

AGNES SCOTT CLUBS

A PERPETUAL REUNION.

Sometimes the lonesome thought comes to us that days that are gone are so far gone; that the joys of college life, that dear old friends are a kind of happy dream, and we long with all our hearts to go back and do it all over again. If we were a "witch with a wand" we would attend to that little matter, but being only very human, we offer a substitute. If you can't go back to the old days and the old friends and the old college, why not bring them back to you? Mohammed can still go to the mountain, you know. And as we bring back the old, we can add something of the new, in order that we may not be put upon the proverbial shelf. Now here is the plan—we will have Agnes Scott Clubs.

An Agnes Scott Club will be a perpetual reunion, for twice a year you will meet with all the other Agnes Scotters in your city and hear the things of interest about the College, and read the news letter that the Alumnae Secretary will have sent you. It will bring clippings from the other clubs, their work and plans. Then your club, if there are ten of you will be entitled to a representative on the Alumnae Council (see enclosed constitution). She, as your representative will meet with the Executive Committee and the Chairmen of the various committees, etc. and in that way you will have a finger in every pie. Anybody who has ever been to A. S. C. can be a member of a club.

We have had clubs (or chapters) before and they have never been unqualified successes, because there was no strong central organization to hold them together. The Committee on Clubs is for that purpose. Every club will be under the protection of a member of that committee, who will see that letters and notices get to her club, in short she will be the link between them and the main organization. It has succeeded at colleges, it will be a success for us. We are looking for capable and interested Alumnae to organize clubs. Get together the old girls in your town, form an organization and notify the Secretary, Catherine Parker, 12 Avery Drive, Atlanta. Wouldn't you like to have your city go down in the minutes as the first to definitely organize a club?

Read very carefully what the Constitution has to say about Clubs and the Alumnae Council, and then act! If there is anything that you don't understand write for more information.

THE ALUMNAE GIFT SHOP.

One day towards the last of November, Miss Daugherty remarked that she was making handkerchiefs, which she would like to sell for the sake of her French orphan, why did not the Alumnae have a bazaar and sell things on commission—and so the whole thing happened. So many calls had been made for the Endowment that it was decided that no general request for gifts be made. A letter was sent to the different centers in which an organization had been made, Montgomery and Chattanooga responded. Atlanta and Decatur did their part, and many pretty things came as a result of a suggestion slipped into class letters.

The Shop opened on December 8 and ran very nearly a week with the result that the Alumnae added $64.45 to its Endowment fund.

SILHOUETTE TEA-ROOM.

NOW AND THEN AT AGNES SCOTT.

You never heard of a confederate veteran sitting on a cracker box at the general store telling tales about the battle of Stony Point and about "Light House Harry" Lee. He'll always be artistically exaggerating on Bull Run and Robert E. Even so I, veteran that I am, shan't make any attempt to tell you about Agnes Scott when it was "Institute." If you want to know all about that go down and knock on Dr. Armistead's door and ask him to show you that old annual with a blue and white checked gingham cover. Then go look up that old picture (I forget where it's hanging) of Agnes Scott in those days, with Main Building marooned alone in an ocean of campus, unkept by the art and labors of Mr. Cunningham. Where Inman Hall and Rebekah Scott now stand there are only swings, these four-seated swings, you know, that you work by pushing the platform with your feet. In the swing are much be-pompadoured ladies in Ethel Barrymore skirts who look as if they'd never heard of the Athletic Association or the Agonistic. They hadn't. Of those days I know nothing except tales told by my sister. However, when it comes to former days of college glory, here the veteran hitches up the cracker box and begins:

I can remember when there were three important things at Agnes Scott, the two literary societies and the Y. W. C. A. And friendships were made and broken by the answer to the question, "Are you a Propylean or a Mnemosynean?" The three important events of the year were the intersociety debate, the Propylean play and the Mnemosynean play. You see there was no "Blackfriars" and the two societies sponsored dramatics—each trying to outdo the other. Miss Cady was the coach, and the excitement there was when we "Props" used to pit Lavalette Sloan and Lillie Joyner against the Mnemosyneans' Lottie Mae Blair and Mae Joe Lott; and later India Hunt and Olive Hardwick against Jeanette Victor and Louise Ware! We're proud of the Blackfriars. Still those others were great old days.

And debates, once a year they came, with the Shontz prize for the society that won. The debaters were chosen by the societies, and no one knew for sure whether you could debate or not until the night of the affair, because they'd probably never heard you try it. We read our remarks off a paper and the style of oratory used was that now used at such length by Senator Reed of Missouri. Mrs. Dieckmann would love to

AN ALUMNAE SUCCESS.

You couldn't digest all the news without a bite to eat, so let's take a trip to the tea-room—The Silhouette—owned and operated by the Alumnae.

In the early morning if you chance to pass Science Hall the most delicious "good to the last drop" coffee and a smell of toast that must be light brown make you turn, and, engagements forgotten for the moment, go down the steps on the left-hand side of the entrance to Science. Once inside the door you can see a passage-way made by a trellis work of flowered cretonne—this passage-way leading to the tea-room proper.

And that tea-room is a dream. The floor of large red tiles, forms a base for the dainty little blue-topped tables and chairs with yellow legs. On the walls are painted little ladies with old-fashioned puff sleeves and hoop-skirts, all done in silhouette. The windows have blue and yellow hangings and the pots of flowers in the windows give the finishing touch to the softness and coziness.

Now that we have the setting, let's examine the very reasonably priced menu. For breakfast there are cereals, toast and hot coffee; for luncheon, plate dinner and ice cream, and for between-times and supper there are sandwiches and salads, and ice cream cones. (Spot told me to be sure to put in about the grand chocolate ice cream with marshmallows and nuts, they had one day.)

The Silhouette has been going fine all year. When the girls returned in the fall they found that Mrs. Lula White Potter, Mrs. Martha Rogers Noble, Miss Florence Smith and Mrs. Carol Stearns Wey had been busy and with the advice and help of the W. E. Browne Decorating Co., had finished painting and furnishing the rooms. Miss Lucile Alexander was right on the job as tea-room treasurer and has worked faithfully at it all the year. The girls have patronized the tea-room unusually well and have helped run things. Now that the new dishes and supplies are paid for there will be quite a little money coming in for the Alumnae treasury.

There is a nice piece of news—Martha Bishop, an old Agnes Scott girl who had charge of the tea-room for two years, but who has been ill for a year, has returned and will make things boom for the Silhouette. Don't forget to visit there when you come back to Agnes.

Lucile Alexander, '11, is a member of the French Faculty of the College. Grace Harris, '15, is teaching in a Military School in Mobile.

ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

REPORT OF CAMPAIGN UP TO JANUARY 1, 1920.

"Not what we gain, but what we give,
Measures the worth of the lives we live."

The keynote of last year both in the College and Alumnae Association, has been B. E. F. (benefit endowment fund.) A big year it has been for Agnes Scott, but this year must be an even bigger one. As much as we may hate it, the almighty dollar has forced itself even into the educated circles—no standard college without sufficient funds. Our teachers do not receive the proper salaries, we are crowded in the dormitories and class-rooms. We must expand, but how? Endowment. The General Education Board offered us $175,000 provided we raised $325,000. As yet we have not done so, and unless that $325,000 is forthcoming, we forfeit the $175,000. That must not happen. Surely the Alumnae is more interested than any one else. Our standing in the college world (and the whole world is rapidly becoming a college world), depends on the progress of Agnes Scott. Just a word about the beginning of the campaign, and then the figures will be given.

In February, 1917, the Alumnae, after a conference with Dr. Gaines and Hoase (the Senior honor society) pledged themselves to launch a campaign for $100,000 to be used for endowment. It was the purpose of the trustees to follow this movement almost unanimously with a general appeal, but with America's entrance into the war, it seemed unpatriotic to ask money for other than war needs, so the general campaign was postponed. The classes then in college, however, made pledges which were not of a binding nature, but signified the amount which they hoped to raise. These pledges were $2,500 a class. The work of the faculty, alumnae and especially the students, was wonderful. B. E. F. appeared everywhere with the result that Emma Pope Moss Dieckmann, Endowment Treasurer, had received the amount of $5,065.96 before the present campaign began. We are proud and glad to know that it was this, our money, which closed the deal for the new lot on the corner which has added so much to the beauty of the campus. The lot counts as endowment and will receive due credit by the General Education Board.

The facts are as follows:

Endowment Statement at the Opening of College, Oct. 2, 1919.		Organizations.
Classes.		Gamma Tau Alpha	$ 157.23
1902	$100.00	Mnemosyneans	300.00

1915	79.56	Trustees	$ 92,075
1916	137.80	Alumnae Special Gift	5,075
1917	469.98	Atlanta—Approximate	80,000
1918	147.74	Decatur	14,840
1919	150.51	College Community	21,279
1920	204.24	States outside Georgia	22,960
1921	332.86	Counties of Georgia	42,694
1922	2.70	Total	$453,923
Total by classes	$2,291.19	2—What Lack We Yet?
Interest on money	$ 15.43	Absolutely necessary to win.	$575,000
Faculty	1,146.35	Present showing	453,923
Individual Gifts	215.76	Urgent deficit	$121,077
Entertainments (Banks, pencils, etc.)	205.39	3—Notes Regarding Campaign to Date.
Total	$1,567.50	i. Planned as simultaneous whirlwind campaign October 14-November 1st, covering all counties of Georgia and seven Southern States.

ii. Good committees were organized in all sections of our territory, and prospects were fine when campaign opened.

iii. Our committees everywhere found going extremely hard. A few specially interested chairmen overcame difficulties and succeeded in their campaigns, but most of them failed.

iv. Since November 1st, we have visited personally as many Georgia counties as possible, and in this way about $2,500 per week has been secured. Local committees generally are willing to co-operate when representatives of the College are present to work with them.

v. At the present rate of progress, the campaign might be finished by December 1st, subscriptions being secured from 3,000 or 4,000 people and ranging around $25 or $50 each.

4—Objections to Present Program.

i. It lowers the prestige of College. People ask, "What's the matter with Agnes Scott that she can't go on and finish her campaign?" Others, "It's time for you people to get off the stage and let others get a show."

ii. Securing subscriptions in small amounts over wide areas makes collections poor and shrinkage large. It is also expensive to raise the money in that way.

iii. In the spring, large Presbyterian campaigns will be on, interfering with us and making our results more uncertain.

iv. After we pass the $500,000 mark, it will be very difficult to get money, as people will feel they are paying our debts, providing expenses of campaign, etc.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

OUR ALMA MATER.

When far from the reach of thy sheltering arms,
 The band of thy daughters shall roam,
 Still their hearts shall enshrine thee,
 Thou crown of the South,
 With the memory of youth that has flown,
 Dear guide of our youth,
 Whose spirit is truth,
 The love of our girlhood is thine,
 Alma Mater whose name we revere and adore,
 May thy strength and thy power ne'er decline.

How many questions we, the grown-up children of this Alma Mater, have to face? No college is greater than its Alumnae, we stand before a critical world as the embodiment of our college, we are its reason for living, its service to the world. Since this is true, since we are the children into whom Agnes Scott has put its life, what are we to do with that gift?

Right here let us take issue with the dear old song, which we have often sung—well or badly, as the gift was given us—but always with a heart which is after all the best organ for singing. "Decline" rhymes most excellently with "thine" but the sentiment is wrong. It is unthinkable any way you look at it that the strength and power of our Agnes Scott should ever decline. Suppose for the sake of reason—poetry laid aside—that we say, "May thy strength and thy power e'er increase." Now we have got to the heart of the matter. What was the strength and power to begin with, say its influence over us? How is it going to increase? How may we, as Alumnae, help?

How great has been the influence over us. We have learned; we, through touching lives with men and women who have seen visions and dreamed dreams, have come ourselves to partake of their visioning; we have added a letter to our ideas, they have become "ideals"—and the greatest of these is service. Examine yourselves, you upon whom Agnes Scott has put her mark, has she not given you a broader outlook on life, a higher culture, a more earnest desire to really live? Surely it is this which accounts for the fact that we stand when Alma Mater is sung and feel as an old girl said the other day that "it thrills us yet."

We have passed by the matter of our College, ever losing in influence, but the laws of Nature declare to us that nothing stands still. From that it would seem that we must by the nature of things progress, and so we must and have. Every department of the College has progressed more rapidly than the Alumnae. Agnes Scott will not take the place which we desire for her, until we, the Alumnae, awaken to our responsibility, until we perfect our organization, unite with the other college women of the world and stand ready and eager to push forward every interest of our college. Over two hundred girls were turned away from Agnes Scott this year. The dormitory space has become very inadequate. We need a new gymnasium, and many other things, but just at present we need endowment more than anything else. If we, Alumnae, are interested enough, we will see that the endowment is forthcoming. We can do it if we are willing for a little while to put the love of our Alma Mater above other things and do our best for the College, which has done its best for us.

But it is not only this which our College wants and needs. We must face the fact that Agnes Scott is well known only in the South. We rejoice that she is growing better known each year, but there is still much to be done in this matter of proper publicity, this is work for us. Do we know what the present curriculum of the College is? Haven't we a right to know and to give what helpful suggestions we can on the subject? Do we know anything about the present student body? In a few years they will be the band of Alumnae, you know. We can help to preserve and improve the type of Agnes Scott girls by interesting ourselves in preparatory schools and high schools in our midst, by seeing that the right type of girl comes and comes prepared to take a degree. The best way to keep in touch with the college is to organize Agnes Scott clubs, closely connected with the main organization, and to come back often, especially for class-reunions. In short, we can serve our Alma Mater in any way, so long as we give back as much of love and loyalty as she has given to us, and in so doing we can lift our heads very high as we say,

When others besides us thy portals shall throng
 Think of us who have gone on before
 And the lesson that's 'graven deep into our hearts
 Thou shalt 'grave on ten thousand and more.
 Fair symbol of light,
 The purple and white,
 Which in purity add to thy fame,
 Knowledge shall be thy shield,
 And thy fair coat-of-arms,
 A record without blot or shame.

REUNIONS.

Next to the graduating class at commencement, the most significant if not the most familiar figure on the campus, is the old grad who has come back to Agnes Scott after several years to her class reunion. Perhaps her presence is even more significant than that of the Senior, for she is giving back to the college the experience which her education has helped her to gain. There is much she has to tell of what Agnes Scott means to people in her community and more of how she expects to keep the spirit of the college in the minds of the home people so that more girls will come to get the advantages she has had.

Then too the old grad is getting something new for herself. The class spirit revived, old friends, the bacon bats, picnics, hikes, social hours all mean more to her than ever before. She goes home with a new vision of what the college has meant to her.

Agnes Scott has always been proud of her Alumnae reunions. This year she particularly wants and needs a large attendance. The vote of every "old girl" is needed in planning the big things ahead for Agnes Scott. Every girl who possibly can, should make her plans to come and join her class in the Alumnae meetings at Commencement. Agnes Scott is expecting you.

THE AGNES SCOTT TYPE.

The College inevitably leaves its impress upon its students, and each college its own peculiar impress. There is a Wellesley type of woman, a Vassar type, and so of every college. Just so Agnes Scott has left its impress upon its students. It is inevitable that the character, curriculum, faculty, ideals and life of a college should make an indelible impression upon students.

WHAT THEN IS THE AGNES SCOTT TYPE?

1. It is a Type sound in the Faith. This is the impress which the College has most earnestly sought to make upon its students by every possible means. There is nothing more important and more desirable than this. It is the foundation of happiness and usefulness. We rejoice to believe that this is one characteristic of the Agnes Scott Type.

2. It is a Type with strong and high character. Character is the greatest thing in the world. The Agnes Scott Type of Character is grounded in Christian principles, loves the right and hates the wrong, and has the highest sense of honor.

3. The Agnes Scott Type has the highest ideals. That is to say the highest conception of what a true woman should be and do. These ideals are not beautiful theories only, but the living, ruling aim and ambition of life.

4. The Agnes Scott Type seeks to serve. She is not a mere butterfly. She is not content to sit quietly down with folded hands. She earnestly desires to be of service in the world. She is found in all kinds of useful positions, in the home, in the church, in the foreign field, in the Y. W. C. A., in social service, in the schools, in every department of service to her fellowmen.

5. The Agnes Scott Type is found in positions of leadership. It is not true that all College women are leaders, but it is believed that Agnes Scott does train for leadership and that a good proportion of her students are leaders and leaders of the most useful and best kind. A man of the highest character and intelligence residing in another state said this to the writer: "I have travelled much over my state and I have noticed wherever I have found Agnes Scott girls they have been leaders in their communities."

My dear "girls," I greet you as the Agnes Scott Type of women. I rejoice in you. I assure you your Alma Mater notes with the keenest interest and pleasure all that you are and do. Every one of you is affectionately remembered. At the beginning of this New Year we send you our warmest greetings and best wishes.

Cordially yours,
 F. H. GAINES.

NOTICES.

Constitution.

Enclosed you will find the Alumnae Constitution as revised by the Executive Committee. Please give it your careful attention as it contains several new and interesting items. It is impossible for us to grow without some changes—we must organize A. S. C. Alumnae Clubs in the different centers, we must have some kind of a body to unite these clubs more closely with the College (the Alumnae Council); we need very badly the services of a Secretary et cetera ad infinitum. All of this hinges on the Constitution. Study it well, it has many excellent points. If you have any suggestions to add, let us hear from you at once.

The Constitution will be voted on at the February meeting. Remember that every voting member has a right to pass upon it. Please come and do so!

Join the Alumnae Association.

Our goal for this year, that every Alumnae, full or associate, should be a member of the Association.

How may you become a member?

If you have been a student of Agnes Scott College or Institute for one year, you may become a member upon applying to the Secretary and by paying ONE DOLLAR for annual dues. Every progressive step must be paid for with those dollars. Florence Smith has sent notices only to the graduates so far, but nobody will be neglected. Let's each one of us join the ranks, pay our dollar, and push on the good work.

ATTENTION! FORWARD, MARCH!

February Meeting.

The regular Mid-Year meeting of the Association will be held Friday, February 6, at 2:30 in the Ansley Hotel.

All members are urged to attend. Please report promptly to the Alumnae office any change of address.

MARRIAGES.

Marion Black, '15, to A. L. Cautelou of Montgomery, December 22, 1919. The wedding was solemnized at Trinity Presbyterian Church. Mrs. L. R. Scott (Margaret Anderson, '15.) was matron of honor and Maryellen Harvey, '16, a bridesmaid.

Sophie Haas to J. Harry Rossbach of New York, November 5, 1919.

Delia Terry to Robert Tait, Jr., January 7, 1920. At home, Monroe, Va.

May Mayson Freeman to Gordon Marchworth. At home, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Lamb is now Instructor at the Naval Academy.

REUNIONS.

At a meeting of the general association at Commencement 1915, it was decided that regular dates should be appointed for the reunion of classes. Each class comes back the year after it is graduated, then the 3rd, 5th and 10th year and every 5th year thereafter. As this Endowment year is in many respects the greatest in the history of the College, it is very important that every class be well represented. Even if this does not happen to be your year, you will enjoy being at College during Commencement, especially as many interesting things are scheduled to come before the Association at this meeting.

Class 1919—1st year.
 Class 1917—3rd year.
 Class 1915—5th year.
 Class 1910—10th year.
 Class 1905—15th year.
 Class 1900—20th year.
 Class 1895—25th year.

NEWS OF FORMER TEACHERS.

Miss Mary Markley, who resigned from the English department to enter War Work, is now Educational Secretary of the Lutheran Church.

Miss Cady, who for so long was our inspiration in history and the reason for so many history majors, is Educational Secretary for the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. It has been our great pleasure to have Miss Cady with us once this year.

Dr. Sam Guy is head of the Chemistry Department at Emory University. Miss Nettie Moore is teaching Spanish at Sweet Briar.

Dr. Mary Martin, former Physician, is now Mrs. Sloop and is doing Mission Work in the mountains of North Carolina.

Miss de Garmo has returned from overseas and is doing graduate work at Washington University.

Miss Margaret Phythian is studying in Paris.

Miss Isabel Randolph has entered Y. W. C. A. work and has charge of the Harlem branch in New York.

Miss Edith West has been doing Social Work in Boston but India Hunt reports that she is in Philadelphia at present.

Mrs. Parry, of Athletic and bacon bat fame, has an infant son, Harvey.

Mr. Maclean is head of the Red Cross at Fort McPherson. No one who knew him at Agnes Scott will be surprised at his great influence for good among the soldiers.

Grand total, $6,263.66.

The steps taken by the Alumnae to raise its pledge of $100,000 are known to all. It is much desired that every Alumnae be a giver. It is our college; why should we expect others to provide for it? There may be some mistakes in the above list of givers, as slips not marked "Credit Alumnae" as requested could not be counted on the Alumnae fund. Also in many cases the giver used only her married name, and as she is listed in the records here by her maiden name, it was almost impossible to locate her. If, however, any omissions have been made, please notify the General Secretary and she will see that you are given due credit in an early issue of the Agonistic.

ALUMNAE OFFICERS.

President—Mary Wallace Kirk, 209 South Cave Street, Tuscumbia, Ala.
Vice-President—Mrs. Harold B. Wey, 287 Myrtle St., Atlanta, Ga.
Secretary—Catherine Parker, 12 Avery Drive, Atlanta, Ga.
Treasurer—Florence Smith, 516 West Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.
General Secretary—Mary Spottswood Payne, Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga.

The Vicious Circle and One Way Out.

Somewhere the other day I read that the useless people in the world are those who never change. It impressed me as being rather true. (At the time a group of us were re-writing the Alumnae Constitution which, by the way, I hope you have read carefully for it took a long time to write it and deserves, at least, a good reading!) But to return to the idea of change and usefulness being rather inseparably connected. Don't you think it applies to organizations as well as to people? The Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association held that opinion and the above mentioned constitution is the result of their thinking. May the English thereof and the constitutionality embodied therein not do violence to the precepts of Misses McKinney and Cady should the document chance to fall under their eyes!

Now, honest and true, what did you think when you read in the Constitution that startling statement, "The Executive Committee shall appoint a General Secretary who shall enjoy a salary fixed by the Executive Committee to whom she shall be responsible." Did you pass it over with unseeing eyes or condemn it with faint praise and, "if we had the money?" I hope you did neither but hurriedly got down your check book or picked up your pocket book (it really does not matter which) and decided to send your membership dues, possibly by "special delivery." If all our Alumnae paid their dues regularly and yearly we could have this much-to-be-desired-person. Every self-respecting and well organized Alumnae Association has one, and now that we have had a taste given us for five months we know how indispensable one is. For years we have been moving in one of those far-famed spheres known as a "vicious circle," an illustration of which is herewith appended:

How were we ever to get out of this circle? Our dear Alma Mater came to the rescue and furnished a tangent (shades of Geometry!), just out and out gave us a Secretary for five months in the person of Mary Spottswood Payne of Lynchburg, Va., familiarly known among her contemporaries as "Spott." Have you ever had so many letters about Agnes Scott or such official visits (those who live in Alumnae Centers), or heard as much about the doings of the Alumnae Association, or received such an Alumnae Publication fairly bursting with its big budget of news? Such are some of the things that our Secretary has helped us to bring about. What might we not accomplish if we could have her indefinitely? So it is with tears in our eyes that we bid "Spott" adieu. But to show our genuine appreciation to the College for giving us a chance to get out of the awful circle, and for the work done, not to mention the overwhelming need of the organization for such a secretary, we must make the position a permanent one. It is simply a question of membership dues.

We have under advisement a plan by which the Alumnae Association and the College can share the expenses of a Secretary who will give half her time to each, beginning September, 1920. Whether or not we can accept this proposition depends on your response. I wish it were possible to say, "All in favor hold up your hand." But instead of a show of hands we are confidently expecting a show of membership dollars. Florence Smith, Treasurer, has her "strong-box" ready to receive them, and if the truth were told she thinks she hears them already on their way. What a joyous jingle they will make as they come rolling in from North, South, East and West!

There is much more I want to say about the Secretaryship as well as other Alumnae matters, but "Spott" says, and "Spott" must be obeyed, that I cannot give so much space in the paper. I must ask, however, if you do not think the Alumnae Council plan fine and if you are not eager to start an Agnes Scott Club in your community, then only meet twice a year (take note)? Our Mid-Year Alumnae meeting, under the old constitution, will be held in February, if possible arrange to come, it will be a most important meeting and you will be notified as to the date. If you cannot come then remember there will be special Alumnae festivities at Commencement, so plan for a visit to your Alma Mater at that time.

Mary Wallace Kirk, Pres.

NOW AND THEN AT A. S. C.

tell you about how one year we debated together and neither one knew just what the other was to say until after the papers were written, except that we had to decide before hand which was to say, "Can a nation be a gentleman? Yes! By avoiding slippery diplomacy, etc." (Copied from The Outlook). And yet the very next year we advanced so that Agnes Scott (under the tutelage of Dr. Armistead and Miss Cady) "beat" Sophie Newcomb by sheer force of facts. You "young folks" don't know what real college spirit is until you've lived through an inter-collegiate debate.

I can remember the day when the Junior-Senior banquet was the scene of double excitement, because on that night the Seniors wore their first trains. Since there were only ten or twelve Seniors there was still room left for the rest of the party.

You probably wonder what we would do without the Agonistic. Well, time was when there wasn't any, and such news as there was was in the "Locals" of the Aurora. Goodness knows the editor of that magazine was glad enough to have something to "fill out." When there wasn't any B. O. Z. to supply material the editor used to spend her weary days lying in wait on the colonnade clutching at those who were suspected of having the fatal taste for writing, and begging for a story, a poem, anything. And when the Aurora came out a great many articles were by "Anon." because the editor had had to sit up all night and write part of the magazine herself.

At one time there was only one girl in school who could "do" aesthetic dancing. She was looked on with awe and respect. And I can remember the first May Day. The ceremonies consisted of the march (without music) of the queen and her attendants, (followed by a group of girls who thought the line looked short, decided to be milk-maids and join it, and produced the effect by the addition of aprons and the fire buckets to their costumes), the crowning of the queen, and one Morris Dance. The out-of-college spectators were some twenty-five or fifty in number, and consisted largely of the Scotts and Candler and various youths lured in by the announcement that the Y. W. C. A. would serve a chicken salad supper for twenty-five cents. Quite different from the beautiful series of dances, and costumes, and thousands of spectators we have these days, but still that was the beginning.

There was a time when there was only one phone at Agnes Scott, it being in the sitting room, which has since been converted into Dr. McCain's office. No one could use the phone but the Faculty, the negro maids, and Seniors. All conversations, tender and otherwise, had to be carried on in the full hearing of the general public.

I remember when they used to have Faculty-Student plays, a thing now extinct. It was during a rehearsal of one of these that Mrs. Dieckmann (then a student) crawled into the pipe organ to hear the play and heard Mr. Dieckmann call her a "Cabbage Head."

I remember—oh, a great many things, such as the first Gamma Tau "parade," the time when I used to be afraid of Miss Hopkins and Dr. Gaines, and when Mrs. Johnson used to be Gussie O'Neil and take "singing" from Mr. Johnson.

There is but one change that is sad to me. I remember when everyone I met on the campus would say, "Hey, Em, Jones." And one month ago I walked into the library (having been gone one year and a half) and not one familiar face greeted me.

"Ah, times has changed," said the veteran, rising from the cracker box, with a sigh.

Ruth Slack, '12, (Mrs. Hazen Smith) distinguished herself the other day by a speech before a joint meeting of the Presbyterian churches of Montgomery. She was introduced as an authority on Young People's work.

Dr. Oliver is at the University of Virginia. Miss Hopkins spent a day with them during Christmas holidays and reports many nice things about the new Mrs. Oliver.

Miss Colton is a Missionary to Korea. Miss Alby (Mrs. William Bull) is also in Korea.

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS AND WHERE THEY ARE FROM

Seven New Faculties at Agnes Scott.

Although Agnes Scott has lost a good many of its most interested faculty members, she has been unusually fortunate in getting promising substitutes. The older girls will be especially interested in forming new friends and new girls will be glad to find that some one besides Freshmen must get acquainted.

Everybody has been wondering where the faculty of last year has scattered. We find Dr. White on the point of sailing for the foreign field. Mr. Graham is at Columbia getting his doctor's degree. Miss Baucher is teaching at Smith, her alma mater, and Miss Phillips is studying voice in New York. Miss Lupo is leaving soon for Chicago to inspect the various parts of the work more closely.

We will all miss them terribly, but interviews with new members of the faculty prove that the coming season will be interesting and—oh well, we'll have to study.

Miss Emily E. Housen comes to us from Bryn Mawr to assume the chair of Physics recently vacated by Mr. Graham. We are all wondering if the physics department will prove true to tradition this year and annex

M. R. S. Miss Housen already has a good many titles on the other end of her name. She received her A.B. in 1910 and her master's degree two years later. Later she took some graduate work at Johns Hopkins and taught a little on the side. She had charge of the Department of Physics at Lake Erie for five years, and so we know she's not only efficient, but will stick by us.

The Sociology Department has an efficient head in Miss Annie H. Martin of Chicago. Miss Martin is looking forward to her Ph.D. this summer, and holds an A.B. and an M.A. from the University of Chicago. Miss Martin hasn't taught before, but she'll tell you a secret—she's been in an Insane Hospital. However, not as an inmate. She's been doing some investigating for the U. S. Bureau and promises to tell her 91 Sociology pupils all about it.

Mrs. Margaret Fitzhugh is taking Dr. White's place and is going to have philosophy and some psychology. Mrs. Fitzhugh holds an A.B. from Ohio, an M.A. from Columbia and is about to be a Ph.D. She's taught at Rockford, the University of Vermont and at Southern College, and thinks teachers can learn a lot from pupils. Let's remember it.

Miss Julia Rathermel is from Mount Holyoke, and is a friend of Miss Lupo. She likes Miss MacDougal and Agnes Scott, so she must have very good taste. The Department of Biology has another find.

Miss Phythian is succeeded by Miss Agatha Brown of Vanderbilt. Miss Brown is very modest about proclaiming her degrees but you can spy a $\Phi. \Sigma. \chi$ pin if you look hard.

Emory is generous as usual, and we have Professors Hamp and Heskiss. Mr. Hamp has two German classes and Mr. Heskiss is head of the Math Department.

Things look mighty bright as far as faculty is concerned, and we are all looking forward to a fine year. Let's help them!

ANNA I. YOUNG.

In the midst of joyful greetings as old friends gather again at Agnes Scott more than once there has come a sudden pause,—there is a break in our circle,—there is a beloved presence that is not here. And we know that this is only the beginning of the realization of our loss of Miss Anna Irwin Young.

Most of us did not hear the sad news of her death until our arrival back where we expected to see her smilingly welcoming us. We missed her and at the same time heard the sad story of how only a few weeks ago she had gone with her mother to visit relatives in Pittsburgh, where she contracted pneumonia, and succumbed after a brief illness.

It is hard indeed for the students of Agnes Scott to express our grief. Our sense of loss is too great, for Miss Young was everything to us that a fine professor, a friend whose sympathy was unbounded, and a Christian character, whose life was all service for others could be. In everything that pertained to our college she was sincerely interested. An alumna of Agnes Scott herself, she was tireless in her activities in behalf of the alumnae of Agnes Scott, and always the staunchest supporter of everything that could contribute to the welfare and growth of our college. And in the students and their affairs, there was none more helpful. Whether we went to her for advice in personal affairs or in those things that concerned the college community, we found the same ready counsellor and willing spirit. She helped us with our little tasks that were hard, and again with student government affairs, our Y. W. C. A., our united war work drives—in fact, with everything that demanded real aid.

Miss Young had been at Agnes Scott since her girlhood, coming here as a student and then as a teacher. For twenty-two years she had been a member of the faculty, so that many classes of college students have had the privilege of knowing her, and of coming in touch with her radiant personality. We know that we, the present student body, are not the only ones who are grieving in our loss, and who feel that we have had taken from us the embodiment of the ideals which we are all striving to attain.

The memory of a beautiful life is left with us, a lasting inspiration to all of us and to all, who as Agnes Scott students, knew Miss Anna Young.

WHO'S WHO ON THE CAMPUS.

Organizations, Their Duties and Heads.

Freshmen have missed all the excitement of election with its grave waggings of the head, whispered consultations, deep and serious pondering and then an afternoon of enthusiasm and applause for the successful candidates. It is just because they have never spent the pre-election week discussing prospective officers in a critical, impartial way. Much like the Judge of a Supreme Court, that they must learn now who these dignified and trustworthy officers are.

First there is the Y. W. C. A., whose president and vice-president are Janef Preston and Margaret Bell. Janef sees about "just everything," and Margaret, otherwise known as "Peg," will introduce you to all the delights of the association by seeing that you are sure to be a member. The secretary is Mary McLellan, chairman of the educational (Continued on page 4)

DEATH OF MR. G. B. SCOTT SHOCK TO COLLEGE COMMUNITY.

For Twenty-Three Years Trustee of Agnes Scott.

The death on September 6 of Mr. Scott, one of Agnes Scott's most loyal friends, came as a great shock to the college community. For twenty-three years he had been a trustee of our college, and his position here, as well as in the hearts of the officers and students, will be hard to fill.

Mr. Scott, a strong personal friend of our president, was a man of great firmness and broad sympathies. His conception of what it was to be a true man, a citizen, a church member and a friend was the highest. He was a man of faith, and was unswerving in his adherence to what he believed to be right. He had a keen sense of justice, of right, of duty, and of honor, and he gave to those who needed his help, with a generous hand.

Mr. Scott rarely missed a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Agnes Scott College, and never if attendance were possible. He was one of the most efficient and dependable of all the trustees, and his judgment always commanded the greatest respect.

Mr. Scott will be greatly missed and deeply mourned by the students of Agnes Scott.

AGNES SCOTT GIVES FRESHMEN HEARTY WELCOME

Student Government and Y. W. C. A. Reception Given Saturday Night

Social Committee Busy Providing Entertainment

Surely every old girl knows and has been putting into practice the words of the song which goes "If anybody loves a Freshman, it's I, I, I." And we all hope—Seniors, Juniors and even Sophomores—that all the Freshmen felt that that line expresses our most sincere feeling of friendliness and good will toward them.

From the Information Booth to the Y. W. C. A. and Student Government reception, every effort has been made to make the Freshmen feel how glad we are that they are here, and that in every old girl's heart there is a welcome for every Freshman, and we hope that they will like us as well as we like them.

The first of the informal "get acquainted" parties was a dance in the gymnasium Tuesday night. Nearly everybody came Tuesday and on every side youthful "grandmothers" were meeting their over-grown "grandchildren" for the first time, and old girls shrieked with joy as they recognized each other. The next day as trunks began to arrive, new friends went unrecognized as they appeared in different clothes, but at the floor parties Wednesday night acquaintances were renewed amid much laughter and the latest ragtime.

The last and most important social event of the week was the formal reception given to the new students by the Y. W. C. A. and Student Government. Here the Freshmen became acquainted with the most important of the student officers and were perhaps surprised to see how young and innocent-looking the presidents of the large organizations can be! It wouldn't be like the reception without Margaret McLaughlin to sing; and all the old girls were glad to head Lulie Harris and to learn that she is coming out to sing in our Glee Club again this year. We all love to see Ruth Keiser dance—memories of May Day—as well as Amy Twitty and Virginia Burum. Music and recitations completed the program with the famous red punch and the orchestra from town to make the dance music. The colonade around Rebekah Scott lobby was decorated with Japanese lanterns, and here promenades were taken between numbers of the program. Tiny Japanese fans were given the Freshmen as favors, to treasure as a reminder of one of their good times at Agnes Scott.

One of the events of the greatest importance to the Freshmen was the talk by Margaret McLaughlin on Wednesday night, when the purpose and ideal of the Student Government Association was explained to them, and their co-operation and sympathy enlisted.

Although the first week of entertainment and getting acquainted is over, and the Freshmen will enter upon the pleasures of "Sophomore week" in a few days, we do not want them to think that our interest in them has ceased, or that even the Sophs are not glad to have them here. It is the Freshmen who will make the future and greater Agnes Scott, and we want them to feel as we do, that when they come back here they will be "coming home." We hope that the memories of their Freshman year will be only pleasant ones, and want them to remember our motto: "Bother the old girls; they like it!"

AGNES SCOTT DORMITORIES FILLED TO OVERFLOW- ING.

Students Represent Every Part of the U. S. A.

This year, Agnes Scott has enrolled more new girls than have ever been accommodated at the college before. The dormitories were long since filled, and many were turned away.

The Freshmen come from almost every part of the United States, and from all over the South. They are an unusually promising class, and we are expecting great things of them. The roll of the new girls, with their home and college address is as follows:

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

To each new girl The Agonistic wishes to extend a most hearty welcome, and to those to whom these stately walls are already familiar.

We are now beginning what we hope may prove to be a most pleasant and profitable year. Never have the auspices been more favorable. The student body is the largest that has ever been enrolled at Agnes Scott, and their enthusiasm to accomplish real things is at high tide. This is going to be a red letter year in the history of our college.

Freshmen, we congratulate you on being members of the promising class of '24. We congratulate you on your choice of alma mater. We congratulate you on your own enthusiastic spirit. But above all, we welcome each of you into our student body, and into the interests and organizations that belong to a daughter of Agnes Scott College.

AGNES SCOTT, THE AGONISTIC AND YOU.

Now, at the beginning of school, is the time for the staff of The Agonistic to let you know what it intends to do this year. We want to get out the best paper that Agnes Scott has ever published, and we want to get it out regularly. To show our good intentions, we came early, so every student could have a welcome edition of The Agonistic during her first week of the new session.

Not only do we want to publish a paper that reflects credit upon our college, and that gives real enjoyment to the reader, but we want it to be the property of the student. All our efforts would be in vain if the girls shouldn't feel that The Agonistic belongs to them, and not to the few representatives whom they select to do the work connected with it.

This is the kind of a paper the staff wants to give to you. Now, what is your duty to your paper? In the first place, we want your loyal support. Don't knock The Agonistic—boost it! Then, won't you take a personal interest in it? If you could only know how much enthusiasm your interest gives to those whose special job The Agonistic is, you would not be so sparing with it. And last, but not least, of those who have it to spare, we would beg some of your time. There are many girls at Agnes Scott that could add a great deal to the attractiveness of the paper, if they would only devote the time. We wish that you would not hide your light under a bushel, but would let be of advantage to the whole college community.

It is not money that we are begging—it is part of yourselves. We want you to help The Agonistic to do its best for you.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEWS.

Student Government Welcomes the New Girls.

New students, have you read all the welcome posters on the bulletin board? We're bursting with pride over all the new faces we've seen around Main Building during the past week. In all your excitement and gladness over getting here, did you ever stop to think what a brand new class, full of pep and enthusiasm and new ideas means to us? Out of the class of '24 will come before very long a student government president and an executive committee to manage college affairs for us.

So, new girls, student government gives you the heartiest welcome of all and wishes to tell you that it is counting on great things from the class of '24.

NEW PROCTORS.

At the student government meeting held on Wednesday night, the following proctors were appointed:

Main—Dorothy Bouron and Polly Stone.

Rebecca Scott—Aimee D. Glover, Frances Whitfield, Alice Whipple, Mary McClellan, Pearl Smith, Louise Crosland.

Inman Hall—Eunice Dean, Caroline Farquahan, Emily Tuille, Concord Leake, Marian Lindsay, Althea Stephens.

BLUE TRIANGLE NEWS

WELCOME FROM THE Y. W. C. A.

Who met you, Miss New Girl? It was your godmother, the Y. W. C. A. Through the social committee she wrote to you in the summer; showed you to your room when you arrived; looked up your grandmother for you; and has been entertaining you ever since.

She arranged the al fresco tea Thursday afternoon, the dance in the gym the first night you were here, the floor parties where you met your neighbors; and she provided for you the big reception Saturday night when you wore your evening dress and shook hands with the members of the faculty and the officials of Student Government.

For the first week or two the Y. W. expects to be called on to help girls get started right in their college year. But after that she expects them to help her. The social service department organizes groups of girls to go to the Sheltering Arms, the Decatur Orphans' Home, the Wesley House, and the Crippled Children's Home to play with the little inmates and tell them stories.

Evening Watch committee appoints leaders for evening watch, which is held in each building at quarter past nine on Friday night.

Another committee has charge of the Y. W. C. A. meetings held Sunday evening. The World Fellowship committee needs picture post cards for little foreign children, and starting facts for use on its bulletin board.

All of these committees and others will call on you soon for your allegiance and support. When they do, remember the warm reception the Y. W. has given you, and be willing to give your time and talents in return.

HOW BLUE RIDGE HAS HELPED OUR Y.

W. C. A.

About fifteen or twenty Agnes Scott girls attended the conferences at Blue Ridge this year. From the splendid lectures they heard on the college Y. W. C. A., they have worked out some new ideas and plans for our own. These we will hear about as they are brought into use.

But if you want to really get the spirit of Blue Ridge, go to one of the girls who was there and let her talk to you about the heart to heart discussions all the girls have around the big fireplace while they toast cheese or marshmallows, after the delegation meeting and prayers. That is the way to catch the real spirit of Blue Ridge; and the spirit of Blue Ridge is the spirit of the Y. W.

still a member of our student body, Class of 1922.

In sending check Mrs. Harper writes as follows:

"My check for $1250.00 is enclosed, which is the amount I wish to set aside now, the income to provide a perpetual scholarship at Agnes Scott. I am very glad to have the scholarship go to— this year, and I am enclosing check also for $75.00, which is to supplement the income from the scholarship fund—so as to make up the total of her expenses for this year.

"I will also be glad other terms to give a similar amount, so as to make a total of the entire tuition of the girl selected, each year.

The scholarship is to be in honor of George A. and Margaret M. Ramspeck.

"It means a great deal to me to know that some girl will receive the splendid influence of Agnes Scott, who might not have been able to, and mama feels a deep interest, too, just as I do.

Ever most sincerely,
Jean Ramspeck Harper."

HIS FERVOR DAMPENED.

Down in Southern Oklahoma, after the cotton crops are laid by, it is the custom of the colored population to hold big camp meetings. At one of these the minister was talking of the great joys of heaven. One of the brethren became very much excited and began shouting: "Praise de Lawd! Praise de Lawd! How I does wish I see a June bug! I'd spread my wings and fly away to heaven."

At this one of the sisters sprang up and said: "Why, Bruddah Mose, one o' dem woodpeckers would be sho to git yo' on de way."—New York Evening Post.

THE LAST RESORT.

In a certain Yorkshire town a landlord does not receive a very hearty welcome on Monday mornings, and a tenant in one of the houses there recently handed the landlord half-a-crown towards the rent.

"Is this all you've got for me, and you so much in arrears?" scowled the landlord.

"Go on now and be satisfied," replied the tenant. "You wouldn't have had that, only my old man has been and sold the back door."—Blighty.

WELL, WELL.

"Times have certainly changed."

"What now?"

"Saw an advertisement reading, 'Be an artist and make money.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ALUMNAE

ALUMNAE, SUBSCRIBE TO THE AGONISTIC.

Keep Abreast of the Times.

"Aggie" is a very popular girl. In fact she is the envy of all the other students of Agnes Scott. A long time ago, when she was first known by the girls of A. S. C., just lots of them liked her so much that they wrote her, and asked her to write to them every week or so. Of course, as "Aggie" was crazy about all of her new friends, she did as requested. Finally she became so popular with the A. S. C. girls that the whole student body was hearing from her every week.

Now it was many years ago when all this took place. We do not mean to say that "Aggie" has not had new friends among the girls as the college years rolled by. She has been more busy than ever before trying to keep up her correspondence.

But "Aggie" is grieved and troubled! People worried about her and tried their best to solve the trouble. It has at last come to light. "Aggie" herself told it. She said that she had always heard that oldest friends were the best, but she did not know whether to believe it or not. Every one was sorry to hear that lots of "Aggie's" old friends, who are now alumnae, have stopped asking her to write them. Poor "Aggie" is practically in tears to think that the alumnae of Agnes Scott would forget her.

Wake up, Alumnae, and show The Agonistic that you have anything but forgotten her! Write her and ask her to send you a souvenir of herself every week. Show her that old friends are the best after all. Try it once more, and see if you don't love "Aggie" just as you did when you were near her.

SERBIAN STUDENT EXPECTED SOON.

Zorka Petrovitch Now On Way.

Zorka Petrovitch, the Serbian refugee girl who is to be one of the students at Agnes Scott this year, has not yet arrived. Those of us who have been reading the articles carried from time to time in the Atlanta papers about our fellow Student-to-be were expecting to find her here on our own arrival.

Zorka is not here yet, but a telegram from Mr. Morton, who is to meet her in New York, gives us to believe she will be here soon.

The telegram reads, "We expect cable daily regarding Zorka's arrival." So we hope she will be only a few days late, for we are all anxious to meet and talk to a girl who has seen and experienced so much.

GEORGE A. AND MARGARET M. RAMSPECK SCHOLARSHIP $1,250.

This scholarship has been endowed by Mrs. Jean Ramspeck Harper of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in honor of her parents.

Mrs. Harper is a graduate of this college, class of 1900. Her parents were former residents of Decatur and among the most respected and prominent citizens. This generous act of their daughter is most commendable and perpetuates the names and memory of her parents in a way which will outlast marble or bronze, and at the same time will be aiding worthy and ambitious girls in securing a college education year by year as long as the college stands. What finer memorial could be created than this! All honor to this devoted daughter of worthy and honored parents.

Mrs. Harper has sent two daughters to this college, Misses Marian and Frances Harper. Miss Francis is

GIDDY GOSSIP

Dear Family 'n Everything,

I am here and arrived safely as there was no accident of any kind and no one kidnapped me like you were afraid would happen. Oh dear, I just read over that sentence and it didn't have a bit of sense but Dear Ones, my two roommates are both talking at once, two Sophomores next door are raising enough "cane" to supply all Georgia with sugar and I just can't concentrate. (I hate to, anyway).

Two perfectly adorable Seniors met us at the station, at least they said they were Seniors, but I have strong suspicions that they both were Sophs. One was as full of fun as anyone could be and she teased us all the way out to Decatur, but Susie Reid (that's her name) and Sarah (the other one) were so sweet to us that we would have been sorry the trip was out, if it hadn't been Agnes Scott that was waiting for us to explore. It's a wonderful place, people, big "aristocratic" buildings and loads of trees and oh, lots of grass and girls in gingham dresses and middy suits all over the big white stone steps of Main Building. I was afraid they were going to sit there and stare a hole through me but instead they all rushed forward at once and grabbed our suit cases, to say nothing of us, and showed us in to a big hall.

I was so excited I didn't see anything except a purple and white information booth the Y. W. C. A. had for the benefit of us freshies. A "little" girl who seemed to be "big" boss (she's Ruth Scandrett, head of social committee) greeted us and we met Miss Hopkins, who is a dear. She told us where our rooms were (you see I had met several other freshmen on the train and we came out together); then a Sophomore (she told us so) named Lib and an athletic looking peach of a girl Fanny "something or other" took us all to our rooms. Well, sir, family, that room looked pretty bare with only walls and floor and ceiling and furniture, but there was a dear little card with a warm welcome from the Y. M. on my bureau.

Honestly the older girls are just lovely. They helped me register, see the committee on admission (which seems to be having an everlasting meeting with my name at the end of the list, until suddenly they adjourn and later on we start all over again). It's some job. I finally saw them and what do you suppose? Yes, I have to take Latin! I told you so! and Math!! Isn't it dreadful? It didn't seem to impress the committee at all that Uncle Ben was no good in math, and that I took after him, although I told them about it several times.

We danced in the gymnasium after supper and met lots of the old girls and some more of our own "sister rats." Gee! it's great to be a rat, but the Sophs are telling us awful tales about what they'll do to us next week! I hope I don't have to wear pigtailed because they are terribly unbecoming.

Tonight we are all going to put on our cutest kimonos and have floor parties, isn't that thrilling? And the Y. W. gave a tea Thursday afternoon and our reception came off Saturday night. I'm so glad I got the new evening dress now and really since I've seen some of the sleeveless affairs some of the girls have unpacked I'm glad mine has only a bunch of tulle on the shoulders.

And, dears, you know the teachers are lovely! Some of them are just like the girls themselves. I asked one of them if she was a freshman! Bound for me to pull a bone.

I have no time to write you more now, because I must get ready for the party, but please send me some mail, for the older girls get loads of it. One girl named Margaret Smith gets five or six each mail. I wish I was popular like that!

I'm trying hard not to be homesick and I'm happy here that it's not as hard to keep from it as I expected.

I love you all and want to see you but "Miss Agnes" has won my heart and she'll keep it, as well as the rest of me, until December 17.

STUDENTS! VISIT THE "SILHOUETTE."

Eat, and Ward Off the Blues.

People say that a good digestion is a sure way to keep off home sickness! You know though, you cannot have a good digestion if you don't eat. A good policy is never to stay hungry between meals. Where will you get something to eat? The "Silhouette," of course!

In the basement of the Science building is the most attractive room! As soon as you enter you will see why it is named "Silhouette." It is such a cozy place to take your friends, and best of all, it keeps off "blues." The old girls will see that a great change has taken place. It is well worth a visit down; and when you once get there, where the tempting odors come floating out, you will certainly want to buy everything. The "Silhouette" is a tea-room to be proud of because it is one of the prettiest of its kind.

The regular hours of the tea-room are from eight to two and from four to seven-thirty. Sandwiches, ice cream, cakes, candy, and cold drinks will be sold all the first week. After that the cooks will get busy and anything in the line of "eats" may be had.

Everybody, come and try it once—after that you will never have to be urged.

Poet—"Outrageous! You offer me only two dollars for this poem and I spent all day on it. Why, a gas fitter gets $1.25 an hour."

Editor—"Well, if you were as particular about your meter as a gas fitter is about his, so would you."

ARE YOU HAVING TROUBLE WITH YOUR BEAU?

Ask Teddy Tea-Hound, and he will answer all your questions and solve your problems.

Mr. Tea-Hound, after much inducement, has been persuaded to take charge of this work for the year. He is a thoroughly competent young chap, for since his graduation from the "Georgia Derby and Cane Military Institute" he has been engaged in active work at all tea dances and dinner parties. It is with much pleasure that we introduce Mr. Tea-Hound to Miss Agnes and we hope that his priceless wisdom and experience will be called upon to unravel the snare of love.

HINTS TO FRESHMEN.

All girls who look wise are not Seniors.

Don't wear boudoir caps to breakfast or you'll have to wear them all the time during Soph week.

Don't believe all the Sophomores tell you.

Napkins are useless luxuries, what is the table cloth for, anyway?

Try "Skiddo Skeeter" cream for "muskeeter" bites.

Don't be afraid to eat, you'll have a big appetite eventually, why not now?

If you long for a lovely complexion ask the Juniors for some of the famous "Angel Bloom," they'll know what you mean.

OPEN FORUM.

This is to inform every one at Agnes Scott that the Open Forum is her own particular property, and that any opinion that she may want voiced may be printed in this column. Let your fellow students know what you think of the various institutions, customs, and traditions of Agnes Scott, and show every one that you have taken a personal interest in your school paper.

Freshmen are urged to make use of the Open Forum, and any criticisms, either favorable or unfavorable, will be gladly published.

ALL STAR AND CIVIC CONCERT SERIES SOON TO BEGIN

PONSELLE, GALLI - CURCI AND KREISLER AMONG STARS.

Isadora Duncan Dancers.

People over the entire South greet with pleasure the announcement each fall of the All-Star and the Civic Concert Series, for Atlanta is truly the music center of the South. The season of 1920-21 brings an unusually great number of eminent artists who will no doubt entertain many Agnes Scott girls. We are more fortunate than most Southern college students, for Atlanta affords a great many lectures and concerts which are both profitable and pleasurable.

The Civic Concert Series under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Study Club presents the following artists:

Margaret Matzenauer, contralto, November 1.

Isadora Duncan Dancers, with Beryl Rubenstein, Pianist, November 11.

Fritz Kreisler, Violinist, January 4. Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, January 28.

Alfred Cortot, Pianist, February 21. The All-Star Concert Series presents:

Titta Ruffo, Baritone, November 4. Galli-Curci, Soprano, November 25. Efreim Zimbalist, Violinist, January 10.

Schumann-Heink, Contralto, January 10.

Rosa Ponselle, Soprano, March 14. Josef Hofmann, Pianist, March 24.

Tickets for the Civic Concert Series will go on sale at the Cable Piano Company on September 25, those of the All-Star about the middle of October. Prices will be about like last season's, in proportion to the number of concerts.

Of particular interest this year will be the first appearance in Atlanta of the Isadora Duncan Dancers, with Beryl Rubenstein, the brilliant young Georgia pianist, as soloist and accompanist. Atlanta is also hearing for the first time Titta Ruffo, who stands absolutely alone among baritones in opera or concert, and Zimbalist, who is both a great artist and the husband of Alma Gluck.

Many of us heard Margaret Matzenauer last April during the opera season as Delilah the opening night, and the Azucena of "Il Trovatore," and remember distinctly her deep, clear, rich voice. Consequently many of us will hear her this fall on the concert stage.

Fritz Kreisler is returning for a concert too as well as Madame Schumann-Heink, while Galli-Curci, Josef Hofmann, and the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra are returned for their third and fourth engagements. Galli-Curci has been given Thanksgiving night and those who remember how John McCormack turned away hundreds last Thanksgiving will buy their tickets early.

Of Rosa Ponselle, Mr. Evans of the Evans-Salter Musical Bureau, said: "Rosa Ponselle has been tremendously successful in concerts in the east, and we feel sure she will be as well liked here in her own person as in an opera role."

Mr. Cortot, who was in Atlanta two years ago with the Orchestra of the Paris Conservatory, has been chosen to give the closing recital of the Civic Concert Series. Since his appearance in Atlanta he has firmly established himself with both American and British critics and will no doubt play before a large audience here on February 21st.

Girls wishing to secure season tickets for either or for both of these series should form groups of ten, see (Continued on page 4.)

HAVE YOU PAID YOUR EN- DOWMENT PLEDGES?

10 Per Cent of Girls Have Made No Payment.

Last year about this time we were all bubbling over with enthusiasm in the Endowment Drive. Never before has Agnes Scott witnessed such pep and energy. But it did not end with just pep and energy—liberal pledges were not lacking and we were all so proud of ourselves and always will be so when we think of how gloriously the college went over the top.

However we must remember that though we have gone over the top, one of the hardest parts of the fight is still left, the paying of the pledges. It's hard to keep up our enthusiasm when there is no singing and yelling and no one to cheer us on, but all of our work last year is worth nothing if our pledges are not paid.

Of the four hundred girls who gave subscriptions, approximately forty, or ten per cent, have made no payment at all. Then, too, a large number have not paid their May pledges. These girls have received their notices and their reminders that their payments have been due for quite awhile, but apparently they are asleep.

If we could only realize what it means when we even delay our payments, I am sure we would all pay on the very day. To each of the four thousand who subscribed Mr. Cunningham has to send a notice when the payment is due. And if every one delayed his payment (and certainly if one has this privilege, the other has also) this would mean that four thousand reminders must be sent out. Eight thousand letters to be dictated, written, and mailed when it might all be avoided.

If there is some reason why you cannot pay your pledge at the time and you wish to pay it later, go to see Mr. Cunningham and tell him. But do let's not have all this trouble and work caused by pure carelessness. The next payments are due the 1st of December, only a little over a month. Write home in time to get the money and pay your pledge on time.

MARGARET BLAND AND JANEF PRESTON HONORED.

Have Poems Printed in Anthol- ogy of College Verse.

Agnes Scott has now made another bid for fame through the talent of two of her most gifted students. Do you know that within a few months every poetry lover in the country will have an opportunity to read two poems composed at Agnes Scott and that the names of Janef Preston and Margaret Bland will appear in a volume of verse entitled "Poets of the Future." This book is an anthology of college verse published yearly by the Stratford Publishing Co. of Boston, and in which appear all the best poems selected from every American college publication.

Last year these two poems were put in the Aurora, a copy of which is sent each month to the editor of the publishing company. A few days ago Janef and Margaret were notified in a letter such as would gratify the heart of a poet laureate that their two poems had been chosen.

Since their poems were first written, though Janef has become a Senior, and Margaret a graduate, we wish our share of the glory which they have had the genius and fortune to bestow on us. Only two other Agnes Scott girls have received the same honor: Agnes White and India Hunt, several years ago. It seems only natural that Janef and Margaret should be the next two to receive this tribute of appreciation. We are well acquainted with their unusual talent and poetic skill, for not an Aurora has been published without one or more of their poems. For the benefit of all those who have not their Auroras and who wish to re-read the two poems, we give both below. The first, Janef's, is entitled

MY GIPSY FEET.

My Gipsy feet will not be still roads go,

When April gives a pine-thick hill
Winds above, wind flowers below.

BLACKFRIAR TRYOUTS COM- ING SOON.

Old Girls Try Out Now—New Girls in February.

Every fall, as soon as classes are well under way, and everybody is comfortably settled for the semester, the Blackfriars begin casting their eyes around to see who has dramatic possibilities.

Because the membership of Blackfriars is limited, students cannot join until a test of their dramatic ability has been made. Not everybody can walk right into the club, but at least everybody can walk right into the chapel and tryout for the club.

The fall tryouts are to be given about the middle of October, and because the Freshmen always have so much to do right at the beginning of their first year, only Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors will be eligible for this October tryout. The Freshmen will be given a chance in February, for by then, they will be used to Agnes Scott ways and methods and will find they have the time to devote to dramatics.

Passages from Shakespeare and other classic plays will be selected and posted far enough ahead of time for all those who may decide to tryout to memorize the parts. The list of plays from which selections are to be made will be published in the next issue of the Agonistic.

The Blackfriars were organized and are now ably directed by Miss Frances K. Gooch. The purpose of the club is twofold: first, to foster the highest ideals of acting and of drama; second, to give an opportunity to both actors and audience to study drama through oral presentation.

We all realize that Blackfriars successful and charming performances have attracted favorable attention to our alma mater. So when the tryout passages and date are posted, let's all be there, and do our best, and see if we can't get in.

K. U. B. JOURNALISTIC CLUB

SUPPORTS AGONISTIC AND SUPPLIES TOWN PAPERS.

Tryouts Open to All.

Some of us, who have been reading the Atlanta Constitution and the Georgian on the subject of all the parties given at Agnes Scott have been impressed with the fact that these papers have unusually good reporters. And so they have, but the interesting part of it is that these reporters are members of our own community; more specifically, they are members of K. U. B., the Agnes Scott Journalism club.

K. U. B. is about the youngest organization in college, and one of the most active. In view of these two facts we shall give a brief history of the club.

Last year, late in the spring, several ardent Agonistic supporters began to worry about what would be the fate of "Aggie" since the former class in journalism has been taken out of the college curriculum. They decided that since the rudiments of newspaper work cannot be obtained academically, they could be obtained socially. And so the charter members, Frances Markley, Nell Buchanan, Sarah Till, Polly Stone, Frances Harper and Eleanor Carpenter met to carry out the idea. They not only carried it out, they developed it to an unhopd for extent. It was unanimously decided that our Alma Mater needed more close association with the outside world, and that the best way to do this was to have a journalism club.

At the beginning of this semester, members of K. U. B. interviewed the city editors of the Atlanta papers and secured positions as Agnes Scott correspondents, with a slight financial remuneration. Nor do they intend to stop with the Atlanta papers. Whenever an Agnes Scott girl does something noteworthy her home town papers will be informed of it. But the Agonistic will be always in view, and to this end, a scientific and entertaining study of journalism will be conducted at the regular meetings.

The membership of the club will be limited to ten. All students have been cordially invited to tryout for reporters on the Agonistic, and after Christmas, those reporters or sub-editors doing the best work will be invited to become members of K. U. B.

The initials K. U. B. have a significance known only to the members of the society. They represent the Greek letters Kappa Upsilon Beta, which will appear on the pin, to be worn by all K. U. B.'s. The pin is quill shaped, and of gold.

The society has met with hearty support from the officers of the college and of the Atlanta newspaper editors, and we feel sure that it has a great future.

CHARLOTTE BELL TO REPRESENT SOUTHERN ATLANTIC FIELD.

National Student Committee Meeting in New York
This Fall.

One of our girls has had a new and interesting honor bestowed upon her. The girl is Charlotte Bell and the honor is—

Well, this summer about twenty-five undergraduate representatives of the Y. W. C. A. had a meeting at Blue Ridge, and out of the twenty-five seven were chosen as undergraduate field representatives. These seven, together with the student secretaries, compose the student committee of the South Atlantic Field. This committee meets at Richmond the second week in October.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS.

Patronize our advertisers! How many times have the students of Agnes Scott heard that phrase, yet every year it becomes more important.

The position of Business Manager of the Agonistic is not easy at best. If the students could only realize how much they could help without it being any extra trouble to them, we're sure they would do their best.

Read the advertisements carefully. Do you realize that it is the business men who advertise with us that make our publications possible? Then when you go into a store that advertises with us, tell them that you saw their ad. in the Agonistic. That's a good way to show your school spirit.

Help the Agonistic grow. Patronize our advertisers, and help us make it a success.

DON'T BE SNOBBISH—SAY "HEY!"

Now is the time of the year when everybody is making new acquaintances, and when the new girls are receiving their first impressions of Agnes Scott. As we all know, we, the students, make the college. We can make it snobbish and ridiculous, or we can make it democratic and progressive.

The responsibility of making it the best kind of a college, and of inspiring the Freshmen to carry out its glorious traditions and live up to its reputation, lies with us.

Now it may seem like a little thing to pass a girl on the campus without looking her way, or coolly nod your head when you pass a new girl on the colonnade, but it's little things like that which make lasting impressions. It's just as easy to say "Hey" and smile, as it is to turn your head and look superior. Let's make a resolution to be friendly, and try to make everybody else feel at home.

ALUMNAE

AGNES SCOTT WELCOMES ALUMNAE.

Old Girls Are Not Able to Stay Away.

When Agnes Scott opened about the middle of September, the old girls did not expect to see the Seniors of 1920. One Sophomore was heard to say that she felt just like a Freshman for the reason that so many of the 1920 Seniors, alas, now Alumnae, had returned! In fact, the return of so many of the old girls has been one of the greatest "send-offs" to the whole of A. S. C. on their embarkation upon the year just begun.

Among the familiar faces of the Alumnae, who are now visiting their old home, we see: Julia Hagood, who is going to play "lady" this winter and keep house. Margaret Bland and Mary Burnett are going to teach. Just think what Agnes has to be proud of in those two! Romola Davis is a Fellow in Latin out here, news that makes us all happy. Lulie Harris will also come out from her home in Atlanta to continue her studies in voice. Juliet Foster will be at her home in Anderson all winter, doing community work in one of the cotton mills there.

Agnes Scott will be proud to know that her old girls of last year who are visiting her now, are going to do such splendid work during the winter. But we all hope that they will come back to see us often, and not let this be the only time we will see them during the coming session.

NEW HORIZONS FOR OLD.

"New Horizons for Old" is the title of one report from the recent World Y. W. C. A. conference. At the beginning of a new school year this is a significant slogan for our own Y. W. C. A. A hundred and fifty Freshmen have just entered upon a new life among us. Wider acquaintance, deeper experience, and broader sympathies are what they are seeking at college. To them the Y. W. offers new horizons with the assurance that they will grasp them. But the offer is to old girls as well. Each year our Alma Mater expects us to return with larger visions of woman's opportunity for service and Christian influence in the world today. As long as we are here the Association beckons us to come up higher in our practical Christianity, constantly exchanging old horizons for new.

If this year we can take some added responsibility in the various departments of the Y. W.; if we can find new channels of helpfulness; if we can put more meaning into our prayers and more love into our Bible study, we cannot fail to gain new and wider horizons of the world's need and its challenge to our powers.

NEW BASIS OF MEMBERSHIP.

This year the new basis of membership which was voted on here last spring will have to prove itself. The old basis was church membership; the present one is a personal pledge of a desire to be a disciple of Christ. There was of course some opposition to this new basis. But the "As-

MNEMOSYNEANS ARE BACKWARD.

Evolution is a queer thing. Sometimes a Freshman goes forward; and sometimes just for the sake of variety she goes backward. The latter feat was done excellently Monday night when the Mnemosynean Debating Society gave a "Backward Party" in the Gym. As the guests arrived the orchestra greeted them with strains of "Home, Sweet Home," and the hostesses charmingly gowned all backwards, assured each new-comer that they were so glad everybody had had such a lovely time. The only feature of the evening's program which was not consistent with the "backward" idea was the course of refreshments. The cake and cream in Mnemosynean colors, gold and blue, disappeared with normal rapidity. The affair was delightful from its end to its beginning and judging by the number and quality of the pledges which went to the Blue and Gold Wednesday, the Mnemosyneans have proved that there are more ways than one to increase its membership. It isn't always the "forward" people who mean the most.

PROPYLEAN PARTY.

The Props, fearing that perhaps the stale city air of Decatur might tempt some of the Freshmen into the wild ways of dissipation, concluded to give them a "lark" in the country Tuesday night. The Gym proved to be a really delightful rural barn, and it was there that the Propyleans entertained the new girls at a barn party. Fragrant hay-stacks, and real live chickens and a sure-enough goat, together with the varied assortment of costumes worn, gave "atmosphere" to the scene, which a "hick" himself would not have recognized as artificial. Among those present were the village belles and beaux, farmerettes, shy little milkmaids and all the rest who go to make up such a picturesque gathering. Farm implements were given as favors, and the cream and cake were in green and white, which are Propylean colors. Pledge Day revealed the fact that among the Freshman class there are quite a number who seem to have a hankerin' for the "good old fashioned farm," if those who shouldered their hoes and rakes with good grace are to be taken as any indication; for green and white ribbons proclaimed a host of new members for the Propyleans.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

sociation Monthly" says: "Whether our basis for membership be 'personal or church' we recognize that Jesus Christ is the center of life. It is one thing to find a moral ideal fulfilled in Jesus and to become his disciple in the same sense in which one might become a disciple of Plato. It is something totally different to enjoy the friendship and own the master-ship of the living Christ in the sense of consciously and continuously drawing spirit life and force from Him."

"One practical result of the basis discussion must be a truer democracy in our membership. Students who join an Association after considering its purpose must be given a true share in its life and policy. Anything less is practically a denial of the opportunity to live out the very declaration we ask as a membership test. In too many associations now a small group controls its policies, decides upon its activities, and expresses its mind."

Agnes Scott voted for this amendment at the convention in Cleveland. We can now show that our judgment was wise by giving careful thought to the meaning of the pledge when we are called upon to sign it, and by being sure that we gain in our organization all its benefits of consecration and co-operation.

Some have feared that the new basis would encourage atheism rather than spirituality in the Y. W. C. A. Advocates of its adoption do not foresee this, but we will have to wait to determine the real effect.

An Italian fruit seller had received the Word of God into her heart, and spent her spare moments in reading the Bible. One day a gentleman said to her: "My good woman, what are you reading?" "It is the Word of God," replied the woman. "The Word of God, how do you know?" Looking upward, she replied: "Can you prove to me, sir, that there is a sun up in the sky?" "Prove it!" he replied, "why the best proof is that it warms me, and that I see its light." "So," she said, "the proof of this Book being the Word of God is that it warms and lights my soul."

And likewise the proof of the spirituality of our Y. W. will be that it makes Christian living easier.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

Dearest Aggie,

We are having the most exciting time you ever heard of. Why? It's Sophomore week, Aggie, and we are the "lords of creation" right now (or should I have said "ladies?"). I have never felt so important in my life and believe me these "rats" surely are a handful. "You tell 'em rouge, my lips stick," which reminds me that we are going to have a chance to tell the sheep from the goats, along lines of beauty, in the Freshman class because all this week they can't use a "speck" of rouge, or a dab of powder and you know, Aggie, that there are very few girls where beauty is even skin deep. It's usually applied "from without."

You know I'm beginning to think I'm an S. B. (sad bird, y' know). Just loads of girls get letters every day and sometimes they are all from the same person, S. R. Morton's are anyway, for if Adam doesn't write every day, he telegraphs her, because you see she must know all the Auburn news, and, Aggie, there must be enough pictures of good-looking fellows in the older girls' rooms to start an art gallery. The new youngsters have some cute looking youths' pictures in their rooms too. Aggie, do you know a real good looking "Arrow collar type" man who wouldn't mind renting me his photo just while I'm here at school? If you do, please give him my name and address.

Ella says she's getting "writer's cramp" from posting so many phone calls and special deliveries. Flowers haven't started coming in yet, but then you see the rose season is over and it is a little early for chrysanthemums. Thanksgiving will bring those though, also beaus from all parts of the globe. Gee, I hope someone sends me some flowers and takes me to the game. It will be dreadfully humiliating, if someone doesn't, won't it?

You know the Tech boys that hang around down town are getting more "tea-houndish" every day. Their latest fads are cloth hats made of some wild looking checked or striped material and I haven't seen but two boys who really were cute-looking in them.

Oh yes! Romola is back this year, teaching, so we will have some romance after all, for you know Romola, she's that all over, and there's nothing in trousers that doesn't "fall flat" for her, but pshaw! you already know that.

If we hadn't been having such a grand time at the society parties and those things, I would have been terribly homesick for you all. Yes, Aggie even a "high and mighty" Soph feels sometimes that college life "ain't all that it's cracked up to be."

Write soon and tell me everything about everybody.

Yours in power,
Giddie.

CLASSES BEGIN WITH RECORD REGISTRATION.

French and Biology Most Popular Subjects.

More popular than any other subject, and more so than ever before, is Biology, for which over one hundred students have registered with a practically even percentage of old and new girls. Evidently the prospect of two "lab days" a week has no terror for those stout hearts. Indeed, we are informed that the girls hang out of the windows in the class room, for lack of chairs, and that an adjournment to the tea-room is threatened by those who are unable to find places in the laboratory!

French as usual has a large registration, such a large one in fact that a new assistant, Miss Brown, has been secured, in anticipation of even greater members than before. There is a rumor to the effect that Miss Phythian is to return after her year of absence, but so far it seems to be only a rumor. There is an unusually large attendance in the higher French courses this year, as it seems to be a very popular major subject, also, whisper it darkly, not a little of the popularity of higher French is due to the inexorable Elections Committee.

The Sociology and Education classes are well attended, this year, and Philosophy classes are as full as ever. Even German is receiving an unusual amount of attention, as it is required for a music certificate, and in the higher courses may take the place of French for an English major. Spanish is ever increasing in popularity, spreading even to some members of the faculty. Practically all the classes are full in the courses not mentioned here, and we are all looking forward to the time when our "Greater Agnes Scott" will be able to prepare an unlimited and growing number of girls for their life work.

EVOLUTION OF A FRESHMAN

FRESHMAN GO THROUGH HORRORS OF SOPH WEEK.

Pigtails and Placards in Evidence.

Shades of the Spanish Inquisition! A pleasant dream in comparison to the nightmare reality of Sophomore Week! For what is mere physical torture compared with injured Freshman dignity and outraged high school Senior superiority? Who could expect a Freshman to cherish and revere the exalted ideals and traditions of her Alma Mater, when she must wear her hair in pigtails tied with green ribbon (not exceeding an inch in width!) and skip across the colonnade wagging little bells behind her. How can she learn to love her books when she must carry them around on a tray?

As for night raids, why the Germans weren't in it! Night after night the Freshmen went to bed with sinking hearts to lie awake hours after Mr. Starr turned out the kindly protecting lights, dreading—well they knew not what, except everything that the word's Sophomore raid implied. What night their doom would fall, they knew not, so they shivered in cold perspiration at every sound until one night in the wee small hours they were ruthlessly waked out of fitful sleep by the flare of some twenty-five flashlights, and commanded by a very stern voice to make love to themselves in the mirror and then to scramble like an egg. Just across the hall some unfortunate fellow sufferer who has been overly endowed with avoirdupois is rolling furiously up and down the floor at the order of a lean severe Sophomore, while her room-mate is crawling wearily under the bed to find the point of a joke she has just told.

Cheer up, Freshman! Your laundry list chanting is over, and the Sophomore's can no longer order you to polish their shoes or make beds. Don't forget that you'll have an opportunity to wreak your vengeance on some other verdant Freshman and that this time next year "there's a great day coming."

MARGARET BLAND AND JANEF PRESTON HONORED.

One far road leads my gipsy feet
To hill-top places in tall grass,
Where patches of the warm light meet
Shadows of low clouds that pass.

One road is a trail half seen
That leads into thin-shadowed places,
Where underneath dark tangled green,
Pink trilliums hide their quiet faces.

One road is a fresh-wet lane,
With sunset lingering at its end;
And heavy yet with trembling rain
Tall black pine trees bend.

Each far road has a curve in it
That homeward brings the gipsy me,
To light the lamp and sew a bit—
And keep my house and make the tea.

On some blue-distant April day
I know I shall look out and see
A far straight road that leads away—
A road without a curve to stay—
Then who will keep my house for me?"

Margaret Bland's is:

MY SONG.

When flowers bloomed along the way
To fill the hands of spring,
And blue sky blotted out the grey,
I had a song to sing.
But flowers fade too soon and fling
Their petals all athrong
One rose I saw—a shattered thing—
And half forgot my song.

When the winds piped a softer lay,
And birds sang on the wing,
And music met the soul in play,
I had a song to sing.
But my chimes soon ceased to ring,
The notes, somehow seemed wrong,
And though still their memories cling,
I half forgot my song.

When dreams crept near to sway
My inmost thoughts, and swing
The whole world far away,
I had a song to sing,
But dreams alone could not bring Forgetfulness along,
I felt the world's cold sting
And half forgot my song.

ENVOY.

When joy seemed crowned, a king,
I had a song to sing;
But my way was rough, was long,
And I half forgot my song.

COULDN'T TELL A LIE.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETIC SEASON ABOUT TO BEGIN.

Hikes, Hockey, Tennis and Swimming Going Strong.

Now that we've all been to classes and seen what real work is, most of us are mighty impatient for the athletic season to begin. We want to do some sure enough, good, hard playing.

Hockey comes first. Everybody goes out for hockey, whether they've even played before or not. Most of the Freshmen know very little about the game when they get here, but the Freshman class always has a strong team before the season is over.

There is no special hiking season, we hike from September to May. The first hike of this semester came last Friday. About one hundred and fifty girls left the campus late in the afternoon, bound for East Lake. Supper certainly tasted good in the open air, weinies and bacon, of course, with apples for dessert. It was certainly a tired, happy crowd that came tramping back on the campus that night.

Genie Johnson is hike manager this year, and she has announced that eight out of ten hikes are required for a numeral this year.

The tennis courts and swimming pool are receiving their share of attention. The courts have been rolled and marked, and are so good that the dearest of balls is compelled to bounce, while the pool seems much larger.

There are several new white sweaters on the campus, each adorned with a resplendent purple A. S.

Let's all go in strong for athletics, so we can wear one.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.

1. Delicious meat patties can be made from several sliced cold potatoes, a few left-over string beans, a slice of bacon and two nutmegs. Grind these thoroughly and broil in hot oleomargarine. They are very tasty for supper or breakfast.

2. Left-over fish bones can be boiled for thirty minutes with a bay leaf, an ounce of ketchup and a can of catnip, to make wonderful consomme. Just the thing for the dainty luncheon.

Try these on your stove.

CHARLOTTE BELL TO REPRESENT SOUTHERN ATLANTIC FIELD.

one girl, Charlotte, was elected to represent the Southern Atlantic Field at the National Student Committee meeting in New York this fall. This committee is composed of one girl from each of the eleven fields of the Y. W. C. A., and has the same relation to the National Student Movement in the Y. W. C. A. as the National Board of Y. W. C. A. has to the National Y. W. C. A.

This is an honor of which Charlotte and all Agnes Scott may be justly proud. We know from experience that she will be a success, whenever she may go and whatever she may do. We extend to her our most hearty congratulation.

TEDDY TEA-HOUND.

Would you find the solution to your troublesome affairs or would you like some beauty hints?

Apply to Teddy Tea-Hound, what he doesn't know would fill a library full of volumes.

Dear "Rosie,"

You say your true love will be in town next week and that you cannot wear his frat pin because Sophomore rules forbid? My dear child, sixteen is quite too young to think of such serious things as wearing a young man's pin and you should return it gracefully, thus ending the difficulty.

Sincerely,

Teddy Tea-Hound.

Dear "Dimples,"

No, I do not think it would do any good whatsoever for you to use vaseline on your freckles. It will only make them darker and more noticeable. Try a mixture of olive oil and tomato ketchup with an ounce of bay rum. I find it quite excellent.

Sincerely,

Teddy Tea-Hound.

Dear "Ephimira Alicia,"

I would not let the fact that my hair was bobbed discourage me in the least. Young men do like bobbed hair girls; you see I know, because I am a young man and I adore girls with short hair. Have patience and "Prince Charming" will seek you out.

Sincerely,

Teddy Tea-Hound.

TRUE BELIEVER.

Father—What do you want to build a dog kennel for? You haven't a dog. "No, but I prayed for one last night."

TEMPTED FATE.

"What became of that girl Masherton was flirting with last summer?" "You mean the girl that Masherton thought he was flirting with? She married him."—London Opinion.

Indignant Wife (to irate husband)—You miserable man! You seem to think I'm wrong every time you are in the right!—Pele-Mele (Paris).

AMERICANIZATION.

He was a Chinaman. He ran a laundry, and no one ever heard him speak a word of English. I often wondered why he had not learned our beautiful language. But to my queries he only shook his head.

One day when I paid for my weekly wash he returned less change than usual. "You've short-changed me, Ping Pong!" I cried.

Ping Pong smiled blandly, showed me his Americanization of Foreign Merchants certificate, and, speaking for the first time in faultless English, replied: "No; I've raised!"—Iowa Frivol.

MISS LONGSHORE STRESSES LIBRARY REGULATIONS.

If all four hundred and fifty of us are to find just the book we need when we need it we must remember to help keep the wheels of the library machine going by observing the library regulations which Miss Longshore has made out for us.

Some of these are as follows:

Library Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 9:45 P. M. every day except Saturday, when the Library closes at 1:30.

General Reference Books.

The general encyclopedias and bound magazines are never to be taken from the library. Other books may be taken out for over night.

Reserved Books.

These are books assigned for required reading. They must be used in the Library, except when taken out for over-night reading. Over-night books may be taken out at 9:00 P. M. and must be returned at 8:00 next morning. A student who returns a reserved book late is restricted from drawing books out of the library for one month. Reserved books must not be engaged for more than two hours in succession and not more than three hours in one day.

Students are held responsible for the books until they have returned them to the desk and checked off their names on reserve slip. Not more than two books may be reserved for the same hour and not more than two may be taken out for over-night. Reserved books may be taken out of library at 12:30 on Saturday and must be returned at 8:00 Monday morning. Not more than three reserved books may be taken out for the week end.

Please remember that the above regulations are RULES.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

Owing to the fact that some girls had to resign their positions because of too many points and that others did not return to school, Agnes Scott began her new session with an election to fill these places.

Fire Chief—Ruth Virden.

Business Manager of Silhouette—Theressa Newton.

Assistant Business Manager of the Agonistic—Frances Harper.

Assistant Business Manager of Aurora—Christine Evans.

Freshman: I don't believe I deserve F on this paper.

Eng. Prof.: Neither do I, but that is the lowest grade we are allowed to give.

HEARD IN FRENCH I.

The imperfect tense of a verb is used to express future action in past time which does not really take place at all.

The Art of Being Popular

You are that clever, wide-awake young woman who aspires to be leader of your set. Of course you want to be popular, admired—a favorite. Down deep in your heart you know, too, that if you would really attract you must be charming to look upon.

The girl who is popular is youth personified—fresh and dainty as an opening rose, lovely as an artist's dream. The secret of her fascination is a distinct air, an exclusive style—SHE KNOWS HOW TO DRESS.

For attractive clothes make all the difference in the world. We are all judged by appearances. So it's a duty as well as a delight to be beautifully attired.

"The House of Youth" Suits for Misses and Small Women are finer than any anything ever created at home or abroad. They convey an irresistible charm of exclusive beauty, daintiness and grace.

FRESHMEN WIN BRONZE CAT OVER SOPHOMORES

BOTH STUNTS EXCELLENT.

Freshmen Have Jubilee.

Go tell the Sophomores,
Go tell the Sophomores,
Go tell the Sophomores,
The Freshmen got the cat!

Yes, those Freshmen nabbed the bronze kitty, the coveted feline around whose neck is fastened a collar with five little silver bells bearing the numerals of the classes who have succeeded in winning Her Majesty's favor. What rivalry her charms have excited! What deadly feuds have raged between the opposing factions, each bent on winning her! Only once in her career, before the memorable date of October 2, 1920, has she deigned to smile indulgently upon the Freshmen. But now—once more she sits with complacent smirk, enthroned in the midst of the adoring Freshmen.

How did it happen? If you came to the contest of wits last Saturday night, you know how it happened. Long before the hour set for the performance, the colonnade was packed with the throng who had come to enjoy our annual "stunt night." And when the chapel doors finally were opened, everyone knew there would be no disappointment, for the attractive decorations bore witness to the cleverness and originality of both classes.

The posts on the Sophomore side of the chapel were gayly turned with their class colors black and gold—these colors also adorned the walls. On the Freshman side the class color scheme was carried out with streamers on the windows and black cats on the wall. Hardly were the people seated when in trooped the Freshmen, supported by a vanguard of loyal Juniors, all singing "Hail, Freshmen, Hail!" After them came the Sophomores, followed by their beloved Senior sisters who cheered them on to the fray. Such songs and such yells, as preceded the "ringing up" of the curtain.

A vigorous "shoo" suddenly silenced the enthusiasts, and the curtains parted, revealing a most attractive garden, trim and well kept with a low brick wall dividing it through the center. On one side of the wall bloomed stately lilies, pansies, chrysanthemums and other flowers of culture and refinement, while just across the wall grew plain but useful vegetables—"onion strong as he can be," "take with eyes in the back of his head" and all their rural brethren.

It was quite evident from the conversation which ensued that the lowly vegetables were very much scorned by the haughty flowers, but they didn't seem to care, for they soon burst out in a rollicking song: "Bloomin' lot of vegetables are we, Fresh and green and short and lean we be."

The discussion was interrupted by the entrance of the mistress of the garden accompanied by her gardener with whom she is arguing about the placing of a sundial on which is reposing a black cat. The gardener was opposed to placing it among the flowers which would soon die, and they finally decided to wait and see which side of the garden would show the greatest beauty and development.

Act II showed a scene of bitter despair among the vegetables, for they realized their limitations. Into this scene of mourning crawled the worm of conceit, who offered a panacea for their troubles, but they scorn him and he slinks away into the flower garden.

Next morning the mistress and gardener came again, to find the flowers dead at their feet, cut down by

PRELIMINARY DEBATING SOON TO BEGIN

TRIANGULAR DEBATE BETWEEN A. S. C., S. N. C. AND R. M. C. BEING CONSIDERED.

Inter-Society Debate in?

Of course all we old girls remember the enthusiasm which was aroused over the inter-collegiate debate with Newcomb last year, and to the new girls it is something to look forward to as one of the most exciting happenings of the year. Although the Debating Council has not met this fall, the plan made last spring will be carried out as far as possible.

Before any inter-collegiate debates can be held, however, debates must be held in the two societies, so that the best debaters may ultimately be chosen. Probably the plans followed last year will be taken up again. A subject will be chosen for the first inter-society debate, then for a certain number of weeks beforehand debates will be held every Saturday night on that subject in the separate societies. The two best debaters will be chosen by the judges every time, until finally a team is selected from each society for the inter-society debate. Last year the debating cup was won by the Propyleans, and they will work as hard to keep it as the Mnemosyneans will to take it away from them. But nothing at all can be done unless a lively interest is shown in the society debates, and unless all who can possibly take part in the debates will do so, while those who cannot debate should encourage the others by their presence in enthusiasm.

The plans for the inter-collegiate debate are somewhat different from those of last year. There is possible to be a triangle debate, in which Sophie Newcomb, Randolph-Macon, and Agnes Scott are to be the participants. Randolph-Macon has not yet been heard from, but it is greatly to be desired that the plan, which is highly approved by our own debating council, should be taken up. The debate with Newcomb is to be held here, but if the plan is adopted there will be three debates on the same night at the three colleges. Our affirmative team will stay here and debate Newcomb's negative. Our negative will go to Randolph-Macon and debate the affirmative there, while Randolph-Macon's negative will go to Newcomb to debate the affirmative there. The debates will all be held the same night and the results will be telegraphed as soon as they are known.

It is most important from every standpoint that these inter-collegiate debates should be held for they will be a powerful factor in making Agnes Scott known throughout the South; for the area included in the triangle is practically that of the state from which most of our girls come, where Agnes Scott is already known and will by this means become better known. It will also carry news of Agnes Scott to territory where it is not so well known, and will generally increase interest and enthusiasm for its plans and growth. Considering this it is essential that every girl should do her best to uphold the plans of the debating council: not only take part in the debates herself, but urge and encourage others to do so, and in this way help to build up for Agnes Scott the reputation for having the best collegiate debaters in the South. Other colleges will judge us by our debaters and it is most important that we should be able to stand their criticism without any fear of falling short of their expectations.

Republican Convention In Miniature Held At Agnes Scott

LODGE'S KEY-NOTE SPEECH FORCEFUL.

Heated Political Arguments.

The miniature Republican Convention, first of a series of political meetings, was held at Agnes Scott College the evening of Wednesday the sixth, nineteen-twenty. The chapel, convening place of the convention, was crowded to its utmost capacity by present and future voters, who came to be amused and remained to be instructed.

The speakers all wore caps and gowns, to impress the audience, it is supposed. Of course a prominent part was played by a huge pitcher of ice water which refreshed the delegates from time to time with its sparkling liquescence, and by a croquet mallet which, as a gavel, was needed to quell the enthusiastic acclamations of all present.

Miss Frances Charlotte Markley, as Senator Lodge, was speaker of the evening, and chairman of the convention. The nominating speech for Harding was made by Miss Eleanor Carpenter, an ardent citizen of Louisville, Ky. Miss Carpenter opened our eyes to many hitherto unrecognized virtues of our Republican candidate for the Presidency. Miss Cama Burgess in an impassioned and fiery discourse, nominated Major General Leonard Wood for President, and her speech was received with wild applause, for a war hero is always popular with the ladies, and the ladies at this convention far outnumbered the gentlemen present. Miss Helen Hall was loud in the praises of her candidate, Lowden, to whom she gave such shining qualities that all the delegates almost changed their votes. Miss Rachel Rushton, one of our ardent suffragists, moved the entire body to tears one moment and to smiles, not to mention laughter, the next. Miss Nell Buchanan gave the report of the Republican platform and was received with much display of emotion.

The Miniature Republican Convention was such a success that Agnes Scott is going to hold an Open Forum for discussions of political events twice a month, with a view to promoting the knowledge and understanding of its students along po-

BLACKFRIAR PLAY HUGE SUCCESS

"As You Like It" Draws Large Crowd.

Last Saturday night was marked by another display of local dramatic talent. The Blackfriars gave the long deferred play, which inclement weather prevented them from producing last commencement. They chose the even slope of lawn in front of Dr. Gaines' house, where so many Shakespearean plays have been effectively given, as the setting of "As You Like It." The performance began promptly at eight-thirty o'clock, and a large crowd came out to take advantage of the opportunity of seeing another Blackfriar success.

The entire caste was at its best Saturday night. Marguerite Cousins, in the role of Rosalind, was charming, and Lois McIntyre, a graduate of the class of '20, played with her usual cleverness in the portrayal of Celia. As Orlando, Sarah Fulton made an excellent lover; while Rachel Rushton did splendid work in her interpretation of LeBeau. Sarah Till surpassed her already excellent reputation gained in her interpretation of the court fool, in the intellectual and cynical Touchstone, while Frances Charlotte Markley delighted the audience as William, the country clown. However, Emma Jones as Audrey, drew all eyes. This popular member of the class of '17 had a reputation back of her which will always insure her a warm reception at Agnes Scott, and as a Blackfriar, she cannot be excelled.

The entire cast was:
Rosalind Marguerite Cousins
Celia Lois McIntyre
Orlando Sarah Fulton
Jaques Rhea King
Audrey Emma Jones
Duke Frederick Fannie McCaa
Banished Duke ... Charlotte Keisler
LeBeau Rachel Rushton
Touchstone Sarah Till
Amiens Margaret McLaughlin
William Frances C. Markley
Phoebe Anne Hart
Corin Marion Cawthorn

litical lines, for now that women have the vote, they must face the problems which men have been facing alone. In fact, women, having up to this time, been only the power behind the throne, are now the power on the throne of our country's politics.

NEW HOASC MEMBERS ANNOUNCED

Charlotte Bell, Peggy Bell, Aimee Glover, Ellen Wilson Chosen.

An unusual air of excitement reigned in chapel Saturday morning, indicating that something very unusual was about to happen. For one thing, Frances Charlotte was not seen in her regular place, which in itself, was a sufficient cause for wonder to those who know her habits.

As "Ancient of Days" pealed forth from the organ, everyone rose, for the old girls knew, and the Freshmen were soon to know, that when Mr. Hickman plays, that something special is going to happen. Amid much excited whispering, our own Emma Jones, who is back with us, after her interesting work with Miss Cady, rose to tell us again the honor it brings to a girl to become a member of such an organization and to tell the Freshmen something of its foundation and its aims. The standard by which a girl is judged, before becoming a member of Hoasc, has never been made, but the girls who have proven themselves worthy are those girls who, forgetting self, and the honor they might gain for themselves, have put the best that is in them, into the work which has been assigned them. Always ready and willing to undertake the hard things, and working only for the glory of their Alma Mater. The members of Hoasc, then, are just about the finest girls ever, and are girls of which we may well be proud.

And then, while we were all fairly holding our breath in suspense, awaiting the announcement, Emma drew forth a folded slip and without further preliminaries, read the following as the ones on whom the honor had been conferred:

Charlotte Bell.
Peggy Bell.
Ellen Wilson.
Aimee D. Glover.

She had scarcely uttered the last word, when pandemonium broke loose, everyone hugging somebody else, because they could not get anywhere near the four high and mighty ones, declaring that they knew all along that those four girls would be taken in, that they hadn't a doubt in the world of it, and that they were so glad that Hoasc had sense enough to be of the same opinion. At last, however, order was again restored, while the old Hoasc members marched out of chapel, prouder than ever of the organization which they so ably represent.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

READ THE NEWSPAPERS.

Girls, do you realize what a great responsibility has been conferred upon us in the 19th amendment to the Constitution of the United States? We all have our share in our government, and it is our duty to help make it the best sort of government possible. It is true that some of us didn't care for the privilege of casting our ballot, but now that the privilege of voting has been thrust upon all alike, it is everyone's duty to prepare herself to make the best use of her vote.

In the years that have gone by, not feeling any particular responsibility in the affairs of State, the majority of women have been prone to pay little attention to them, and to devote their time wholly to domestic problems. That day has passed, when we can ignore those things, and we, as college women, are bound to be leaders in the woman's political world.

Now, how can we best prepare ourselves to meet our new responsibility? We can't make speeches on the street corners—nobody wants us to. Many of us are not old enough to vote. But our time is surely coming. We can make ourselves acquainted, through the newspapers and current magazines, with the affairs of the government, and with the opinions of great statesmen. We can know the ideals of our party and the character of the candidates.

Let us make a resolution to find a half an hour of each day in which to read the newspaper. The library is full of them, entirely for our own benefit. Learn something about the candidates, and make yourself able to express an intelligent opinion. This is our duty, to our nation, to our college, and to ourselves.

QUIET DURING CHAPEL.

There seem to be a few things that girls just can't remember to do, in spite of insistent and constant reminders. One of those things is to be quiet in chapel.

This is something that seems to be a little thing, but it shows a certain thoughtlessness, a certain lack of reverence in God's house, that ought to be corrected. Dr. Gaines has appealed to the students, Margaret has announced reminder after reminder, and Jane has made a most eloquent plea for silence during our morning service.

Yet the noise goes on.

Girls, what are we going to do about it? Don't you think that we can remember not to talk and laugh for just fifteen minutes of every day? Can't we be reverent and quiet during this one short period of worship?

STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEWS

FIRST OPEN MEETING.

The first open meeting of Student Government was held Tuesday night, and proved to be most valuable. Many questions which had bothered the girls were brought up and discussed, and the enthusiasm manifested was indicative of true college spirit.

It was decided that it was hardly fair to underclassmen rooming with Seniors not to allow them to use the lights after ten o'clock, and therefore they are allowed to use lights for other purposes than studying until eleven.

Noise.

Noise in the dining room has been noticeably disturbing lately, and the girls were asked please to be more quiet.

Group Meetings.

Group meetings were held in the different dormitories on Wednesday night, at which representatives of Student Government and Y. W. C. A. told the new girls more about the workings of these two organizations, and answered any questions which the Freshman wanted to ask.

Time limit is to be 5:45.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE BEING CONSIDERED.

As Newcomb chose the subject last year, it's up to us this time, so let's all be looking around for material, and prepare to discuss it in our society debates. Come on, Freshmen, and old girls too!—don't be bashful, for perhaps you may be one of the inter-collegiate debaters and help us to beat Sophie Newcomb and Randolph-Macon too!

FRESHMAN COMMISSION APPOINTED.

Do you know what the Freshman Commission is? If you will stop long enough to think about the size of the Freshman class, and how new to most of its members are the workings and the ideals of a college Y. W. C. A., you will realize the problem for which the Freshman Commission is the solution. It consists of forty Freshmen, chosen for their influence and for their location on the campus. Once a month the president of Y. W. meets with them to discuss the work of the Association in general, and any specific problems which they want to bring up.

The president tries in these meetings to give them the spirit of the Y. W. C. A., in order that they in their daily contact with the other members of their class may transmit to them what they have gained. A place on the Freshman Commission, therefore, is an important one, entailing a big responsibility. Those who are asked to serve should realize how great an opportunity is theirs.

For this year the following girls have been appointed:

Freshman Commission—Dick Scandrett, Margaret Griffin, Nancy Evans, Nell Brandon, Evelyn Byrd, Ruth Craig, Kathleen Davy, Clyde Cassmore, Weenona Peck, Birdie Rice, Claudia Sentell, Hester Stephens, Elizabeth Epps, Mary Frances Gilleland, Augusta Guerry, Cora Morton, Hattie May Jennings, Margaret Mc-

Dow, Evelyn King, Jeannette Laubrum, Mary Evelyn Arnold, Frances Young, Thelma Gordon, Cornelia Archer, Barron Wyatt, Victoria Howit, Reba Vinnegge, Ruth deSouche, Mary Nicholes, Charlotte McMurray, Lewis Murchison, Gwynne Cannon, Elizabeth Dabney, Elizabeth Houston, Elizabeth Henry, Minnie Allen, Helen Crocker, Elma Swaney, Margaret Powell, Lucy Oliver, Sidney Morton, Martha Phillips.

ERROR LAST WEEK.

A mistake was made last week in saying that Agnes Scott would have a new basis of membership in the Y. W. C. A. this year. This amendment has been widely adopted; but here, where most of the girls are church members, and one who is not has never been nominated to hold office in the organization, a change did not seem necessary. By making membership mean more definitely this year than ever before, however, a personal allegiance to Jesus Christ, we expect to gain all the benefits which are claimed for the new basis.

AGNES SCOTT LEADERS.

Miss Brace, the Girls' Work Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Atlanta, is giving Agnes Scott girls this year a chance to help in one of the most interesting fields of Y. W. work. The teen-age girls of Atlanta's schools are to be organized into Girl Reserve clubs. There will be about twenty girls in each club. The leader meets with them once a month to play games, or hike, or give a program. Besides the club meetings there are committee meetings at which plans are made, so that the work takes one afternoon a week.

This working with girls offers experience to those who are thinking of undertaking Y. W. C. A. or social service work; opportunity to those who want to feel now that they are doing some unselfish work in the world; and a special course in the study of human nature to those who have recently tried out for Folio and B. O. Z.

Most of the girls from here will have clubs in the forty grade schools of Atlanta. Those who have volunteered are Althea Stephens, Francis Whitfield, Helen Faw, Maude Foster, Ellen Wilson, Eugenia Johnston, Pearl Smith, Emma Herman, Mary Hewlett, Lois Polhill, Laura Belle Stubbs, Elizabeth Floding, Lucille Little, Eloise Knight, Helen Barton, Lilburn Ivy, Frances Harper, Ruth Pirkle, Jean McAlister, Margaretta Womelsdorf, Margaret Yeager, Virginia Ordway, Laura Oliver, Rachel Rushton, Emma Ficklin, Mary Mann, Mary George Kincannon, Frances Arant.

SOMETHING NEW.

Anything that occupies a square yard of space in the mail room is bound to be looked at. That is what the Y. W. C. A. realized; and so it put up its new bulletin board there. Startling and interesting facts will be posted there, new ones every week. If you don't want to miss something, you'd better keep your eyes open.

FRESHMEN! HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

Sophomores Are in the Shade When it Comes to Folio.

Ever since you have been at Agnes Scott haven't you felt somewhat insignificant? When you first found that you were really going to college you felt like one of the "big men" of the country—fully capable of doing anything set before you. But after a week at Agnes Scott your sentiments changed just a little, and by the time Sophomore week was over, you were convinced that you were a mere ant of the ground.

But now all those first stages of homesickness and "rattin'" are over, and if you will come out for the Folio Club you will have a very great send off to becoming a "big man" in the community. So come on and make a brave attempt just to revenge a Sophomore or two—if nothing else.

The Folio Club is composed of Freshmen, but the Sophomores will remain in until Christmas, when things are organized. The usual number for this club is eight, but of course, all good material is wanted, so there is no restriction as to the number. That is good news, so girls, sit up and take notice.

As Mrs. Dieckmann is not living on the campus this year the meetings will be held in the rooms of the different members. It is reported that the whole Freshman class is good at theme writing, so come on out for Folio—which is not compulsory work, but purely for the enjoyment one finds in doing it.

RUTH HALL. NEW SONG LEADER.

Wednesday morning after chapel services Ruth Hall was elected the new song leader.

Charlotte Keisler, who was elected for this position last year, resigned, leaving the place vacant. The students were very much disappointed because Charlotte could not keep the position, since she had filled it so ably last year, but we feel that in Ruth she has a most worthy successor.

The fire chiefs for the different dormitories were also elected a few days ago. For Rebecca, Augusta Brown; Inman, Eunice Dean, and in Main, Julia Watkins.

costume effects*

THE first shipment of New Fall Blouses to reach us for several weeks arrived yesterday, bringing to us the most wonderful creations we have seen. Georgette and Satin Blouses, Blouses of Taffeta, made with the new low neck especially to complete the Suit Costume and to give it the touch of exclusive smartness for which Fashion's Devotees strive.

There are many styles, too many to describe in detail here, but of one or two we simply must speak. One a ravishingly beautiful creation in Orient Satins, trimmed with Georgette in Aztec shade and with Chenille embroideries of Black and Aztec, truly a delight to the eye. Another of Navy Taffeta, resembling the illustration in this announcement, which has an embroidered motif which includes Hindu, Purple and White and Aztec, so arranged as to form a color harmony reminding one of the age-worn shadings to be seen as the sunset floods of the rooves and minarets of some Persian town.

Still another is developed from Georgette in Zanzibar with the darker Rio shade of Brown used in the embroidery.

A charming array, coming to us at a most opportune moment.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

Dearest Aggie:

Whoops, m'dear! it's only fifty-four days 'till Christmas and I'm so thrilled I can hardly think. But gee! coming to think about it, fifty-four days is quite a while, isn't it? On second thought I don't believe I'm so thrilled after all. Thanksgiving is nearer any way, so I'll just concentrate on having a grand time then—if anyone comes.

But some folks don't have to wait until Thanksgiving for their beaux to come to see them—witness, Peg. "Bill" is certainly coming sometime this month, so Peg isn't losing any time in telling all the Inman girls about what "a wonderful boy" he really is 'n everything. He isn't the only boy who is being discussed by fair Inman damsels, for there's Jim, you see. Yes, Marjorie's new Tech beau, and from her description, he must be some youth. (Don't tell any one, but she wears his S. A. E. frat pin.) Isn't that perfectly romantic? And she's so young, too.

But speaking of popular young ladies, no one has a thing on a couple of Freshmen who are dated up for—let's see—six weeks I think, Helen said and her roommate, Mary Kelley, gets five letters each mail and at least three boxes of candy a week. Think of it! And here I was congratulating myself on my sample box of "Wiley's best." That's all right, when I graduate I'll bet someone will send me a box of candy—maybe.

Lois McC. had a birthday this week and I hear that all of her friends are blessing the name of "Reid" for his good taste in selecting Allegretti's. Some fellows "say it with flowers," that's why Virginia P. sported several dozen gorgeous roses the other day. She had a birthday, too.

By the way, I wonder why so many girls have been going to the North Avenue Presbyterian church every Sunday. Of course, it's a nice ride out there, but lots of other churches are just as far out, if not—. Say, do you reckon it's on account of that Tech bunch who adorn the back rows of the balcony every morning? But no, I don't suppose that's it. Anyway, it's a mighty nice church.

You know how "third floor Main" is always doing something? Well, it—I mean the girls there—are all bobbing their hair—at least six have already appeared with shorn locks and a guilty look, which seems to say, "Just wait 'till I hear from the family!" Isn't that just like Main?

Write to me soon and meanwhile don't do anything I wouldn't do.

Yours, (until someone else wants me). GIDDIE.

P. S.—"You tell 'em, rouge, my lip sticks."

NEW MATH. PROF. FROM U. OF VA.

Likes Agnes Scott and Georgia.

The question of new faculty members is always a question of interest as well as of information to college girls, and so at A. S. C. the question of who the new Mathematics Professor would be has proved a much debated matter since the opening day. And now the new addition to our faculty is here.

His name is Mr. H. L. Painter, and he hails from the good State of Virginia, from Charlottesville, to be exact, and he is an A. B. and an M. E.

His A. B. degree he received at Hampden Sidney College, near Farmville, Virginia, and he received his M. E. from the University of Virginia in 1918.

Mr. Painter seems to like A. S. C., in fact he says that he "is charmed with Agnes Scott and regrets that his stay is to be only temporary," a regret that we share with him. But we are glad he likes A. S. C.—of course he just couldn't help liking it—and we hope that he will continue to do so whether his stay is, as he says, only temporary, or of longer duration.

BLACKFRIAR TRYOUTS OCTOBER 20.

Blackfriar try-outs are still indefinite and, so far, Miss Gooch has been unable to announce the list of plays which may be chosen for this testing of our budding dramatic ability.

The 20th of October has been set for the beginning of the try-outs, and this will be a red-letter day on our college calendar. Then it is that we discover in our midst fair Juliets and impetuous Romeos. Then it is that we see our corridors converted into stages whereon stride lords and ladies, soliloquizing over their banished lovers, and crushed hopes. For several weeks before the 20th an open tramsom or partly closed door emit sounds of passion and tragic farce—

"Fie, how my bones do ache." "Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo?" "Get you to your lord; I can not love him!"

And these sounds are veritable proof of a joyful few who, when the agony is over, find themselves proudly acclaimed a "Blackfriar."

Mary—"What a high color Beth has!"

Jane—"Of course it's high! It has gone up like everything else."

TEDDY TEA-HOUND.

If you wish Teddy to help you, he will gladly answer any question sent to him in Box 21 before noon on Tuesday.

Dear Squeak:

I am sure the young man loves you if you get four letters and a special every day. I wouldn't worry about hearing so seldom. He is probably very busy with his studies.

Sincerely,

T. T. H.

SERBIAN STUDENT'S ARRIVAL POSTPONED INDEFINITELY.

At last, after three weeks of waiting, we have definite news concerning the arrival of Zorka Petrovitch, the Serbian girl who was to have been a student here this year. She has been indefinitely detained in Paris by the illness of a relative, and may not be able to come to Agnes Scott this year.

We are all very much disappointed and hope that things can be arranged so that Zorka can come over some time during the winter and take up her studies with us at the beginning of the second semester.

The Sophomore Class.

The Worm of Conceit—Augusta Cannon, Priscilla Parker, Mary Collay.

The ear-splitting applause that broke out at the conclusion of this clever stunt was certainly well merited, for rarely do we find such absolute originality of idea in the various performances given here, and we take off our hats to the originator of the "Bloomin' Stunt."

During a short intermission, the Freshman class was presented with a sum of money which they had contributed to a very needy(?) cause, that of raising a canopy over the sundial (said funds collected by the energetic Sophomores!)

After appreciative applause by parties chiefly concerned, the curtain was again drawn back, this time showing the sumptuously appointed court of King Senior. The situation in his kingdom was explained by his courtiers who hailed him thus:

Once a king of great fame
King Senior his name
Ruled o'er the land of Agnes Scott.
Queen Junior was his bride,
She stayed right by his side,
And kept him on his good behavior.
Sons they had only two,
And what they did do,
You soon shall know—
Prince Kleverus was worthy a ruler to be,
Prince Silius had not the sense of a flea.

But now—come on with the show.
It was not hard to see that things were the very pleasantest in the world for the king for his wife constantly reproves him in none too gentle terms for flirting with Mlle. Diploma, and also for over indulgence in chocolate tans. She is infuriated to learn that he has been to the barber without her permission, even though he reminds her that the law of the land allows him a "light cut" every now and then.

The king now announces his plan of giving his kingdom to the son who brings home the fairest bride, a year and a day from the present time.

Curtain.

One year later we find Prince Kleverus in the gloomy forest of "shoo trees," despondent over his failure to secure a bride and because he is constantly pursued by grits which have followed him all year. He determines to take the first thing that enters the forest and quits the hateful place. At that moment in rushes a little black cat pursued by a tea-hound. The jester summons an anni-mule and with the Prince's help the black cat is carried out of the forest on the anni-mule's back.

Curtain.

A year and a day later, Prince Kleverus has not returned and King Senior is on the point of surrender.

ing his crown to Prince Silius, who has brought as his bride Freshman, clad in angel-robe and pigtails. At the last moment the page announces the arrival of Prince Kleverus, who dejectedly brings in the bag containing the black cat. To the utter astonishment of the court the cat is transformed into a princess of surpassing beauty who wins the heart of Prince Kleverus and also the kingdom of King Senior.

BRANCH OF ATLANTA FRENCH ALLIANCE TO BE FORMED AT AGNES SCOTT

MME. SLIFER TO HELP CON-DUCT MEETINGS.

Meetings Every Two Weeks.

On parle francais ici! This is proven by the Alliance Francaise soon to be formed here at college. There is a French club in Atlanta whose members, some of them from Agnes Scott, have organized an Alliance, a branch of an international French society. Because we find it difficult to attend these meetings in Atlanta, an Alliance is to be revived here in addition to the one in Atlanta.

This Alliance is to meet for an hour twice a month and at one of these meetings a French woman known to us all as Mme. Slifer, will lecture. To hear a native French woman speak will train the ears and be good for one's accent, even though one may fail to understand a few of the things she says, and Mme. Slifer's pronunciation is truly beautiful. The other meeting will be informal, in whose discussions all may take part.

The meetings are to be conducted entirely in French. The president will make her remarks in French; the secretary will give her reports in French; and the members of the club will air their opinions and their French at the same time. A better opportunity for learning, outside of the classroom, to think in French, and to speak French "Frenchly" could not be found at college.

The officers are to be elected from the girls. A committee of delegates from the different classes has been chosen to arrange meetings and nominate officers. Those comprising this committee are Victoria Howie, representing French 0 classes; Pearl Smith, representing French I, and Margaret Hay, representing French 2. The officers elected will necessarily be from the higher classes.

Interest in this Alliance runs high; all are urged to join and with the pleasure derived from the meetings, acquire a knowledge of French that will be invaluable on that trip abroad.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED.

Victoria Howie New President.

At a very interesting meeting of the Freshman class in the chapel Thursday night after prayer, the class was organized and officers chosen for the coming year. Frances Young, who was temporary chairman of the class, with the aid of the Junior president, presided over the meeting.

This was the first important assembly of the class and after an enthusiastic discussion, the following officers were elected: Victoria Howie, president; Frances Young, vice-president; Ella Louise Landress, secretary and treasurer.

A rising vote of thanks was given Frances Young for her work towards "Stunt Night" and to Sidney Morton for serving as temporary cheer leader. Being an irregular, Sidney was unable to continue in that office. Nancy Evans and Elmer Swaney were elected as our future cheer leaders and we are expecting great things of them at the Soph-Freshman hockey game Saturday afternoon.

The elections were met with hearty applause and now that the class has been fully organized, the Freshmen's one hope is to live up to the ideals and traditions of their Alma Mater and thus become a more efficient unit of Agnes Scott.

STUDENTS HOLD MEMORIAL FOR MISS ANNA YOUNG

PRESIDENT OF Y. W. C. A.
MAKES THE TALK.

On last Wednesday morning during the chapel period, the students assembled for a memorial service for Miss Anna Young. The girls came in quietly, and on the face of each was written awe and solemnity, mingled with sorrow.

Ellen Wilson led the service, and after the scripture reading, Margaret McLaughlin sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Never have the girls felt closer to each other, for during that hour we were all sisters bound together by the tie of a common sorrow.

After the song, Janef Preston in her simple straight forward manner, made more eloquent by her own emotion, talked to us.

"One Sweetly Solemn Thought" has indeed come to us again and again during all these days we have been back at college, the thought that at this time last year Miss Anna Young was with us and that today she has gone away. We have missed her more than we can talk about. We have grieved for her and felt that nobody could ever take her place among us. Because she belonged to us and we to her, because we loved her and have sorrowed for her, we have gathered here this morning as a group of her girls to hold this quiet service of loving remembrance.

We remember how many years of her life she gave to Agnes Scott; for she was not only a graduate but was for many years head of the department of mathematics. We remember how much our college owes to her—how much of her life was spent in service to her Alma Mater. We remember especially how she worked for the endowment of the college, and how dear to her was the dream of seeing a bigger and more splendid Agnes Scott, a college devoted to the education of Christian womanhood and the building of Christian character. We remember what a friend she was to every organization on the campus and how we counted upon her advice and encouragement in everything we wanted to undertake.

We are remembering most of all what she meant to us as individuals; how patient she was with us and how her vision kept us striving upward. We never knew a person who so had her gift of "seeing in the secret of every soul the hidden gleam of a perfect life." She believed in us; and her trust helped us to become what she believed we could become. We know that we can never forget that her inner life shone out with such persuasive power that it revealed to others the light of the knowledge of God. The secret of her life as we knew her was self-forgetting love;

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE! DRILLS START WITH EN- THUSIASM.

New Chief Appointed.

Fire drills, which in the past have always seemed to come just at that moment in the night when one's senses are deliciously tickled by a pleasant drowsiness and when sleep is the most desirable thing on the campus,—yes, these same fire drills, are giving promise of great things for the future.

Our new chief and her corps of assistants have been working out their plans for this year and their minds have evolved the idea of campus drills which will be given during daylight hours. Just imagine yourself in a class, sitting on the proverbial pins and needles, with the teacher preparing to make you her next victim and then, quite suddenly, there comes the shrill cry of the whistle calling everyone to a campus fire drill.

This new scheme will be given a trial soon; and the co-operation of every student is needed to insure its success. Dr. Gaines considers the fire department one of the most important organizations in the college and he urges that absolute promptness be observed at all drills. Careful attention to rules and regulations is essential if this phase of college activities is to uphold the high standard of efficiency which is characteristic of Agnes Scott.

This year, for the first time, the fire department will be wholly under the Student Government organization. A formal constitution is being drawn up, and all penalties for violation of rules will be handled by Student Government. The fact that the strict observance of fire regulations will now be a part of our honor system should mean that every girl will do more to make fire drills the preventative measure which they are intended to be.

The fire department is represented in the different buildings by the following girls:

Inman Hall—Chief, Eunice Dean; first lieutenant, Beth McClure; second lieutenants, Frances Young; Quenelle Harrold, Sarah Till, Emily Guill, Ivan Girardeau, Josephine Gardner.

Chief of Bucket Brigade—Lilburn Ivey.

Members—Minnie Allen, Sarah Mathews, Concord Leak, Frances Stuart, Ruth Craig, Frances Amis.

Rebekah Scott—Chief, Augusta Brewer; first lieutenant, Cama Burgess; second lieutenants, Alice Whipple, Gena Callaway, Catherine Waterfield, Christine Evans, Margarette Womelsdorf, Coma McGaskill, Margaret Hay, Jeanette Archer, Elizabeth Stroud, Anne Earl Farmer, Lucy Wooten, Pearl Smith.

MR. ORR SPEAKS AT AGNES SCOTT

BRINGS WITH HIM "UNCLE BILLY" WITHAM.

Receive Hearty Welcome.

Saturday morning Agnes Scott was startled out of its perpetual calm by the visit of Mr. J. K. Orr, known to all the old girls as Chairman of our Board of Trustees, and the wittiest speaker who comes to us. Mr. Witham, who accompanied Mr. Orr, was also welcomed, not only because he is Mr. Orr's friend, but because of his own interesting personality.

In his usual jovial manner Mr. Orr introduced Mr. Witham with the compliment that Mrs. Witham really thought him handsome. Like a good diplomat he added that if his friend were not already handsome he would get it by radiation from us. He and Mr. Witham are often mistaken for each other. Frequently Mr. Orr has been asked when he was going to open a bank in a certain town. He said he wondered if he were expected to do it with a jimmy, until he realized it was all due to his great likeness to Mr. Witham.

Not only, Mr. Orr says, do people desiring banks opened, come up to him, but Agnes Scott girls who have taken the degree of M.R.S. and who knew Mr. Orr in their school days here, often introduce themselves on the train and elsewhere.

In a more serious vein our speaker told of the hundreds of banks of which Mr. Witham had been president, and of the many girls whom he had helped through school. He then turned the speaking over to Mr. Witham, who showed himself his friend's equal in good-natured badinage. In fact he fully proved his statement that he was of Irish descent and so, heir to Irish wit. In the matter of looks he said he would leave it to us to judge if Mr. Orr had anything on him. He had suffered from mistaken identity also, having been asked when he would pay the two dollars he had owed for so long.

Very entertainingly he spoke of the many banks in which he used to employ a great number of boys and young men. If they did not have sufficient education he saw that they were schooled and then taught the business. Having guided them as far as a good competency, Mr. Witham's generosity extended as far as providing them with wives, graduates of the many schools in which he was interested. (Parenthetically he added that this assisted the young ladies in paying for their education, and that we should all want to go to one of his schools.)

In a graver tone, Mr. Witham told us of how he loved the one hundred and third psalm which we had just read and many others of the psalms.

MNEMOSYNEANS CHALLENGE PROPYLEANS

FIRST PRELIMINARY SATUR-DAY NIGHT.

Inter-Society Debate Dec. 3.

Are the debating societies dead? I should say not! They're rapidly becoming the liveliest things on the campus, especially since we're hoping and planning for an absolutely thrilling triangular debate with the other two leading women's colleges of the South, Sophie Newcomb and Randolph-Macon. We have rep, pep, and splendid material to work with. Each society has signed up a long list of girls who are going to debate in the preliminaries, and work toward the goal of the inter-society debate to be held December 3.

An entirely new plan has been adopted this year in both societies, that of giving a society pin to each girl who attends six meetings and debates once during the first semester or else attends twelve meetings during the year. This will certainly add interest and enthusiasm in attendance.

The Mnemosyneans have already challenged the Propyleans to a debate the first week in December, on the subject: Resolved: that in our present form of government, the leadership of the president is conducive to general welfare.

Next Saturday night the Propyleans will have had their first preliminary debate and we hope it will be attended with "pep" and a large crowd of members. The Mnemosyneans, have been obliged to postpone their first debate until next Saturday night, when they will take up the same question that will be threshed out by the Propyleans. Go to all the meetings and keep up with the activities of your society, for if the size of the list of volunteer debaters is indicative of motion, there will certainly be something doing from now on.

Mnemosynean Debaters.

B. O. Z. TAKES IN THREE NEW MEMBERS.

Stone, Enloe, E. Knight.

Wednesday night B. O. Z. came together for the big meeting of the year, the one in which tryouts are read. The club had three vacancies, and after much discussion of the stories submitted, Polly Stone, Elizabeth Enloe and Eloise Knight were selected as the girls to fill these vacancies.

B. O. Z. is about the most talked of thing on the campus this week, but all during the year it keeps itself before the public through the columns

BORROWING—DON'T GET THE HABIT.

It is so very easy to get into the habit of doing things that we oughtn't to do, that we should be always on our guard against the formation of bad habits. One of the easiest things to do—and one of the most dangerous—is that of borrowing. And sometimes, however shamed we may be to say it, we don't pay back.

Have you ever been awfully hungry between classes, and suddenly found out that you hadn't any money with you? Well, you borrowed a nickel from one of your friends, and you're not quite sure now whether you paid it back or not. And not long ago when you were in a hurry to get your letter off on the morning mail, you asked the girl next door to lend you a stamp, which you never returned.

These things in themselves are not of monumental importance, but they are examples of little carelessnesses that lead to greater things, and that may permit us to do something one day for which we may be genuinely sorry. Each of us wants to have a reputation for absolute integrity, and it is by our honor in little things that we are judged for big things.

If you do borrow and don't intend to pay back, don't say "Lend me;" say "Give me."

BUSY SIGNS ARE TO KEEP YOU OUT.

Girls, busy signs are not invitations to come in and pay a long visit, in spite of the idea that seems to be prevalent at Agnes Scott. They are polite, though decidedly broad, hints to stay out.

Each one of us knows how exasperating it is to have some one slip in in spite of a busy sign, saying "I'm sorry to come in over your sign, but etc., etc." Each individual girl seems to have the idea that the sign is supposed to keep everybody out except herself and that she is sufficiently favored to enter over it. This is not the truth, however, and it is to be hoped that the girls may realize this.

The rooms in the dormitories are not equipped with guns like the modern fort, in which we may defend ourselves from unwelcome intruders, nor yet with moats such as surrounded the mediaeval castles. Our only defense is The Busy Sign, and when The Busy Sign is disregarded, the girls are at a loss.

Don't go into a room over a busy sign, girls. Take the hint, and keep in the good graces of your friends.

THREE MINUTE TELEPHONE RULE.

It seems that the students at Agnes Scott do not fully understand the three minute rule for the use of the telephone.

Unfortunately, the telephone service here is very poor, but it is impossible for us to have more 'phones put in until necessary work in Atlanta has been finished. Until our system is improved, it devolves upon the girls to be as considerate as possible of other people, and to observe strictly the rules made for the use of the telephone.

It should be a point of honor with every girl in school, not to use the 'phone more than three minutes if some one else is waiting on it, and no girl should hesitate to report another for the breaking of this rule.

It exasperates every one to have to wait fifteen minutes on an important 'phone call. Be as considerate of others as you wish them to be of you.

BLUE TRIANGLE NEWS

HAVE YOU SIGNED UP YET?

A desire to do some sort of social service work lies in the heart of almost every Agnes Scott girl. For this reason the Y. W. C. A. has a social service department. Last Sunday night this department presented the different phases of its work through girls who had grown to love certain institutions while helping them last year.

There is the Wesley House, a sort of day nursery, where you can play with the children and teach them things. Then there is the Crippled Children's Home, where volunteers are especially needed to teach Sunday school classes on Saturday afternoon,—the only time the children can receive any religious instruction at all. There is the Decatur Orphans' Home, where you can teach the children games and tell them stories. There is the Home for the Friendless, where the little inmates need everything you can give them,—games, stories, and sewing lessons.

For those who are inexperienced in dealing with children, there is opportunity for service in the maids' Sunday school class. The Tabithas and Angelines are exceedingly interested, and extend an invitation to the students to visit them any Sunday morning. It is worth going out of your way to hear them sing.

The last appeal is one to which none can claim lack of talent or experience. It is for girls to go out to the Poor House and listen to the old people talk.

Many girls, new and old, have already signed up for one of these places. If you happen to be one who has not, tell Aimee D. Glover which place you want to go to.

THE Y. W. C. A. HAS COMPANY.

Last week-end Miss Katherine Lumpkin, the new Student Secretary for colleges, spent Saturday night and Sunday with the Cabinet. She met with them several times in conferences which were full of helpful suggestions, and pervaded by Miss Lumpkin's inspirational personality. In the Y. W. meeting Sunday night the entire student body was given a chance to know her.

OF STATE WIDE INTEREST.

Officers of the Georgia Union of the Student Volunteer Movement are enthusiastic over their plans for this year. A circular letter carries instructions to the leader of each of the 22 colleges in Georgia which have bands. This letter tells about the magazine they want to publish. It will contain letters from sailed volunteers, news of foreign fields, and accounts of local activities.

Two or three editions of the magazine will be published if possible before February, for then there is to be a big state convention, either at Bessie Tift or at G. N. I. C.

At this convention there is to be an exhibit made up of a hundred posters. These will be classified under the following heads: I. Needs by countries and by subjects; II. Forms of mission work; III. Effect of Christian missions; IV. Forward look in the different churches; V. Student mission activities.

Before the convention, the World Fellowship department of the Y. W. C. A. will give a pageant in each school; the best pageant given in Georgia will be repeated in the convention. The whole student body must back our Y. W. World Fellowship committee, in order that we may earn the honor of giving our pageant to the Georgia Union.

SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO.

Emory, Tech, Oglethorpe, and the Atlanta members of the Student Volunteer Union are going to meet with the Agnes Scott volunteers this year in the Mnemosynean Hall, probably the first Sunday in each month. The Union has between fifty and seventy-five members, and all who are interested are welcome as visitors.

There are to be two big open meetings, the first one probably Friday, November 19, at Wesley Memorial Church. There are to be twenty or thirty posters to advertise this meeting, some of which are already finished. The meeting will consist of talks by some of the leading members of the Atlanta Union, with special music led by a director who is going out in February.

Invitations will be extended to the young people of Atlanta through the B. Y. P. U.'s, Epworth Leagues, and Christian Endeavor Societies. Some of the girls from Agnes Scott, under the chaperonage of teachers, are going around to make some of the talks. An invitation to the college community will be given through the Y. W.

CHARLOTTE BELL LEAVES FOR RICHMOND.

Attends Y. W. C. A. Field Committee Meeting.

Last Saturday, October 9, Charlotte Belle left Agnes Scott for Richmond, Va., where she will attend the Y. W. C. A. field committee meeting. She was escorted down to the gate by the rest of us, who wished we could go too. But we cheered her wildly, anyway, and sent her on her way rejoicing.

She is one of the seven undergraduate representatives for the Southern Atlantic Field, who were chosen last summer at Blue Ridge. Not every Southern college has one of these representatives, so we feel very proud of A. S. C.

Richmond is very crowded at present, as it is fair week, so accommodations are hard to secure. We hear that the seven Southern delegates are going to share one room. It is to be hoped that seven cots will not use up all the floor space. However, as they are all college girls, and veterans of Blue Ridge conferences, when rooms are always crowded, they ought to be experienced "bunkers" under such conditions.

This field committee will be especially occupied in considering plans for a program of Christian citizenship during this year.

There is a greater honor, however, that has come to Charlotte, and consequently to A. S. C. This is that she has been elected by all the undergraduate delegates to represent the whole Southern field on the student committee of the National Y. W. C. A. Board at New York. This all goes to show not only what an important person Charlotte is, but also the splendid type of girls Agnes Scott fosters.

We know she will return with scores of new ideas for us and our Y. W. C. A., and everything will be "peppier" than ever. And now, let's give three cheers for the Y. W. C. A. in general and Charlotte Bell in particular.

B. O. Z. TAKES IN THREE NEW MEMBERS.

of the Aurora. The whole student body can not belong to B. O. Z. but at least we can read the club's best stories whenever the Aurora comes out. The first issue has already gone to press, but we are hoping to see the successful B. O. Z. tryouts in the second issue.

JANICE BROWN AND ELIZABETH ASKEW NEW FOLIO MEMBERS.

Another Tryout to be Held After Christmas.

The Tryouts for Folio were read Monday afternoon and as two of the stories submitted came up to the required standard the club has sent out notices of membership to the two lucky authors, Elizabeth Askew and Janice Brown.

The trouble with most of the tryouts was that they were too much like moving pictures and magazine stories, and not enough like a Freshman's own experiences. Folio wants stories of the every-day things that happen to us—our friends and roommates, escapades, home-folks, and romances, if we are lucky enough to have any. There is no use running off to Australia or Lapland for a plot when there are plenty right here on the campus if we only look for them.

The seven Sophomore members of Folio will stay in the club until the mid-year tryouts, and then after the new members are selected that time, they are automatically dropped from the club roll.

HOCKEY STARTS OFF WITH A VIM

GIRLS START DIETING

Junior vs. Senior and Soph. vs. Freshmen Games Saturday.

Hockey is the most popular sport at Agnes Scott just now. Enthusiasm is just about equally divided among the classes, though the Senior class has the largest number of attendance at practice.

Training season began with the selection of the teams and the rules are the same as usual, no eating between meals, except fruit, no pastry or sodas and no candy except within a half hour after meals. The teams have signed the pledge, and many of the girls who didn't make the teams but who are interested in hockey, have signed as well. Dr. Sweet predicts fewer colds, better complexions and slimmer figures as a result of this enforced moderation. "Down with Chocolate Tans" is the watchword of the hockey players who are in training.

The hockey season was given a good send-off by the double-header game at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The field back of the Library rivalled the Lyric for once, when the Juniors and Seniors, the Freshmen and Sophomores fought the initial fight of the 1920-21 session. The team work was good for so early in the season and we hope that hockey will continue to be as popular all year.

The following girls have been chosen for the hockey teams:

Freshman.

C. F., M. McDowell; L. I., V. Howie; R. I., M. Johnson; L. W., E. Dabney; R. W., E. Swaney; C. H., W. Peck; L. H., N. Evans; R. H., A. Thomas; L. F., L. Oliver; R. F., L. Murchison; G., M. Allen.

Subs—C. Callaway, F. Young, E. Peck, A. Meade.

Sophomores.

C. F., H. McConnell; L. I., N. Campbell; R. I., M. Sellers; L. W., M. Hay; R. W., V. Posey; C. H., B. McClure; L. H., E. Guille; R. H., E. Knight; L. F., C. Targuhar; R. F., M. Brenner; G., M. Goodrich.

Subs—G. Samuels, E. Hyde, M. Womelsdorf.

Juniors.

C. I., M. Knight; L. T., O. Stephens; R. I., E. Ware; L. W., J. Kelly; R. W., F. Harper; C. H., S. Malone; L. H., L. Ivey; R. H., E. Wilson; L. I., L. Murchison; R. F., A. Whipple; G., R. Virden.

and Julia Abbot was out here also for a few days. To most of the girls out here, Mrs. Gifford's visit didn't mean much, but we were all delighted to see "Blanche Copeland," especially since she brought Hattie May Finney out with her.

Alumnae, we're always glad to see you, and we hope you'll come back often.

POPULAR ALUMNA MARRIED.

Ruth Anderson Marries Alan O'Neal.

An event of interest to the college community was the marriage of Ruth Anderson to Mr. Alan O'Neal last week.

Ruth Anderson is an Alumna of Agnes Scott College, and was president of Y. W. C. A. during the year 1917-18. The students of Agnes Scott wish her great happiness.

DR. ARMISTEAD HONORED BY DECATUR U. D. C.

At a meeting of the U. D. C.'s in Decatur a short time ago, it was voted that Dr. Armistead had conducted the most interesting meeting of the year.

The Decatur U. D. C. is divided into committees, each of which is responsible for one meeting during the year. Naturally there is great rivalry between the different committees, as each one tries to have the prettiest decorations and the most interesting program. At the end of the year a vote is taken to see which committee has had the best meeting.

This year the vote favored the meeting at which Dr. Armistead was the speaker. His subject was Stone-wall Jackson, and it was handled in such a way that the ladies on that committee unite in saying it was Dr. Armistead who won the vote for their program.

And therefore, dearest darling,
I fear I can't be thine."
"Forsooth, my dear, consider,"
The boy laughed, "Ha, Ha!
I have no cause to worry,
For I drink through a straw."

A BUSINESS MATTER.

2nd Pickpocket—Oh, it's picking up.

A bank cashier preferred to give new, crisp money when checks were cashed. One day, a school teacher came in to cash her salary check. At that time the cashier was completely out of the new bills. He said: "Miss Smith, do you mind a few germs and microbes? I haven't any new money!"
"Oh, that's perfectly all right. There isn't a microbe or a germ in existence that could live on my salary."

FREE VERSE.

(It don't cost anything.)

A Fresh one day last night,
Sat standing on his side,
The room was dark with electric light,
And he slept awake while he cried.

A deaf Soph heard his joyful wail,
And slowly hurried to his aid,
The open door he soon unlocked,
and saw what the dumb Fresh said:

"I have a toothache in my foot,
The colic in my ear,
I've lain on my back till my front is sore,
And I can't smell all that I hear."

So standing there in his bed of woe,
He laughed his pitiful cry,
And taking a handkerchief in his toe,
He wiped a sneeze from his eye.

The Y. W. C. A. at Davidson College is soon to open in the gym building a room equipped with magazines, books, victrola and piano; it is to be a social center as well as reading room.

Twenty-five years ago Dr. J. B. Shearer organized the little church known as Shearer Chapel, about four miles east of Davidson College. There on Sunday afternoon certain members of the student body conduct services. It is a great factor for good in the community and the work of the students is deeply appreciated by the people.—Davidsonian (N. C.)

There are still a number of girls on the campus who have not lost their appreciative eye for the beautiful. Their methods of hair-dressing are simple: Merely tangle every hair on the head, until it stands up as far as human eye can reach, then spread a hair net over the mass, and pin lightly in three or four places with invisible hairpins.—The Spectator, M. S. C. W., Columbus, Miss.

ALUMNAE

ALUMNAE VISITORS HEARTILY WELCOMED.

You get discouraged and disgusted with life in general sometimes—don't you? An awfully good time for this terrible malady to attack you is when you are hungry and tired—and think perhaps you "flunked" the math test of a few hours before.

Well, do cheer up! Don't ever make this remark, "I swear if I ever get out of this place, I'll never come back." In the first place, it's very bad form to swear, and in the second place it is not right to go back on your word when you've once sworn it. Because you are SURE to go back on it, just as, no doubt, the girls, that have been back to Agnes Scott this past week-end, have done. But it is the same old story. The trees, the campus, and every spot in each building grips you so, that words finally fail to express your love for the place of your girlhood days. So this is the reason for the visits of the last year girls. They love Agnes Scott so that they can't stay away altogether.

These visitors were Marian McCamy, Mary Louise Slack (otherwise known as "Crip"), and Lois Levit. Lois is not one of the last year Seniors, as are the other two, but she is an Alumna all the same, and stopped by to spend the night at A. S. C. "Crip," who is teaching this winter in LaGrange, said she "just had to come and take a peep at everybody." It really is a wonder Agnes Scott can get along at all without "Crip," so her visits are necessary for the future. Lots of the girls were disappointed in not seeing Marian, for she spent the greater part of her visit in the Infirmary. But she fully recovered in time to have a few hours in other spots.

Then everybody was delighted to see Gertrude Manley here last week,

STUDENT GOVERNMENT CONVENTION AT ELMIRA, N. Y., NOV. 11, 12, 13.

AGNES SCOTT ONE OF THREE SOUTHERN COLLEGES REPRESENTED.

President Student Government and Member Junior Class to Represent Us.

We were so accustomed to our Student Government running along in the same smooth way from week to week, like a very efficient machine, that we never stopped to think where all the inspiration and ideas came from. Then the other morning at chapel we heard of the coming Student Government Convention to be held at Elmira, New York, on the 11th, 12th and 13th of next month; and we were asked to elect those of our student body whom we wanted to represent us. The girls chosen were Margaret McLaughlin and Nell Buchanan. Since Agnes Scott has the honor of being one of the three colleges of the South to be represented at this Convention, we rejoice in having delegates so well fitted to uphold the good name of our college. Our representatives will be joined en route by Miss Emily Harrison, who is the Southern representative of women's colleges.

Last year Julia Hagood and Frances Charlotte Markley represented us at the Convention held at Wilson College in Pennsylvania. Some of the splendid ideas they brought back are being used now. We are expecting these delegates to bring back enough "pep" to infuse new ideas and spirit into the student body.

Not only do the Conventions show us how great a thing the honor system is and inspire us with loyalty for it, but with so many girls all together there is sure to be lots of inspiration and brilliant ideas, which each girl has the benefit of—delightful pleasures and new privileges that student government makes possible.

Then, girls, when Margaret and Nell start off, let's prepare to give them safe conduct, as least as far as the big gate. Cheer them on their way with "I Ain't Got Weary Yet," (hoping they won't,) and a few of the serenades we've been learning at the sing; and be sure to pack them full of all the ginger, grit and "pep" you hear about on Tuesday night.

When all is over, and they return, and we listen open-mouthed to the account of all the teas, meetings and speeches they have made to all the other delegates—when we're just all swollen with pride—let's leave a little room in our hearts for a renewed love for our Alma Mater.

AESTHETIC DANCING CLASSES BEGIN.

Prepare for the May Day Festival.

Dancing classes have begun and you should see the enthusiasm. Every Tuesday and Thursday evening at eight o'clock the beginners class meets. There are about thirty girls in this one and they are positively bubbling over with pep. Some say it is because they get in two hours of exercise this way, others that it is because they realize that they are becoming graceful.

But the real reason that they are so thrilled with dancing class is that they have such a good time there. And maybe, too, they are thinking about May Day. It really isn't so very far off when you begin to think about it. And you know what having gone to dancing classes will mean in May Day try-outs.

Then, besides the beginners' class is the advanced class which meets every Tuesday evening at nine o'clock. It is much smaller but just as lively and maybe the girls in it are a little

Atlanta Spanish Club Holds Meeting at Agnes Scott

PROFESSORS FROM UNIVERSITY OF HAVANA MAKE TALKS.

Spanish Club to Meet Every Two Weeks at Agnes Scott.

On last Thursday evening, the Atlanta Spanish Club held a most interesting meeting out at Agnes Scott.

All the Spanish students assembled in the chapel to hear talks made by distinguished Spaniards, and received not only instruction on the subjects that the gentlemen had chosen for their addresses, but enjoyed hearing a most beautiful accent.

The first speaker was Professor Henares, a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, and for twenty years professor of Chemistry in the University of Havana. The Professor is on a year's leave of absence, and is soon to leave for Europe. He made an excellent and helpful talk of the "Uses of Spanish," and put before the girls in a most forceful manner, the many different ways that they could make use of their Spanish after they have finished school. Professor Henares read several poems of the Spanish poet, Bécquer, that showed to advantage the wonderful musical quality of the Spanish language. We were very fortunate to have this gentleman with us, and we hope that he will soon pay Atlanta another visit.

The next speaker was Professor Catalle, also of the University of Havana. Professor Catalle spoke on the "Commercial and Political Relations of the United States with the Southern Countries," and he said he was delighted to see the enthusiasm for the study of Spanish that he found in the American colleges. When one country understands the language of another, it draws them closer together, giving mutual interests, and establishing the means of stronger friendships.

Agnes Scott is greatly indebted to these gentlemen for their excellent talks. They introduced the regular meetings of the Spanish Club, which from now on are to meet every Thursday evening at eight o'clock. These meetings will be held alternately in Atlanta and at Agnes Scott, thus giving to the students of that language an unusual advantage in hearing native speakers. The meetings in Atlanta are to be held in Professor Campoamor's office in the Grand Building.

The Spanish Club has splendid prospects for a large membership of Agnes Scott girls this year. Since this club does offer such splendid advantages, it is hoped that as many of the students as possibly can will join.

PARTY PLATFORMS DISCUSSED AT OPEN FORUM

BOTH PARTIES ABLY DEFENDED.

Great interest was manifested at Agnes Scott College the evening of Wednesday, the twentieth, nineteen-twenty, when the second meeting of the Open Forum was held. The house was crowded with an extremely appreciative audience which came to be enlightened in regard to the questions of the day.

The topic of discussion was "The Choice Between the Tickets." This subject was chosen since the vote for the Presidency is to be taken at the next meeting, and the speakers were made all the more enthusiastic with the idea that possibly they might be successful in swaying the community.

When Miss Anna Marie Landress had completed her discourse, which she gave in a most excellent manner "The League of Nations" issue as represented in the present political campaign shown by Cumming's Keynote Speech at the Democratic Convention, League of Nations Plank in the Democratic Platform, and Cox's attitude toward the League of Nations," everybody showed by their applause that they had almost decided to vote a Democratic ticket.

Wonders had not ceased! Miss Sarah Till replied with a most worthy speech which brought out "The League of Nations issue as represented in the present political campaign shown by Lodge's Keynote Speech at the Republican Convention, League of Nations Plank in the Republican Platform, and Harding's attitude toward the League of Nations." Miss Mildred McFall upheld in a fervent way the Democratic platform, excluding the idea of the League of Nations. She was received with an outburst of applause. Miss Ruth Hall fulfilled to the utmost degree her object in upholding the Republican platform and giving its "planks."

At the close of the meeting a murmur expressing appreciation and approval could be heard to run through the audience. The question, "For whom are you going to vote?" could also be distinguished as the crowd parted. This proved that the object of the speakers had been accomplished since they had caused the future voters to consider the question which holds the future of America in its grasp.

BANQUET HELD THURSDAY FOR NEW HOASC MEMBERS.

On last Thursday night a banquet was given in the tea-room by Hoasc, in honor of their new members. The Silhouette was most beautifully decorated, and a delicious course was served.

The new members of Hoasc are Charlotte Bell, Margaret Bell, Aimee D. Glover and Ellen Wilson. There are six old members: Frances C. Markley, Jean McAlister, Rachel Rushon, Fannie McCaa, Margaret McLaughlin, and Janef Preston.

FRENCH CLUB HAS FIRST MEETING. GRANDMOTHERS GIVE PARTY FOR GRANDCHILDREN.

E. CARPENTER ELECTED PRESIDENT.

"Parlez-vous français?" Well, whether you are just learning or can "parlez" already, you are having a fine opportunity to learn more, and (incidentally) "show off" what you do know, now that the Agnes Scott French club has been organized.

The first meeting was held on Friday evening, October 22, in the Propylean Hall after prayers. This meeting had a large attendance, and after some preliminary business, the officers for the year were elected. They are:

President—E. Carpenter.
Vice-President—H. Hall.
Secretary—M. Stansfield.
Treasurer—E. Guille.

Under these able officers the club can not but have a successful year.

The French club was started out here, several years ago, but was later discontinued because it was thought that the girls had not enough time to attend meetings here, and the meetings of the Alliance Francaise in Atlanta, too.

But now the A. S. C. French club is going to be revived and reorganized and hold its meetings on the first Friday and the third Friday of each month.

The meetings held on the first Friday in each month are to be more or less formal, for at that meeting Madame Slifer, or some other French person will speak to the members on interesting topics, or there will be readings or songs in the French.

The second meeting of the club will be of a less formal nature and will include the singing of French songs, the presentation of little French plays, or recitation, or conversation and discussions.

The idea of this club is to foster and encourage interest in the French language, people, and culture, etc., and to offer, here at the college, a convenient means of keeping up and adding to this interest. Of course the Alliance in Atlanta is fine, but lots of times it is hard to get in town, and also, to many of the girls whose knowledge and understanding of the tongue is yet somewhat limited, the Atlanta Alliance could be of comparatively little benefit.

But everybody can come to the French club out here—and, of course, as many as want to are urged to attend the Alliance in town—and can surely enjoy themselves, and—but just ask any girl that attended the French "sings" last year, and she will tell you that besides learning a lot of really interesting things, that every one had just heaps of fun!

HAND IN A PLOT FOR MAY DAY FESTIVAL.

Help Your College and Show Your Spirit.

In Main Building there is a certain little notice that hangs rather disconsolately, almost hidden among the other more glaring announcements. It feels rather slighted, and perhaps it has a right to, for its importance is not outdistanced by any other news item. That is saying a good deal, but a successful May Day means much for the reputation of the school and of the girl that writes the story.

Everyone remembers last year when "Echo and Narcissus" was the Greek legend chosen. The idea, carried out in dancing and pantomime, was certainly well executed by our graceful performers. But have you stopped to think that there could have been no May Day unless a certain girl, wide-awake to her opportunities, had possessed enough interest in school activities and school triumphs to undertake the interesting work of choosing and planning some story of Greek Mythology?

You may say, "She had talent, but there's no chance for me." You do not know what you can do in this kind of writing until you have tried it; at

GAMES AND STORIES PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT.

"For we have jolly good grandmas, For we have jolly good grandmas, For we have jolly good grandmas, Which nobody can deny."

So thought all the new students, who comprise the grandchildren of this community, after the "grandmothers' party," given on Saturday night.

It is surprising to see how young college girls can be suddenly transformed into charming old ladies. A good many shawls, trailing skirts, and powdered hair, combined with a good deal of ingenuity did the trick.

This group of attractive old ladies entertained their kiddish grandchildren in a way which showed that they were only grown-up children themselves. The kiddies, gay in curls, and very much beribboned, had the time of their young lives playing "Charades," "Drop the handkerchief," and all those good old-time games.

After a good deal of this strenuous exercise, they were quite ready to sit down and actually keep still for a little while.

All grouped themselves around the huge open fireplace at one end of the room, while several of the grandmas moved them to laughter or to tears by their story-telling. Uncle Remus was especially a favorite, and Grandma Rushton thrilled the young hearts by her stirring recital of "Brer Rabbit's" narrow escapes, and "Brer Fox's" slyness.

When the children began to grow fidgety, their minds were quickly diverted by refreshments of lemonade, cookies, and peppermints. "Such sensible refreshments," confided one old lady to another, "they could not possibly hurt the little dears," peering wisely over her "specs" and nodding her head so vehemently that her little gray curls nearly fell off.

The party broke up at a reasonably early hour, for "the little ones must not stay up too late," and the air was rent with many shrill "Dood-night, Drammas," as the children trotted gleefully home, thinking of what a grand time their dear grandmothers had given them.

CAMA BURGESS, NEW PRESIDENT DEBATING COUNCIL.

Council Planning Big Things This Year.

At a meeting held this week, Cama Burgess, President of the Mnemosynean Debating Society, was elected President of the Debating Council also. The election was made necessary at this time on account of the resignation of Laura Oliver, who was forced to resign on account of having her maximum number of points.

Eleanor Carpenter was appointed by the President of the Propylean Society to take Laura Oliver's place as a member of the Debating Council from the Propylean Society.

The members of the Debating Council are: From the Propylean Society—Margaret Bell, Eleanor Carpenter and Jeanette Archer; from the Mnemosyneans—Cama Burgess, Anna Marie Landress and Aimee D. Glover; from the faculty—Dr. Armistead, Mr. Stukes, Miss Hearon, and Miss McKinney.

The Debating Council is making plans for a triangular debate with Sophie Newcomb and Randolph-Macon Colleges to be held in the spring. We hope their plans will materialize, for we are anxious to cross swords with our old opponent Newcomb once more.

The subject for Inter-Society Debate to be held before Christmas is, "Resolved, That the increase in exercise of presidential leadership has been for the promotion of the welfare of the people."

HONOR PLEDGE SIGNED.

During the last week the girls have been signing the honor pledge, promising to uphold the honor system and the Student Government Association, in the spirit as well as in the letter of the law. Every student in signing this pledge has assumed an individual responsibility to promote the welfare of the college and uphold its laws.

SENIORS MAY CHAPERON FROM MATINEE.

Seniors may chaperon underclassmen back to the college from approved matinees, provided there are as many as three in the party.

NOISE.

The noise continues to be disturbing after lights. The proctors are asked to be especially vigilant in keeping things quiet after ten o'clock.

AFTERNOON DATES FOR UNDERCLASSMEN.

Underclassmen may not go out with men without securing Miss Hopkins' permission, and unless the men call for them at the college and bring them back. Girls cannot meet boys in town. Time limit is 5:30.

HOW TO DO OUTSIDE WORK AND NOT NEGLECT STUDIES.

Many of the students of Agnes Scott, who came here with the idea that they would find "peaceful seclusion and scholarly quiet," are surprised to learn that studying with many of the girls is swallowed up in the various other activities that constitute "College Life." The average American college is so full of outside activities—social, athletic, musical, religious, journalistic, dramatic, that it is hard to find time for the duller pursuits, such as Latin and Algebra.

College activities and outside interests are certainly important, but it is for study primarily that the college was founded, and if we neglect our school work, we are not taking advantage of opportunities which will prove of great worth to us later on. Dr. Henry Lewis Smith, President of Washington and Lee University, has offered several suggestions, which if followed out should certainly help the students to enjoy outside interests that the college affords, and yet not neglect class-room work. These suggestions are:

(1) Systematize your daily program of work and play.

If each girl would utilize the odd half hours that she wastes waiting for the maid, or talking in the halls, she would have an extra hour each day for outside activities or recreation. Have a fixed schedule for each day, and sufficient willpower to follow it out. Some girls make schedules and never pay any more attention to them. That is simply a waste of time. Have the willpower to carry out your schedule to the letter. Organize, systematize and speed up your daily work, and see if you don't have more leisure and better work.

(2) Limit your outside activities, and be wise enough and strong enough to cut out purposeless loafing and useless recreations.

Such indoor recreations as cards, picture shows, drug stores, novel reading and theatre going, should be for the most part eliminated, and in their place we should play tennis, hockey, hike, and take exhilarating walks through the woods. Most of the girls, when they have an extra hour or so, think of no other amusement than a game of bridge or the picture show. These recreations, while all right in their place, are not the best for the students, who spend most of their day in the library and class-rooms.

Then don't join too many organizations and undertake so much outside work that you can give to none of it the intensive study and work which it may require. Investigate the merits of organizations and work only for those which you are most interested in and which will give you the most benefit.

(3) Learn to study always with white-hot concentration.

How easy it is to hold a history book in hand, and gaze dreamily over the hills and far away! Dreaming is all right in its place, but, it is not best when a history lesson is to be learned. Exert your willpower, and make your attention as well as your eyes focus on your work until it is mastered. This is one of the most valuable lessons in our whole college curriculum. Concentrate, and work will be done in half the time usually employed.

WHERE DOES OUR MONEY GO?

Within the next week or so the community will be asked to subscribe to the support of the Y. W. C. A. But the finance committee wants every one to be well enough informed to give from real interest and not simply from a sense of duty.

To begin at home, there is the publicity committee which is responsible for the posters outside the chapel door; the social service committee, which most of the students know about now from a practical work under it; the social committee that has charge of the reception at the beginning of school; and the world fellowship committee which presents world needs to the College. These committees all need support; for paint and paste, and poor house blankets, and ice cream and cake all cost money.

Outside of the immediate needs of our association, there are broader activities in which we like to have a part. Our Y. W. would be like an altar without a fire, were it not for the inspiration that the cabinet brings back each year from Blue Ridge. Every member of the cabinet is supposed to go to Blue Ridge, and of course not one wants to miss going; but railway fare is an item these days, and so in the budget is a small appropriation to help send Cabinet to Blue Ridge.

In order to keep in touch with Y. W. everywhere, give something, together with a number of other colleges, toward the support of Miss Topping in Japan. Besides that, our Association has always given $500 to the support of an individual missionary. Last spring our missionary died, and so at present we simply pay this money to the church committee; but before long we will be given another worker in whom we can feel a personal interest.

Nacoochee, North Georgia's mountain school, is always appreciative of any help we can send there. The work there especially deserves our sympathy, because the students are of good Anglo-Saxon stock and capable of great development. This year we have a tie between Agnes Scott and Nacoochee more strong than any we have had before, because Margaret Winslett, one of last year's Seniors, is there now. She will pay us a visit soon to present her cause in person.

Dr. Knight was a help and an inspiration to many girls last year. It was the Y. W. that brought him here, and every year it plans to have some one to talk on Christian Fundamentals. These circle talks are the most practical kind of help to those who find problems in the Christian life.

Of a more material nature is the loan fund,—a no less worthy cause. It enables some who are energetic and willing to work to be among us and work with us.

Usually every girl wants to give as much as fifty cents a month, some a dollar or a dollar and a half. The entire amount of the Y. W. C. A. budget is $1,500.00, so be prepared to give what you can. And if you would like to know more about these places which need your money, come to Y. W. meeting next Sunday evening.

HAVE YOU SIGNED A CARD YET?

During the past week the membership committee of the Y. W. C. A. has tried to have everybody in school sign a membership card. But they do not want becoming a member of the Y. W. to mean signing a card and no more. They want it to mean thoughtfully taking a new pledge of Christian allegiance. Each girl ought to read over the purpose of the Association often. As printed on the card it is this:

The Young Women's Christian Association of Agnes Scott College, affirming the Christian faith in God the Father, and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord and Savior, and in the Holy Spirit, the Revealer of truth and source of power for life and service, according to the teaching of Holy Scripture and the Witness of the Church, declares its purpose to be:

1. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.

2. To lead them into membership and service in the Christian Church.

3. To promote growth in Christian faith and character, especially through study of the Bible.

4. To influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians, to making the will of Christ effective in human society, and to extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

The beautiful service held Sunday night in recognition of the new members will help us all to remember the obligations which rest upon us.

The Tech Glee Club is becoming re-organized, try-outs are being held for new members, and many new songs are promised for this year. The first shows will be given at Agnes Scott and Cox College.—Technique.

ALUMNAE

ALUMNAE VISITORS THIS WEEK.

"K. C.," "Big Country," and Margaret Bland.

We believe they do like us a little after all. It was a five-pound box of candy against a pair of gloves. Two girls, who were trying to be sports, got up a bet when they first came back to school, in September. The bet was this: Candy against gloves that before the end of October at least ten alumnae would have been back to Agnes Scott to visit. Alas! One poor girl is one five-pound box of candy to the good, and indirectly a ruined complexion. (But I bet she hasn't thought of that.) While we will even dispense with sympathy for the other girl. The very idea of anybody even thinking that ten of the old girls wouldn't be back here within a month and a half.

Katherine Seay and Dorothy Tighpen are the two who brought an end to the bet—and Margaret Bland—by a stroke of luck—came out—for good measure.

Katherine Seay (K. C.) is from Nashville, Tenn. She graduated in 1918, and has been back to visit us off and on ever since. However, this is her first visit this session—but we hope not the last. Dorothy Tighpen ("Big Country") is from Montgomery, Ala. She also graduated in 1918, and has been a frequent visitor, but from all reports we fear that this is a "farewell" visit as the same old Dorothy. For "Big Country" is in the verge of taking a new degree—(M.R.S.), and her future home will be in Milwaukee, Wis.

Margaret Bland came out from North Avenue High School to spend the last week-end. We certainly feel glad that she thinks about us lots of week-ends, and hope she will continue her "pop calls."

A political campaign for the purpose of electing a President of the United States is to be conducted by the Y. W. C. A. on the campus of the North Carolina College for Women. The campus will be divided into ten groups, representing the States, each State will send representatives to the "National Convention," and at these conventions the Democratic and Republican candidates for President and Vice-President will be nominated. Representatives of both parties from out in town will explain the platforms and give the merits of their candidates and final elections will take place on November fourth.—The Carolinian.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

My Dearest Aggie:

Why don't you write to me once in a while? My poor old mail-box is getting to look very dilapidated with its layer—two inches thick, at least—of dust and all the cobwebs on the door. I guess I'll have to begin writing letters to myself. Well, one thing certain, if I ever do come to that, I'll make 'em "sweet and sugary" like—oh! some girl's. You know, it seems like every letter you notice (accidentally, of course)—in the mail-room starts "My own dearest sweetheart," or "My onliest Baby," or something equally "squishy." Tell me the truth, Aggie, have you ever gotten a letter that began that way? I had one once that said, "My Honey-Blossom." Wasn't that original?

Well, sir, you wouldn't have known this campus last week-end; there wasn't a soul here! Y'see most every-one who lives anywhere near Atlanta went home for the week-end and those who didn't get the chance to go, "loaned" all their best clothes to the "lucky dogs" who did. Gee, they must have had great times. But you know I feel sorry for the poor old "steadies" at Auburn and Tech and everywhere, because they get "set aside" about once a week while their "lady love" falls for another. Just think how "Adam" must be grieving, since "Clarence of Jasper" has cut him out! If I were Adam I would get real desperate and drown my sorrows in—in—well, I'd drown 'em in something, anyway.

And frat pins! My dear, some people wear two and three—well, maybe not three, but two, anyway. And Lois Moriarity is very proud of her new S. A. E. pin. But I don't blame her—I'd be proud of a pin from the Fair, labeled, "Oh You Kid," or anything, if it was given me by a man!!! Lois must be a lucky name, for another girl named Lois was getting a new white sweater the other day and she said, "I'm getting a white slip-over sweater 'cause a friend of mine is sending me his big blue one." Did you ever hear of such luck in all your young life?

Have you seen the good looking yellow racer that's been hanging around here a good deal lately? I thought maybe you saw it when you were here over the week-end. Well, my dear, they say that Walker got it that color to match the "corn-colored silkiness" of Virginia's hair. If anyone ever tried to get a car to match my eyes, (he couldn't match the color of my hair), it would have to be the color of ripe mustard-greens and that's not a bit romantic, is it?

You know these are a popular class of little Freshmen we have here. You've heard of Augusta Cannon, I suppose, but I'll bet you haven't even begun to hear about all the letters she gets from him—yes, six or seven in two or three days! Why, I'd be too excited to live if I got that much mail.

And now, Aggie, I'm going to tell you the biggest secret about me—I'm in love! Oh! but don't get excited 'cause he isn't. Of course, I wish he were—but I don't spec' so much happiness would ever come to any one person all at once. And he's a blond, too, and you know I always did say I liked blonds. Send me your advice on the subject. Excitedly yours,

GIDDIE.

DANCING CONTEST NOVEL FEATURE OF JUNIOR PARTY.

Keesler and Malloy Best Dancers.

The Gym proved to be the most popular place on the campus on Saturday night and everybody flocked to the party given by the Juniors.

As the guests arrived they were greeted at the door with programs for an "A B C Romance." This thrilling drama consisting of three acts, lived up to its title and held the audience with bated breath during the entire procedure. In the first act love making was conclusively proved to be a simpler matter than it is generally thought. An elopement was daringly carried out in the second, and the third act featured an ideal reconciliation.

Equally entertaining was the feature dance in which Ruth Keesler and Carolyn Moore starred as youthful maid and lover.

Then came one of the most attractive features of the evening. Names were discarded for numbers and a dancing contest was held. After each dance came the verdict of the judges calling some of the couples back on the floor, and much enthusiastic competition followed. But one by one they all dropped out until finally there was only one couple remaining. Charlotte Keesler and Elizabeth Malloy succeeded in being the last on the floor and were awarded boxes of candy as prizes.

Last on the program for the evening, but by no means least in importance, were the ice cream cones to which due attention was given.

The party was a lovely one from beginning to end and the Juniors made the most hospitable hostesses. The color scheme of red and white was effectively carried out in crepe paper and the gym gaily attired in autumn leaves and flowers made a most delightful place for entertainment. A general good time was reported by everyone as they departed with the fervent hope that another just such good time would not be long in forthcoming.

BACON-BATS FASHIONABLE NOW.

Faculty and Students Fall in Line.

It was just as if an auctioneer had let fall his gavel and called out in clear, triumphant tones, "Bacon-bats—fashionable now. Who bids for this next glorious, savory bacon-bat? Going, going, gone!"

And it was the Faculty who had knocked down the bid! The Faculty who, by the way, you would never have recognized as those grim, stern individuals who lie in deadly wait for victims in bare, stark class-rooms. A jolly lot they were, wending their way to "The Hill of Kites" one Indian Summer's day to enjoy an outing given by some of the members of the Faculty to the others.

Then, one day of the following week, when the red-gold leaves came swirling down in great hoards, the spirited auctioneer of crisp October weather called forth again and this time the prize went to a bunch of students. Late afternoon found them gathered around a big bon-fire, jealous of every wind-snatched aroma of sizzling bacon and toasted marshmallows. Twilight came on; and with the ever deepening dusk the fire sputtered and crackled more loudly and shot up bright sparks to illumine the shadows. After a while, college songs found their way into the scheme of things, and over the hills and far away floated the spirited favorite at Agnes Scott, "I'm a Hottentot." Then, some wise virgin, poking around in the ashes with a hat-pin, rescued the last bit of crisp-burnt bacon and joyously proposed fifteen rabs for "Bacon-bats."

For bacon and red, juicy apples and sugar and spice and everything nice, that's what Bacon-bats are made of.

MR. MURCHISON PAYS AGNES SCOTT A VISIT.

Agnes Scott is always glad to have visitors, and last Wednesday we had a truly delightful one in Mr. A. H. Murchison, of Columbia, South Carolina. Lucia and Lewis have often no doubt been designated as "Mr. Murchison was pointed out as "Baby and was the other way around—Mr. Murchison was pointed out as "Baby and Lewis's father."

Mr. Murchison was on his way to Macon, Georgia, to deliver an address, and stopped over at Agnes Scott to see Lucia and Lewis on his way there. Brief though his stay was, we enjoyed it, and hope to see him once more on our campus before very long.

ARE YOU COPYING ANOTHER GIRL?

Charm Lies in Individuality.

Perhaps only mothers can realize fully the extent of the suffering caused by that childish game, "Follow the Leader." It has been their custom for centuries to bind up the cracked skulls and skinned knees and to kiss away the tears of those little devotees of "sport."

It is human nature to do as the mass of people does, and nowhere else has this been more plainly shown than in girls' schools. Miss Alcott gives an illustration of this in her charming story, "Little Women."

Everybody in school was eating pickled limes and Amy, following the current, found herself in deep distress.

On our own campus this characteristic has been shown effectively. At the first meeting of our chemistry class, there was a girl with her hair bobbed. A few days later the maidens, "all shaven and shorn," were six or more. This incident is not very important, in itself, but it is a good illustration of that particular weakness, which human nature is heir to. This inclination effectually "downs" the spirit of individuality, which makes a real woman and a charming one, a woman who is not merely a pattern of other women, but

ATHLETICS

First Hockey Game of Season

JUNIORS OVERCOME SENIORS

Sophs Defeat Freshmen.

In the double-header hockey game, played Saturday, October the ninth, between the Seniors and Juniors, and the Sophomores and Freshmen, there was more pep and interest shown than in any other athletic event so far. The Seniors and Juniors tied one all, but even that was quite a triumph for the Juniors, as the Senior class did not lose a single game last year. The Sophomores beat the Freshmen by a score of five to one, but the victory was hard won.

The captains of the various teams announce that their players are coming out regularly to the practices and that more girls than ever are playing hockey. The Freshman team has some very good material and hopes to win athletic renown thereby.

The Seniors who played were as follows: C. F., Helen Wayt; L. I., Augusta Brewer, Aimee D. Glover; R. I., Eula Russell; L. W., Dot Allen; R. W., Margaret McLaughlin; C. H., Charlotte Newton; L. H., Sis Jones; R. H., Caroline Agee; L. F., Margaret Wade; R. F., Myrtle Blackmon; goal, Peg Bell.

The Junior line-up: C. F., Mary Knight; L. I., Althea Stephens; R. I., Ethel Ware; L. W., Juanita Kelly; R. W., Frances Harper; C. H., Elizabeth Wilson; L. H., Lilburne Ivey; R. H., Susan Malone; L. F., Lucia Murchison; R. F., Alice Whipple; goal, Ruth Virden.

The Sophomore line-up: C. F., Hilda McConnell; L. I., Nannie Campbell; R. I., Merle Sellers; L. W., Margaret Hay; R. W., Margaretta Womeldorf; C. H., Beth McClure; L. H., Emily Guille; R. H., Eloise Knight; R. F., Margaret Brenner, Eugenia Pou; L. F., Caroline Farquhar; goal, Mary Goodrich.

OPEN FORUM

THE GIST OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Questions Answered for the Woman Voter.

The following list of questions with their answers has been sent to the Agonistic from the Woman's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee. It is not our purpose to make the Agonistic a partisan paper in any sense of the word, but articles on either side will be cheerfully printed in the Open Forum.

THE GIST OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Questions Answered for the Woman Voter.

1. What is the League of Nations?

It is a union of the civilized nations of the world (formed by the Treaty of Versailles)—a sort of international society with headquarters in Switzerland.

2. What is its purpose?

The League seeks to bring about world peace—

(a) By settling disputes between nations by peaceful adjustment instead of by war;

(b) By pledging each member nation gradually to reduce armies and navies (this means, of course, the reduction of taxes and the high cost of living);

(c) By making treaties public so that all citizens may know what their governments are doing;

(d) By undertaking to better working conditions and the welfare of women and children everywhere.

3. Who belongs to the League of Nations?

Thirty-seven nations have already joined—all the principal countries (aside from the former enemy nations who are allowed to come in later)—EXCEPT THE UNITED STATES AND BOLSHEVIST RUSSIA. Any self-governing nation may be admitted, and any member may withdraw after two years' notice.

4. Why is the United States outside?

Because a Republican Senate, ignoring the fact that our American boys fought and died in a "war to end war," has twice wilfully refused to ratify the Peace Treaty, and so bring the United States into this League for peace.

5. How is the League of Nations run?

(a) By an Assembly of delegates from each nation in the League, for discussion of international affairs. It is something like a big, international conference where the small States may be freely heard. The Assembly may recommend action to the several home governments.

(b) By a Council of nine delegates (the United States, Great Britain, Italy, France and Japan, to be always represented) which inquires into the causes of disputes and makes recommendations for their peaceful settlement. The Council is the real governing body of the League.

All positions in the League, including that of secretary, are open equally to men and women.

6. What are the rules for voting?

On all vital points the vote must be unanimous in both bodies. In the Assembly each separate nation and self-governing colony has one vote, although they may send three delegates to cast this one vote, representing different interests, (labor, capital or a woman delegate to give the woman's point of view). In the Council every nation represented, large or small, has a single vote and a single delegate. Great Britain, with all her colonies and about one-quarter of the world's population, has just one ballot.

7. Is the United States out-voted?

No, the United States with its one vote has power to veto any important proposal of which it does not approve, either in the Assembly or in the Council.

8. How does the League settle disputes?

All nations in the League agree to submit to arbitration disputes threatening war. Six months are given to investigate and report. Not until three months later (giving time for thought and cooling off!) may a member actually go to war, and not then, if one nation in the quarrel accepts the recommendations made. In case of disputes with non-members, or between non-members, the outsider is first invited to come into the League. Legal tangles (such as the meaning of a treaty, etc.) are settled by a Permanent Court of International Justice. In spite of Republican opposition to the League, the noted Republican jurist Elihu Root, has been abroad for the task of establishing this Court under instructions from the League Council.

9. But what if a nation goes to war?

Then the nations in the League agree to cut off the offender entirely from all trade and intercourse. The Council may "advise" then (only that) to contribute a small share of armed force, subject, however, to the approval of their own governments.

10. What is Article X?

This Article states that members of the League guarantee to respect one another's territory and protect it from external attack (the same principle as our own Monroe Doctrine which has made for peace on this continent for nearly a hundred years). It means that if our country is in peril she may call upon other nations in the League for aid. Article X does not apply to domestic troubles, such as revolution or civil war, unless the peace of the world is thereby disturbed.

11. Can the United States declare war without consent of Congress?

No, Congress by our Constitution is the only power in this country having authority to declare war. But first, within the League itself, the United States by its right of veto may refuse to enter any war.

12. Why do women want a League of Nations?

Because it saves the mothers of the future from sacrificing their sons to war. Because it is the only practical working plan to replace conflict, bloodshed and sorrow by peace and goodwill.

is herself and therefore different in some respects from every other woman on the globe.

So, girls, do not be moved by public opinion to such an extent as to lose your personal charm. Though it may be hard to realize, there are many bad results from "Follow the Leader" other than mere physical injuries.

Remember the old saying, "The key-note of success is B natural"—in other words, be yourself.

AGNES SCOTT'S EN- DOWMENT CAMPAIGN ON THE BOOM

General Education Board Has Offered Additional Hundred Thousand, If We Raise Additional Fifty Thousand.

Agnes Scott, you're all right, you bet you are."

You bet Agnes Scott is all right, and you bet she'll go over the top in this campaign just as she's always done in everything. All the old girls will remember what an exciting time we had just a little over a year ago, when it was announced that we, the faculty and students of Agnes Scott, had contributed more than $20,000, all by ourselves, the first money that was pledged for the Endowment Fund. Then you will remember how glad we were to hear on commencement day that $525,000 had been pledged toward our goal of $600,000. Now something even better than that has happened.

The General Education Board, who offered in the first place to give us $175,000 if we would raise the remainder of the $600,000, has made us another and even more flattering offer. Being very much interested in our work and aims here, they have made inquiries about us, and have come to the conclusion that even though we are succeeding in getting the amount we had set out to raise, it would not be enough to enable us to carry out all the plans which we, in the confidence of our success, have been making so, to enable us not to be hindered in anything we might want to do, they have very generously offered to give us an additional $100,000 if we, in our turn, would raise an additional $50,000, making a new goal of $750,000.

Think what that would mean to Agnes Scott. It would more than double her capacity to serve the girls who will come after us, for Agnes Scott today, campus, buildings, and dormitories included, is worth only $675,000. We would have money for new dormitories and new buildings for class rooms, all of which we could fill today if we had them. The girls that were turned away this year because of lack of capacity were more than enough to fill another large dormitory. Won't it be splendid when we can take in every girl that applies, not having to turn down one single person because of lack of room? And that time is surely coming, and not far off, too, for we know that we are going to win out, that we couldn't possibly fail with such a committee at work, and with Dr. McCain at the head.

During the last few months pledges have come in more and more slowly, due to the conditions of business everywhere, but up to date $685,000 is sure, and surely enough people can be found to give us the last $65,000, which will put us over the top. The committee has decided that the campaign cannot possibly be prolonged beyond Christmas, but that leaves two months, and wonders can be accomplished in two months. We know wonders will be accomplished, and that Agnes Scott will surely come out on top.

HOT DEBATES HELD ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Negative Wins Both Debates.

Much interest and enthusiasm was evinced Saturday night over the two debates staged by the Mnemosynean and Propylean Literary Societies in their respective halls. The subject for both debates was the same—Resolved; That the increase in exercise of presidential leadership is for the promotion of public welfare.

Promptly at seven o'clock the Mnemosynean audience muffled their lively anticipations and settled themselves to the calmer enjoyment of listening to a debate that was well planned and, better still, well carried out. The affirmative side of the question was cleverly handled by Annie Marie Landress and Quenelle Harrold. The opposite side was argued by Louise Fluker and Margerite Watkins, who presented their points with a force that impressed the audience. Annie Marie and Margerite are debaters with a record which left no room in the minds of the assembled company as to their ability; and this most recent of their appearances on the platform was fully as pleasing and worthwhile as any of their previous work. Quenelle and Fluker had the added interest of being new at the game, but their success as effective speakers of the argumentative type was very evident. The Mnemosyneans are now assured of two more excellent debaters. The negative side won.

The assembled members of the Propylean Society were entertained by the spirited discussion which ensued between Ellen Wilson and Lilian McAlpine, who represented the affirmative side, and Ivylyn Girardeau, and Victoria Howie, the advocates of the negative side of the issue. Here again Agnes Scotters had the chance of hearing new debaters side by side with girls of more experience. Here again fresh laurels were added to a store of past merits; and much promise was found in new talent. The judges decided in favor of the negative, although both sides did excellent work.

Especial interest centered about these two debates; for the experience gained in their preparation will be of value to the girls who are going to represent Agnes Scott in the Inter-collegiate debate next spring. The debates Saturday night were preliminary to the inter-society debates which begin December the third. The signal for sincere, heartfelt interest and real, sure enough hard work has already been given; and the Debating Council and the Literary Societies, which are the leaders in our contest against Newcomb need the backing of the entire student body. The debates so far seem to predict a lively enthusiasm over this form of college activities. This first bit of encouragement should have the effect of vitalizing all our efforts and should give added spirit to the debates which are to follow. Let the battle cry of all ardent Hottentots from now on be "On Debaters, on to victory!"

days and Thursdays from two-ten until three-ten. The object of this store is to take care of the articles that are found until the owner comes, and then the article may be secured by paying the small sum of five or ten cents.

If the lost articles are never claimed at the end of the year an auction is given, and many useful articles can be bought for a reduced price, and the proceeds are given to the Athletic Association.

Such articles as books, rings, pins, fountain pens, gloves, and belts are found down there. If you have missed something, look for it now in the Lost and Found Store, and help both yourself and the Athletic Association.

TO THE AUTUMN WIND.

The wind is rustling through the trees,
It rustles loud among the leaves.
An autumn chill is in the air,
The drowsy seeds spail everywhere.

Oh, autumn wind, so cool and strong!
Oh, autumn wind, we love your song!

The maple leaves, in scarlet dressed,
Are dancing now in wild unrest.

You shake the acorns from on high
And chase the clouds across the sky,

Oh, autumn wind, your ways we know!

Oh, autumn wind, blow high, blow low.

You bring the nuts down from the trees,

You sweep the hills of dry, brown leaves,

The tiny seeds to earth you send—

You are their helper, and their friend.

Oh, autumn wind, your ways we know!

Oh, autumn wind, blow high, blow low!

SENIORS GIVE COLLEGE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

INMAN HALL INHABITED BY GHOSTS AND GOBLINS.

Fortunes Told, and Future Life Revealed.

The night of October thirtieth, nineteen-twenty, will always be a red letter night for Agnes Scott girls, for it was on that time that the Seniors gave to the College Community a Halloween party.

When an invitation was given to us to join the Seniors in a visit to the witches and ghosts again we had innumerable pictures of spooky things. Nor were we disappointed, for on looking out of the window that night to see if there were moon and stars what should we see flitting around the campus but some snow-white creatures uttering moanful shrieks and groans. As we started our upward climb to fourth floor Inman and looked around to see if any of the spirits were following us we were reminded of our surroundings by the touch of icy hands of ghosts who greeted us. Breathlessly we entered a room, dimly-lighted and resembling an enchanted forest, so naturally were the pine straw and autumn leaves arranged, and were given, by an unearthly enormous ghost, a little broom as a souvenir.

After being admitted to this land of horrors we were anxious to become acquainted with the habits and occupations of these strange inhabitants. We were not kept in suspense long, for we found ourselves before a witch's cauldron brewed by Witch Margaret McLaughlin, with Witch Janef Preston and Witch Eleanor Carpenter. We were here given seemingly blank slips of paper which we were to guard with our lives. We held these over the light and behold! our future was before us. We accepted this as one of the happenings of Witchdom and traveled on.

Were our eyes deceiving us, were we really seeing things, or were we dreaming? Over in a grave yard we saw some peculiarly shaped black creatures dancing. On coming nearer we saw that these creatures were bats which caused chills to run up and down our spines. Before we had fully overcome the funny sensation that the bats gave us we received an-

BLACKFRIARS AN- NOUNCE TWELVE NEW MEMBERS

Banquet Plans Being Made.

The Blackfriar tryouts were held on October the 25th, and twelve lucky girls are happier than anyone else on the campus. They are Del Bernhardt, Ruth Pirkie, Margaret Hay, Polly Stone, Sarah Belle Brodnax, Elizabeth Malloy, Jeannette Archer, Virginia Burum, Beth McClure, Margaretta Womelsdorf, Frances Oliver, and Martha Talliaferro.

It wasn't pure luck that got these girls in, as all of us know, it was pluck and determination and a whole lot of dramatic ability.

The tryouts were about the best ever held; it was certainly a hard matter to decide who the fortunate ones should be. If there had only been more vacancies! The Freshmen will have their opportunity to try out before long, and eight vacancies are being held open for them.

The initiation of the twelve new members was held Friday night and though no blood-curdling yells were heard to proceed from behind the closed doors, the new members say that dark and nameless horrors were perpetrated.

A business meeting was also held and—have you heard?—the plans for the annual Blackfriar banquet were discussed! The members are, all excited and every one who isn't a Blackfriar is decidedly green with envy.

And so Blackfriars has some lucky new members who are to be in the public eye as far as dramatics are concerned. We are all looking eagerly forward to see them star in a Blackfriar production soon.

MANY STUDENTS HEAR MAT- ZENAUER MONDAY NIGHT.

Florence Macbeth To Be In Atlanta November 8th.

Those who heard Margaret Matzenauer were not at all disappointed in the concert that she gave on Monday night at the opening of the All-Star and Civic Concert Series. Her voice was quite as rich and clear as it was in opera last year when she made such an impression as Delilah, and as Azucena in "Il Trovatore." She is equally as good in the concert work as on the operatic stage.

Her personality, with her voice, has made her one of the world's most famous contraltos. All who witnessed her appearance agree with the Washington Star in the following statement:

"The world probably has never heard such a voice like Matzenauer's. Rich, beautiful, deep and susceptible to the finest flexibility, it can soar into the realms of the soprano with wondrous clearness, sweetness, and beauty. This, with her splendid power of emotional and dramatic portrayal and her pleasant personality, is what makes her incomparable."

On November the eighth, Florence Macbeth will appear in the second of the concert series. Miss Macbeth is a native American. She has never before appeared in Atlanta, but her fame as a soprano has preceded her, and Atlanta music lovers are looking forward to hearing her with a great deal of pleasure.

AGNES SCOTT ELECTS COX BY OVERWHELM- ING MAJORITY

MOCK ELECTION HELD TUES- DAY NIGHT.

Returns From Real Election Phoned to A. S. C.

With wild enthusiasm and patriotic interest, Agnes Scott held a mock election this week and voted on the nominees for the presidency, electing Cox by an overwhelming majority. For several days the campus was a scene of general excitement which increased steadily until the climax was reached, following the casting of the final ballots, when the returns began to come in.

On Friday afternoon between the hours of one and six o'clock the hall of Main Building was crowded, for every loyal citizen over sixteen years of age was called upon to register at the registration booth. From every corner of the campus they flocked to pledge their loyalty and support to the government and thereby receive the right to cast their ballots in the coming election.

Following the registration on Friday afternoon, came the first elections, when the wings of each dormitory, representing state precincts, met to elect their representatives to the state convention. After somewhat prolonged preliminaries two representatives were chosen from each precinct to represent the people on Monday night at the state convention.

The state convention was also a scene of spirit and pep mingled with dignity, for it was here that the electors were elected from the representatives from each state precinct. Also the time was growing shorter until the last final election was to come off and decide who should preside over our destiny for the next four years. Who this would be was a question of acute interest and importance.

This all-important question was to be decided after the voters cast their ballot on the electors Tuesday night and the last thing in their power done to elect the man they considered best. Feeling was tense when returns were announced and cheers greeted the name of their favorite candidate. Cox received an overwhelming majority, although Harding's supporters were enthusiastically boosting their candidate.

Not less exciting, but indeed hardly more exciting than mock elections, were the genuine election returns that were posted from time to time on the election bulletin board that kept the "voters" informed as to the progress of real elections all over the United States. Each bit of information brought its quota of cheers on one side and groans on the other.

The mock election not only was a lot of fun for everybody, and very exciting, but also showed our girls—the future voters—how to cast their ballots in the correct way. The election also made the girls more interested in the affairs of the government, and taught them many things about our candidates that they would not have learned otherwise.

HOASC STUNT NIGHT COM- ING SATURDAY.

All Campus Organizations to Be Represented.

Hoasc will present its annual campaign for student activities Saturday night, November the 6th. As usual every organization on the campus will be represented by a stunt. Committees have been named and these peppy little stunts are already well under way. There will be nine stunts given by the various organizations and representing their work on the campus.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

HAVE YOU BEEN HOMESICK? HERE'S A SURE CURE.

"A stitch in time saves nine," we've all heard quoted dozens of times. So girls, save eight stitches, and don't cultivate homesickness. Of course every girl will immediately say "We don't cultivate homesickness and lonesomeness. It is thrust upon us," but to a large extent this is not true. The surest cure for homesickness is to learn how to enjoy one's own company, and we can save more tears and worry than we realize by just learning to love to be alone during a part of every day.

Haven't you heard girls say "I don't want to go by myself anywhere. I get so lonesome?" That's a terrible slam against one's self. We are all wonderful beings, and we certainly ought to have enough in ourselves to keep us from ever getting lonely. Why not try to find out whether we can't say with the poet "My mind to me a kingdom is," and get real pleasure out of being alone.

Girls, try being by yourself a part of every day, and see if you don't find that you're just as nice company for yourself as your room-mate or your neighbor may be. Friends are fine, but it is well to learn to love the companionship of your own self; from whom you may never be separated, and whom you can fall back on when lonesomeness and homesickness pursue you.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT LESSONS DURING DINNER.

Girls, we are in college primarily to study and learn. Agnes Scott is a place whose object is to make its students finer and better, with broader views and higher ideals. The education we obtain here is not entirely from our books, but from our environment and our associations. We must even learn how to forget our books and lessons, when they have become irksome to us and out of place in our conversation.

Three times a day, during meals, tests, lessons and examinations are out of place in our conversation. We aren't supposed to think of lessons continually, and we can study better if we have these three recesses for pleasant conversation. How often have you been irritated by hearing the girl next to you talk during the whole meal of three tests that she has next day, or of how hard one has to work at Agnes Scott? Let's try to remember that when we complain at the table of all the work that we have before us, we are boring people just as we have ourselves been bored.

Girls, don't worry during meals about school work, and don't let anything interfere with your enjoyment during the three meal periods. If we'll laugh and think of pleasant things, we'll have better digestions, keener minds, and happier dispositions.

MANY INTERESTING NOVELS AND MAGAZINES IN LIBRARY.

Get One Out For Over Sunday.

Do you know that the library is just chock full of the most delightful books for Sunday reading? There are magazines for those who like short stories, such as The Good Housekeeping, which of course you know isn't about housekeeping at all, but is full of interesting stories, and usually has a fine serial by James Oliver Curwood. Harper's, Scribner's, and the Century all contain interesting short stories. Temple Bailey, whose books are being read so much lately, writes for Harper's, and there is a serial running in there now by Margaret Deland. The stories in any of these magazines would make a long Sunday afternoon seem shorter, and make you forget your troubles entirely.

In addition to these the library is fortunate in having some of the late fiction. The newest books that it has acquired along this line are three books by Conrad, one of which, "Youth and Romance," is especially delightful. There are also some of Hugh Walpole's works, "The Green

WHAT IT GOES FOR.

The separate items of the budget were explained last week. In addition to those mentioned then, the convention fund looks forward to the convention which is held every four years. Old girls will remember the strain caused by the Des Moines convention because no preparation had been made for sending delegates. The appropriation for improvement will be used for buying new books and furnishings for the reading room. $1,500 is necessary, and in order for us to raise it, it is necessary for every girl to give as much as she can—fifty cents, a dollar, or a dollar and a half.

DID YOU MISS THIS?

The first open meeting of the Student Volunteer Association held at Mirror," "The Golden Scare Crow," and many others. A new book by Booth Tarkington, "Ramsey Milholland," one of his inimitable stories about young people, would be of especial interest to the readers of "Seventeen." A treat is offered to the readers of O. Henry in a complete set of his works. His stories are delightful, and so varied that they are suited to the tastes of everyone.

The "Patty" books, by Jean Webster are concerning the amusing episodes in the college life of a very original and charming girl, and make delightful reading. A book by Thomas Nelson Page, "Pastime Stories;" by its very name invites you to read it.

Besides these books mentioned there are more equally as good. Try getting one for Sunday, and see if you don't like it.

AGNES SCOTT TO HAVE NEW STUDENT GOVERNMENT ROOM.

Students Enthusiastically Offer Their Help.

At last Agnes Scott is going to have a room which Student Government can call its own. Many colleges have an entire building for Student Government, so Agnes Scott should have at least a pretty room in which her executive committee can hold its meetings.

The proposal for furnishing this room for Student Government was made at the Student Government meeting held after chapel October the twenty-first. When Margaret, our president, explained how we needed a new executive committee room, and asked for the help of the students, the girls showed much enthusiasm and responded nobly to the cause.

This room is to be furnished with a library table, a reading lamp, and comfortable chairs. The walls are to be painted and papered and the windows are to be adorned by beautiful hangings. In short it is to be a room, which will be a suitable and pleasant meeting place for the dignified executive committee.

But the executive committee will not be the only ones who will have the privilege of using this room. It will belong to the whole student body, so when it is not occupied by the executive committee, some of the literary societies and clubs will be privileged to meet there. And, too, it will provide a place in which the Senior class can meet after lights without disturbing anyone. Another of the main reasons for furnishing this room is that we must have some definite place in which the convention of the Student Government Association can be held next spring.

This room will be an attractive as well as useful addition to Agnes Scott and it is the endeavor of those who are at the head of it to make it a place that we shall be glad to call our own. The executive committee deserves a pleasant and convenient place in which to hold their meetings. They contribute the greater part of their time and energy to the betterment of Agnes Scott.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

Agnes Scott this year was a gratifying success. About forty interested girls were present. Margaret McLaughlin sang "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go," and Ruth Hall and Josephine Logan gave talks on what the volunteers are.

Many girls do not realize the scope of the help to be gained from these meetings. Student volunteers are associated with the foreign field, but they are interested in affairs at home, too, and are serving the same Master as those who expect to take up social service work or Y. W. work.

Our own Alma Mater has not as many volunteers in proportion to her enrollment as Bessie Tift and Wesleyan—the Baptist and Methodist colleges have. Those most interested are hoping and praying that the meetings out here may lead some others to hear the call to service for Christ the Savior of the World.

The next open meeting will be held in town at the Wesley Memorial church, but the meeting after that, that is the December meeting, will be held out here again. Those who do not go to any of these meetings will miss a part of what Agnes Scott offers them.

other shock. We found ourselves jumping up and down, bending forward, backward, and sideways in order to keep our equilibrium. Finally we came to the realization that we were passing through the Chamber of Horrors.

Every dream came true and even that one of meeting a sure enough fortune teller. We felt that our knowledge of the ghosts had been completely rounded out when we had our palms read by Witch Frances Charlotte Markley and Witch Rachel Rush-ton.

After having many laughs around the tub where we bobbed for apples and after eating all the peanuts, apples, stick candy, and gingersnaps that we desired we were ready to give the class of 1921 a rousing cheer for causing our cup of happiness to fill to overflowing.

HOASC STUNT NIGHT COMING SATURDAY.

The nine are publications, writers clubs, athletics, day students, Y. W. C. A., student government, Propylean Debating Society, Mnemosynean

Debating Society, and Blackfriars. The Aurora, Agonistic, and Silhouette are working together on the publications' stunt, and B. O. Z., Folio, and K. U. B. combine to form the writers' clubs.

We all remember with much pleasure Hoasc stunt night last year, and are looking for the one Saturday night to be as good, if not better, for 1921's Hoasc members are hard to beat.

"Mary," said her father, "do you have any trouble meeting expenses off at college?"

Mary (whose check had already disappeared—"Oh, no, Daddy, I met them every time I turn around.")

"Fare!" The passenger gave no heed. "Fare, please!" Still the passenger was oblivious. "By the ejaculatory term 'Fare!'" said the conductor. "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blonde you observe in the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of the service vouchsafed by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude, in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not, in conciseness, to the monetary obligation set up by your presence in this car, and suggest that you liquidate." At this point the passenger emerged from his trance.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

Dearest Aggie,
 Everyone is so busy these days with tests and notes, and the whole college community is so steeped in politics that they haven't had time to do things and really I've no news at all. But Aggie, dear, I'm going to send you a copy of my latest poetical effort entitled, "Romance; Past and Present."
 "Off at school a young girl's fancy, Lightly turns to thoughts of love; And memories of past romances Blot out present ones—by Jove! Dick and Harry, Tom and Bill Couldn't compare with Fred and Phil. What taste in neckties Henry had, He always followed the latest fad! Those dreamy eyes and thrilling speeches, Which Bobby made upon the beaches! Speaking of freckles and ruddy locks, Jimmy's could be seen for blocks. Oh! wasn't Joe the cutest thing, And didn't he have a gorgeous ring?"

But past affairs are not substantial, And bye-gone beaux are not financial, So Miss College Maid throws out her net,
 To see what victims she can get. She goes to town, and on the street, Who d' you think that she does meet? A boy from home, who goes to Tech, She's so excited, she's just a 'wreck!' In three minutes' time he's made a date
 For Saturday night (she feels it's Fate) And when he asks to bring a friend, Her joy and happiness have no end.
 * * *
 The night of nights comes 'round at last, 'Is it eight already? My clock is fast!' She keeps them waiting, for that's the way, Fair maidens treat their suitors to-day.
 The youth is witty, the girl is coy,

And he's brought along a darling boy!
 To a football game, the two—now foes,
 O'er who will take her, almost come to blows. Then candy and flowers and telephone calls—
 She finds her name posted all over the walls! Her popularity's complete, a frat pin she wears,
 And yet no one knows whether or not she 'cares.'
 So now no more of Dick she thinks, Of Harry she's as quiet as a Sphinx, Tom and Bill aren't in the race, Since Ralph and Tom have shown their face."
 Now Aggie, aren't you proud of me? Just think some day when my immortal verse has put Shakespeare's in the shade, you can say, "she used to be my best friend!" I'm quite excited. But genius burns—adieu, adieu.
 Giddie Gossip.

AGNES SCOTT HAS EIGHT STUDENT VOLUNTEERS.

State Convention to Be Held at Bessie Tift.

"What is a Student Volunteer? What are they supposed to do?" Just stop and count how many times you've heard these questions asked. The Student Volunteer Band at Agnes Scott is a most attractive group of young women who have pledged their lives to go over the seas and be missionaries to the heathen peoples.

This Student Volunteer movement has taken a firm hold all over the country. All colleges are intensely interested and all are responding promptly. There is to be a state convention which will be held at Bessie Tift College at Forsyth, Ga. Each school that is allowed to send delegates to this convention is allowed a specified number. Agnes Scott is to be allowed from ten to fifteen delegates. At the convention there are to be several contests. The two most important are the contest of pageants and the poster contest. Since Agnes Scott comes out of every contest with flying colors, we are sure of her victory in this.

The Band on our campus is composed of eight enthusiastic workers. They are:

- Edith Kern, leader.
- Ruth Hall, secretary.
- Eloise Knight.
- Josephine Logan.
- Mary Goodrich.
- Frances Gardner.
- Lillian McAlpine.
- Anna Marie Landress.

For the oncoming year they are planning to have an open meeting once a month. The programs for the meetings will be to study and discuss the foreign countries. At some meetings there will be representatives of the dress and customs of foreign nations. Some times there will be a foreign speaker who knows and understands the conditions in foreign fields.

The first open meeting was held Sunday night, October 24. The program was presented by different volunteers.

EXCHANGES

Davidson meets Randolph-Macon in Shearer Hall on December 7, in the first inter-collegiate debate of the season. The query has been agreed upon; it is: Resolved, That the Federal Government should for a period of twenty years prohibit the immigration of Japanese laborers into the United States, or any of its possessions. The Debating Council has elected that Davidson uphold the affirmative.—Davidsonian.

The W. M. U. of the Sarepta Association has donated $10,000 to Shorter College to be used as a scholarship fund under the following conditions made by Dr. L. G. Hardman, who is a large contributor to the sum. The money will be loaned the trustees of Shorter at six per cent interest, this interest is to be loaned to some girl selected by the executive committee of the W. M. U. of the Association. After she graduates she will return the money, it will be added to the principal, and the entire amount will continue to be used for the education of other young women.—Periscope.

Haven't you yet observed the psychology of a stormy day? Yet the weather and its consequences are of minor importance when we consider how saving we are of those trifling things that contribute so much to the every-day atmosphere. How many neglect to speak to those they know; because they seem to remember in a hazy sort of way, that they already have met and spoken that day?—Mount Holyoke News.

Glee Club Bigger Than Ever Before

CHORAL SOCIETY FORMED AT AGNES SCOTT.

Will Give Handel's "Messiah" For Christmas Music.

As we count the days until Christmas, and think of the coming yuletide season, memories of beautiful Christmas music come to our mind. Agnes Scott has always had beautiful music at Christmas, but this year we are expecting something exceptional.

A Choral Society has been formed which will give Handel's "Messiah," the most famous and best-loved of all the oratorios, on the last Saturday night before Christmas. Six choruses will be sung and all the solo arias. The tenor and bass parts for the chorus are to be supplied by men from Emory University and Decatur. Advanced students of the vocal department and the best male voices of Atlanta will render the solo arias. The entire chorus will consist of about fifty singers.

Mr. Johnson says that this is to be the biggest musical event in the history of Agnes Scott. Beside the "Messiah" two other choruses will be given during the year.

The Glee Club under the direction of Mr. Johnson is bigger and better than ever before. A double quartet from the club sang at a Masonic banquet at the Daffodil last Wednesday.

The first appearance of the whole club will be at a concert given in the spring during the first part of the second semester. We are looking forward with much pleasure to this performance and feel sure that the Glee Club will sing all the more gleefully because the period of January 18-29 will have past. There are thirty-one members this year and among them quite a number of new girls. The entire roll is as follows:

Sopranos — Lucile Smith, Lullie Harris, Alice Whipple, Jeannette Archer, Jessie Watts, Martha Turner, Lillian McAlpine, Margaret Thorington, Charlotte Keesler, Romola Davis, Victoria Howie, Helen Crocker, Eloise Knight, Jane Knight, Ruth Spense, Ida Bearden, Margaret Yeager, Madie Rogers, Dell Bernhardt, Ouida Moore, Evelyn Byrd.

Contraltos—Nell Esslinger, Margaret McLaughlin, Caroline Moody, Elizabeth Lockhart, Ruth Perkle, Annie Farmer, Carrie Scandrett, Frances Guillard.

WINTER TIME HAS COME AT LAST.

Organdies Give Way to Serges And Coats.

Winter has come at last! Autumn stayed with us for so long that we almost forgot there were such things as cold winds and overcoats. Organdies and light dresses have suddenly disappeared and given place to tricotine and jersey. The college girl dons her serge middy suit and lays aside her gingham until spring.

Each week the days grow shorter and time limit creeps nearer to five o'clock. Tennis fans are losing some of their enthusiasm and more and more are going out for hockey.

People are even beginning to talk about Christmas—a sure sign of winter. Some of the girls are already marking off the days on the calendar with red ink in expectation of the time when they will leave for the holidays.

Winter is not with its disappointments, for who has not received a huge package from home and after dragging it up flights and flights of stairs and reaching your room almost breathless in your haste to get it open, found it to be only your last winter's coat and maybe an extra blanket or two. How disappointing is the smell of moth balls when one expected the savory smell of apples and chocolate cake.

Trade is picking up at the tea room, winter always increases the college girls' appetite just as it gives her more energy for work. When the days were warm and pleasant it was hard for us to stay indoors and study, but now we are glad to stay in our room and hear the radiator sizzle.

And oh! how hard it is to get up in the morning! The early bird who used to rise at 5 o'clock in order to study is disappointed when the alarm clock goes off and she rises to find it still dark. But as she turns over and goes back to sleep she realizes that winter has come at last.

TEDDY TEA-HOUND.

Mr. Tea-Hound has very graciously consented to publish these hints on Hallowe'en fates and fortunes. Everyone can try them. Do so and find out all about your future.

Pare an apple carefully without breaking the peeling. Throw the coil gracefully over the left shoulder, saying at the same time, "Fall apple, fall peeling, make the initial of my future lover's name." The coil thus adjured, will fall upon the floor and form the initial of your lover's name. This is a positive proof!

Another charm which has been found extraordinarily successful, is very simple to perform. At one minute after midnight light a candle and shaking it very carefully with the left hand, carry it about half a mile from your home and if it is still lighted when you arrive, you have sure proof that your lover is true.

These do not have to be performed on Hallowe'en night only, but may be tried any Friday or 13th of month at night.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEWS.

New proctors were announced at last meeting of Student Government. Miss Hopkins made a short talk on Social Standards at Agnes Scott, and Miss Wilburn spoke for a few minutes on the right kind of dancing.

The noise in the dining room has been very annoying lately. Girls are asked to be more quiet.

WE NOMINATE FOR THE HALL OF FAME.

Everybody loves her, of course they do. Long ago she came here, when Agnes Scott was new— Laughing, joking, working just the same— All of us would put her in the Hall of Fame.

ATHLETICS

EVERYBODY COME OUT FOR TENNIS.

Practice For Coming Tournaments.

While hockey is undoubtedly the most popular sport on the campus this time of the year, everybody can't play hockey, so there are girls who feel out of place, and, as it were, left out of athletics. Cheer up, there is one other sure sport that every girl can take part in. This is tennis, a game already popular all over Agnes Scott, but for which, until this year, we have had rather limited facilities.

This year we have four fine, smooth courts, two behind Rebekah Scott Hall, one in front of Main, and one between the Infirmary and West Lawn, behind the Library. Two of these courts have been entirely overhauled during the summer, and all four are in splendid condition. Even a sadly dead ball is forced to bounce on their reckless surface.

We have been having perfect tennis weather so far, and even if it does rain soon, there will be some sunny days. Let's make use of them, and of our grand courts, with a view to becoming champions in the forthcoming tournaments.

SENIORS DEFEAT FRESHMEN.

Juniors Defeat Sophomores.

The second hockey game of the season was played Saturday afternoon between the Seniors and Freshmen, and the Juniors and Sophomores.

The Freshmen played a good game and kept the score tied until the last half of the game, but the Seniors made a goal in the nick of time, finishing with a score of 2 to 1 in their favor.

The Sophomores and Juniors tied early in the game, and after that neither side made a goal. To decide the game, it was thought best to play one more goal, which the Juniors made, bringing their score up to 2, and winning the game by one point.

I used to think I knew I knew,
But now I must confess,
The more I know, I know I know,
I know I know the less.

AGNES SCOTT HAS EIGHT VOLUNTEERS.

Ruth Hall explained the plans of the Band and gave a clearer idea of the requirements and joys of being a Volunteer. Josephine Logan gave a most interesting talk on the diversions of a missionary. Since Josephine has first hand information, this talk was enjoyed by all.

Edith Kerns told of the opportunities of a college girl in the foreign field. The program was completed by a solo rendered by Margaret McLaughlin.

Everyone who attended this meeting thoroughly enjoyed it and it is hoped that increased interest will be manifested in the next meeting.

UNDERSTAND MEN?

If you try to please a man he decides you are in love with him,
And if you don't try to please him he says you are disagreeable.
If you talk about yourself he is bored,
And if you talk about him he gets nervous.

If you believe all he says he thinks you are a simpleton,
And if you don't he calls you a cynic.
If you are jealous of him he vows you are narrow-minded,
And if you are not, he fumes because you don't like him enough to care.
If you have other sweethearts he accuses you of being a Theda Bara.
And if you let them all go but him he loses interest immediately.

If you wear narrow skirts and rakish hats he laughs at you,
And if you adopt dress reform, he elopes with a chorus girl.

UNDERSTAND MEN?
Say, do you think I'm the eighth wonder of the world?

—University, Miss.

AGGIE'S FUNNY BONE

There was once a sea captain who was dearly loved by his four mates. The captain died, and the mates decided that they would write an epitaph for his tomb, each man composing one line.

The first mate wrote his line with alacrity; the second thought some time before composing his; the third thought long and chewed his pencil in great trouble before he could decide, while it took the fourth several hours to make up his mind. At last it was finished, and the following epitaph was placed on the captain's tomb:

"Here lies a captain of the sea
Here lies him, here lies he.
Hallelujah, Hallelulee
A. B. C. D. E. F. G."

There was a man who fancied
That by driving good and fast
He could get across the track
Before the train came past—

Miss the engine by an inch
And make the trainmen sore.
There was a man who fancied this—
There isn't any more.

"I have," replied the scientist.

"Have you found a remedy for any?"

"Oh, no; but I have found beautiful, long, scientific names for every one of them."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT DELEGATES ATTEND CONVENTION

Agnes Scott Represented by McLaughlin and Buchanan.

Agnes Scott went down to the gate in a body on Saturday to sing good-bye to Margaret McLaughlin and Nell Buchanan as they left for the conference in Elmira, New York.

This national conference of eastern colleges is being held the 11th, 12th and 13th of November. Only three Southern colleges are represented—Mississippi State and Randolph-Macon, besides Agnes Scott. Different methods of student government are discussed and new ideas are circulated among the delegates.

Every year Agnes Scott gives the President of Student Government and a member elected from the Junior class a week's leave of absence to attend this conference. This year our delegates stopped over a few hours at Washington, Philadelphia and New York City. At Washington they met the Student Government representative of Southern colleges, Miss Harrison. But best of all (don't you envy them?) they stopped over at their homes for a week-end.

Nell and Margaret were given a grand send-off, with lots of spirit, good wishes, and pep, but we welcome them back even more eagerly.

FRESHMEN GIVE THANKS-GIVING PARTY.

Puritans and Red Men Feature of The Evening.

Something nice always happens at Agnes Scott on Saturday night! Last Saturday the Freshmen gave a party and this was certainly one of the most delightful entertainments we have had this year.

The invitations asked that all dress as Puritans, and when we entered the "gym" we could almost believe that it wasn't 1920 at all, but 1621.

The "gym" was transformed into a wild, rough, country in Massachusetts! Over in one corner was Plymouth Rock and the first thing that everybody did was to go and draw a souvenir from it. They received all kinds of turkeys as well as some tiny Puritan girls.

In another corner stood an Indian wigwam made of blankets. It was quite picturesque. A big wood fire could be seen in front, and the Indian chief was standing behind the fire. He was tall and dignified and had his arms folded across his breast. His face was painted red and he looked like a most daring warrior.

Seated on the ground and standing around the camp fire were some other braves and squaws. Many of the squaws carried papooses on their backs, who set up a howl now and then. Puritans were also there to join in the festivities of the Red men.

On one side of the wigwam could be seen Priscilla and John Alden by an old spinning wheel. They looked quite picturesque and romantic.

The ceremonies began soon after all the guests arrived. The Indian chief puffed his peace pipe and then handed it to John Smith. It was passed around to every Puritan and Indian and each one took a puff. The Indians then volunteered to entertain the pale faces with a war whoop dance. Wild yells and whoops were heard as the gayly dressed Red Men danced around the wigwam. This was something new to the Puritans and they all looked on with wonder and amazement.

After the dance was over they had their first Thanksgiving feast. Maize was served in the form of our modern pop corn. Apples and other fruit were also passed around. The

MR. YAMAMOTO SPEAKS ON JAPAN

The United States and Japan was the subject of a lecture given Thursday evening, November 11, in the college chapel by Minosaku Toshi Yamamoto. Mr. Yamamoto, as a representative of Japan, is eminently fitted to discuss relations between the two countries. It is especially noteworthy that he has been very popular for two seasons in Pacific Coast Chautauquas, where it is extremely difficult to present the Japanese question.

He gave his views of the relation between Japan and this country, and was most convincing in his analysis of a situation which has caused international discussion for some years.

Of pleasing personality and winning expression, Mr. Yamamoto used faultless English. He held his audience from the start, injecting just enough Japanese sense of humor into the discourse to suit the occasion and still not detract from the purpose of convincing his hearers that there should be a closer relationship and a continuance of friendliness between this country and his native land, fourteen days distant across the Pacific.

DEBATES WITH RANDOLPH-MACON AND SOPHIE NEW-COMB DEFINITELY ARRANGED.

Much Enthusiasm Manifested.

A lively interest still prevails in the Mnemosynean and Propylean debating societies as to whether or not the increase in presidential leadership has been for the public welfare, in spite of the fact that this subject has been already thrashed out twice, and begins to have a familiar ring, to put it mildly. Familiarity has not, however, in this case, bred contempt to judge by the large attendance on Saturday nights.

This year the following plans have been made for the inter-collegiate debates. After the inter-society debates are held the four best debaters and two substitutes will debate with Randolph-Macon and Sophie Newcomb. The debates will all be held on the same night. Agnes Scott's negative will go to Randolph-Macon and debate with its affirmative; Randolph-Macon's negative will debate with Sophie Newcomb's affirmative at New Orleans, and Sophie Newcomb's negative will come to Agnes Scott and debate our affirmative. Telegrams will inform everyone as to the outcome of each debate. This is the first time such a plan has been laid out at Agnes Scott and the event is looked forward to with much enthusiasm.

Whoever attends twelve society meetings, or debates once and attends six will have a distinguished looking pin to display when she goes home. It is hoped that this plan will not only influence attendance, but will also create greater general interest in the two societies.

WHAT IS COLLEGE COUNCIL?

Among all the splendid branches of Student Government, there is one of which new students have not heard much and that is College Council.

This committee is the point of contact between the Faculty and the Student Body. It takes up and discusses all matters and difficulties which arise in the college community.

College Council, with Miss Hopkins as chairman, is composed of three Faculty members and six student members. The Faculty members are Miss Smith, Miss Alexander, and Dr. Sweet. The Student members are the president and the three vice-presidents of Student Government, one member elected from the resident students and one from the day students. The resident student elected last spring to serve this year, is Charlotte Bell.

MADAM SLIFER LECTURES AT AGNES SCOTT

Talks on "Les Salons de France."

At the second meeting of the Agnes Scott French Club, held Friday night, Madame Slifer gave a most interesting lecture on "Les Salons de France." Every French student was interested in a subject which has played such an important role in French history.

At first we were inclined to sit forward in our chairs and listen "with all our might." We soon realized, however, that such a method was not necessary because Madame Slifer spoke very slowly and distinctly. Her beautiful voice and wonderful personality charmed all present. Even if we could not have understood much French (which was emphatically not the case) we could have understood Madame Slifer's expression, her smiling eyes, and the movements of her hands, which told us a great deal.

Madame Slifer speaks excellent French, and her accent is very fine. How we envied the ease with which she pronounced her r's and that difficult French u!

Madame Slifer's talk was enjoyed for the interesting things she told us and for the manner in which she spoke. She gave us a splendid opportunity to improve our French and to try to acquire that characteristic French accent. We were given an inspiration which will help us to cheerfully prepare that prose lesson in the future in order that some day we may speak with ease and good French pronunciation.

CITY'S YOUNG PEOPLE MEET WITH STUDENT VOLUNTEERS.

On Friday night, November 19, at 8 P. M., in Wesley Memorial Church, the young people of the B. Y. P. U.'s, Epworth Leagues, and Christian Endeavor Societies of Atlanta, as well as the students in all the colleges around the city, are invited to meet with the Student Volunteers in a big mass meeting.

The Atlanta Student Volunteer Union is composed of those at Agnes Scott, Emory, Tech, and Oglethorpe, who have volunteered for overseas service in foreign mission fields. It was founded 33 years ago, and in that time has sent out over 8,000 missionaries.

The magnitude of the movement is shown by the size of the convention held in Des Moines last Christmas week, where over 1,000 schools in the United States and Canada were represented, making over 7,000 students present from 40 different nations.

The program planned for this meeting in town November 19 is of universal appeal. Travelogue talks on different kinds of mission work will give glimpses of real lives that have been remodeled by Christianity. One of the speakers is to be Mr. Chan of Emory, who is studying to return as a teacher to his own people in China. Especial interest attaches to the fact that Mr. E. O. Phillips, who has promised to lead the music, is going out to Japan in January or February.

Many Atlanta people already know Mr. J. Foster Barnes, of Emory, who sings in the Ponce de Leon Baptist Church. He has a wonderful voice, and a still more wonderful personality. He has had offers to go on the stage, but he has a great purpose in his life that makes him prefer to sing and preach his way into the heart of heathendom.

Posters—twenty or thirty of them—are being prepared for a gigantic contest. All of these will be on display in Wesley Memorial Church Friday night.

Spaces will be marked off and reserved for all organizations, and the

FAMED LECTURERS COMING TO AGNES SCOTT

TAFT, DODD AND MONROE ON PROGRAM.

Did you hear Tom Skeyhill or Hugh Walpole when they came to Agnes Scott College last year? Well, if you're a Freshman you didn't, of course, but any "old girl" will tell you that never in her whole life was she so absolutely thrilled—not just because, well because it was sorta romantic, but really because it was such a distinguished feeling to be sitting there in chapel seeing and listening to a celebrity. Of course it was an education just to be in the same room with the celebrity, but to hear one, and such interesting, worthwhile things as they had to say—well it was just great!

Now of course the "old girl" was raving a bit when she said all that, but really anybody'd rave if they had heard Tom Skeyhill or Hugh Walpole.

But girls, listen! You're going to have the wonderful opportunity of hearing (and meeting maybe) some celebrities this year, too! Who these celebrities will be, and how this grand opportunity came about is like this—

Everybody knows that the A. S. C. faculty is just the grandest ever, anywhere, and of course we rather suspected it ourselves, but on Wednesday morning we were newly impressed when we were told about the plan they have thought of to bring to A. S. C. some of the foremost people in America.

One of the people whom we are hoping to hear is Mr. Wm. E. Dodd, a very popular "fac" of the University of Chicago. He is a North Carolinian, so he knows the South and interprets it with great accuracy and breadth of vision. He has wide fame as a historian and also as a lecturer. Besides, Mr. Dodd has written for World's Work and the Historical Review, and also several books, two of which are "The Cotton Kingdom" and "The Life of Woodrow Wilson."

Another person whom we are looking forward to having with us is Miss Harriet Monroe, who also hails from Chicago, which, by the way, has been called "the literary capitol of America," and she is a poet. She has attained marked achievement not only in "regular" verse, but in "vers libre" as well, and I 'spect she will read some for us when she comes. Miss Monroe is a critic of distinction, and besides has been a main influence in introducing Tazore to America.

A third celebrity that we are going to hear is a great artist. His name is Mr. Lorado Taft, and besides being an artist and sculptor he is a lecturer of much note and has a most charming personality. He, too, comes from Chicago, and in fact has his studio not far from the University.

So here, would-be historians, poets, artists—here is your opportunity to "get some points" on the art of being a celebrity—besides really deriving benefit of inestimable value from just hearing what these folks have to say (and think of the cuts and extra hours of lights, too!)

But of course this question has its financial side, and girls, let's give them our support on this point, besides, of course, our support in attendance when they come, for to be sure their fare and other sundry expenses must be paid, and if they are good enough to come all the way down here to talk to us, let's do our level best to make it worth their time and effort.

And finally, let's give three cheers for Miss Monroe, and Mr. Dodd, and Mr. Taft—and three more for our faculty who thought up, and are going to bring to pass this perfectly grand plan!

HOASC GIRLS GIVE ANNUAL STUNT NIGHT

All Stunts Excellent.

The Hoasc stunt presentation of last Saturday night was most clever; each of the organizations taking part showed unusual originality in their productions.

The whole represented a wheel whose hub was Student Government; the spokes: Y. W. C. A., Publications, Athletics, B. O. Z., and Folio, Blackfriars, Debating Societies and Day Students, respectively; the rim, Agnes Scott. As each of the spokes was put in place, the activity represented by the spoke, gave its stunt.

That of Student Government was the story of Red Riding Hood, acted in a uniquely typical manner. Red Riding Hood stood for government by the students, while the wolf represented faculty rule. In the last scene in which the wolf in the grandmother's bed, was replying to the little girl's questions, he said that his eyes were big the better to spy, his ears big, the better to eavesdrop and hear all that was plotted. When the woodsmen rushed upon the wolf, they cried, "Down with Faculty rule!"

Y. W. gave a scene in which three girls, decidedly blue, were declaring that there was nothing to do at college and the poor homesick Freshman was crying hopelessly. Amidst this hubbub in came the various organizations of Y. W. and explained just how very much there IS to be done, causing the Freshman to dry her tears and the others to be most glad that they were at college.

The pantomime presented by B. O. Z. and Folio was among the most entertaining of the stunts. A young literary genius was sitting at the table endeavoring to write a story. She wanted the very best kind of a story, so she decided upon one with a love motif. She began her story by portraying the characters and as she did so they entered; the sweet young girl, the dashing hero and the ferocious villain. As the writer described the atmosphere of her tale, the flowers noticeably breathed forth fragrance upon the night air, while the tall moon beamed jovially. As the plot developed under the pen of the author, a black cloud came in front of the moon and the hero came bounding in on his kiddie kar to escape with his bride. The fair lady, in climbing from her window, fell, and gave the falling action. The villain appeared and made off with the lady, who was, however, soon rescued by the hero. Just at this juncture, Aunty Climax appeared, sicked her lap dog upon the hero and tightly grasped the maiden. The writer then in great despair threw down her materials and cried. She had ruined the story because she had introduced an anti-climax!

The Blackfriar stunt was a scene from a banquet hall in the lower regions. It was a clever take-off on the Shakespearean characters of Macbeth, Lady Macbeth, Anthony, Hamlet and Portia. These characters discussed themselves as initiated in these modern times.

The Athletic calendar was truly picturesque. Every month of the school year was represented by a girl posing as ready for some kind of athletics, such as gymnastics, hockey, basket-ball, tennis, track, swimming and even Christmas shopping!

The Debating Societies gave most appropriately, a debate. The subject for discussion was "To Vote or Not to Vote." The chairman announced

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Speaking of editorials—the one in the Aurora last week expresses most strikingly the feeling which has confronted every person who takes an active interest in college journalism. At last we have realized that the publications need and deserve an association.

To quote the editorial from the Aurora:

"The need of an association is evident on all sides. First, we must have a well planned and systematized body, that can effectively cope with the Merchants' League, which now cheerfully refuses to put an ad in more than one college publication because, as they steadfastly maintain, such action is charity. Wrath swells in the bosom of the outraged business manager who is furnished with the information that each Agnes Scott girl spends on the average of $250.00 per year in the dry goods stores of Atlanta."

Then, too, from a standpoint of efficiency, an organization of this kind could accomplish a great deal. In fact a workable plan has been suggested, which would call together the editors of well-known colleges in Atlanta, including those of boys' schools, and discuss the problems which concern us in Georgia.

There is no doubt that an organization of this kind is needed—let the action begin.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEWS.

Quiet Hour Discussed.

The last meeting of Student Government was an open discussion meeting. The first subject brought up for discussion was quiet hour on Sunday. It was suggested that quiet hour last for two hours instead of one on Sunday afternoon, but the movement was voted down.

Another movement was that we have quiet hour from 8 to 9 on Sunday morning. This was also voted down. The ringing of the rising bell was brought up for discussion but it was voted that the bells continue to be rung as they are now.

The suggestion was made that we be allowed to visit after lights until eleven on Saturday night. This suggestion will go before College Council and Executive Committee before it can be voted on by the students. Time limit is still 5:15.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET WITH STUDENT VOLUNTEERS.

committee in charge expects every section to be filled. Agnes Scott girls can go in groups of ten, with a teacher to chaperone each group. Our Alma Mater has been prominent in the Student Volunteer Union this year, so she ought to send a large delegation to this mass meeting.

THANKSGIVING COMING SOON.

Get Out Your Party Dress and Prepare to Be Festive.

What is causing all the excitement at Agnes Scott now? Thanksgiving is coming, of course, and everybody is beginning to talk of the good time they are going to have. Some who live near Atlanta, are talking of going home, and those who live too far away to go back before Christmas are talking of their Thanksgiving box that the home folks will be sure to send.

All the old girls know what a good time they have here at Agnes Scott on Thanksgiving. In the morning all the students go on a hike, and when they return they have lunch in the tea room, where they have large waiters of good things to eat.

Then at six o'clock a big turkey dinner is served. The dining rooms are decorated for the occasion with all kinds of fall flowers and leaves. The tables are decorated with flowers and lighted candles and everybody wears their very best dress-up dresses. While the dinner is served the different tables in the dining room sing to members of the faculty, Agnes Scott, and life in general, and then of course there are original songs about Thanksgiving from the peppiest tables.

Everybody is always glad when Thanksgiving comes, for it is just three weeks until holidays and Christmas.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

This week is set aside by the World's Y. W. C. A. as a week of prayer. Constance M. Waldegrave, World President of the Association, says: "In the rush and hurry of life we miss a great deal, because we allow ourselves so little time to seek His face and hear His voice—and now during this week of prayer we want to prepare our hearts and stretch forth our hands to receive the blessing of God. May we ask of Him that our Association all over the world may be a power working for Righteousness, Purity, Truth and Love, and thank Him together for what He has already revealed to us of His purpose and will."

The calendar for the week is as follows:

Sunday, November 14—Prayer for the spirit and a study of the work of the Y. W. in Africa.

Tuesday, November 16—America; a day of Thanksgiving.

Wednesday, November 17—Asia; a day of intercession for the broken in spirit and the restless in heart.

Thursday, November 18—Australia; a day of intercession for leaders and all in authority.

Friday, November 19—Europe, a day of intercession for the church.

Saturday, November 20—Europe continued; a day of intercession for the Association.

WORLD-FELLOWSHIP PAGEANT.

"The Striking of America's Hour" is the title of the pageant to be presented by the World-Fellowship department of the Y. W. next Sunday night in the chapel. Woodrow Wilson said: "The swing of America's destiny is as wide as the world." The purpose of the Y. W. in giving this pageant at this time is to impress upon us America's responsibility because of her relation to the other nations; that thought is the central theme in "The Striking of America's Hour."

The cast which has been selected includes about twenty-five. Their spirit in the rehearsals has been splendid. They all realize that they have a big thing to give to the student body.

Fannie McCaa, as the Spirit of Brotherhood, has the chief role. Others taking part are Julia Watkins, Lillian McAlpine, Ellen McLean, Cornelia Cartland, Margaret McColgan, Virginia Ordway, Lois McLain, Dorothy Bowron, Emma Hermann, Charlotte McMurray, Mary White Caldwell, Jeannette Landrum, Clara Mae Allen, Barron Hyatt, Virginia Merrin, Virginia Burum, Helen Crocker, Mary B. Bowdoin, Josephine Gardner, Cornelia Archer, Frances Myers, Josephine Logan, Frances Gilliland, Claudia Sentelle.

CHURCH AFFILIATION.

Every girl in school has now a church home and a church mother. This may not mean anything except that a girl has decided which church she wants to go to when she is restricted; for then she can go to no church except the one with which she is affiliated. But it may mean more than that. Church affiliation gives her a chance to take part in the work of one church as if it were her own; to feel that one congregation is expecting her.

Church mothers are a new institution. It is thought, though, that Agnes Scott girls will find them very useful. In Decatur their homes will be places for girls to feel at home and to get good advice when they need it, not to mention being invited out to dinner occasionally. In town there will be another headquarters for those who think Atlanta is a long way from Decatur.

A VISITOR EXPECTED.

The Y. W. C. A., together with the sociology department, has invited Dr. Owen Lovejoy, the head of the National Child Labor Association to come here the last of this week. His headquarters are in New York, but he is making a Southern tour now, and we hope that he can make Agnes Scott one of his stops. He speaks with authority on a subject which should be of interest to every woman since women have been given the vote.

BLUE TRIANGLE NEWS

Why Not Let "Gift Granny" Help You With Your Christmas List?

GIFT GRANNY says that Christmas time is nearing and wouldn't you like to have her Secretary serve you in finding out just what your friends want for Christmas this year instead of holding a guessing contest about it?

Gift Granny's Secretary is here in our store, up on the Third Floor and there you may go and find out just what it is Aunt Mary, or Cousin Bob, or Mother will appreciate most as a Christmas Gift.

It is a simple process and you are assured that none of the folks you are interested in will ever find out who it is wants to know. Oh, no indeed, we keep your name a secret.

This is how it is done. Gift Granny's secretary writes a little letter for you saying "Someone" would like to know, and a convenient form is enclosed on which to list the articles they want most as a gift, and then you come back in a couple of days and Gift Granny's Secretary hands you the list of desired gifts IN THE HAND WRITING OF THE PERSON you wish to give to.

And we do not charge a cent for this service, we are glad to render it.

Any time you are in the store just come to the third floor and ask for Gift Granny's Secretary, or you can phone, or if you happen to be at a distance you can write and the same identical "secret service" will be rendered.

Isn't that a splendid idea to assure the appreciation of the folks to whom you will give this Christmas?

WRITE, PHONE OR CALL IN PERSON. ASK FOR GIFT GRANNY ON THE PHONE. ADDRESS YOUR LETTER TO "THE CHIMNEY CORNER". IF YOU COME IN, GIFT GRANNY'S TEMPORARY SECRETARY IS ON THE THIRD FLOOR.

ABSOLUTELY NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

My Dearest Aggie:

Oh gee! Aggie, we've had the "mostest" excitement here. There were signs all over the place asking in large purple letters whether we liked a good time, cuts and lights on until eleven. Oh no! of course we didn't—oh no! Well it turned out awfully nice—we're going to have a miniature Chautauqua all our own. But you know, by the time everyone in college had pondered "weightily" upon these things and had offered her opinion as to what it was—expectations were miles high and we had all decided that it could be nothing less than a week's holiday.

Well, Aggie, "Bill" really came at last and you know Peg had been talking about him so much that she wanted all of her friends to see that he really was as cute as she had said, so Bill was calmly "parked" somewhere on the campus every morning while Peg, in her Sunday best, dashed off to classes. Gee! I'll bet she thinks that one never knows how many good friends one has, who have nothing to do, until one leaves a perfectly good beau out on the campus all "by his lonesome."

Gee! Miss Agnes is a popular looking place these days, especially when the special delivery boy comes up with his load of letters and packages. Mary Mann got two "specials" and a box of candy, in one day, mind you!

And the other day Helen Crocker and Mary Kelley took off the honor by getting five. Wouldn't that be heavenly, Aggie? Oh I could be happy forever if I saw my name there just once, and the mail man must have winked knowingly when he took out a package from "Wake Forest," for it contained a huge pennant for Edythe Clarke. Isn't that thrilling?

Let me tell you something cute "Liz" did last night. She knew that Anne was looking for a long distance call from some boy in Gainesville, so she worried Anne all evening by calling and telling her she had a phone call until poor Anne was nearly distracted, because she didn't know whether to believe "Liz" or not. This morning at 9:00 the call really came and then Anne wouldn't believe "Liz" but she was finally persuaded that she really had a call.

We have a "restored romance" on the campus too for "Jez's" old beau, George, wrote to her the other day. Now that's fine to hear from old beaus, but think of poor me, I don't even hear from new ones (good reason—I have none!)

Aggie, dear, please tell all your friends (especially the unattached ones) about how sweet and attractive (you can prevaricate for once) your friend Giddie is and maybe I'll have some chance when I come home Christmas.

Yours (romantically inclined),
Giddie.

WANT TO MAKE FUDGE SOMETIME?

Seniors Offer You a Place.

Girls! Aren't you hungry for some fudge, divinity, or a steaming hot oyster stew? The Seniors offer this opportunity and with it the fun of cooking.

All that has to be done to rent the Domestic Science Room in the Home Economics Building is to get permission from Aimee D. Glover, president of the Senior class. Every utensil necessary for cooking is there ready for use and the loveliest little dining room all furnished. These rooms will be rented gladly for fifty cents an hour with only the condition that they must be cleaned up after each spread.

In order that the rooms may be reserved one should speak for them several days ahead, especially for Sunday night. There is nothing on the campus which affords more fun than this ideal place to make candies, Welch rarebits and all good things to eat. Come, let's everyone try it.

A FAIR ANSWER.

A farm hand sat under a sour apple tree,
With a ouija board on his manly knee;
With worried frown, of the board he asked:
"Does the farmer's sweet daughter care for me?"

Another young man 'neath a gay peach tree,
The self same question asked, and he bore neither frown nor board, you see,
The farmer's sweet daughter sat on his knee.

—Cartoons.

Everything seems to have gone up except test marks.

HEROISM.

She sits alone in the darkened room,
Alone in fading light,
Why is her brow so heavy with gloom
And her cheek so deadly white?

But though her heart is sick with care,
Her courage never blanches.
Her eyes are fixed in glassy stare—
What is it her firm hand clenches?

"A little courage," she murmurs,
"Yes,
A little and all is won,
A choking gurgle more or less,
A gasp and the deed is done."

Without a shudder or an eyelid wink—
Ah, it makes the heart recoil!
That heroine did calmly drink
A dose of castor oil.

Seniors Win Over Juniors.

The early bird catches the worm, but what if there are two energetic birds and only one worm? Then there is a scrap like there was Tuesday morning at 6:30 when the Freshman-Sophomore hockey game was played. The game was hard fought and at the end of the second half the score was tied, so the teams decided to play one more goal. The Freshmen got this goal, winning the game 3 to 2. Both forward lines were exceptionally good, but the Freshmen seemed to put a great deal of pep and team work into their playing.

The Junior-Senior game also was played at 6:30 A. M., the Seniors winning by a score of 2 to 1.

As the games stand now, the Seniors have won three, the Juniors two, the Sophomores one and the Freshmen two. There are four more games to be played during the season, and the winning class will have a good start for the athletic cup at the end of the year.

TAKE A DIP IN AGNES SCOTT'S POOL.

Have you ever been in swimming at Agnes Scott? Well, then, maybe you think our pool is a joke, and that nobody bothers to go in; but, if you could have seen the names on the sign-up board last Thursday you would certainly have changed your mind.

Our pool is just the right size for a short, snappy swim, especially in winter weather, for the water can be cooled or heated according to your own ideas of comfort and pleasure.

Four girls at a time are allowed in our natatorium and as the time limit is thirty minutes, don't plead lack of time as an excuse for not going in. Sign up on the board in the north end of the gym, and go in swimming as soon and as often as you like. Then write home and demand to be taken to the sea-shore next summer on the grounds that you "can swim the length of the Agnes Scott pool eighteen times without stopping!"

SENIOR CAPS AND GOWNS ARRIVE.

The Senior caps and gowns have arrived at last and they are only waiting for Margaret McLaughlin's return from Elmira, New York, to have investiture.

This service was to have been held last Saturday a week ago, but was delayed by the non-appearance of caps and gowns.

MUSIC

Puritans enjoyed this greatly and told the Indians that they were thrilled to death to get something else besides grits!

When the feast was over both the Indians and settlers joined in a dance. The music was fine and everybody had just loads of pep.

A bunch of joyous college girls, transformed into sedate and dignified Puritans looked very picturesque, dancing around in this wild country with Indians.

The dance did not break up until the last bell was heard. Everybody went gleefully home, talking of the grand time that the Freshmen had given them!

HOASC GIRLS GIVE STUNT NIGHT.

the debaters and the affirmative side, taken by the Mnemosynean Society, had the first speech. The speaker, Mrs. Pankhurst Cat, stood upon the soap box and urged the women to use soap to clean up the dirty politics of the men. The negative side was taken by the Propyleans, and the speaker on that side, Mrs. Will B. Cook, most effeminately feminine, declared soap had more service among pots than politics. Before she could finish her speech, consisting mainly of her husband's opinions, Mrs. Cat pounced upon her. A veritable battle ensued, during which the other debaters fled in horror.

The Publications showed the three children, "Aggie," "Aurora," and "Silhouette," unable to go to Agnes Scott until "Uncle Student Body" furnished the money. The K. U. B. stunt was also most clever and original.

After all these stunts had been given and every spoke put in the wheel, the participants of the whole performance gathered on the stage and sang "Hottentot," in which everybody joined.

On this occasion Hoasc showed its usual ability and left another good record on its history.

FIRST ISSUE OF AURORA COMES OUT.

Many New Features.

Everybody at Agnes Scott is highly delighted and pleased with the splendid first issue of the Aurora, which came out last week. It entirely fulfilled the expectations of the Freshmen who had never seen a copy, and the old girls were as proud of it as ever—perhaps more so, for several additions and changes in arrangement helped the number greatly.

The editors are hoping and expecting to enlarge all the departments of the magazine and here we should say, a larger number of essays especially is desired. Since our magazine has made a start like this, and since it is confident of the support of the students, a brilliantly successful year is certainly assured for the Aurora.

EXCHANGES

Two new students at Western Reserve University are Miss Anne Marie Poree, from Burgunday, and Mrs. Araksee Aghajanian, Armenia.—Reserve Weekly.

H. E. Bard, foreign adviser to the Minister of Education of Peru, inspected the Georgia School of Technology on a tour of prominent American institutions which he is making in order to formulate a plan for the reorganization of the Peruvian educational system. It is altogether possible that the Georgia School of Technology may be used in part as a model for the technical institutions installed in Peru. Mr. Bard expressed his appreciation of the organization of the school, and was altogether very complimentary about the spirit pervading the campus.—Technique.

PECULIARITIES.

Some of the greatest peculiarities of mankind are found among our most noted literary men. Robert Browning could not sit still. The constant shuffling of his feet wore holes in the carpet. Edgar Allen Poe slept with his cat, and was very proud of his feet. Dickens was fond of flashy jewelry. Oliver Wendell Holmes used to carry a horse chestnut in one pocket and a potato in another to ward off rheumatism. Hawthorne always washed his hands before reading a letter from his wife. Victor Hugo spoke little; his remarks usually were made in the form of questions. Keats liked red pepper on his toast. Edmund Clarence Stedman had his favorite cat sit in a high chair at the table every day at dinner. Count Tolstoy went bare-footed and hatless the year round. James Fenimore Cooper could not write unless he had gum drops in his mouth. He ordered them in ten pound lots.—Howard Crimson.

W. K.

The Y. W. C. A. of Shorter College has been reorganized into three circles. The purpose of the Y. W. C. A. together with the present officers, remain the same. Each of the three circles is to have a leader, secretary and treasurer, together with sub-chairmen who will work in co-operation with the main cabinet chairmen. It is believed that as a result of the reorganization, the religious activities of the college will have three times the force that they have had in the past.—The Periscope.

The Davidson tennis team took the first trip of the year to Elon, Trinity and Wake Forest. The trip was a success, the team winning from Elon and Trinity, though losing to Wake Forest.

Do not become so occupied with the busy routine of your everyday life that you will fail to catch the inspiration of a future life of great, unselfish service.—Davidsonian.

Mr. Stukes (to Philosophy I class): "Young ladies, I am dismissing you ten minutes early today; please go out quietly so as not to wake Dr. Armistead's class."

CLASS OF '21 INVESTED MONDAY

Address Given By Mr. Stukes.

One of the most memorable services of the whole year is that of Investiture. This service invests the Senior with new dignity; fills the Junior with complacency because she is so soon to have an important part in a similar service; puts longing into the heart of the Sophomore; and overwhelms the Freshman with awe.

It has been the custom for years for the Seniors to dress as children the day before Investiture, for one last youthful and care-free frolic. Our Seniors did this some time ago, but Investiture had to be delayed and could not follow the day after the children's frolic.

On last Monday Investiture was no less impressive than usual. The Sophomores, dressed in white, came first into the chapel and formed an aisle; the Seniors in their gowns, caps in hand, formed an aisle outside of the chapel, through which the faculty passed. Led by Dr. Gaines, the faculty, with the Seniors, following passed down the aisle while "Ancient of Days" was played.

The service was opened by prayer and a few remarks by Dr. Gaines. Mr. Stukes then gave the address of the occasion. He talked upon the subject of true education which Investiture symbolized. After this, came the act of investing. One by one the Seniors knelt before Miss Hopkins, who pinned each girl's cap upon her head. Alma Mater was sung with deep feeling, then the procession went out in the same order in which it had entered.

The solemn sweetness of this occasion impressed us all. To the Freshman investiture brings a message of hope, of a goal achieved after long and hard years of striving; for the Sophomore it adds new dignity to the already beloved Senior sister; to the Junior it brings the thought that before very long she also will wear the cap and gown, with all that it symbolizes; to the Senior it is an occasion inexpressibly sad, yet a glorious one, bringing with it the realization that although this is her last year at Agnes Scott, it is her best one, too. As it has done in past years, let this Investiture service bring to each one of us an inspiration that will last until another is done.

GALLI-CURCI TO BE IN ATLANTA THANKSGIVING

Many Agnes Scott Girls Will Attend.

After the big Thanksgiving dinner and all other delights of that day, Agnes Scott will have an opportunity to go to Atlanta and hear Galli-Curci, whom we all know as one of the foremost prima donnas of the day. This artist is noted as an interpretative genius. A reputation which she has gained both by natural endowment and through years of study to perfect her art.

Her audiences are exceptionally large since she appeals not only to connoisseurs of music, but to those who know nothing about it, but love it just for its own sake. Her extraordinary appeal is due to her personality as well as to her wonderful voice. Her personality won instant recognition for her when she first came to America, and made her debut in Chicago in 1916.

Galli-Curci's life has been a mixture of sunshine and shadow. Born in Milan, Italy, of wealthy parents, she was brought up in a home which was a rendezvous for celebrated men and women. For some time she studied piano at the Conservatory at Milan. Her impetus as a vocalist was given her through the encouragement of Pietro Mascagni, composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana." Her training in this branch of the musical art went along smoothly until her family met with financial reverses. Then Galli-Curci had to earn her living by working, but insisted on setting aside a part of each day for the cultivation of her voice. After a while the family fortunes were better and the young Amelita went to Rome, where she did very successful opera singing for the sum of six dollars and twenty-five cents a performance. When her three year contract at Rome was ended she went to Turin, Barcelona and then to South America. All this time her fame was growing rapidly.

When she came to the United States where people knew little of her she won the hearts of all in her role

"PANDORA," THEME SELECTED FOR MAY DAY

Rachel Rushton, Author.

The scenario for May Day has at last been selected. Its name is "Pandora" and its author Rachel Rushton. The try-outs were unusually good this year and the judges burned much of the midnight oil over the decision.

The curtain rises on a scene ages before sin entered the world. Flowers bloomed eternally in the fields and the children of Zeus wandered peacefully over the earth. Their happiness was unmarred by want and they danced and played eternally.

Act I.

At dawn Aurora with her maidens creeps into the valley of the temple of Zeus, filling the vale with crimson and golden glory. They call out the Dewdrops and send them to awaken the Dryads. Then they all disappear leaving the Dryads dancing around the fountain. Next the pansies are induced to come out and dance until the Sunflowers frighten them away, who in turn hold carnival around the fountain. Finally the Harvest goddess calls the fruits and grains, who drive the flowers away and hold their festival. When the dance is over they are warned by the echoes of the approach of Epineheus. The fruits quickly disappear and a song is heard. Epineheus enters with a band of playmates. After resting a few moments they join in a dance and leave the valley deserted.

Act II.

Mercury enters with Pandora, on whom is bestowed all the gifts of the gods. The flowers dance around her and the fruits and grains come forth to bid her welcome. A band of maidens are called to dance with Pandora and Epineheus, attracted by the music enters and falls in love with her. They dance together and the throng leaves.

Act III.

Pandora enters the garden alone. Hearing a voice she turns to see Tris accompanied by her maidens and bearing a beautiful urn. This is placed in Pandora's hands with the warning that it must never be opened. Epineheus and his companions come to tease her but she is true to her promise. When they leave, overcome by curiosity she opens the urn. A dense smoke arises and immediately the imps of evil come to torment her. Finally Hope creeps in and she is comforted. The maidens, flowers and grains return and join in a final dance.

Miss Wade and Miss Wilburn are already at work on the scenario and any suggestions on new costumes and dances would be quite welcome. We are all looking forward to May Day and know that this one will be the best in the history of Agnes Scott.

of Gilda in Rigoletto. From Chicago she went to New York, where a great ovation was given her. Now demands for her appearance are so numerous that she can answer only a few, and we may consider ourselves very fortunate indeed in having her with us.

THREE CHEERS FOR THANKSGIVING, TURKEY AND CRANBERRIES

Blackfriar Play in the Evening.

What anticipation for the box from home!

What anticipation for the first holiday!

Thanksgiving comes around every year and yet each time it is different, even at Agnes Scott. What are you going to do in the morning? What shall you do in the afternoon? What have you planned for that night?

At ten o'clock the first hockey game will be pulled off and each class will be out with their colors flying. Who will carry away with them the silver cup, and who is to have second standing? Anyway we all will carry away with us memories of those games of 1920. Let us all give fifteen rahs for Hockey!

Then comes lunch, and we are all off for the tea room. Chocolate and sandwiches, pickles and tea, oh, how good that sounds to me.

The hike comes next and Jeanie and her flock are off again for a long, wonderful hike across country. Still others are excitedly starting off to see the wonderful Tech-Auburn game. But no matter how far we may have wandered, all roads lead to the dining room at six-thirty P. M. But what a change! It is wonderful—everyone is "dressed up" in silk, satin and evening dress. The tables are even "dressed up," and—yes, the turkey is "dressed up." We feel as if we are attending a real banquet. Everything is excitement, and dinner is served in a lot of courses.

But feasts and banquets do not last always. Why should they, when there is another in store as soon as we can run upstairs and get into our shoes and furs. Galli-Curci is at the Atlanta Auditorium, and of course all those who can go are eagerly waiting for the other member of their party—and they are off for the next car.

We who stay behind are by no means left out. There is to be a treat at Agnes Scott also. The Blackfriars are going to give "Three Dear Friends" in chapel at eight-thirty, and the rest of us have our chance for another treat.

Just one more anticipation—the midnight feast—the Thanksgiving box that Mother has sent. Perhaps we are now thinking of last Thanksgiving, the Freshmen especially, for they were at home. But Thanksgiving at Agnes Scott means just as much to the old girls, as home does to the Freshmen. It has a meaning all its own, and we love it—we love Thanksgiving at Agnes Scott.

Everybody put on your best dress and your best smile Thursday night, and prepare to eat the best dinner you ever had. Then we'll wish Thanksgiving would come every day.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM ELMIRA

With glowing accounts of the place, the conference, the people and everything about it, our delegates returned last Tuesday from the National Student Government Conference, held at Elmira College. It was also with glowing pride that we welcomed them home, for we were justly proud of our representatives and felt that we could not have made a better choice of girls whom we would send North to represent the interests, aims and ideals of our beloved Alma Mater.

In every detail the trip was a success, for at the beginning Margaret and Nell were given the opportunity to spend a day at their homes in Virginia.

Then the next day found Margaret in Washington and Nell at Hollins, where her sister is in school and where she met the Hollins delegate to the conference. At Lynchburg, the Randolph-Macon delegates joined the party and later in Washington Margaret met the group and they went on to Elmira, N. Y., picking up delegates all along the way.

Tea For Delegates.

Upon their arrival at Elmira, the girls found a tea in full swing in their honor, which acquainted the various representatives with each other and started the conference with a feeling of friendliness and welcome. Each delegate found an Elmira girl waiting for her, to serve as guide and "information bureau." These girls escorted the delegates to dinner that night and then to the play, "Fanny and the Servant Problem," which was presented by the Senior class in honor of their guests.

Snowstorm Greets Newcomers.

Friday morning, much to the surprise and delight of the Southern delegates, a soft, white, flurry of snow was in the air, which gave some idea of the possibilities of a real live Northern blizzard, with which they were totally unacquainted. Doubtless at the same time they were seeking the protecting warmth of furs, we were admiring the roses blooming in Dr. Sweet's yard!

In spite of the allurements of the outdoors, the first morning session of the conference was held from nine till twelve o'clock on Friday. At this session Miss Collins, the president of the Student Government Association of Elmira, presided, and questions pertaining to the problems of Student Government were discussed. Lunch hour brought this meeting to a close.

Trip to Watkins Glen.

After lunch a most delightful trip was planned to the State park, Watkins Glen. The Rotary Club members were hosts on this occasion and took the girls on this twenty-mile trip in automobiles. Being totally unprepared for trips in such cold weather, the Southern conference members would have been transformed into icicles had not the thoughtful Elmira girls bundled them up in their own warm furs, sweaters and mackinaws. They reported the trip as most delightful, as Watkins Glen is a wonderful place.

By the time the last automobile returned to the campus it was time for dinner, which was an occasion for full dress, and was also accompanied by the college orchestra, which played many peppy college songs all during the meal.

Address by Mrs. Rosenberg.

Immediately afterward the evening session met and was addressed by Mrs. Rosenberg, the president of the National Inter-Collegiate Alumnae Association. Her subject was one of vital interest as it had to do with the relation of Student Government to the college girl. She brought out very strongly the thought that the growth of Student Government and of the college girl have gone hand in hand. This inspiring talk lasted until half past eight, at which time a

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

WON'T YOU WRITE A COLLEGE SONG?

The students have heard many appeals lately for an original college song—yet no college song has appeared. The Agonistic wants to add its appeal to the others.

As old as our college is, as large and as influential, it is a disgrace that we have no tune that is all our own. Especially now when we are to have an inter-collegiate debate here in the spring as well as the Southern Inter-collegiate Conference, it is especially necessary that we have some original songs to be proud of.

There are girls at Agnes Scott who can write poetry. There are also girls who can compose music. If these girls would get together, we could soon have some college songs that we can be really proud of.

THE AGNES SCOTT SPIRIT.

That's what makes Agnes Scott the wonderful college that it is—just the Agnes Scott Spirit. Indefinable? Yes;—intangible, but none the less real and effective and influential.

The Agnes Scott spirit has been handed down to us by those who have gone on before as a wonderful heritage. It consists of loyalty to our school, willingness to work for its improvement, enthusiasm for its success, interest in its problems, and love for all of it.

The Agnes Scott spirit is one of our dearest possessions. May we always keep it, and hand it down to those who will follow us just as we have received it.

Student Government News

Students are asked to be especially careful about going into rooms alone. The girls are not obeying this rule as they should.

At the Student Government meeting last Tuesday the following announcements were made:

Students are reminded to have their callers register with the maid. Time limit is now 5:00 o'clock.

New proctors were announced for the next three weeks.

Students are reminded to turn off lights when leaving gymnasium building at night when they have meetings there.

Students are reminded to keep parlors in better order when they have callers. The Mnemosynean Hall has been particularly disordered lately.

Groups talking in the halls outside of class rooms or on the campus near the windows of the classrooms are asked to be more quiet.

The following Library rules were read again:

1. Reserve books are to be used only in the main reading room; they are not to be taken elsewhere without special permission.
2. Likewise books shelved in the study rooms are not to be used in other parts of the library.
3. All books should be returned before leaving the library. Never leave books on the table.
4. Reserve books are not to be taken from library until 9 o'clock regardless of whether the girls who have books signed wish to study together.

"When you leave the campus you carry the reputation of your school in your hand." Many of us do not think about the seriousness of carrying the reputation of Agnes Scott in our hands when we leave the campus; for if we did we would not straggle into the Decatur churches after the collection has been taken, and sometimes even after the sermon has commenced. It is a fact, though a disgraceful one, that four college girls came into the Decatur Presbyterian Church recently at twenty-five minutes past twelve. The reason is that going to church in Decatur does not require as great an effort as going to church in town, and consequently we fail to put forth even the required effort. We feel that we are so near that it is not necessary to leave school until time for church. But any one attracts attention by entering a gathering late, and Decatur people have an uncanny faculty for spotting Agnes Scott girls. When they come to church late, therefore, the congregation thinks, "There's Agnes Scott, late as usual. What an irresponsible set they are. Why doesn't the faculty say something to them?" Now in truth, the faculty has said something about being late; and the Church Affiliation Committee, whose especial responsibility the matter is, is urging every girl now to think how it weakens the influence of the Agnes Scott ideal for her to be late off the campus, and to make a point hereafter of being on time herself.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

That this is Thanksgiving week is not a news item, but the fact that our Association will return thanks for its especial blessings in a beautiful service next Sunday night is. There will be nothing spectacular about this praise service, since the sincerest gratitude is the simplest. But there will be special music, appropriate to the occasion, and a leader from the Alumnae Association. All those who have enjoyed the benefits of the Y. W. this year will want to take part in this meeting.

OUTSIDE SPEAKERS.

The World Fellowship Committee of the Y. W. C. A. was extremely fortunate in being able to secure such excellent outside speakers during the world week of prayer. Mrs. Mott Martin is already well known to Agnes Scott girls, as is also Dr. Lacy of the Central Presbyterian Church, who conducted the service on Europe. But our week-end visitor was an entirely new friend to most of us. Miss Dobson is an English woman by birth, but she is touring the United States now speaking in schools and colleges on behalf of the Student Volunteer movement. She herself has been a missionary to India, as we all know because of her sympathetic talk on that country's needs. She has a great, unselfish love that makes her talks an inspiration, and a cheerful, friendly disposition that makes her stay here a pleasant memory for our Y. W. C. A.

FRENCH CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING.

Sarah Fulton Tells Story—Committees Appointed.

The French Club, though still in its infancy, is flourishing, and shows great possibilities. It held a most interesting meeting Friday night in the Propylean hall, which everybody enjoyed very much, because it was informal and each was allowed to take part. This meeting of the club consisted only of the Agnes Scott branch, as the Atlanta branch meets with them only every other time.

For a short while before the beginning of the program the club was divided into informal groups of five or six, who conversed in French. Everybody enjoyed this, because it gave each an opportunity to show how beautifully she could speak in the French language.

After this, the business was transacted. The secretary read the minutes, and the treasurer made her report. Then some committees were appointed by the chairman; a constitutional committee, consisting of Lois Compton, Sarah Till and Coma Burgess, and a Bulletin Board committee, with Eleanor Hyde as chairman, having the authority to select the other members of her committee.

When this business was disposed of, Eleanor Carpenter gave a most interesting report of the trip that some of the French students made to Emory University Tuesday night, and following this Sarah Fulton gave a story in French, charmingly and entertainingly told. Miss Fulton, in giving this selection, showed that she had made great progress in her study of French, and her pronunciation was so clear that all were able to follow and enjoy the story.

Next came the regular singing, in which all could join, and this they did with enthusiasm. This is always one of the most enjoyable parts of the program, for the French songs are so beautiful that it is a real pleasure to sing them.

The singing closed the program and the club was adjourned to meet again the following Friday.

DID YOU KNOW?

Perhaps when someone asks us how many girls there are at Agnes Scott we are not quite sure. Some of us do not know how many class-mates we have. Here are a few statistics which will enlighten us on the subject:

Number enrolled	445
Number Seniors	56
Number Juniors	52
Number Sophomores	90
Number Freshmen	162
Number Irregulars	50
Number Specials	8
Number Northern Girls	7
Number Western Girls	10
Number Southern Girls	425
Number Presbyterians	174
Number Methodists	108
Number Baptists	86
Number Episcopalians	28
Number Christians	5
Number Lutherans	1
Number Faculty	36

ALUMNAE

Reunion of Class '20 Thanksgiving.

There is to be a reunion of the class of 1920 at Agnes Scott during Thanksgiving. Everybody is looking forward with pleasure to seeing these old girls back again, and if the Freshmen aren't anticipating the arrival of these alumnae with as much pleasure as the old students are, they will certainly be mighty sorry to see them go. So Mary B. and Jule and Crip and Beth and all the others, we're so glad you're coming, and can hardly wait to see you.

"Gee! It's beastly weather!"
"I should say so—it's raining cats and dogs."

SOPHOMORES ENTERTAIN.

Dance Saturday Evening in the Gym.

On last Saturday night, the Sophomores entertained delightfully with a dance in the gymnasium. A splendid orchestra was procured and played continually from eight until ten-thirty.

Almost the entire school attended the ball and are grateful to the Sophomore class for a most delightful evening. The gym was most tastefully decorated, and the hostesses were very cordial and hospitable.

About ten o'clock delicious ice cream and cake was served by members of the Sophomore class. The guests left, after the last strains of "Home, Sweet Home" had died away, declaring that they "had never had such a good time."

GIDDIE GOSSIP

My Dear Aggie:
I'm so excited I just simply cannot write a long letter, but when you hear what I have to tell you, you will be so excited too, that it won't make any difference whether the letter is long or short.
Have you ever heard of Don A. Cook? No, I didn't say "Darn the cook," although I would like to on the days we have chocolate bread pudding. This person is a perfectly good man—and Mary Lou has fallen for him so hard that I'm afraid she'll never get over it. Y'see he came to see her on Saturday night and then on Monday night he came again and took Mary Lou to the concert in Decatur. Honestly, Aggie, it's the most exciting thing you ever heard of in all your life.

And you didn't know Twitty is wearing a new frat pin, in addition to her navy jewelry, did you? Humph! well, Aggie, my dear, you're behind the times absolutely. And Liz had a letter from New York a few days ago. That sounds serious, to me, Aggie.
But the popularity of these Freshmen absolutely "floors" me! Here little Frances Waller got an enormous box of candy in a perfectly wonderful oriental looking box all the way from California and it isn't the first one of its kind that has come from the "Land of Sunshine" for her. Gee! I'm glad to have a bar of Hershey's. Grateful? That's "I'm!"

"You tell 'em tool box, you've got the saw."
Just think, Aggie, it's only twenty-nine days now until we leave for home and Christmas holidays, but even that much time is just like eternity when one is as tired of school and as hungry for some home "eats" as I am. Tell Aunt Cindy she can just start cooking now if she wants to have the pantry full enough for me.
I'll see you soon, I'm too busy now to write you more.
Love (in a rush),
GIDDIE.
P. S.—A boy winked at me today. He was cute and had red hair! Whoops! I'm coming out!

AGNES SCOTT ANSWERS RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

College Total $202 So Far.

Have you answered to your name in the fourth Red Cross Roll Call? We know that Agnes Scott is going to contribute liberally. Although the Red Cross is asking for about one-third less this year than last, the responses all over the country are coming more slowly. This is all the more reason why we who can spare one dollar should think of the poverty-stricken families whom the Red Cross is aiding.
Dr. Sweet and her helpers have very ably carried on the campaign at Agnes Scott. So far the results for 1921 are as follows:
Inman, White House and Lupten $ 86.00
Rebekah Scott 39.00
Main 20.00
Atlanta Day Students 17.00
Faculty 40.00
Total $202.00

These results have not come up to last year's record of about $300, but "we ain't got weary yet an' we'll make that mark, you bet." If you have neglected to pay your dollar hunt up the girl who is receiving contributions in your building. The call lasts until November 25th. Unlike an English II class you can answer this roll early or late. In fact Dr. Sweet says it's never too late, so pay your dollar to the Red Cross tomorrow.

MISS CURRY GIVES RECITAL IN DECATUR.

Blackfriars Present "Three Dear Friends."

A concert was given Monday night, November the fifteenth, at the Court House for one of the circles of the Decatur Presbyterian Church. Miss Curry of Agnes Scott, and Mr. Barnes, a Theological student at Emory, delighted the audience with their songs.
Both Miss Curry, accompanied by Miss Sutphen, and Mr. Barnes, accompanied by Mr. Dewey, sang a number of solos, closing with a duet. The soprano and baritone blended beautifully and called forth much applause.
After the recital, four of the Blackfriars gave a play, "Three Dear Friends." This was the first time that the Blackfriars have played off the campus. Those taking part were Coma Burgess, Martha Taliaferro, Lucile Smith and Annie Byrd Maxwell.

LITTLE BREAKS.

An Ear-splitting Reception.

"Mr. Holland was greeted by a loud burst of silence as he entered the room."
Mr. A. Smith and his daughter were killed and seventeen other persons were knocked conscious by a stroke of lightning yesterday.
An optician was testing Mary's eyes. He held up before her the card with the letters, varying in sizes.
"Can you read this?" he said as he pointed to the top line of letters.
"Oh, yes, I can read it, but heavens knows, I can't pronounce it."

WHY WE ARE THANKFUL ON THANKSGIVING.

Do you remember a song that you used to sing in grammar school that ends up something like this?
"Hurrah for the fun, is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!"
And do you remember the awfully thrilling feelin' that you used to have when you sang it—for it meant that Thanksgiving Day was coming and it seemed that you could just smell the roast turkey and the pudding and the pumpkin pie and all the other things that go along with these sure signs?
Well, our grade school days are over, and most of us have stopped singing that song, but the excited feeling still comes about this time every year; we are wondering what is going to happen, and how much we're thankful for.
At Agnes Scott especially, the prospect takes on new qualities such as involve a holiday, a big six o'clock dinner and such things.
Of course we are all thankful separately in hundreds of personal, individual ways and for as many different reasons, but as classes and organizations what are we thankful for?

Everybody must admit that the Senior class has heaps to be thankful for—especially since the caps and gowns have come and with them investiture service, (wasn't it a wonderful and solemn occasion?) and now they are rejoicing in their new feeling of dignity and honor—and wouldn't you be thankful too if your pictures were at last all finished and the ordeal over?

The Juniors agree with the Seniors that it's fine to have pictures all over with, but they're inclined to be thankful that they have Senior honors to look forward to rather than to enjoy just now. They think that it's all fine and solemn to be a Senior but that they think it's just as nice to be a Junior—if not a wee bit nicer—it's so much fun being a Junior—they would rather travel hopefully than arrive at Seniorhood.

And then the Sophomores—well, they contend that they have the most yet to be thankful for, because surely it's a grand thing to be the sister class of such an illustrious class as '21 is, and the sharer in the Seniors' glory and joy. Besides this, the Sophomore class is happy and thankful that they are Sophomores—just half way through—with something to look back on and still more to look forward to.

The class of '24 is sure that the thing they are most thankful for is that they came to Agnes Scott—and then because they are Freshmen. Really it is a grand experience and with it comes the thrill that comes once in a lifetime. Another reason they have for thankfulness is that Thanksgiving marks the approach of another season—Christmas—less than a month off—a long vacation, and home, and—bliss!
Some folks might think that the Irregular class, being irregular, have nothing in particular to give thanks for, but really they have, for instance, such things as the joys of exemption from Math, and Latin, and time to pursue art and music and other studies which many "regulars" are prevented from enjoying because of so many hours in specified studies of more academic nature.
But what about the Faculty—last but far from least? What are they thankful for? Well, for one thing they are thankful for one whole day in which to do as they please—no classes to meet, no lessons to assign—"nothing to do 'til tomorrow." Also they're thankful for being faculty at A. S. C.—and incidentally we are unanimously thankful that they are, too.

This brings up the question of what we are, as a whole, thankful for—besides the usual thing. Some of these, already mentioned, are: holiday, a big dinner at six on Thanksgiving evening with all the "fancy fixin's" and extra dishes that one would expect. Oh, and evening dress! It's such fun to "dress up"—isn't it—and feel like a lady of leisure once more?
After all, aren't there a lot of things to make us truly thankful? Of course, all the reasons mentioned are rather outside and beyond the reasons that make us, deep in our hearts, feel like giving thanks. For to be sure these aren't all the reasons, nor even the least part of them, but counting them all there are many, and thanks in proportion are due the Giver of them all.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN—ONE ALLIGATOR.

Romola Davis Offers Reward.
What would you do if you woke up some cold blizzardy morning and found a scaly reptile straight from Florida, gaping at you with every cruel tooth gleaming? This is what the Rebekah Scott inmates live in daily expectation of, since Romola Davis' pet alligator shook off the bonds of imprisonment, and hoisting a red flag set out in search of adventure. Blood, murder, and revenge was expressed in every wiggle of his scaly back when he was last seen bound for third floor.
It is rumored that special sentries are to be posted all during the night, all doors will be firmly bolted, and a strict watch kept on the radiators beneath which owing to his warmth loving disposition, he is probably basking. Whether his sudden rebellion was due to the recent cold snap, or whether lack of attention from his fond mistress caused his jealousy to become uncontrollable is not known, all that we yet know of the sad event is that his cage door still swings in the wind and that an inconsolable owner mourns his loss.

TIME TO GO.

If she wants to play or sing,
It's time to go;
If o'er your watch she's lingering,
It's time to go;
If she wants your signet ring,
Frat house pin and everything,
(Speak, O Death, where is thy sting?)
It's time to go.
If the parlor clock strikes two,
It's time to go;
If her father drops a shoe,
It's time to go;
If she sweetly says to you,
"Stay a little longer, do!"
Get your hat and then skiddoo—
It's time to go.

Mr. Skeyhill, the Australian poet, gave his last American address at the College for Women. He spoke of his inability to understand three things—American politics, American girls, because he never knew whether he was putting one over on them or whether they were putting one over on him, and American "slanguage." All who heard him wish to extend their deepest appreciation to him for giving us the opportunity of sharing his last moments in America.—Reserve Weekly, Cleveland.

Pants are made for men and not for women. Women are made for men and not for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, that makes a pair of pants. Even a dog pants. Pants are like molasses. They are thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold. There has been much discussion as to whether pants are singular or plural. Seems to us that when men wear pants it is plural and when they don't wear pants it is singular. If you want to make pants last, make the coat first.—Richmond Collegian.

The annual conference of the Association of News Magazines of Women's Colleges will be held at Goucher College on November 19 and 20, the weekly board acting as hostesses. The delegates will consist of the editor-in-chief, the business manager, and in a number of cases a junior editor from each paper of Smith, Vassar, Radcliffe, Wellesley, Barnard, Mt. Holyoke, Connecticut College, Hunter College and Wheaton. Bryn Maur is also a member of the Association, but will not be able to send delegates this year. The object of the Association is to promote cordial relations and an exchange of ideas among the different papers.—Goucher College Weekly.

Blackfriars Present "The Green Moth"

PLAY WRITTEN BY RHEA KING.

Till and Rushton Star.

Of course you remember the pretty, fantastic play called "The Green Moth, or a Mid-night Fantasy" that appeared in the last Aurora. Well, the college community had the opportunity to see this play dramatized on Saturday night after Thanksgiving in the Agnes Scott chapel.

The play was written by Rhea King, and besides having the proof given us by our own reading of it that it was a perfectly delightful play, we all knew that if Blackfriars take it up it was bound to be great!

The scene was laid in the nursery of Little Bobbie Brown and Bobbie's mother and nurse on putting him to bed on this wonderful moonlight night. Mrs. Brown remarks on the peace and stillness of the night, and expresses the opinion that she believes that on just such nights things fantastic and grotesque happen, things that mortal eyes never see and that mortal ears can never hear. Marie, the French nursemaid, agrees with her, and soon after the good-night kiss and lullaby the curtain falls, only to rise again on the same scene, but now became the center of some of the very fantastic happenings not long since spoken about.

Then follows the story of Tommie Tim, the Sprite, The Green Moth, and an Awkward Bat. And who are the characters in the play? Well, Sarah Till is the Green Moth, and she played the role well, put lots of the fantastic atmosphere into it that it needs, lots of imagination, and color, besides being the graceful playmate of Tommie Tim, whose part is played by Marguerite Cousins. Befitting the role of a sprite she is gay and whimsical, and her costume carries out the fanciful idea in being one covered with woodland leaves. Rachel Rushton plays the part of the Awkward Bat.

Who was the occupant of the cradle? A real baby, by the name of Jeter, of Decatur, will take the part of Little Bobbie Brown, and when Margaret McLaughlin, who plays the role of Mrs. Brown, kisses him and then sings the sweet lullaby—well, who says that the little Jeter child hasn't an enviable role? Then, the part of the emotional, imaginative little Marie, the French nursemaid, was played by Harriet Scott, and played in a manner that does full justice to the part, too.

There were also the four Brownies, funny, fat little people, whose parts are played by Helen Hall, Virginia Burum, Elizabeth Malloy, and Laura Oliver. Their acting, costumes and general characteristics add not a little to the atmosphere and assured success of the play. Also there are the four Merry Night Flowers, who are represented by Del Bernhart, Frances Harwell, Margaret Hay and Sarah Belle Brodnax.

To be sure a play of this character has much music in it, and in this case Miss Sutphen was of indispensable aid. She selected the music, and it was of the kind that adds charm and enchantment to the piece. Lucile Smith was in charge of the musical features in the play, and most of the music was from Greig, which we all know is most appropriate for such a play.

As you probably know if you're an "old girl," and have surely heard of by now, if you're a "new girl" the Blackfriars always give a play around Thanksgiving, and this play is one of the points of greatest interest of the whole academic year, and this year's

THANKSGIVING HIKERS

Plays To Be Given By Alumnae On Dec. 2

EMMA JONES, EMMA WARE, PETE AND LLEWELYN TAKE PART.

Mr. Stukes' Services Enlisted.

Who says our Alumnae aren't the best ever? They are always doing something unusual and exciting and this time they have really out-done themselves. The alumnae in different cities and communities have formed clubs and it is the December branch that is to favor us this time with some talen plays on the first Thursday in December.

All of the old girls will know just what is in store for them when they hear that such illustrious members as Emma Jones, Emma Louise Ware, our own Pete and Llewelyn (better known to the Freshmen as Miss Almeda Hutchison, and Miss Wilburn, respectively) are to lend their unusual talen to the occasion.

So this industrious club is to make its first public appearance on the evening of December 2 at 8 o'clock in the chapel, in three plays entitled, "Between Soup and Sawry," "Joint Owners in Spain," "Op o' Me Thum."

The Alumnae after great and strenuous effort and much persuasion have succeeded in enlisting the services of Mr. Stukes to take the part of the hero, Horace Greensmith, in one of these three masterpieces. This will be an added inducement for all of the Agnes Scott girls to be present.

The actors and their friends have already begun a campaign to have their performance noised abroad throughout the city of Decatur and its suburbs. Such vigorous advertisement promises a big return and a crowded house, so come early and avoid the rush. The students of the high school have already declared their intention of coming in a body, and surely we cannot afford to let them get ahead of us.

Don't forget that you are dated up for the first Thursday in December and be prepared for a sure enough treat, the complete list of participants which you will behold on that night being as follows:

Emma Jones, Prof. Stukes, Emma Louise Ware, Jane Harwell, Almeda Hutchinson, Romola Davis, Llewelyn Wilburn, Mrs. Johnson.

Inter-Society Debaters For Dec. 8 Chosen

BELL AND WILSON VS. SCANDRETT AND LANDRESS.

Last Preliminary Held Saturday Night.

Great was the excitement Saturday night in the halls of the Debating Societies when the Propyleans and Mnemosyneans gathered for the most important preliminary debate of the season. This was the time set for the preliminaries for the inter-society debate to be held December the eighth, and the halls were crowded with cheerers. The two vied with each other in enthusiasm. The question at issue for debate was, Resolved: "That the growth in the exercise in the presidential leadership has been for the promotion of general welfare."

In the Propylean hall the debaters were hailed with cheers and songs. The affirmative was valiantly upheld by Charlotte Bell and Ellen Wilson, who courageously attempted the proof of their convictions. Caroline Agee and Ivylen Gerardeau then took up the negative side of the question and a desperate battle ensued. Both sides fought desperately for the prize and for a while it seemed impossible to determine the winner. The question and its supporters were so well matched that the audience was kept in breathless suspension until finally the decision was rendered in favor of the affirmative, C. Bell and Wilson being judged the best debaters.

The Mnemosyneans received their debaters with equal enthusiasm and amidst shouts and songs the contestants took their places. Anna Marie Landress and Quenelle Harrold were the loyal supporters of the affirmative and presented their proof with unusual pep and vigor. Their side of the question seemed to be clearly proved and their cheerers beamed with satisfaction. The negative was defended by Ruth Scandrett and Laura Bell Stubbs who bravely attempted to refute the proofs of their opponents. The contest was a close one and the tension great until the decision announcing the victory of the negative was made, and Scandrett and Landress and were selected for the society debating on Dec. 8.

The debaters from both societies were unusually good and were quite generally attended. Everybody is

Emory French Club To Present Play Dec. 7

Agnes Scott Especially Invited.

The members of the Agnes Scott French Club and the entire student body will be interested to hear that on Tuesday night, December seventh, the French Club at Emory will present "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon." This play was given last spring, but its decided success encouraged the students to offer it again with the same cast. The fact that each member of the cast taking a principal part was in France several years ago with the A. E. F., makes the play doubly interesting. An invitation to attend has been extended to all the Agnes Scott students, admission being fifty cents. The play was to have been given on the third of December, but the date was changed for the benefit of the Agnes Scott students who can not be present at that time because of Prof. Dodd's engagement for a series of lectures at Agnes Scott.

The Emory French Club consists of about thirty very enthusiastic members who meet every week and carry on a conversation in French. One interesting feature at these meetings is the calling of the roll to which each member answers with a French verse or proverb. It was the privilege of our French Club to be entertained at one of these meetings on the sixteenth, and those who went brought back reports of an unusually good time. The conversation was not hampered to any great degree by the fact that French conversation was employed, and our girls report a most pleasant evening. A debate on Woman's Suffrage was held, and the Agnes Scott representatives enjoyed it greatly in spite of the fact that the decision went to the negative. Delicious refreshments were then served and at ten, after which the guests departed.

ISADORA DUNCAN DANCERS IN ATLANTA DEC. 16.

Coming in Concert Series.

On December the sixteenth, the Isadora Duncan Dancers will give a performance in Atlanta, to which everyone is looking forward with delight.

Isadora Duncan, the greatest dancer of modern times, with the exception perhaps of Pavlova, has deserted the American concert stage

Mr. Dodd To Give Lecture Series

DECEMBER THIRD AND FOURTH.

"Missionary Wilson" Subject.

In accordance with its policy of doing everything possible to broaden the intellectual horizon of its students, Agnes Scott has arranged to have here this winter three famous lectures. The first one of these noted speakers is Mr. William E. Dodd, Professor of American History in the University of Chicago.

Mr. Dodd will give a series of lectures on December third and fourth here, in the chapel. It will be a splendid treat to hear him, for being one of America's foremost historians, he has looked at our history from every conceivable angle.

Mr. Dodd is among the first in a group of Southern historians whose exponents are such men as Ulrich Phillips and John Spencer Bassett, men who are striving to interpret Southern history and to show what part the South has played in the development of America. Professor Dodd invariably succeeds in interesting his hundreds of students in researches in Southern history, no matter from what section of the country they happen to come. Not only through his classes has he influenced the American public, but through such magazines as The World's Work, the American Historical Review, and the Yale Review. The library of Southern history which he has built up at the University of Chicago testifies to his interest in the subject.

Another foundation on which Professor Dodd's fame rests is found to be his books. The last published of these is the much discussed work entitled "Woodrow Wilson and His Work." This is remarkable as being an attempt at estimating a man's work while he is still living and doing that very work. Other books are the "Life of Jefferson Davis," "Statesmen of the Old South," "Expansion and Conflict" and the "Cotton Kingdom."

The lectures to be given at Agnes Scott are on the subject of "The Mission of Woodrow Wilson." The first of these to be given Friday morning, December 3, at half past ten, is "Wilson and the Awakening of 1912;" the second, "Wilson and the World," Friday evening at night; and the third "The Great Apostasy," Saturday evening at eight.

Season tickets for the complete series of lectures, (including Mr. Taft and Miss Monroe, as well as Mr. Dodd), are to be two dollars; tickets for Mr. Dodd's lectures alone will be one dollar, and tickets for the other two lecturers, separately, will be a dollar each. This is our first attempt at a chautauqua season, so come on, student body, and support it.

for Paris. But we are almost repaid for losing her since she has left behind a group of six of her most talented pupils who are ably carrying on the ancient art which she revived from the Greeks. These beautiful young women when small children were chosen from her many pupils as the most gifted in America, and were under Miss Duncan's influence for fourteen years. She kept them always with her, daily training them in her art. Their names are Anna, Erica, Irma, Lisa, Margot, and Teresa.

Beryl Rubinstein, whom one review calls the "phenomenal Georgia pianist," and who although still in his teens is considered a great artist, comes with the dancers as soloist. This makes the presentation doubly attractive.

The anticipation of being present at this performance is great, not only at Agnes Scott but everywhere, that this art of dancing for its own sake is loved.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

CLASS OF 1920.

To the class of 1920, who have just had their reunion at Agnes Scott, the Agonistic wishes to extend a delayed but none the less hearty welcome. We have missed you girls all year, for your enthusiastic interest as well as your unusual ability helped to push along the work at Agnes Scott smoothly and most efficiently, while your happiness and cheerfulness made the work a real pleasure.

To have you back with us during the Thanksgiving holidays took us back to last year when your presence added so much to the college, and made us realize how very much we have missed you. But it is also great to have you as Alumnae, and now that you have started to put into practice the things you learned at Agnes Scott, you are a real inspiration to us who are to follow you.

Alumnae, of 1920, we're glad you come back to Agnes Scott in a body to see us. We enjoyed your visit, and we hope you'll come soon again.

NOISE DURING LECTURES.

It is lamentable that it is necessary to continually remind college women that it is rude to make noise during lectures at Agnes Scott. When girls come off to school they are supposed to be sufficiently mature to think about other people, and to observe the laws of courtesy.

How often has Dr. Gaines asked us to please be more quiet during the chapel hour? How often have you been disturbed during a recital, by girls laughing and talking on the colonade, or dragging furniture around on second floor, or strumming ukuleles and singing, to drown the voice of the reader?

This is sufficiently embarrassing when we are having our own recitals, or our own meetings when visitors are addressing us, it is even worse, since it gives to outsiders a bad impression of Agnes Scott. Agnes Scott through the years has succeeded in a reputation of which it may be justly proud. It is our duty to uphold its fair name in so far as we can. Are we doing this when we are discourteous to our visitors, and make so much noise during addresses that the speaker can scarcely be heard?

Girls, of course it is thoughtlessness, for we would not purposely be discourteous. Hereafter let's think, and give to visiting speakers the courteous attention which they have the right to expect.

Student Government News

Students are reminded to register after lights when they return from town.

Girls are asked to be careful about being quiet when they return to their rooms after taking light cuts, and when they return from town after lights.

The Student Government meeting last week was held on Tuesday morning. The president of Student Government talked for a few minutes on what our honor system means to us. Victoria Howie spoke of what the honor system means to Freshmen. Margaret Kay then told us a few ways in which we could be more careful in regard to some little things which mean a lot when they are part of our honor system. Coma Burgess made a short talk on what honor itself is and how much honor means to our college. Margaret McLaughlin then gave examples of the ways in which the honor system is often thoughtlessly broken, such as getting help on exercises that are to be handed in, and on notes that are to be handed in. She asked that we be especially careful to observe the highest standards of honor in regard to these things. It was announced that permission, chaperonage and time limit rules would be on over Thanksgiving, but that all other rules would be off.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR STUDENT Y.'S.

"Will you, the students of America, after reading and considering the following facts, help in making life and education possible for the students of Europe?"

Higher education there is practically at a standstill. There is not enough money to buy text-books. Students are physically exhausted by a lack of the necessities of life. There is so much unemployment in all Europe that it is impossible for students to make enough money to support themselves. They are trying to live on two meals a day, one of which consists of black bread and very thin soup. The majority of them have not tasted butter or chocolate for four years. Two authentic cases are known of students who had to go to bed from hunger and exhaustion, only to be found dead some days later. The number who have required medical treatment has more than tripled. Many are tuberculous. Professors are denying themselves the very necessities of life in order to help students. One world-famous professor, now eighty-one years of age, has been subsisting for three months on tea and soup alone.

Laboratories and class rooms are neither heated nor lighted; and in some "hostels" men have to sleep on boards, eighteen in a room.

EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT GIRLS' FIRST RECITAL.

Till, McLeod, Taliaferro, Fulton and Cousins.

The first recital of the year of the Spoken English Department was given last Wednesday evening in the chapel, under the direction of Miss Gooch, and the girls showed by their large attendance that they welcomed it. Nor was our enthusiasm dampened during the programme, for it was one that fulfilled our expectations and which we thoroughly enjoyed.

The participants in this recital are advanced students in the expression department. They showed that they possessed great talent and we know that we may expect great things from them in the future in this line. The audience showed their appreciation and enjoyment of the whole evening by their hearty applause.

The first number on this delightful programme was O. Henry's "The Guardian of the Acolade," which was given by Sarah Till. Second was Rudyard Kipling's "How the Whale Got His Throat," given by Mary Stewart McLeod. The other numbers were given in the following order: James Whitcombe Riley's "Bud's Fairy Tale," by Martha Taliaferro; Alfred Roye's "The Barrel Organ," by Sarah Fulton, and Marguerite Cousins ended the programme by her reading of Henry Van Dyke's "The Lost Word."

There are thirty-eight in this department this year. We are looking forward to the remaining recitals of the year with eagerness and hope that it will not be very long before the next one.

GIRLS.

The way they act shows love is blind, And makes one jealous as Othello. For when they fall in love, you find It's always with the other fellow.

These students are earnest in purpose and anxious only for help in helping themselves. Are we, the students of America, the students of Agnes Scott, going to let them starve and freeze to death, while we abuse the vast opportunities that are ours?

THE Y. W. C. A. IN A NUT-SHELL.

The Seed: "Prayer Unions" in London in 1855.

The Tree: The Young Women's Christian Association of the United States of America, of which the National Board in New York is the administrative body.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

Dearest Aggie:

You can't imagine what a wonderful feeling it is to have a holiday and a half! No work, all play, makes Giddie a happy girl. We're just "settin' still" for a few minutes to get our breath and then—on with the dance!

Boxes from home are one of the biggest hits so far—home cake, dates (stuffed, not live, that is in the box), pickles, mayonaisse and all the things girls love to get—and eat. And flowers! My dear, Harriet Scott got a dozen Ophelia roses and a dozen chrysanthemums all from the same boy! I'll say that's going some.

And think of the fun of hockey and the hike, lunch in the tea room, dates for the game and then the big Thanksgiving dinner all dolled up in your frilliest evening dress and an anxious knight for dinner or a date later in the evening. Gee! it surely is thrilling! Wouldn't it be nice if Thanksgiving came—say once a month—or something like that? I'll bet the infirmary would be full if it did, don't you?

And think about the boys who will be here for the game. Auburn will look mighty bare when they all leave for "Atlanta, Tech and Agnes Scott." Of course all the Georgia girls are strong for Tech but they might as well conclude that a husband should be chosen by "arithmetic" and not by "geography" and Auburn boys can be awfully welcome when it's an Alabama girl they're coming to see.

Did you ever hear of so many weddings in all your life? Oh I don't mean here at school! But just lots of the girls have gone away to be in weddings — Ruth Laughon, Ruth Keiser and Anne Hart are all indulging in romance this week. Mary Catherine's away, too—but not for weddings. She's gone to Nashville to the game. Imagine being asked that far for just one football game.

Sarah Harrison's been up to something but she absolutely won't tell me a thing about it, and it makes me quite peeved because I know you would love to hear about it and I was dying to have some excitement to write you about. Such is life in a big girl's college—one person can't be expected to hear everything.

Gee! You ought to see the specials posted, three pages full!!! and there are at least fifteen pages of phone calls! Alas! If one were only for me! No such luck! I'm one of these romantic souls who longs to have something real thrilling happen but who lives only to see other people's beaux come and jazz them out to the theater and dinner.

Say, Aggie, wouldn't you love to have a beau like Dorothy Luten has? He sends her ten-pound boxes of candy and calls her up over long distance every Sunday night.

If anyone comes to see me or anything happens I'll write to you right away and tell you every blessed thing.

Lots of love,
Giddie.

We are grateful to Dr. Hall for so generously sharing with us his time and his energy and we derived a great deal of pleasure and practical instruction, especially those of us who are interested in social work including play-grounds, etc. Next summer Dr. Hall is to be at Blue Ridge, so many of us will hear him there and renew our acquaintance with him, and we also hope to have the pleasure of entertaining him again sometime at Agnes Scott.

BLACKFRIARS PRESENT "THE GREEN MOTH."

play was the occasion of especially high interest for many reasons.

One of these reasons was because so many of the new members of Blackfriars made their debuts in this play. Surely the number of members in Blackfriars give proof of the great amount and great quality of dramatic ability and "pep" at A. S. C., and the hopes of the club are especially high for this year.

Another reason why we enjoyed the play so much was because it is a product of "home talent." What college wouldn't be proud to have a real play writer—and the authoress of such a charming play as this one is, too, among its student? We surely are proud of Rhea, and justly so, for Green Moth was certainly a huge success.

Soc—How would you like for that good looking girl to be your wife?

Dan—Well, it would be more interesting if she were someone else's wife.

Sergeant Siberia—A lady wants to talk to you on the 'phone, Capt. Pendleton.

Capt. Pendleton—Sorry, but I will have to deny her that pleasure. Tell her to call later.

AT THE LUNCH COUNTER; WHAT LANGUAGE!

Fresh—Gimme two weenies, please ma'am.

Waitress—All the way?

Fresh—Yes ma'am.

Waitress—Cook! Unchain two and a bale of hay!

Fresh—And two eggs, straight up.

Waitress—Slap on two, eyes to the sky.

ARE YOU EXCITED OVER GOING HOME CHRISTMAS?

Only Sixteen More Days Till Holidays.

Breathes there a girl with soul so dead,

Who never to herself hath said,

"Just sixteen days till Christmas leave!"

Whose heart doth ne'er within her burn

That home her footsteps she shall turn?

If such there be go mark her well.

There is nobody like that at Agnes Scott, but even if there were she would be the eighth wonder of the world and might even be hailed as the first! From September to December without one glimpse of the home folks seems like a lifetime, for seeing is believing, and letters leave room for improvement which only the real thing can give. How the college girl does look forward to those three weeks of perfect bliss! She can go where she pleases when she wants to; she can eat whenever and whatever she desires; she can keep on lights to all hours of the night; she will entertain the family with her tales of college life; she will have nothing to do but to have a good time. Oh girls, what a life!

No wonder we count the hours till Christmas holidays with a constantly increasing impatience and a longing to be off. How many times have we pictured ourselves, suitcases packed long before hand, waiting on pins and needles lest something unexpected happen to detain us at the last minute before train time. And then we have fancied ourselves finally back home, joyously greeting our family, so long deprived of our presence. Our glorious dreams will come true in just sixteen more days!

Every girl has her own way of marking the passing hours. Many are the worn, tattered, be-penciled calendars, with a date scratched off each day. Praises to those calendars that remind us of the joys that are to be, and that, shortly! But there are other reminders, too. One of the most interesting and ingenious carries us back to our little girl days, for stretched across one corner of a certain room at Aggie is a dangling row of paper dolls, smiling more and more as their numbers approach one, which marks the last day before we leave for home. Every day one paper doll is torn down, leaving a more smiling companion to tomorrow's fate and leaving a brighter, happier Agnes Scott girl to face one less day till all good dreams come true and Christmas vacation is a reality.

SOPH DANCE HUGE SUCCESS.

Orchestra Comes Out From Atlanta.

When Beth McClure announced in chapel Saturday morning that, as Thanksgiving was coming, the Sophomore class earnestly desired to increase the happiness at Agnes Scott, by a dance in the gym at 8 o'clock Saturday night, hearty applause greeted her announcement. A grand time and an orchestra from town were promised.

The promises were well fulfilled. For judging from the exclamations, "sure did have a good time;" "Wasn't that the grandest party," and others, the Sophomore party was a huge success.

At 8 o'clock people coming to the gym found it gaily decorated in the Sophomore colors, black and yellow. Large bows of the crepe paper were scattered on all four sides of the gym, and a murmur of gay confusion greeted the guests. The music started promptly and the dancing which lasted until a late hour, began.

There were waltzes, fox-trots, one steps and no-breaks, the best of all. So in this way every one had a chance to dance. And those few who didn't dance expressed the opinion that enjoyed the party as much as those who did dance.

Soon after the guests arrived a bountiful supply of ice cream cones were served. These greatly helped the dancing, even as the Sophomores had expected it to. So as a matter of course, after the ice cream was served there was more dancing and still more dancing. Even the dignified Seniors indulged.

When the orchestra played "Home, Sweet Home," every one was very sorry. It was a tired but happy crowd of girls who left the gym, expressing the wish that a Sophomore party would "happen around" every Saturday night.

looking forward to December the eighth, when the inter-society debates will be held in the chapel. This will be an even greater fight and the Props and Mnemosynean will meet strong in battle array. Let's all go and root for our debaters.

TOUCHING.

At first she touches up her hair,

To see if it's in place,

And then, with manner debonair,

She touches up her face.

A touch of cuffs and collars,

And then she's off to Daddy dear,

To touch him for ten dollars.

DR. WINFIELD SCOTT HALL ADDRESSES AGNES SCOTT.

Subject, "Psychology of Social Development."

We have heard that Agnes Scott is to have several celebrities visit her this winter. Well, she's already had one important "date" this week and is proud to mention it. It was Aggie's pleasure and privilege on Tuesday, November 23, to entertain Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, noted psychologist and lecturer of Chicago, who gave a most interesting lecture on the subject of the psychology of social development in the race and in the individual. This subject was, of course, of more interest to students large representation of other students of psychology and sociology, but a large representation of other students and faculty attended.

Many of the students have pleasant memories of Dr. Hall at Blue Ridge where he lectured at the conference and so welcomed him enthusiastically here. He came under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. as he is giving a series of lectures under the Temperance and Moral Welfare of the Y. M. C. A. with headquarters at Pittsburgh. He is touring southern universities and colleges so we caught him "on the fly" between Athens and the University of Alabama.

The lecture at Agnes Scott was one of universal interest as it had to do not only with past sociological and psychological history, but also with biological theories regarding the probable future of the human race. During the course of the hour Dr. Hall worked out a most interesting chart showing the various periods and factors influencing the race since its earliest beginnings. Also on this chart, after showing stages of race, was given a diagram demonstrating stages in the life history of the individual. A rather unique idea was worked out in following these diagrams as parallels, showing that the individual in the various phases of his existence repeats step by step the history of his race from all the characteristics of childhood on up to maturity. Few of us who have small brothers doubt for long the fact that they pass through a heathenish and barbarous period during which time fond mothers come perilously near losing their minds. Especially is this true of the "cave dwelling" stage, when there suddenly appears right in the middle of the lawn a yawning aperture that would do admirable credit to the labors of the original cave man. Dr. Hall explained how wise mothers make use of this energy and guide it along constructive lines. Thus this chart is useful as well as merely instructive, in that careful study of the various stages of indi-

Choral Society Gives "Messiah" Saturday

Chorus Repeated at Fort McPherson Sunday.

Handel's "Messiah" was rendered at Agnes Scott last Saturday night at eight o'clock by the Choral Society. This society was composed of vocal students, all members of our Glee Club, assisted by some tenor and bass voices from the town of Decatur and from the Emory University Glee Club. Altogether there was a chorus of about fifty voices. Mr. Deickman was at the organ, Miss Sutphen at the piano, and Mr. Johnson directed.

There were five choruses from "The Messiah" given by the whole society as follows: "And the Glory of the Lord," "O, Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion," "Glory to God," "All We Like Sheep Have Gone Astray." They were interspersed with solos.

The great closing number was the Hallelujah chorus. Mr. J. Foster Barnes of Emory was the bass soloist, Miss Curry the soprano, Mr. Browning the tenor, and Miss Mary Lansing the contralto.

The "Messiah" is Handel's masterpiece and is generally accorded to be the most spiritual of all the oratorios. The participants all had good voices and the chorus had been well trained by the head of our music department, Mr. Johnson. A large and appreciative audience, composed of the college community and friends, attended.

It was asked that this be repeated on Sunday afternoon at three-fifteen at Ft. McPherson for the entertainment of the wounded men, the officers and their wives. The girls were taken out and brought home in army trucks. Here the Messiah met with as great a success as it had on Saturday.

TWO MORE DAYS UNTIL HOLIDAYS.

How Are You Going to Spend Your Christmas?

It is needless to say that it is only two more days until Christmas holidays begin. For what girl hasn't already counted the days, the hours, the minutes and the seconds until she will be home again?

The campus, the mail room, the dining room and in fact in every nook and corner where one finds "Miss Aggie" is fairly singing of Christmas.

New girls are asking the old ones the way to the ticket office. My! but isn't it a grand and glorious feeling to purchase a ticket yourself? Of course, "Daddy" attended to all of this when you left home. Then there's your trunk to pack. Oh! here's where we miss mother, who packed everything so carefully. Let us hope that she will be so overjoyed at seeing us that she won't notice the fashion in which we drew our belongings into the trunk.

The Christmas vacation is longer this year than ever before. At last we will be able to attend that New Year's Eve dance that we missed last year on account of having to rush back. Just think, we will have eighteen whole days this year. Yes, eighteen whole mornings in which we can sleep if we choose, eighteen whole days and nights to just have a good time.

Everyone is too excited over her own plans to find out how the next one is going to spend her holidays. However, we sincerely trust that the realization of the long looked forward to vacation will surpass the anticipation (if such a thing is possible). We sincerely trust that everyone will have the merriest Christmas and the happiest New Year ever.

Dr. Morton Lectures Here Jan. 10

Founder of International Serbian Educational Committee.

On January 10, 1921, Agnes Scott will be favored with a lecture by Dr. Rosalie S. Morton, M.D., of New York City, who is the founder and chairman of the International Serbian Educational Committee.

This lecture by Dr. Morton is to be one of the most interesting that is scheduled for this year.

Agnes Scott was expecting to have among her students this year a Serbian girl, but for some reason, unknown to us, she never appeared, and as this is such a puzzling matter, we are in hopes that Dr. Morton, through whom the arrangements were made for Zorka Petrovitch's being here, will be able to tell us more about Zorka and the reasons which kept her from reaching this country.

MR. LESTER SPEAKS ON THRIFT.

Agnes Scott was honored Tuesday by a visit from Mr. Lester, a representative of the treasury department at Washington, who gave an interesting lecture in the chapel on the subject of Thrift and Saving. After hearing so many lectures on giving this seemed quite a unique subject, but proved to be quite an interesting one.

Mr. Lester pointed out the necessity of saving in order to accumulate a bank account and also the need of buying intelligently when one does buy to obtain the best value for the money spent.

During his talk he gave several excellent points on buying. The first was to decide whether the article desired was necessary. Second, if it were more needed and desirable than something else. Third, whether or not it could be afforded. Fourth, if the quality was good. Fifth, if the dealer was trustworthy, and sixth, if the price seemed reasonable. He affirmed that if these points were put into practice much of the waste in America would be done away with.

Mr. Lester also told us that over one billion dollars was spent for candy last year and at least a million on chewing gum, while four hundred and fifty million went for amusements. He also showed how much we could accumulate by saving a nickle a day and having a consistent method of saving. Although this requires a good bit of self will and determination, it would prove quite profitable in the long run.

Since we have all tried the advice given us about giving to the various causes, let's practice this method for awhile and see if saving does not prove as profitable.

Christmas Dinner Tuesday Evening

Three Cheers For Mrs. Horton.

The spirit of Christmas is an intangible thing that touches all people during every stage of life. Yuletide has its more serious side, but nothing gives youth a greater thrill than "eats," and what better synonym is there for that one word than "Christmas dinner?"

On the night of Tuesday the 14th, whose heart could have possibly failed to thrill with delight at the sight of such a well-decorated and attractive dining room? Small natural pines whose dark green foliage stood out in contrast to the white sparkling snow sprinkled over their dainty little branches were still further enhanced by shining tinsel and tiny red candles. Appropriate place cards and red mints further added to the magic Christmas atmosphere.

Agnes Scott's joyous spirit of good fellowship was already in the ascendancy when the first course gave it an added impetus. Grape fruit baskets, ornamented with sprigs of mistletoe and gorgeous red cherries brought a shout of applause. This was followed by a second course, plates served with Waldorf salad on lettuce, creamed chicken in timbols, mounds of creamed potatoes and green peas, salteens, and hot rolls. A most fitting climax was Charlotte ruse and fruit cake. Many were the delighted approbations of the housekeepers' Christmas spirit, so concretely expressed.

This all recalled Thanksgiving with its ivy and autumn leaves, green candles and mints, and best of all, grape fruit, turkey, rice and gravy, asparagus fruit salad, ice cream and cake. Who could think of two such delightful dinners without experiencing a rapidly beating heart and a thrill of anticipation for the future or recollection of the past. Home and the 25th seem nearer, more real, and more attractive, all because of a delightful send-off.

As Aggie soon departs for the Christmas holidays, there will not be a single girl on the campus who fails to have a warm spot in her heart saved exclusively for our own lovely housekeepers.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS.

- Nineteen twenty-one is almost here and we need resolutions for the New Year.
- I. To chapel we will go
It's not nice to cut you know.
 - II. Then "I haven't the time," we will not wait,
If we waste two hours waiting for the mail.
 - III. Let's always boost, and never knock,
To knock gives outsiders a terrible shock.
 - IV. We ought to learn our Alma Mater
So when we sing it we will not falter.

Agnes Scott Sends Santa To The Poor House Inmates

Old People Given Unusual Christmas Joy.

The Christmas spirit of the Agnes Scott girls has shown itself in many ways this past week, but by no means the least of their activities was the Christmas tree given to the old people at the County Home last Sunday afternoon.

For several weeks, every Sunday, a faithful little group of girls has visited the six inmates of the Home. There are five men and one woman, Aunt Martha, who is seventy-five years old. They are all bright, cheerful old people, and very much interested in the Agnes Scott girls. Two or three weeks ago, they expressed the desire to have Santa Claus visit them, and since Agnes Scott's charity "never faileth," they were given a delightful Christmas.

In the middle of the largest room there was a large tree, ready for the girls when they arrived. This, they bedecked with all sorts of Christmas decorations, and piled up the gifts at its base.

When all was ready, the old folks were called in. The joy and the gladness in their faces at the sight of the tree was enough to repay the girls, in their role of "Santa," fully. When they had opened their gifts and found exactly what they had asked for—tobacco, clothes, candy, fruit and nuts—their wonder still increased, and though in some cases their thanks were unspoken, they were not needed.

Then everybody sang Christmas carols, and the girls went away, leaving some of their Christmas spirit behind them, and believing truly that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

HARRIET SCOTT ELECTED TO BLACKFRIARS.

Takes Place Recently Vacated.

At the meeting of the Blackfriars on December 3 announcement was made of Harriet Scott's election to membership in the club. Although such a new Blackfriar, Harriet has already been in a Blackfriar play, "The Green Moth," in which she took the role of the little French nurse.

The membership of Nell Buchanan being suspended for a year on account of the point system, a vacancy occurred in the Blackfriar lists which was immediately filled by Harriet. The Blackfriars are fortunate in electing this new member, for Harriet is already a promising actress.

Propyleans Win Debating Cup

Affirmative Triumphs Over Negative.

At the inter-society debate held in the chapel Wednesday night, December the eighth, the decision was rendered in favor of the affirmative, the Propyleans triumphantly carrying the longed-for cup to their society hall. The members of the two debating societies had looked forward with enthusiasm and rivalry to this debate, and had had many preliminaries in each hall for practice.

At the beginning of school the Propyleans challenged the Propyleans to a debate giving them the privilege of choosing the side they wished. The Propyleans accepted and chose the affirmative.

One side of the chapel was decorated in green and white, the colors of the Propylean Society. The members of the society marched in singing a very stirring song which made one think they were ready to meet the most fierce foe imaginable and took their places under the colors they had promised to love forever.

The other side of the chapel was decorated in blue and gold, which colors are dearly loved by the faithful Mnemosyneans. As they marched in also singing, their faces wore the determination to win. Many songs were sung and stirring rahs given before the debate and then while the decision was being anxiously awaited.

Miss Cama Burgess, as president of the Debating Council, presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers. Miss Jeanette Archer, the treasurer, kept time in the place of Miss Anna Marie Sandress, who took part in the debate.

The subject for debate, "Resolved, that the growth in the exercise of presidential leadership has been for the promotion of general welfare," was very interesting and has been much discussed in current history.

The representatives of the Propylean Society, who took the affirmative side of the question, were Miss Charlotte Bell and Miss Caroline Agee. The representatives of the Mnemosynean Society, taking the negative side of the question were Miss Ruth Scandrett and Miss Anna Marie Landress.

Miss Bell, the first speaker, brought out especially that:

- I. The exercise of presidential leadership has enabled the government to function more efficiently.
 - A. Leadership is essential.
 - B. Presidential leadership is the best form that can develop under our constitution.

C. The extension of the presidency in the three ways mentioned and in the administration of the most important presidents has resulted in a more efficient functioning of the government.

Miss Scandrett, the first speaker on the negative, brought out the following points:

I. The presidential leadership has resulted in long periods in which the reaction has more than counterbalanced any good that might have been accomplished. Taking in the whole sweep of American history.

II. Presidential leadership has actually hindered co-ordination by arousing function between the President and Congress.

Miss Agee ably supported Miss Bell, bringing out the fact that:

- I. Due to the growth in the exercise of presidential leadership greater democracy has developed.
 - A. The spoils system and
 - B. The personal and party machines with their political bosses, ex-

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A CHRISTMAS OF SERVICE.

Christmas, that time of the year that is dearest to the heart of every school girl, is almost here, and girls run around the campus with smiling faces. When holiday time is only three days off, all the world is one silver lining, and such insignificant things as tests and term papers fade into the background.

The Agonistic wishes for every Agnes Scott girl the best Christmas she has ever spent. May your holidays be full of pleasure and gaiety and good things to eat—and family. After all, it's the family part that's best.

But our Christmas should not be a selfish one. If we want to have the best kind of a Christmas, it must be a Christmas of service for those who are less fortunate than we. We must remember those people to whom Christmas is just a name, and try to impart to them some of our happiness. In the midst of our good times, we sometimes forget that we are celebrating the birth of one who came that the world might be a happier, better place to live in—that He was the Servant of all.

May this holiday time prove to be a source of inspiration and pleasure to each of us, and may we return to Agnes Scott happier and enthusiastically ready to start a new semester's work.

ARE YOU HEALTHY?

Every one should realize that a healthy body is the most important thing in the world to an individual. With health, comes happiness, and the joy of living, and the ability to work and play and accomplish things.

At school, one is given splendid opportunities to train the body wisely, to learn the laws of health, and to form permanent health habits. Here at Agnes Scott, we have a splendid climate, uniform hours of rest and labor, ample and regular leisure for recreation, expert medical examinations, a physician at our service, a well equipped infirmary at hand whenever we are sick, a compulsory course in personal hygiene, three years of ordered and systematic gymnasium training, and all the equipment necessary for athletics.

At the same time, we are all tempted to neglect these advantages, to study or play late, never take sufficient exercise, or tax our brains when they are over-worked and need relaxation. We must remember that our bodies are our own, that we can have but one as long as we live, and that we can never even borrow another. If we, due to our own indolence, start out from school with bodies damaged, we must pay the gruesome penalty of crippled powers and bodily pain, and vain regrets and shortened years. Not only must we alone suffer, but all those around us would be made unhappy.

Here are a few words of counsel to every student on the campus, advice that it would be advantageous to become acquainted with.

1. Take a deep interest in medical and physical examinations. Learn your bodily defects and follow the remedial methods prescribed.
2. Be equally interested in the course in hygiene and right living, and practice what you learn.
3. Do not shirk the gymnasium classes. Take advantage of the expert training you receive there.
4. Be wise enough and strong enough to abandon habits which you know to be injurious to your health.
5. Form the habit of consulting Dr. Sweet about your health.
6. If you are actually sick, call the physician and go willingly to the infirmary. To be afraid of it, is a sure proof of ignorance and inexperience. Girls, don't undermine your health at college, when you have such splendid opportunities to improve it. Let's all go home with roses in our cheeks as well as knowledge in our heads.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

CHRISTMAS TREE IN THE GYM.

The real Christmas spirit expressed itself most beautifully in the Christmas party which the Social Service department of the Y. W. C. A. gave to the children of the Decatur Orphans' Home Saturday afternoon in the gymnasium. This year is the first time that the party has been for the orphans; heretofore it has given to the Syrian Mission in Atlanta; and many felt that this year's little guests were closer home and needed our love more.

Some of the older children wrote letters to Santa Claus, which he forwarded to their hostesses here. These letters were a great help to the girls in doing their buying, even though some wanted things as impossible as bicycles.

Santa Claus, having shopped early this year to avoid the rush, was able to leave his shop and be present at the party. He took the packages off the tree, because since he knows all the little girls and boys, it was easier for him to read the names. Every child received toys and nuts and fruit and candy, and a big helping of ice cream and cake—Saturday night's desert which the girls gave up.

The gym was crowded with happy people, and it is a question whether the children were happier, or the girls who had made them so.

THE WHITE CHRISTMAS.

There seems to be something peculiarly fitting about a white Christmas. Those girls who live in the land of snows will always say so. But in this part of the country there is seldom enough snow to Christmas white out doors, although it is white in the chapel.

The chapel was lighted only at the front where the snow-covered tree glistened with every ray. First the Y. W. C. A. choir filed in, dressed in white and singing carols. Behind them came girls, also dressed in white, who bore lighted candles, one for each window.

The choir and the audience both sang the dear old carols which all men everywhere sing once a year, and Marguerite Watkins read the story that many read once a year too—Van Dyke's story of "The Other Wise Man."

GIRL RESERVES.

Those girls who took Girl Reserve clubs in the Y. W. C. A. of Atlanta were all invited by Miss Brace, the local Girls' Work Secretary, to have lunch with Miss Buchanan, the National Girls' Work Secretary, on the Thursday of last week. Miss Buchanan's wide experience with girls, and her willingness to share the fruit of that experience proved of great value to the Agnes Scott girls, most of whom are doing their first serious work of this kind. Miss Buchanan's personality was charming, and she had such a vision concerning her work that she made the club leaders feel that they were having a part in ercising great, irresponsible, and dangerous power.

PROPYLEANS WIN DÉBAT-ING CUP.

H. The reaction resulting when a President tries to stand out as a real heart of the government is such that two great evils have been accentuated in the political parties.

A. The use of almost any means to elect congressmen and senators in order to overthrow the President's policies.

B. The choosing of a good candidate rather than a man who would make the best congressman, senator, or President.

The rebuttals caused the audience to wait more anxiously than ever the decision of the judges who were Mr. Hooper Alexander, Mr. C. Murphy Candler, and Mr. Charles McKinney.

This debate was one of a series leading up to the Inter-Collegiate Debate in the spring. The girls who are to take part in the Inter-Collegiate Debate are to be chosen from these four girls and some to be selected later on. These facts make the debate more interesting than ever because everybody knows Agnes Scott College is a College noted for its spirit and enthusiasm.

a big, worthwhile, uplifting movement.

Many girls feel that the Girl Reserves would take more time than they can give now; but those who have clubs know that the reward is worth the time spent.

MISS AGNES GOES TO THE POOR HOUSE.

On Sunday afternoon a group of girls met in Main to take a little bit of Christmas cheer out to the poor house. They had fruit and cake left from the party Saturday afternoon, and a few little presents, bought with the money left over, too; and in addition they had a tiny Christmas tree, all decorated, for every cottage.

The girls enjoyed the walk out to the poor house, and the old people were more grateful than they could say for the thought that prompted them to go; little children always expect Santa Claus to come to them, but these old people have learned that he sometimes forgets. They talked to the girls about former Christmases when they had been happy, many of them with their children, and as they talked to sympathetic listeners, they became happy again—as happy as those who had gone out there to wish them a "Merry Christmas."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEWS.

The Student Government meeting last Tuesday was an open discussion meeting. Before the discussion began the following announcements were read:

The students are asked to have their week-end books charged during or at the end of the 11:30 period on Saturday if they have 12:30 classes. This is in order to avoid rushing in late to dinner.

There is to be absolutely no visiting after lights except on business.

Students are asked to be careful not to make a noise over the chapel during meetings as this is very annoying to those in the chapel.

There has been a great deal of carelessness lately about tardiness to chapel in the morning. Students are asked to be more prompt.

Under-classmen are reminded that only Seniors and Juniors can entertain dates in the Propylean and Mnemosynean halls and in Rebekah Scott lobby. Dates are not to be taken into class rooms.

A great many things have been lost or borrowed lately and students are asked to leave notes in other girls rooms when they borrow anything so that they may be found.

The campus is not being kept very clean and there is not time for a "clean-up" day before Christmas.

These announcements were followed by open discussion of various subjects. It was suggested that lights be turned on at 6:20 in the morning in order that those wishing to study may do so.

The question of removing the rule about having to get permission from Miss Hopkins to go to town on Sunday for other purposes than church was presented for discussion and it was voted that the rule be removed. It is expected that public sentiment about Sunday observances will be all that is necessary.

JUNIORS CONDUCT BAZAAR.

Articles Handmade and Prices Reasonable.

Realizing that in the big rush to finish up term papers and parallel reading and get packed up to go home few of us will have time to give to the making of Christmas gifts, the Junior class has worked overtime and now has on sale a large and varied assortment of Christmas presents.

All the articles are handmade and the prices most reasonable, so instead of worrying over the many presents you ought to have made and haven't, come to the bazaar and let the Juniors help you with your Christmas giving.

GIDDIE GOSSIP

Just two more days—too good to be true—until we leave for "civilization" for nearly three whole weeks! I'm just crazy to see you and all the family and ooh! I've so much to tell you about everybody and everything.

Now that Christmas is coming the youths with whom we used to go to school and who have been serenely unconscious of our presence here while they were busy at college getting "nishiaded" into something or other or playing the gentleman of leisure or "woman hater" stunt, have begun to rush us so that we will not be "peevd" during Christmas holidays. Of course you understand, Aggie, that when I say "we" I don't really mean that any of them came to see me, I just like to pretend that they do. Last Saturday afternoon engaged couples under open umbrellas ventured forth right out in the rain, bound for town. I watched them from my window and spent the rest of the afternoon dreaming day dreams and building "castles in the air."

Saturday night there were so many callers that a special dispensation had to be made to let the dates sit in the class rooms. Now that sounds as if I meant that the dates sat in the class room, while the girls sat in the hall or parlors, but Giddie, you know what I mean, it's so hard to explain everything on paper.

Frances Waller had a birthday the other day, and, well, she's got a kodak that she didn't "uster" have and her family, it seems, sent her food and clothes, so (problem in "detektifs") who sent the kodak? Frances said something when questioned about her great-uncle's aunt or somebody like that, but I don't believe that.

One of last year's girls, Margaret Leavitt, has been making us a visit and you ought to see how popular she has been! Suppers, lunches, breakfasts in the tea room, every night spent out with a different girl and interesting trips into town. It must be wonderful to be that well loved.

The most romantic things happen over in Rebekah. One girl pokes her head out of the door and cries, "Wherefore are thou Romeo?" Now that sounds thrilling, doesn't it? But who is Romeo? I wish I knew all about it. And Romola has a mysterious new beau who calls her up all the time. How can one take such things calmly? A new beau? The thought of even an old one would make me rejoice, were there such a person!

Louie Dean has more dates than anyone you ever heard of in all your life—she really does have one nearly every night. Gee! Think how nice it is to have Junior privileges—dates any night and the use of Rebekah lobby and the society halls. Oh! to be a Junior! And Dot went out to dinner the other night and had a grand time.

We're all of us feeling pretty good these days—that is when we think of December 17th, when we think of the tests, notes and term papers due in the interim (look it up in the dictionary, Aggie, if you don't know what it means) we get rather disturbed, and really, besides the dread of fire drills they are the worst subjects for nightmares that exist, I think.

Excitedly yours,
GIDDIE.

P. S.—Silk stockings and stationery—my two worst needs—if the family want to give me something for Christmas besides my trip home.

EXCHANGES

Senior Hat Burning, the ceremony performed at Salem College every year by the Senior class on the occasion of their donning the academic cap and gown, was fittingly celebrated last night on the historic old back campus of the college. The ceremony was impressive and pleasing and presented a picture never to be forgotten, as the Seniors, clad in white, paraded across the campus singing their songs before they put on the symbol of their new dignity and honor.—Salemite.

TECH TO GIVE A CHRISTMAS TREE.

GYM EXAMS HISTORY.

Did You Make A?

"Got to go to gym today,
Gosh, can't stay away;

Got to go an' hop across the floor."

Yes, we did have to go to gym last week—go and be examined! Of all agonies, it was the most terrible to hear "Right face!" and realize that you alone had turned to the left and marched half way across the floor before you discovered it. And it was an examination!

Some of us made A, and some F, but we all breathed a sigh of relief when gym exams were history. But even then gym exams are lots more fun than others, because they don't take so much brain work.

HOCKEY SEASON COMES TO CLOSE.

Basket-Ball Starts With Enthusiasm.

The great Thanksgiving Sophomore-Freshman game marked the end of a very successful hockey season at Agnes Scott. By their victory of four to one, the Sophomores won second place, next to their Senior sisters, and the Freshmen were relegated to third place. Numerals were awarded Thursday morning to all on the teams who had played in four or more games.

But hockey is over now and as Miss MacDougall and Lewis Carroll say, "The time has come . . . to talk of other things! Now basket-ball practices are in full swing. Each class has two hours a week of regular playing, and the schedule of practices is posted on the Athletic Bulletin Board, but everybody is invited to come to any practice. Games between classes will not begin till next semester, and teams will not be chosen till after the Christmas holidays, but the following girls have been elected as class managers: Senior, Augusta Brewer; Junior, Althea Stephens; Sophomore, Margaret Hay; Freshman, Weenona Peck. Althea Stephens is basket-ball manager, chosen by the Athletic Board.

The Athletic Association wishes a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year to all Agnes Scott.

CLASSES ELECT HISTORIANS AND POETS.

On last Wednesday morning elections of the historians and poets of the various classes were held. The duties of these girls will be to write the history of their class for the Silhouette, and contribute a poem from each class.

The elections were as follows:

It is an honor for these girls to have been singled out of their classes, and a tribute to their literary ability.
