now and become a general practitioner, she plans to delay that step for another three and a half years. Lisa and her husband Jamie finally finished the big projects on their house in Charleston: refinishing the hardwood floor and re-painting everything.

Wendy Riviere Earon works for IBM in Asset Management Offering. She is enjoying life with her husband, Mike, in Charleston, S.C.

On Oct. 7, 2000, Kerry Murphy married Charles Veale in a beautiful ceremony just north of Atlanta. Scotties in attendance were bridesmaid Laura Hinte Cawthon and guest Merisa Aranas. The Veales are happily settled in Atlanta and have added Winston, a rescued Welsh Corgi, to their family.

Several class members are pregnant and due in the upcoming months. Those arrivals and other great news will appear in future MAIN EVENTS.
