Where Minds

Spark Minds

Okay, we know you're tired of hearing it. "Where Minds Spark Minds" has been over-used, but its truth and relevance to our lives cannot go unrecognized. Interactions between all members of our community are an integral part of the intricate workings of Agnes Scott. These interactions produce a dynamic environment that allow us to grow and learn in the most personalized, comfortable setting available.

Faculty-Student Interaction:

In the classroom:

Associate Professor Leon Venable knows what it takes to help his students. Like other professors at ASC, he goes the extra mile to make sure each student fully understands the lectures he gives.

In the lab:

Assistant Professor Karen Thompson even does the dirty work for her students. Fully inspecting the fetal pig before turning it over to her student, Dr. Thompson shows her ability to master the art of dissection.

All around campus:

Teaching does not end when students and professors walk out of the classroom. Here, Dr. Harry Wistrand takes the extra time and effort to speak with one of his students outside of "office hours."

Kristin Carlson, Quail Duryea, Julie Duvall, and Betsy Morley enjoy a night of intellectual intercourse at the Pi Delta Phi Banquet. These ladies spent a night of interacting with each other as well as the French Department faculty to celebrate their membership in this esteemed organization.

Kelley, Kristi Ging, and Chlyia Thomas enjoy their time in Hopkins with one another. These are the people you have to live with!

These three Blues Brothers are dressed up and ready to kick some upperclassmen butt on the night of the Bonfire. Don't they look smooth!

BIGGER Than EVER

With the addition of the Class of 2001 to our campus, enrollment shot up to 733 students. Never before have we seen so many students milling around on the quad and packing the dining hall at lunch and dinner. This year's Black Cat Festivities were made even better by the added numbers and enthusiasm brought to the week. Maybe one day we won't even be able to fit in the amphitheatre for the traditional Bonfire night of Black Cat Week. Plans for the upcoming years include an astonishing 1,000 student enrollment by the year 2001. Some think it will be a miracle to fit all those students, not to mention all the extra Faculty, Staff, and Administration it will require, onto this seemingly tiny campus. Let's all hope that the Master Plans everyone has been talking about are truly "all that."

If you think you have problems parking in Rebekah now, just wait until the new conference center materializes. The west campus parking lot will be eliminated to make way for a new building with conference and meeting rooms, dance and theater facilities, and administrative offices.

In an effort to help students translate from college living to the "real world," the College offered off-campus housing in the newly-acquired Avery Glen apartment complex on East College Avenue. The spacious, modern apartments seriously eased the burden on Associate Dean Mollie Merrick of finding homes for all the new students.

The Gothic Arches made their debut at the President's Gala in April as the new emblem of the College. They replaced the well-known and well-loved Tower emblem to further demonstrate the change in attitude and vision of Agnes Scott College.

Are you a player?

Do you remember MadLibs? Many of us spent hours filling out the word lists and reading aloud the wacky stories we had created. If you're feeling nostalgic, spark your mind to produce the following list and then check out page 208.

MASTER THESE PLANS

We've seen the flyers everywhere, welcomed architects on campus, heard dozens of voice mails, and even watched as they were repeatedly stolen during Junior Production. However, few students really know the Agnes Scott Master Plans. Contrary to popular belief, the Master Plans are not the geographical layout for a new and improved campus but a concise expression of the ideal Agnes Scott College and the concrete steps necessary to bring those goals of excellence to full realization. About a dozen architectural projects are now underway to ensure that campus structures reflect the six comprehensive derivatives approved by the Board of Trustees last May. Changes include renovation of McCain Library, a new campus center, a new physical plant, new theater and conference facilities near Rebekah, a new dorm, and the now infamous parking garage. Yes, heavy construction may burden the coming years, but remember that, without all the fuss, Agnes Scott College would never survive as a distinguished, dynamic academic institution.

Letitia Pate Evans Dining Hall (top) will sacrifice part of its spatially inefficient vaulted ceiling. Plans for a split level dining area (bottom) are undereorks, complete with renovated serving facilities and big screen televisions. As with other layouts, architects consulted students and staff to produce a holistic yet efficient cafeteria design.

Student Life

From traveling abroad in other countries to hanging out in Decatur or Atlanta, they always manage to have a good time.

Agnes Scott is experiencing its largest numbers ever, with an enrollment of 733 students for the 1997-98 school year. Despite the growth of the student body and the new reconstruction plans, old traditions are still very much revered. Black Cat, Sophomore Family Weekend, the Alumnae Pond, and Spring Fling are just a few of the customs that keep the minds and the memories of the students alive.

Outside of official events and classes, how exactly do the students of Agnes Scott College spend their time? Some students spend their lives studying, using every waking hour to crack the books. Others spend their time partying until dawn and beyond. Most students, however, eventually find a happy medium between studying and having fun. Scotties can be found at the mall, the movies, Oz Pizza, and Traskside Tavern on their down time, to name just a few of the students' favorite spots. The majority of students at Agnes Scott are serious about their studies, but they also find time to have a life outside of academia. As the numbers of students continue to rise, original ideas intertwine with the familiar traditions, bringing new meaning and energy to every aspect of life at Agnes Scott.

Agnes Scott life certainly includes the dances held each year. Leah Thompson, Ashleigh Matthews, Becky Smith, Betsy Morley, Hilary Wright, and Amber Pipa enjoy Spring Fling even more this year because it is mixed with Hilary's birthday luau.

Some students take advantage of Agnes Scott's wonderful travel programs. Rashanna Kirkland and Shymeka Hunter stand on the steps of the Supreme Court. They certainly look as if they belong!

Laura Brandon stops to feed the birds while looking around in Venice, Italy. Traveling is just one of the fringe benefits of participating in the Study Abroad program.

Student life involves joining in area festivals and activities as well as attending those of Agnes Scott. Akika Ogawa (a Japanese exchange student), Minh Pham, and Nooshin Farhidvash enjoy taking part in the Fall Renaissance Festival.

In three words, I can sum up everything I've learned about life. It goes on.

— Robert Frost

These students join hands in a circle to give a silent moment to an Agnes Scott "sister" who was assaulted. Thanks to the Decatur police and Agnes Scott's public safety, the perpetrator was apprehended. The consideration we have for each other overflows for all to see.

Black Cat Week

Sparking up the quad AND the stage!!!

Dan Ackroyd and John Goodman better watch out, 'cuz these Blues "Brothers" are tough competition. The sophomores proved their individuality by choosing a new mascot for the 1998 school year. Let's hope they keep the Blues Brothers for next year. It "suits" them well.

We are women, we are great, we're the class of '98! Hillary Ferris and Brook Partner are truly women of wonder!

ASC sun-goddesses, a.k.a. the first-years, raise their heavenly voices to the sky during their chance to sing their songs at the beginning of Junior Production.

Not only is the class of 1998 filled with great artists, but they can also belt out a tune when needed. Here they are singing their hearts out beneath their proud banners.

Let me cover you with mud. Michele Goss pushes Casey Parsons into the mud during ever-popular mud-wrestling at Black Cat Field Day.

The Sun Goddesses shine some light through the darkness as they make their entrance at the bonfire festivities.

The seniors impress everyone once again with their annual foot-stompin' performance.

Scottie Pride Runs High

"Jump, shake your booty..." Cheers and chants were heard throughout the week of Black Cat as each class showed their participation in order to gain points. Similar to a High School Homecoming without the game, Black Cat week is a time when classes bond together and with their sister class.

"Lining up on the quad, when you see the huge crowd, it just makes your heart boom. After four years, I feel like we're all sisters. I know we're all going to be wonder women," Valerie Case said.

This ritual marked the end of the first-years' arrival at Agnes Scott, making them full members if they endured the week. First-years were the center of many other classes' pranks, especially the Sophomores. Students ran up and down the dorm halls while banging pots and pans and decorated their class colors all over campus. Other students thought that the prank rumors were worse than the pranks.

"The pranks weren't all that bad. They were played up," Michelle Patrick said.

To show class participation, many activities were held during the week such as games at Field Day, or the Bonfire. On certain days people would wear their class mascots colors in order to gain points for their class. Although the competition was high, it always remained on friendly terms. Students showed their sense of humor and were able to laugh at themselves during this time of bonding.

"Junior Production was my favorite because I thought it was really funny. We all sang our songs and had a really good time," Carrie Anderson said.

The Black Cat formal dance was the highlight of the week as many students went and listened to the sounds of Motown.

Waiting for the Sparks to Fly

Green Berets and Wonder Women wait together before Junior Production. (L-R) Andreea Booher, Ginnie Stevens, Deanna Mullis, Laura Croft, and Valerie Case.

Have the Blues Brothers ever looked so pretty? We doubt it. These Blues Brothers look calm and cool before the night of Junior Production.

Sun-goddess, sun-goddess, Ra! Ra! Ra! These first-years are anticipating their first bonfire. They'll catch on quickly as did the students before them!

Green Berets take some time to relax during the exciting week of Black Cat. They know what it takes to compete and don't seem a bit worried.

Where is the prettiest place on campus?

"My mirror--just kidding--the track."

"The CLC--where love is definitely a three letter word."

— Amanda Swafford

Christine Cox, Kristie Cobb, and Madi Lewis are prepared for the night of the bonfire. This is Madi's first Black Cat experience being an exchange student from Ireland. Looks like she's enjoying every minute of it.

Were those shots we heard on the grassy knoll? Larissa Mueller, Ashlea Mittelstaedt, and Carol Butler look to see where the gunshots came from during a Junior Production skit.

Unveiling the first-years' mascot is a production in itself. These sophomores prepare to enter the dining hall and show the school that they have it all figured out.

Preparations for the bonfire have concluded, now it's time to rest before the big night. These sophomores meet up beforehand so that they can enjoy the night together.

Seniors Hillary Ferris and Amanda Beasley decorate one of their wonder woman cut-outs.

Junior Production

Warming it up, Sparks are flying, and Dowsing the embers

Juniors party together in the Bultrick film room while watching themselves perform their very own Junior Production.

"Like omigod, do you really think that I could be Black Cat Queen, ya think?" (L-R) Meredith Fields, Betsy Harrington, and Tiffany Prather parody those cute first years!

Ha! Ha! Ha! Dr. Carey, President Bullock, and the First Man laugh it up during Junior Production. It seems everyone is having a good time.

Ashlea Mittelstaedt and Gemma Hall show that they are all smiles backstage of Junior Production. We suspect a little help from Jose.

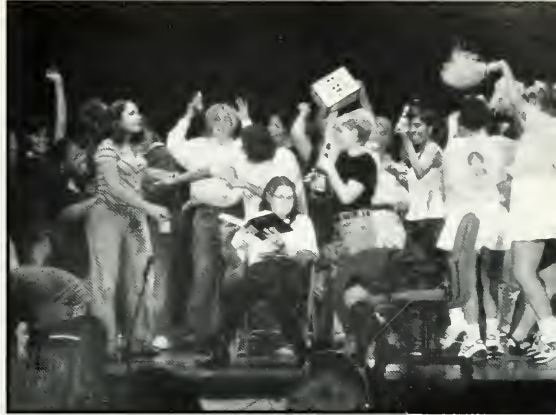

Jean Exum takes some time to relax backstage during Junior Production.

"Did someone say alcohol?" This calls for a party as juniors show on stage how much they indeed can have a good time.

These Juniors impersonate the Blues Brothers to show how the sophomores are all play and no work. "Push ups, you want us to do push ups? Where's my cigarettes?"

The Benefits of Junior Production: Green Beret Style

This year's Black Cat week was no ordinary one for the junior class. Even after the field games and pranks, they managed to pull together to put on Junior Production. Feelings of class unity and pride ran high during rehearsals and the main performance.

"Everyone was relaxed and having a good time," Carol Butler said. Junior Production certainly is a lot of work, but it's a lot of fun as well.

The music that was played during Junior Production rehearsals was another factor that heightened junior class camaraderie. 'Greased Lightnin' was just one of the few songs that had EVERYONE dancing in the Gaines Auditorium aisles.

"I really liked 'Welcome to the Jungle,' by Guns N' Roses. It's not only a great song, but it reminded me of my childhood babysitter, Debbie. She once took my brother and I to Buckhead to show us the other place she worked and that song was playing in her car," Ann Winslow reminisced. . . but I digress.

Many words come to mind when thinking about participating in Junior Production. Feelings of happiness and satisfaction at creating special memories add to one's years at Agnes Scott.

"I flew down from Washington D.C. so that I could participate in the Black Cat events, especially Junior Production. I did not want to miss out on the chance to see my friends during this special time," Gemma Philage.

Ending the Explosive Week

Is it the Rockettes? Shymeka, Tara, Rashanna, and Ceicely show some leg at the '97 Black Cat dance.

Lisa Knauff and Erica Lent are prepared for a night of dancing and fun. What a wonderful event and a magical night this is!

Kim Walker, Heather Ricks, Jamila Heard, and Khalliah Liptrot join up at the dance to compliment one another on their beautiful outfits. Wonder what was taking place in that conversation before we interrupted!

Juniors Deanna Mullis, Hadeel Masseur, and Gemma Hall can take some time to relax and party now that Junior Production is over.

What was your first impression of your roommate(s)?

"Oh my God, I have to live with her!"

- Lori Hunkins

"Wow, you look just like me. (hee-hee)"

- Jennifer King

Brook Partner and Janet Rauscher show off their own unique style with a tuxedo and boa. They are the center of attention as they make their entrance into the dance.

Patrice and Tara sure know how to accentuate their outfits beautifully! Who else could turn simplicity into elegance so easily?

Michele Henry and Lizabee Rone enjoy their last Black Cat Formal with their dates.

Christine Cox and Kristia Cobb prove that you don't need to have the same style in order to be friends.

My, that's an enormous gargoyle you have there."
- Hilary Wright

"She wanted us to get matching pink flowery sheets, and I thought why in the world am I at a womens' college."
- S. Colleen McCoy

Minding the Holiday Calendar

Sparking Holiday Cheer In Our Own Special Ways

"Bud-weis-er." Marley Maugh, Michele Henry, and Lizabee Rone catch a few flits on Halloween.

Students are starting their own traditions at the off-campus/ on-campus residence called Avery Glen. This year, more students got a chance to live a little farther away from school without leaving campus life. Below: The mystery is over, the Santas have been revealed at the Avery Glen Secret Santa party.

The Holiday Gala is always a fun night with music, friends, and, of course, lots of food! Above: Christmas bells are ringing--it's time for the Holiday Gala once again.

Who is the scariest--er, I mean fairest Spice of them all? Lesley Truluck, Morgan Fender, Jennifer Dabbs, Shea Minnick, and Nida Itayem enjoy a night of forgetting themselves and impersonating the Spice Girls.

Japanese Teaching Assistant Michie Tsugi and students Annie Chanpong and Juliana Woo enjoy the President's holiday dinner. This is one of the few rare times students don't have to take their trays up after eating.

Trick or Treat ...

Smell my feet, give me something good to eat!

Michael Myers, Jason, and Freddy Krueger were just some of the friendly faces a person saw around Halloween. If there was anytime to be scared, it was late October. Some students went to haunted houses in search of screams and goosebumps.

"I went to the Crypt of the Terror. One thing that scared me was this guy was chasing us toward the end with a chainsaw. Also, we were walking through the dark and some man was following us. He kept tapping us with a hair wig," Laura Watson said.

Many students participated in the annual on-campus haunted house. The haunted house is a great way for Agnes Scott to raise funds for charity and have a great time. People both big and small were taken on a tour through a transformed Presser Hall and given quite a scare.

"I've seen kids cry or bury their heads in their parent's neck. Sometimes the kids scream and cling to each other as they try to run away," Helayna Hoss said.

Also seen as another reason to buy candy, students purchased chocolate, candy corn and other sweets just in case kids came through the dorms trick-or-treating.

"I usually get Baby Ruths, Butterfingers, or M&Ms to give out to the trick-or-treaters," Kristin Conrey said.

Students were never sure how many kids might possibly stop by, so they just had a lot of candy waiting, just in case. So next time

Members of the class of '98 decide to take advantage of the Christmas holiday to receive some pity for being poor college students at the Old Spaghetti Factory.

Sparking Away ...

Kristen Starr, Jo Jensen, and Lisa Knauff head off to Emory's library. It, unlike the library at ASC, is open 24-7. It's perfect for late-night study jams.

Ding! Round 5,342 begins between roommates Carla Maley and Casey Parsons.

Jackie Perry, Rachel Cantrell, and Katey Stewart engage in a wrestling death match. This form of tension relief is dangerous, but extremely gratifying, just look at those smiles.

Erin Davis, being the great mind that she is, finds a quiet place to revel in the power of her own intellect.

*In one word describe

"Tease."
- Ashlea Mittelstaedt

"Twisted."
- Lori Hunkins

Sophomore Casey Parsons tries to teach First-Year Yun Bai the ropes, but it looks like Yun could teach Casey a thing or two!

Erica Lent reaches a state of zen and finally achieves nirvana after using some of her top secret formula face cream.

Nancy Bennowitz, Jennifer Heckman, and Debbie Eichert collapse after a hard day of classes. Relaxation is an essential ingredient in the recipe for a sane student.

Asah, love the piñata, embrace the piñata, BE the piñata. Joy Payton and Brooke Partner go through the trouble to break the piñata and then... what? no candy? Life is so unfair.

Leah Thompson finally gets a chance to relax amidst her colorful and creative surroundings. This is the life!

Living the High Life

MINDS: Deep in Thought and Deep in Fun

Heather Ricks and Leah Thompson enjoy a year as residents in Agnes Scott Hall (a.k.a. Main). The walls are rather bare, but time will soon cover those with memorabilia of the time spent there.

Communication—the most important component to a healthy roommate relationship, is demonstrated here by Jackie Perry and Rachel Cantrell.

Rashanna catches up on some zzzzz's. Sleep is essential to being a productive student. Whether you find time to sleep at night or in between classes, managing it all seems a little easier after a little shut-eye.

Kelly and Kim try desperately to save the perspectives staying in Hopkins. They didn't run them all off, thankfully.

Laura Livingston (a.k.a. "Hair") and Casey Parsons decide that their music theory homework is for the birds and decide they'd rather veg-e-late on the couch like the rest of the world.

Home Away From Home

A necessity of life: everyone has to sleep somewhere. Freshman enjoyed their Winship and Walters domiciles without even knowing of the grandeur that awaited them in the upper classwomen dorms.

Such coveted rooms in Inman, Main, and Rebekah were greatly enjoyed by Juniors and Seniors. Parties entailed music, fun, and drinking (only if you were 21, of course). Public Safety generally let the women have their fun without too much intervention. Everyone knows that women of Agnes Scott are the most responsible ladies around. There are no Century Club parties or funneling beer on Agnes Scott's campus. No siree, it's the quiet life for us.

Dorm life can be difficult, of course. Roommate troubles, no air conditioning, occasional floods when the rain came, not to mention work, work, work made for an interesting year. Most of the women of Agnes Scott successfully finished the year. Others left or decided ASC just wasn't for them, but whatever happened in whomever's life, everyone learned from the experience. We will all move on and the lucky ones left will enjoy at least another year at Agnes Scott.

Finding Inspiration

Getting ready to see the United States capital at night. (L-R) Amy Starr, Melanie Minzes, Betsy Herrington, and Meredith Fields.

The Food, The Family, The Friends, The Ring, The Fun

Woodruff was transformed for the sophomores and their families so that they could enjoy a wonderful dinner before the start of the ring ceremony.

Elizabeth Eldridge and Kate Lanigan strike a pose as they proudly display their new rings for the whole world to see.

Erin Jenkins and Lauren O'Pezio can't believe that the day they've waited for since coming to Agnes Scott has finally arrived.

Michele Goss, Laura Livingston, Nancy Bennewitz, Debbie Elchert, Kat Espino, Elizabeth Elderidge, Kate Lanigan, and Carla Maley gather at the wine and cheese ceremony to begin Sophomore Family Weekend.

Amber Pips and Kelly Stapler are proud of their new rings, they certainly deserve them, but more than that, they enjoy sharing the occasion with each other. That makes the night even more special.

Onyx: A Real Woman's Best Friend

Every class is a special one for students at Agnes Scott. The First-years have orientation, the Juniors have capping, the Seniors have graduation, and the Sophomores have...SOPHOMORE FAMILY WEEKEND! They receive their rings which symbolizes their years of hard work and dedication at Agnes Scott.

"I got a ring because I'm proud of Agnes Scott. The ring shows a lasting symbol of my pride in the school," Meghna Gupta said.

This was a big event for the Sophomores as family members came to watch them walk across Gaines' stage and receive their rings. Different festive activities were held to entertain the families throughout the weekend.

"My favorite part of the Weekend was having my parents here," Kira Barden said.

The rings symbolized a bond with each other, as well as with the school. The Sophomores will always be able to recognize fellow alums by their rings. This weekend the Sophomores did not just receive their rings, they were blessed with another great memory of their time at Agnes Scott.

"I plan on wearing my ring twenty years down the road because Agnes Scott will always be a part of me, and the ring will be a reminder," Betsy Morley said.

The weekend was a successful one as students bonded with each other, the school, and their families.

Enjoying Campus Life

"Mary Brown, can we use your computer?"
Students protest against the problems that
ITS has been having all year.

Charissa and Rolanda are overjoyed when they hear that it's fried ravioli night in the dining hall. Yummy!

The future's looking so bright for Kate Ryan that she's gotta wear shades.

Jessica LaVictoire starts off another year of traditions at ASC with the first official engagement dunking of the '97-'98 school year.

Springtime Once Again

Spring Dance, Spring Duds, and Spring Fun

Dean Karen Green divulges a little wisdom to students at Spring Fling '98.

Officer Dana leans back and relaxes after a night of dancing. She says she's here for security purposes, but we know she just wants to have fun like everybody else. She may be a police officer, but she's still human.

Members of the class of '01 celebrate the closing of their first year at the Spring Fling dance.

Preparing for Spring Fling is always fun! Students are used to wearing sweats and tees around school, so dressing up is a rare occasion and one to be remembered.

Ayoka Shakir and Kim Walker kick off the start of spring with fresh, bright dresses.

Victoria, Jennifer, and Amanda are ready to dance all night. They are excited to get away from campus for a change of scenery and a night of fun.

It's Spring Again! Time to Pack Away Those Heavy Clothes

Numerous rain showers, layers of pollen, and worms everywhere...what better way to celebrate Spring than with an old-fashioned dance?

"One of the most memorable moments of Spring Fling for me was when a drunken member of my class tripped and sprawled out; all over my boyfriend's shoes," Marie Hodgman said.

Many students attended the semi-formal Agnes Scott style. They borrowed a dress, ate at Letitia Pate Evans, took the shuttle to the dance, and still had a great time. Others went all out and splurged on the semi-formal.

"We went to Maggiano's before the dance. It was the girls' night out," Kolbi Cumbo said.

Some students even thought that Spring Fling was better than Black Cat because it cost less to attend the semi-formal and was less crowded.

"I like that it's less formal and the band is usually better than at Black Cat," Sara Martin said.

Spring Fling was an event to go and shake your butt to groovy beats and eat some pretty good food. Besides, how often do students get to dress up in something other than a pair of sweats?

Kim Walker and Neema Cyrus sell refreshments at the MusicFest the day before the Spring Fling Dance.

Hanging Out, Hanging In

First-years Lesley Truluck, Jennifer Dabbs, Shea Minnick, and Morgan Fender can still smile during a trip to the World of Coke—little did they know what they were in for after orientation.

Kahori Wakata, Laura Vanderbloemen, Akika Ogawa, and Laura Brandon take a break from assisting students in the writing center to enjoy a meal at the Atlanta Bread Company.

Big sisters Michele Henry and Marley Maupin spend bonding time with their little sisters Sarah Benefield and Jackie Hayes.

Real food, what's that? Kim Hill and Evelyn Coleman escape the traumas of the dining hall for a night.

What did you do this summer?

"I went home, got a job, got kissed by Jakob Dylan of the Wallflowers and dated a bunch of losers."

— Jennifer Marcum

"I went on my first cruise to the Bahamas with my boyfriend. Won the dance contest—couple to stay on the dance floor the longest."

Erica Lent, Lisa Knauff, Cynthia Hall, Sara Martin, and Kristin Starr glam up to get down at the Masquerade.

Roommates Laura Livingston and Kristi Ging lean against each other in satisfaction after filling their bellies at Oz.

Easy access caffeine, what more could you want when you have to study? (L-R) Meg Nagel, Erica Lent, Becky Rafter, Michele Henry, and Melanie drink up as much of the energy boosters as they can at Church Street Coffee.

Students take time to have a "Womens' Night." What more do you need when you have such good friends by your side?

Sophomore Stacia Stormole and senior Holly Payne, both members of Georgia Tech's marching band, celebrate Tech's victory against West Virginia at the Carquest Bowl. Many people don't even realize that ASC has students in Tech's band. The opportunities are endless.

It's a Swinging Good Time

Whatever you do, don't look down! Marie Hodgeman, Lauren Love, and Deanna Mullis pose precariously at the 1997 Leadership Retreat.

Look out world, here we come! Annie Chanpong and Juliana Woo look forward to seeing New York.

Are we cool or what? Michelle Frost, Betsy Morley and Kim Walker have a great time at the annual COOL Conference in Cleveland, Ohio.

It's nice to get away for a while. Margie Weir, Valerie Case, and Alexa Wood visit Tampa, Florida.

Mmm... tasty! Susan Roetzer shows off one of her many talents by licking the Tech Shaft. Was it good for you, Susan?

Do we look like money or what? Kim Nelson and Lisa Norris strike a pose with their three-piece suits and cigars.

Got a light? Brook Partner, Laura Brandon, and Laura Vanderbloemen chomp down on some cigars.

It Don't Mean A Thing If You Ain't Got That Swing... Doo-wa, doo-wa, doo-wa, doo-wa, doo-wa, doo-waaaa!

Break out the three-piece suits and cigars, Swing time has returned! Recently, students have begun to listen to their grandparent's music from the roaring twenties to the big band forties.

"I listen to Louis Armstrong and Seven Foot Politic. The best swing song ever written is, "Life Goes to A Party." I don't know who wrote it," Kate Ryan said.

Looking back it was a historical time for Americans. Events such as the Great Depression and World War II marked the era. People needed a way to let out stress and they found it dancing, just as they do today.

"I like to swing dancing because it's fun and a way to unload," Jennifer Pebley said.

The clothes were also an essential part of the swing era. What sane human being would be seen without wearing a twirling skirt or suspenders?

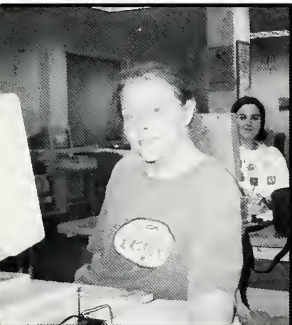

"I think of poodle-dog skirts, saddle shoes and the Beatles. You can swing dance to them if you wanted," Candra Strother said.

Swing Dance has become so popular that clubs such as The Masquerade play Swing music every Sunday night. The Music Midtown Festival even had the Duke Ellington Orchestra as one of the many talented performances.

Mindful of Priorities

Art is of utmost importance to these young artists. Elizabeth Eldridge and Kate Lanigan stand next to a painting that's ready for exhibit.

They've GOT to get their assignments completed by tomorrow! Sara Martin and Erica Lent are burning the midnight...er, 3 a.m. oil in Walter's computer lab.

Mississippi is the place and food is the plan. All aboard the grocery cart express! (L-R) Sara Manty, Angie McCormick, and Ursula Daniels do a little shopping in Mississippi.

Leadership is top priority to these ladies, what would we do without them? Karen Weyer, Ginnie Stevens, and Kristin Conrey at the leadership retreat at Amicolola Falls.

What is the first thing you look for in a date?

"A future and a good personality."
- Mazie Lawson

"Easy to talk to."
- Karmelle White

Chemistry is important and fun for Jessica. "I hope that this doesn't explode!" she thinks as she performs experiments in Campbell.

Studying's no fun, but partying sounds like a good plan for Kristin Starr and Erica Lent. Here they get ready to go out for a night on the town.

Here we have two more dedicated leaders! Devon Savoy and Kim Walker are excited to start off the year as leaders of their peers.

Friends are always an important component to the college experience. Jen Jensen and Erica Lent are buddies!

Getting back to school is definitely a priority here. "Is it time to go back to school already?" Tracy, Rolanda, and Cacenta visit Hartsfield Airport.

"Obedience."
- Shannon Allen

"Proof that he's not a Tech frat boy!"
- Jennifer Marcum

"It's a man."

Time to Be Capped!

Sparks Flew Throughout the Scandalous and Hilarious Week

Fifth place goes to... juniors anxiously await to see who will win the Miss Agnes Scott Pageant.

"I got chills, they're multiplying," Gemma Hall sings as part of capping requirements.

Like omigod, aren't we just so beautiful? (L-R) Carla Brunjes, Susan Buckner, and Carol Butler show off their Beverly Hills beauty.

Homey the Clown and Mr. Clean unite to clean up the world!

"Who is this tall blond girl wearing roller skates?" Liz Chandler wonders about Janet Rauscher.

Nothing like a little extra money to pay for tuition. Susan Buckner participates in the underwear fashion show and is financially rewarded.

Hazing...er, um...Capping

Serenade Dr. Bowling on one knee while singing "Hopelessly Devoted to You." Now go up to three Professors and say "Give me fifty dollar to make you holler." These were just some of the crazy antics of capping.

"The most embarrassing part about Capping Week was having to be Miss Georgia in the pageant," said Jessica LaVictoire.

Each day had a special theme in which the Cappee had to dress accordingly. If it was Cartoon Day, and your Cappee wanted you to be Strawberry Shortcake, you had no choice. Sometimes you had to do a little performance in front of your class or the entire dining hall.

"My favorite day was Disco Day. I got to wear a beautiful blue muumuu and it was the same day of the Scavenger Hunt. I will never forget the look on the Kroger cashier's face when we stormed in," Ayoka Shakir said.

The only thing that kept the cappees going was the ability to become an official Senior at the end of the week. At the Capping Ceremony, the Juniors were capped with a Mortar Board by their Capper and given the job of wreaking havoc on some innocent victim next year.

"I can't wait to be a Capper. I thought I could have my cappee dress up as Elmo and go to the Varsity," Karen Weyer said.

One of the most popular traditions participated in by the Junior class was also the most humiliating. However, Capping Week was about becoming a senior and bonding with a little extra embarrassment.

Pamela Lee Anderson never looked so good...oh wait, that's Mazie Lawson, no wonder!

All Play and No Work

Man on the hall! Juniors show their machismo as they portray the physical plant workers.

Seniors Brook Partner and Lori Anderson party at the Street Dance in September.

Tracy, Kim, and Rolanda have a fine dining experience in the snack bar.

Laughter can be heard throughout the campus. What is the cause of such gaiety? Why, the Big Sister/ Little Sister Luau, of course. Who wouldn't enjoy time to get to know one's little sister?

Where would you most want to study abroad and why?

"Nepal. I've always felt a connection with the Himalayas and goats."
- Reagan Booth

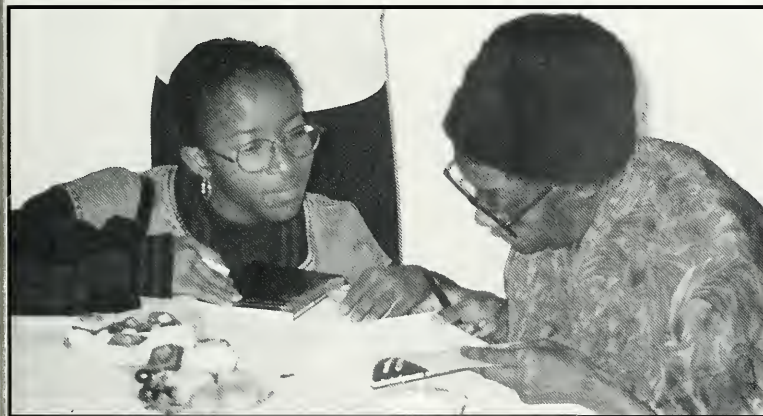

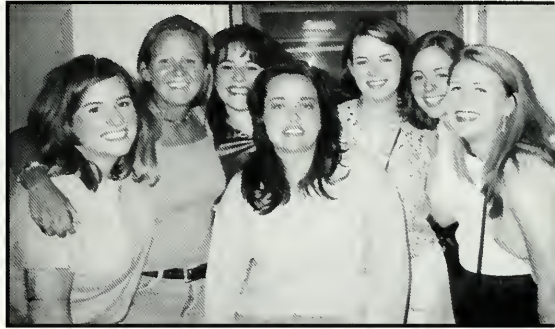

"Germany or Scotland."
- Jennifer Odom

Oz Pizza is a favorite hang out for ASC students—good food, low prices, need we say more? Shari Gunnin sure is sold!

How exactly does one go about shoving 9-months' worth of stuff into one tiny dorm room? Heather-Leigh Owens attempts to pack up her car for the return trip to school.

Students staying on campus for the summer head out for dinner at El Azteca.

Completely stuffed, Tate Emery, Kristi Ging, Kate Lanigan, and Erin Davis are about to explode from pizza overload!

Kieva gets an autograph from author Jamaica Kincaid at the Writer's Festival.

"I would like to study abroad in either Germany or London. I lived in Europe for five years and would like to go back."

"Italy-access to art, food, and culture."

Student Activities

Lighting a fire under the seat of Agnes Scott

(L-R) Dela Kusi-Appouh, Shea Minnick, Morgan Fender, Jennifer Dabbs, Natalie Taylor, and Lesley Truluck enjoy the showing of "Scream" on the quad. Seeing the original movie prepared everyone for "Scream 2," also a big hit with the students.

The students loved the private screening of "Scream 2" at North Dekalb Mall. An entire theater of excited Agnes Scott students? That would be a scream!

Excitement runs high as the Women's 1996 Olympic Basketball Team comes to Woodruff to play an all male team. It seems all the yelling was for nothing, the Women's Olympic Team stomped their opponents.

Alum Jennifer Nettles brings her band, Soul Miner's Daughter, back for an encore performance. The amphitheater comes alive with their beautiful sounds.

The Collegiate Chorale and Spelman's choir joined forces on the first night of the Chicago Symposium.

Kristin Carlsen, Amanda Forehand, Staci Shields, and Lauren Conway are excited at the prospect of watching "Scream" on the soft grass and out in the warm night air.

Scotties scream at the chance to be on camera!

Who's the Scream killer going to be? The ghost of Agnes Scott? Officer Drew? Or George Bullock? As Wes Craven moved into Agnes Scott last summer to film his Scream sequel, many students were given the opportunity to try out for extra parts.

"I was a sorority girl extra. I went to open call and was given a sorority sweatshirt. I wasn't sure what to do afterward. Another girl and I just went back to the trailers with the head sorority girls and ended up being in front of the camera. I don't think I was initially supposed to be one though," Jamil Heard said.

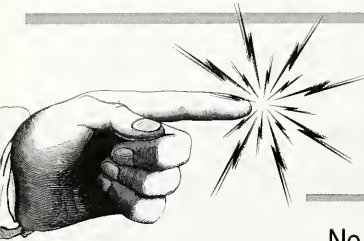

Other students got the chance to work behind the camera. Some were actually chosen to work side-by-side with the actors and actresses. It was a hard job for everyone involved, but they were all able to rub elbows with the crew at the wrapping up party.

"One of the jobs I enjoyed the most was taking front and side pictures of the main cast. Also, they let us come to the cast and crew parties," Andrea Yeamen said.

Late one night, some students decided to play a prank on the Scream crew. Their mission was to decorate all the Scream statues with masks and black cloaks.

"The best part about the prank was creeping around the perimeter of the campus dressed in black," Gemma Hall said.

Agnes Scott benefitted a great deal from Hollywood's visit. How many other schools can say Neve Campbell and Courtney Cox were on their campus?

Classes

What better way is there to start off a new chapter in your life than to start it out with others that share in that experience?

No matter where you are in the hierarchy of classes, you have others that are here to make the days pass just a little bit more smoothly. These people are your classmates. You share with them throughout the years. From starting out as first-years to joining the ranks of a senior, your classmates are there for you. They are your legion of sometimes leaders and other times followers.

Do you and your classmates sit around and discuss politics, philosophy, religion, or history? Do their thoughts and ideas make your life more interesting? It is an ongoing process of one mind sparking another mind. Creating intellectual intercourse is something those that attend school here do every day. The mass of knowledge, ideas, and creativity that dwell in the minds of all Scotties is staggering. Imagine what all that could do. . . and will!

DA-DA-DA-DUM! The Sophomores strut their stuff as the Blues Brothers in Gaines Auditorium just before the start of Junior Production.

WE'RE JUST SO CUTE! The Class of 2001 impressed everyone with their fabulous costumes and high participation at Black Cat events.

Heather Branham helps Lindsey Dresser with her Rah the Sungoddess costume before the Black Cat Bonfire. The First-years were very resourceful with their costume materials, including leathers and sheets.

Class of 2001 – First-Years

Adjusting to college life came easily to the First-Years. It seemed as if moving in, leaving their parents, and meeting new people occurred every day for these young women. They were so calm and cool about the entire process. One would think that they all were friends before arriving here. Their comraderie and closeness was obvious at a single glance.

The Class of 2001 surprised everyone with their “cute” faces and unbridled spirit. No one was sure what to think as we saw the train of bows bobbing onto campus. However, the First-Years settled our fears when classes began. Their quick-wit and wise comments showed everyone that they were here to learn. Their bright smiles and willing attitudes made welcoming them into our community a delightful experience.

Class of 2000 – Sophomores

The Sophomores... so glad they aren't first years again! Climbing a rung on the ladder of Agnes Scott is a great feeling no matter what class you're in. The feelings of confusion and disorientation have long since subsided, and they finally feel as if they fit into the mix. Now they know where they need to go and what they need to do. More importantly, they get to share this information with the First-Years.

The Sophomores know what to expect and roll with the punches. The excitement of Black Cat, the humor of Junior Production, and the fun of Spring Fling are all memories in their minds rather than question marks on paper, and no one wants to miss a minute of it. They have their rings from Sophomore Family Weekend and, hopefully, notes from Junior Production--the chore will be theirs in the near future. After making it through another year, they are now halfway finished with their college career!

Class of 1999 – Juniors

The class that came in with Mary Brown Bullock! Many words come to mind to describe the class of 1999: soulful, creative, and defiant. After three years of being together, this small junior class has become acquainted with their fellow class members. Memories of constant rain during Freshman Orientation, getting class rings, and dressing up as cartoon characters for Capping will last forever in the hearts and souls of the Green Berets.

Agnes Scott has taken its toll on the class of 1999, both mentally and physically. Most juniors have become more independent and stand ready to take on whatever the world may hurl at them. They've come a long way since they first crossed the Winship iron gates three years ago. The Juniors have certainly made the best of their years at Agnes Scott.

Seniors

From their first years here to their present senior status. Everyone is so proud to have achieved so much in just four short years.

As much as we hoped for the seniors of 1998 to remain in the ivy of Agnes Scott forever, we know we can only remain for a fleeting moment. As the WONDER WYMYN of ASC we hope to have forever marked the college with our finesse and spirit.

Think back to your first day when your parents left and you and your new best friend, your roommate, were crying? We were naive and frightened, but we have grown into strong and independent people. The choice of Wonder Wymyn as our mascot speaks for the pride and power that we have as a collective unit. We worked through the difficulties of our first Black Cat, displaying our RED pizzazz to those upperclassmen that doubted our capabilities. From there, to receiving the prized Agnes Scott ring and the Sophomore Family Weekend that went along with it., As juniors and seniors we watched ourselves and our friends explore and discover learning abroad. And as veteran seniors we still helped to show the ropes and light the darkness for those who will follow in our footsteps.

We have grown into a class of friends and peers that thrive off one another. Graduation marks our journey into life. Our directions and lifestyles have changed, but we still have discovered who we are and what goals we want our lives to reach. We have made life long friends and built long-term relationships. We have become leaders in a different realm. We drive ourselves to be the best we can be. Agnes Scott as an institution and a community has taught us to be wymyn and adults and has prepared us to face the world ahead.

We will always remember, "We are wymyn, we are great, we are the CLASS OF 1998!"
Kristie Cobb and Amanda Roepcke

We may not remember why Milton wrote "Paradise Lost" and trying to recall the present progressive in Spanish may eventually prove difficult if it doesn't already. When asked to name the galactic composition of Pluto, one day we may simply reply: a dog.

Of all the many things our minds are fed, we will remain most nourished and intellectually full from the simple effects of each other. More than being sisters, our bonds have formed molecules that have grown into the complex, multi-layered women that we are.

Reflecting on my own experiences with my sisters in Circle K, I have loved, admired, envied, rejoiced, and celebrated. Rich dances of these emotions were only thinly disguised under the pretense of Latin or Constitutional Law classes. Through the Circle of Friendships, our lives have changed, our perspectives reversed, and our smiles broadened.

— Amanda Swafford

Organizations

Clubs, service organizations, choirs, and other groups here at ASC bring the campus to life.

Where do minds spark minds here at Agnes Scott College? Brainstorming often occurs in Alston, the CLC, Dana's Winter Theater, our fine classroom building, and sparks always fly in the Dining Hall. Imprints from ASC students can be found at Renfroe Middle School, local rape crisis centers, Atlanta area coffee shops, even along College Avenue. Outside of the classroom, students can channel their creative energy and personal interests into any of the many organizations on campus. Service groups such as Circle K, Habitat for Humanity, Girl Scouts, and Best Buddies all reach out to the surrounding community. Clubs including Chimo, ACASA, NHA, and Witkaze promote cultural awareness on campus. Blackfriars, Joyful Noise, the Orchestra, and other performance groups offer students the chance to "strut their stuff" on stage. Religious groups such as New Life and Newman Club offer students the chance to come together to share a part of themselves on the road to spiritual development. Writers can join the Profile (our independent newspaper), the Aurora (a literary publication containing works created by the students), or the Silhouette (the publication you are reading right now!). Scientists can turn to Tri Beta and the American Chemical Society. Those with an interest in political or political activities can join Young Democrats, the Conservative Forum, Amnesty International, or WAVE (Women of Action, Voice, and Education). If you have an interest in anything, you are likely to find an organization on campus to meet your needs - even if that interest is strictly social.

Many of the organizations on campus have taken up President Mary Brown Bullock's challenge to diversify and globalize the campus, to make it a place where minds spark minds. Mortar Board provided newspapers in the Dining Hall to keep everyone abreast of current affairs around the world. Geo, ASC's environmental group, formed this year to help keep the campus "green" and beautiful. ASC is a community alive with activities. With all of this interaction, sparks are bound to fly. When an ASC woman puts her mind to accomplishing something, anything is possible.

Our only hope is that this piece of your history that we struggle to create accurately reflects all of our lives here at ASC in a way that is pleasing to the mind as well as the eyes.

As fearless leaders, Ashlea Mittelstaedt (Below) and Amber Pipa (Right) stay true to their responsibilities and stick it out to the very end. As their first year as Editors, Ashlea and Amber had many obstacles to overcome and lessons to learn. Here, Ashlea sifts through another $15.00 set of 24 useless pictures. Amber takes a break from fixing cameras, computers, and everything else to get her 2 cents in as well.

Sidenote: Sharon Strickland and Andrea Booher had labs during every meeting of the Silhouette, but their involvement, effort, and dedication to this yearbook should not go unrecognized. Their sections were Senior Section and Organizations.

Melanie Spillane grimaces as she and Debbie Eichert discuss how many pages they have to complete for the Student Life section. Capping can't even stop Melanie's dedication and Debbie stuck it out to the end as well.

Jennie Bell and Brooke Puschaver work diligently on the Sports section. With their excellent writing skills and beautiful photography abilities, their section will most certainly be something to look forward to.

Through many trials and tribulations while working on the Faculty section, Shondra Wilbanks finally masters the Macintosh.

Dela Kusi-Appouh's work on the Faculty section was greatly appreciated. As evident here, her good humor keeps the group moving along.

Jennie, Brooke, and their staff member, Draughn Whitehead listen intently as our Jostens rep, Pat Brookshire, explains the intricacies of what to do when the Mac consumes large quantities of layouts. What a nightmare.

Alison MacLean savors her Coca-Cola in the makeshift Silhouette room of the CLC. It is easy to dehydrate after working for many hours straight in that unair-conditioned, uncomfortable room. Drink lots of fluids, Alison.

Mendi Winstead wades through a ton of surveys in search of the perfect quote. Mendi has the wonderful job of convincing all of the Administration and Staff to let her take their picture. What a trooper!

Brook Puschaver smiles deviously while thinking of the havoc she could wreak within the Athletic community of ASC. Her power as staff member of the Sports section is all-encompassing.

CLUB SPORTS

There are three official "Club Sports" on campus. These are the Rugby team, Swim team, and Synchronized Swimming team. These teams work as hard as the other sports on campus, but lack the official name of being a "sport." They do not receive spiffy home, away, and practice uniforms, but they certainly do try their best and put forth the effort that would make any sport proud. We want to acknowledge these teams separately to show the determination and pride these teams must have in order to face such obstacles. Congratulations teams, you did an outstanding job!!

The rugby team gets psyched up for an away game in North Carolina. This is definitely a close bunch.

Teamwork is the key to successfully completing any task. With the direction from their coach, Tonya, the team works together to raise the uprights for their upcoming home game

Reagan Booth crashes through the opponent's defenses as she races to score a try. Heather Lyman hangs back in case Reagan gets tackled or fumbles the ball that barely lands in her hand.

Since the opponent's are short a few players, it is necessary for some of ASC's team to play against each other. Jessica Marinara and Annabelle use all their force to take down Heather Lyman. Amber Pipa and Katie Fidanza rush to get into place.

The teams prepare to scrum-down. ASC looks like they're ready, but what's holding up their opponents. . . fear, maybe? I think so.

This is what happens when the scrum collapses. The only one left unharmed among the forwards seems to be 8-man, Kelly Stapler. With her knee injured from previous games, she is quite a trooper to be participating in this one.

Amanda Lockhart gets tackled by an Emory rugger while her teammates, including Liz Chandler and Amy Willis, rush to her aid. I'd hate to be the one that had to stop Amanda, she looks fierce during a game.

The Rugby Team lines up before a Home game to have their rugby boots inspected. No toe-cleats are allowed. Occasionally, the referee will check the teammates' fingernails as well. It's a rough game.

Sparkling Waters

At the beginning of the year, a few ladies joined hands to make a splash in the Woodruff swimming pool. Instead, they made waves. Eight women practiced like a varsity sports team to eventually turn what is now a club sport into a full-fledged member of the Athletics Department. Unexpectedly, these ladies were invited to two swim meets throughout the season. The Emory Invitational was the first honor bestowed on these deserving women. The second was an invitation to compete at the Championships at University of the South. All team members advanced from the preliminaries to the finals at the Championships. Every ounce of dedication paid off.

Co-captains Liz Meade and Carla Brunjes were pleased with the season. They believe the team has excellent potential and an ability to advance to an NCAA classification in the future.

As always, the Agnes Scott ladies who turned out for the swim team displayed dedication, enthusiasm, excellence, and teamwork. Keep swimming to success ladies!

Sports

Sparks flew as the athletes of Agnes Scott took to the courts and fields to do battle.

The athletics of Agnes Scott College have always held a place of pride for the entire college community. Throughout the year, the commitment made by both athlete and coach sparked opportunities for these exceptional women to excel both individually and collectively. By working together, they were able to perform at the height of their ability.

The soccer team saw its best season yet, while the cross country team sent a runner to the NCAA Regionals. As the basketball team battled several obstacles, the tennis team had an outstanding season. While these former teams continued to compete successfully, a softball team was added to the roster, rounding out the display of athletics. As support for female athletics increases, the competition also increases, improving the level of enjoyment and performance.

All of the teams of Agnes Scott sought to represent both themselves and their school in the most positive light. These talented scholars left behind their books to spend a few hours playing the jock. Through a competitive and fun-filled atmosphere, the athletes made their spark visible.

The volleyball team takes to the line for the pre-game introductions. While the other team watched timidly, these athletes practiced their skills of intimidation. Just watch how Kim Davis, on the end, flexes her muscles.

To improve their own game, first-years Gwen Cherry and Melissa Hughes curl up under a blanket and watch the progress of their teammates. Learning from the upperclassmen was an essential team tool.

GUEST HOME

First-year Brooke Dailey watches anxiously as her teammate swings and makes contact with the ball. Then, she is off, sprinting around the bases making her way towards home.

Making a quick recovery from offense to defense, first-years Lettie Jordan and Sarah McClrath create the perfect attack. To cut off any of their opponent's hopes of escape, the two bombard her from both sides.

“I love sports because they are a good stress reliever, fun, and a good way to make friends.”
- Nola Taylor

Nikki Dickerson and Tasha Bryson move back and allow some room for the coaches to send Senior Jessica McKenzie onto the court. Despite the cheering fans, Jessica remains focused on working with her team to beat their opponents.

The team's two seniors, Laura Vanderbloemen and Jacalyn Ellis plan their route before the race begins. Gaining familiarity with the course will prepare them for any tough spots or difficult hills.

Sophomore Carla Maley led the team not only on the course, but off it as well. As team captain and the team's top runner, Carla was a motivating member of the team and a major factor in its success.

Flame Runners

The ASC cross country team paced itself for the long run it was expected to complete this year. The ladies' goal, much like past years, was to perform at the height of their ability.

A huge asset to the team was the leadership of seniors Laura Vanderbloemen and Jacalyn Ellis. Marissa Mitrovich, a first-year, commented, "This year being my first experience on a cross country team proved to be very rewarding as I watched my time decrease throughout the season. I am especially thankful to Laura and Jacalyn who kept me motivated to run."

Sophomore and team captain Carla Maley made an excellent showing throughout the season, resulting in a chance to compete in the NCAA Regionals. All of the girls had a wonderful year making sparks fly.

Over yard and street, rookie runners Katy Goolsby and Michele Goss faced all types of terrain during their cross country season. This park course was designed with less obstacles than many of their downtown courses.

As the finish line drew nearer, senior Laura Vanderbloemen lengthened her strides to cut those last few seconds from her time. Despite the dreary weather, Laura focused all of her energy on this final stretch of the race.

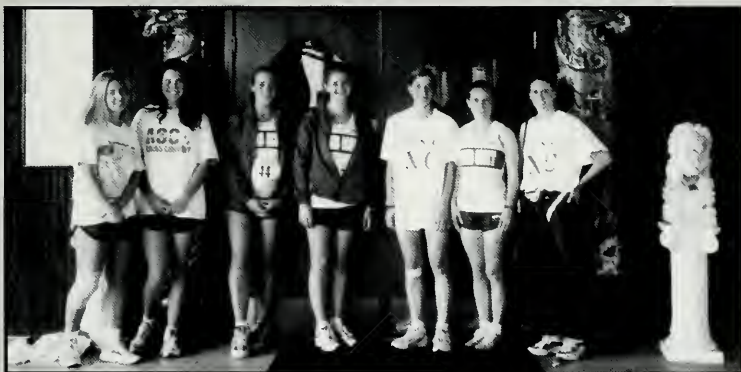

As a first-year cross country runner, Katy Goolsby put in long hours of practice in order to prepare for moments like this one. Ignoring the pain in her knee, she continues to keep her pace up to the finish line.

While busy with their pre-run stretch, Jacalyn Ellis ('98), Laura Vanderbloemen ('98), and Michele Goss ('00) work through the butterflies in their stomachs and the stiffness in their legs.

Senior Stephanie King, with her arms raised high, watches her set descend to a fellow player. Her role on the team as an experienced senior included controlling and monitoring the game.

One of the most difficult moves in volleyball is setting. Learning this skill takes practice and concentration, as displayed by junior Aleesia Tolliver.

Stephanie King and Tasha Bryson congratulate each other on successful play. Hovering close to the net, the two had to stay focused and work together to win the game.

For one last moment before the game begins, the team gathers together in a group cheer. The team cheer is one part team spirit and another part intimidation, both of which strengthen the team.

Fire Jumpers

The Agnes Scott volleyball team burst into the season with vigor and enthusiasm, ready to face the many opponents they would encounter. The season was indeed a long one, with the athletes playing a total of twenty-eight games against teams from all over the southeast.

Playing as a team and striving for constant improvement were two team goals. Not only did these women become teammates, but also friends. This unity proved itself in the game against Atlanta Christian, the team's first win of the season.

The excitement of the season continued in a rush of spikes and blocks as the team defeated both Toccoa Falls and Wesleyan College. This success was due, in part, to MVP Stephanie King and Most Improved Player Laura Underwood.

A fake here and a fake there and Selyka Givan ('01) has completely fooled her opponents. As she turns one direction, the ball hurtles the other direction into the hands of her waiting teammate.

As a senior leader on the team, Jessica McKenzie sets an example for the younger players. With her position set, she plays tough and smart, never letting the other team have the advantage.

Fire Balls

As the buzzer sounded and the fans rose to their feet, the scoreboard showed the skill of the athletes on the court. The Agnes Scott basketball team had just won a hard fought victory over Atlanta Christian with a score of 72 to 66.

This rapid sport required hours of practice in preparation for the difficult competition. To keep their stamina high, the athletes constantly maintained a positive attitude. According to sophomore Kim Davis, "This year's basketball team overcame such serious obstacles as chicken pox, a small team, and a high burnout rate to form close bonds between players and coaches."

Playing any sport can be fun as well as tiring. However, working with teammates towards a common goal builds friendships and camaraderie.

Alley-oop! for first-year Tina Bryson, who takes to the air in a well-positioned shot. The light defense attacking her leaves her open for a clean shot on goal.

With her arms still in position, sophomore athlete Kim Davis anxiously watches as her shot makes its way into the basket. With her skill on the foul line, there is no doubt this shot was pretty.

Sophomore Nikki Dickerson is checking her options as her teammates set up their play. Her cat-like reflexes are coiled and ready for an attack from any angle.

In a rapid breakaway, sophomore Katherine Nalley sprints down court out of her opponent's advantage position. While she makes her way down, Katherine keeps one eye on her teammates and another on the folks in green.

Good sportsmanship is of the utmost importance on the court. Sophomores Kembra Healy and Callie Currington exhibit the revered Agnes Scott code of honor on the court.

First-year Leise Olsen takes a skip, hop and a jump to loosen up before the next set. Keeping herself moving helps dispell the nervous butterflies and keeps her mind focused.

Coolly returning her opponent's serve, Emily Vihlen concentrates on the path of the ball, never taking her eye off its course. Any break in concentration could cost her the game.

sophomores Holly Scott and Julie Kidwell ve it up in a doubles competition. Friends d teammates, they worked together in a rfect union, constantly maintaining commu- cation.

‘Match’less Heat

As spring rolled around, the tennis team of ASC took to the courts to do battle, wielding rackets and balls. In both singles and doubles competitions, the players showed excellent sportsmanship and athleticism.

Cherry commented, "During the pre-season, we worked mainly on becoming aggressive at the net." By practicing drill after drill, the athletes reached a level of comfort with their teammates and their game.

The time spent before the first match was used in perfecting the weaker points in the team's strategy. Their most crucial technique to insure success was their attack. First-year Gwen

The successes and the fun had together were what made the season especially enjoyable. By learning from mistakes and working together, the entire team had a winning season.

Sophomore Katie Fidenza drops her bat and breaks into a sprint to first base, trying to beat the baseman's play. As fans and teammates yell their encouragement, Katie flies down the baseline and around the bases.

Teamwork is the key as first-year Brooke Dailey solidly grabs the fly ball that hurtled her way. Supported by a teammate, Brooke was sure to stop her opponent's play before it started.

Home Fires

In their first year as a varsity team at Agnes Scott, the softball team burst with excitement onto the scoreboards. The group could be seen practicing hard on the converted rugby pitch, going over hitting and fielding. Especially with the new batting tunnel, the athletes were able to improve their talents to make a great season.

Before this year, the softball program had consisted only of an intramural team. But as more and more interest accumulated, the varsity team was formed.

Many new faces to Agnes Scott joined the older athletes on the field. Team captain Karen Weyer served as a leader both on and off the field, exhibiting enthusiasm for the entire athletic system. At the annual Sports Banquet, Karen received the "Student Athlete of the Year" award.

Laura Underwood ('01) speeds to first base after a successful hit to the outfield. Despite the distraction of her hat flying off, Laura remains focused on the baseline.

Smiling all the way to the plate, first-year Elizabeth Danneman shows no signs of nervousness before taking her swing. Confident, she takes her stance to pound away at the ball.

Kia Blair puts all of her energy into hurling the ball from the outfield to her teammates on the infield. Kia uses her strong arm to cut off the opponent's run by keeping the ball with the basemen.

Flashy Feet

Despite skepticism about this young team, Agnes Scott's soccer team had a record setting season. During the 1997 season, these spectacular women fought their way to a record of nine winning games. This is quite an accomplishment since the main goalie faced most of the season with a broken arm. In continuing with this record setting season, first year Heather Holm set another ASC record with twenty-three career goals. These ladies understand the meaning of teamwork.

Team captain, Sarah McClrath, was satisfied with the season. She believes that this season developed a strong core for four years to come (eight members were first years). She also stated that soccer has "set the tone" for the "new" athletics department. Watch out for these ladies in the next few seasons!

This year the soccer team must say farewell to their head coach, Paige Cardel. The team is sad to see her go, especially after a wonderful season. One team member, Tabbatha Cavendish, ventured to state, "[Cardel is] the best coach I've ever had in my entire life. She was the main inspiration for me playing soccer here."

Good-bye Coach Cardel, your time here will be cherished always.

Take that!

Faculty

These are the souls that direct our thoughts and futures. They are the thought shapers and the mind sparkers.

The Faculty section is one of the most important sections of this publication. These professors give us the knowledge that we crave. They force us to think for ourselves. Answers do not come from their lips, but the means to provide the answers for ourselves seems to pour from them like lava from a volcano.

How many times does a student go to class and come out ready to discuss what they have learned with one of their fellow students? Countless. How many conversations in the dining hall were sparked by an interesting subject in the classroom? Countless. How many heated arguments between roommates were born when one of those women stepped out of an interesting discussion with a teacher in class? Countless.

The Faculty here does not merely teach us and then go about their business. The professors are involved with their students like few other campuses can bolster. Professors say hello to students as they pass in the hallway. They speak to their students in the dining hall and invite classes to their own homes for movies or discussions. They are always there when one needs help or advice. No one is ever turned away from a Faculty door.

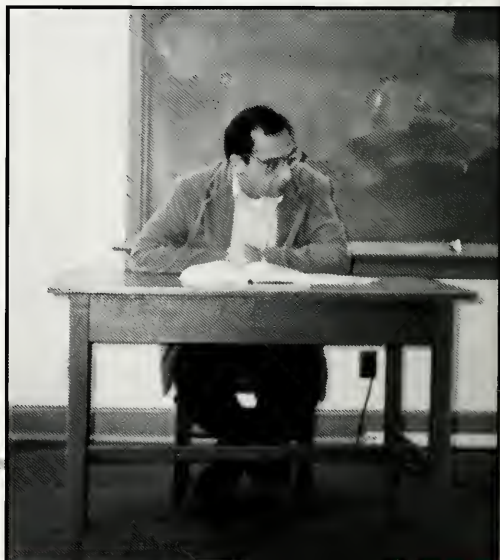

The Faculty participates in events here as well. Professors listen to Capppees do their skits and stunts and have to sign papers saying they have done so. Dr. Sheehy wore the Turkey suit and Dr. Pinka even cheered for a Rugby game. Many professors enjoy attending Junior Production during Black Cat to see how they and their colleagues are portrayed to the campus.

The Faculty at Agnes Scott College makes our lives rich with facts and theories that allow us to share this knowledge with others. They allow for a campus where minds truly spark minds.

Visiting Assistant Professor Waqas Khwaja is the "adorable" English professor in Buttrick. His classes are difficult but filled with fun and insight.

The Art Department consists of these three ladies, Donna Sadler (Chair), Terry McGehee, and Anne Beidler, not to mention Nell Ruby (not pictured).

Marilyn Darling enjoys her work as Dance Instructor while being a wonderful Chair of the Department as well. How does she manage it all? And she's smiling too!!

"The
beginning of wisdom is to desire it."

- Ibn Gabirol

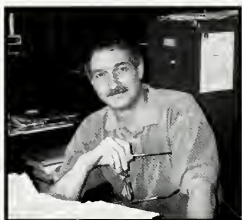

Senora Burgueno's Spanish 201 class enjoys the Christmas holiday at her home. The Spanish Department consists of Lia Burgueno- Instructor, Marisol Monsalves-Teaching Assistant, Gisela Norat- Assistant Professor, Rafael Ocasio- Associate Professor/ Chair, Leticia Seymour- Visiting Instructor, and Amanda Britt Walton- Instructor.

Psychology

PSYCHOLOGY is the scientific study of human and animal behavior, courses of the Department reflect the diversity within the field. This gives Psychology majors a strong background. Delving into the mind is difficult work, but someone's got to do it.

Below: Dr. Doug Webb takes a break from analyzing his own psyche to grade some interesting student papers. Unlocking the secrets of the mind can wait until after he reads more about Freudian's theories.

Right: Dr. Ayse Carden is a favorite professor in the Psychology department. She is always ready with bright smiles and brilliant insights for her attentive students.

Below: Dr. Eileen Cooley prepares to read yet another interesting paper that a bright, quick mind has turned into her.

SOCIOLOGY. Dr. Brenda Hoke focuses on the study of human society. Sociologists investigate connections of race, gender, and class within our society. Sociologists also employ theories and scientific methods to study social life in its multitudes. Congratulations to Dr. Brenda Hoke who was given tenure this year.

ANTHROPOLOGY. Anthropologists compare societies and cultures. They study the diverse and special ways various people meet basic human needs and they are interested in the unity of mankind.

Sociology Anthropology

Although he is still an Economics professor, Dr. Sheehey was appointed Dean of the College this aca-demical year and therefore cannot teach the students any longer. Rosemary Cunningham's husband

Thomas Cunningham, who works at the Federal Reserve taught Money and Banking and Macro Theory to accommodate Dean Sheehey's absence from the Department.

Professor Sheree Harmon taught the business classes, such as accounting I and II.

Stephanie Zobay still managed to keep her career despite the arrival of a baby girl.

Dr. Rosemary Cunningham, most often in a jovial mood, must have been even happier to have her husband around ASC campus!

Dr. Richard Martin's proficiency in Microeconomics definitely helped students better understand the principles of Economics

POLITICAL SCIENCE is a field that offers students the opportunity to critically evaluate and to think systematically about our political life. This includes world politics, political theory, and comparative politics, - including Latin American and U.S. politics.

Dr. Juan Allende is not only a talented teacher, but he is a cat lover as well. He keeps his students entertained with stories about his feline.

Dr. Cochran certainly does look like he's into Politics, doesn't he? It's just another day at the office.

Dr. Catherine Scott whispers secrets of success to those who are brave enough to take her classes and hear them.

In December 1998, Dr. Violet Johnson along with other colleagues will lead a team of students on a trip to Ghana to explore the rich and diverse history, culture and people of the West African country. Congratulations to Dr. Johnson who was given tenure.

Dr. Brown, after more than 30 years of teaching at Agnes Scott College, retires. Finally, free time to write a book and work on the splendid garden!

Congratulations to Dr. Michele Gillespie on her new-born baby!

The English Department was very busy this year with the Writer's Festival which featured Jamaica Kincaid, Thylas Moss, Sherman Yellen, as well as Jalaine Halsall, an alumnae.

In the fall, Gwendolyn Brooks visited the College to celebrate the Chicago Renaissance.

The readings of all these renowned writers empowered some of the women in Agnes Scott College to accomplish their writing goals.

Students have the opportunity to enrich their language skills with other related courses. Courses designated as Language Across the Curriculum (LAC) consists of completing a one-hour component in an interdisciplinary course connected with the LAC Program.

Students who qualify, may spend a semester to an academic year in a Francophone country or France on an approved program. This year, students spent the semester or academic year at the University of Angers .

Courses offered in the German Department emphasize the communication skills of understanding, writing, and speaking. Students interested in the German language can live in the German Hall. The opportunity to study abroad is offered to students who qualify. They participate in a semester or a year at the University of Mainz at Germersheim.

Philosophy

Professor Richard Parry and Professor David Behan, who is also Chair of the Department of Philosophy.

Dr. David Behan reaches for a manual on Descartes to assist him in his research.

The Philosophy Department offers several courses such as Epistemology, 17th and 18th century philosophy, and Philosophy of Science. Dr. Parry also teaches Religion in the Middle Ages. Dr. Behan teaches classes such as Mind, Self, and Personal Identity for beginning philosophers. The classes are lots of fun and discussion. Anyone who hasn't tried a philosophy class should definitely try to squeeze one into their schedule before graduating.

Dr. John Carey explains that Religion courses often surprise many students because they are not like a Sunday School class. "Many students become very defensive over some issues, but taking religion courses often helps to broaden their perspective."

Religion

Visiting Assistant Professor, Christopher De Pree is known for his intellect, personality, and good looks. He is quite popular among the student body.

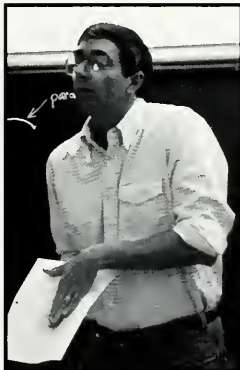

Chair and Associate Professor, Arthur Bowling is known for his exams featuring Phiarquard the Physics Clown.

This year there have been many new developments in the Physics and Astronomy Department. The 30-inch Beck Telescope is back in the Bradley Observatory after spending time in Athens. Students flock to the Open House lectures given every first Friday of the month in the Bradley Observatory. Also, this year Dr. Christopher De Pree has received grant money for astrophysical research.

Administration

Take a glance at the familiar faces along with the new faces that make up
the Agnes Scott
Administration and
Staff for the 1997-1998 school year.

It's the day before your paper is due, and you have just finished writing it. You push print and wait beside the printer for 30% of your grade to appear. Panic starts to overtake you as you realize it is not printing. You then begin your quest for help from the ITS staff.

You go to your post office box, open the door, and there it is. A package slip. You check in disbelief to make sure it is really yours and then you race over to the post office window. You don't even try to hide your smile as you hand the slip over to the post office worker and walk away with your prize.

While you are filling your tray with food at Evans, you notice that the cake looks amazingly fresh. Later you realize that your favorite cereal has been restocked. As you are going for dessert you see that your favorite yogurt is being served and come to the conclusion that life is good.

Life at Agnes Scott is filled with moments like these. At a college where "minds spark minds," interaction between students and administration and staff is an everyday occurrence. From stopping to chat with one of the deans to waiting for your financial package over the summer, the administration and staff are always there to help spark the mind of an Agnes Scott student.

TEGRA ROSERA

Congratulations on completing college. Good luck on grad school, and the rest of your future.

-Best Wishes, Keegan Rosera

You're not out of the woods yet, but the end is in sight. You have worked hard to get where you are today and your work has paid off. Good luck with OT. You have a talent for it - a talent that I truly do not have. Now, onto Grad school! Congratulations!

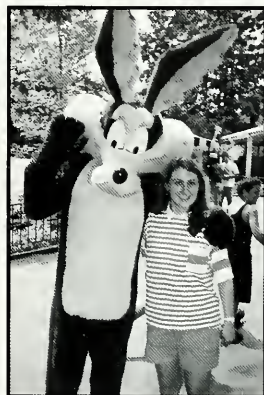

Love, Karlene

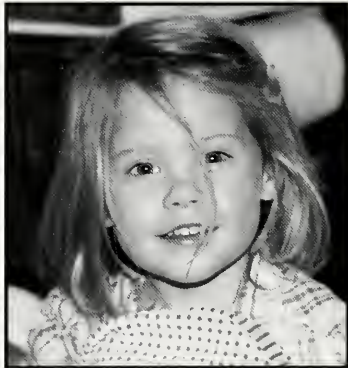

CONGRATULATIONS-YOU MADE IT! I will always remember: your messy room, the overdue library books, your volunteering at the Olympics, your love for Aikido, your vegetarian meals, your love of traveling, the fun we all had at our beach house and your gift for writing. But most of all I will always remember the wonderful, caring daughter you are. Remember we love you always. Good luck with everything you do.

-MOM

Congratulations! You know we are very proud of you. You may not be a genius in math (or keeping your room in order!), but you've found your own way through it all. You have a wonderful ability to find a "home" -- with your family, at the Mount, at Camp Merry Heart, with your friends at Aikido, and (most definitely!) at Agnes Scott. Now you are embarking on another journey to find yet another "home" with OT. Just be sure you never forget your other homes! We love you and wish you only the best in everything you do.

and obey them completely. They will help you live a long and prosperous life.
Let love and loyalty always show like a necklace, and write them in your mind.
God and people will like you and consider you a success.

With all your heart
you must trust the LORD and not your own judgment. Always let Him lead you, and He will clear the road for you to follow.
Don't ever think that you are wise enough, but respect the LORD and stay away from evil. This will make you healthy, and you will feel strong.

United States Secretary of State Madeleine K. Albright was the most visible and active secretary of state since Henry Kissinger. She was the highest ranking woman in the history of the U.S. government, and she was admired and respected by diplomatic corps. Previously she served as President Clinton's ambassador to the United Nations and in foreign policy advisory positions for former President Jimmy Carter. The on-going troubles in the Middle East kept the 60-year-old diplomat busy from the day she was sworn-in to the top job at the State Department.

Yasser Arafat was chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization and president of the Palestinian National Authority. He was one of the key leaders in trying to maintain peace in the Middle East. His 1993 handshake of peace with Yitzhak Rabin promised mutual recognition between the Palestinians and the state of Israel. Under the agreement, Arafat assumed leadership of Arabs within Israel's occupied territories. The 68-year-old leader played a very important role in keeping peace in the Middle East.

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton turned 50 on October 26, 1997. She was the most famous of the female Baby Boomers. During her husband's first term as President, Hillary Clinton took a leading role in health-care reform. Now, after nearly two years in the wings, she was quietly returning to center stage to begin a program on child care. One compelling reason for her to move on to the next project is the empty nest - her daughter Chelsea had left home for college. She seemed ready for a new challenge and a new project.

President Bill Clinton was the first Democratic president in 60 years to be elected to a second term. A centrist New Democrat, he transformed his once beleaguered party. Under his presidency, the United States enjoyed the lowest rate of inflation since the early 1960s, and he was the first president in 17 years to submit a balanced budget to Congress. His vice president, Al Gore, was considered a very powerful vice president and was the president's closest adviser. The 49-year-old Gore was considered a favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination in year 2000. However, a year after their reelection, both men were under close scrutiny for campaign finance violations.

The President's teenage daughter left home in September. Chelsea Clinton went off to college some 3,000 miles from home. The 18-year old National Scholarship finalist accepted an offer from Stanford University in Palo Alto, CA. Choosing this palm-studded campus 30 miles south of San Francisco was a bit of a bold stroke for the first daughter. Friends saw it as a reflection of her eagerness to escape the White House "bubble," and shed the pressures of Washington life. Chelsea agonized between Stanford and Princeton right up to the weekend before she made her decision. Her Secret Service detail will try their best to make her stay as normal as possible.

Britain and the world bid farewell to Diana, Princess of Wales, on a sparkling September morning with a grand tribute rich in pageantry. Since her death in a car crash in Paris a week before, the country had witnessed an astonishing outpouring of grief that forced a repentant monarchy to join in the kind of full celebration of Diana's life that the millions of people who flooded into London demanded. Her sons, William, 15, and Harry, 12, stood in attendance, joined by their father, Prince Charles and her brother, Earl Spencer, as the body was taken into Westminster Abbey. Millions packed the city for the funeral of Diana. It was a crowd unmatched since the end of World War II. More than a million bouquets by official count were stacked outside the royal palaces.

The first component of the Mir space station was launched in 1986. And except for two brief gaps, the space station has been manned continuously ever since. It has made more than 60,000 trips around Earth. In 1994 the U.S. and Russia agreed to conduct joint missions aboard the station. A docking module was attached to Mir, allowing American space shuttles to link up with the Russia station. The main Mir module - which provides living quarters for up to six people - has been orbiting for nearly 12 years, which is seven years longer than planned. These joint U.S.-Russian missions are the first phase of a program to build an International Space Station. This station is scheduled to be in orbit by the year 2002.

John Denver, whose optimistic songs catapulted him to fame during the 1970s, died instantly when his experimental plane crashed into Monterey Bay in California on October 12, 1997. The 53-year old singer had eight platinum records to his credit when his home built plane crashed. "Rocky Mountain High" and "Sunshine on My Shoulders" were two of his trademark songs. "His music sprang from his feelings of love," said Hal Than, his longtime manager.

The 11,000 residents of the Caribbean island of Montserrat witnessed first hand the devastation that a very active volcano can cause. The volcano belched ash and small rocks over several days in September and forced more than two-thirds of the population to evacuate the island. A shortage of housing was one of the biggest problems, especially for those evacuating the central communities of the island. The volcano on the British protectorate island became active about two years ago, and the latest eruptions caused most of the population to flee to Britain or other Caribbean islands.

The U.S. Senate Governmental Affairs Committee investigated alleged campaign fund raising abuses by Democrats in the 1996 presidential campaign. The committee chairman was Sen. Fred Thompson, a Republican from Tennessee. The committee heard testimony from a wide variety of government officials and big-money political contributors. One of the key questions was the role of foreign money in politics - especially the presidential campaign of President Bill Clinton and Vice President Al Gore. Political pressure was put on Attorney General Janet Reno to appoint an independent counsel to review whether the President or Vice President did anything illegal in raising money for the Democratic party.

Mother Teresa was among the most well-known and highly respected women in the world in the later half of the twentieth century. In 1948 she founded a religious order of Roman Catholic nuns in Calcutta, India, called the Missionaries of Charity. Through this order, she dedicated her life to helping the poor, the sick and the dying around the world, particularly those in India. Her selfless work with the needy brought her much acclaim and many awards, including the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979. She died at the age of 87 on September 5, 1997 of heart failure at her convent in Calcutta.

Attorney General Janet Reno was the first woman attorney general of the United States. She was first nominated by President Clinton in 1993, and she was appointed again in 1997. A graduate of Harvard Law School, Ms. Reno, 59, focused on the prevention of crime among the youth of the country and stressed early intervention to keep children away from gangs, drugs and violence. Late in 1997 she unveiled an advertising campaign urging the nation's youth to become involved in neighborhood crime prevention and community service.

I still cannot believe that we have put together this yearbook. It did not seem possible to finish at times, but here it is now in your hands. Yes, the production process was a sometimes torturous but always rewarding experience. I hope everyone on the staff learned something by working on the 1998 Silhouette--I know I did. Above all I found that often the simplest tasks, much less a college annual, cannot be done alone. A great deal of work by many people went into this book, and I truly appreciate all the effort put forth . . . even when it seemed to dwindle.

Amber, I must admit that I doubted you at first, but I am overjoyed that you proved me wrong. This project most definitely haunted both of us throughout the year, but I hope you've come to love those ghosts. Just remember that it is always darkest before the dawn, and be proud of yourself for all that you've accomplished.

Melanie, a lot of weight was on your shoulders, yet each week you came back for more. I know you and Debbie faced a great many problems, but I am proud of you both for your dedication. Sharon and Andrea--You may not have been able to make the regular meetings, but you graciously did your part. For this I thank you. Jennie and Brook--You were both so eager to help, even when it all came down to the last minute. Here's to sticking it out! Shondra, you may have gotten the shaft, but you kept on moving. I'm glad your face didn't disappear like so many others. Mendi, the exemplary yearbook section editor, you definitely deserve the prize for being on top of the game. Next year the rest of us will all hopefully learn the definition of "deadline."

So many other staffers pitched in throughout the year, and I hope you continue to work with us next year. Pat, I know things didn't go as smoothly as planned, but next year we plan to hit the ground running. Alaine, you were never on the staff, but I would have never made it through the year with out you. Are you ready for another whip around this block? Casey, thank you for picking us up in the middle of everything. May all out future collaborations be so sweet!

Love and laughter,
Ashlea

Words cannot express the elation and relief I feel knowing that this annual is finally completed. This year has made me realize the immense effort it takes to put together a yearbook. After a seemingly endless summer of finalizing this book, I am proud of the outcome and I hope everyone else on the staff is proud of their contributions as well.

Ashlea, it certainly was a rocky road, wasn't it? This coming year is going to go much smoother, I know it. Now where'd you get that little organizer you had this year? Seriously, thanks for all you've done. There wouldn't be a yearbook without your work on all the technical aspects of putting this together. I hope I can learn all you do so that when you're gone it's not a total wreck.

Our Student Life staff, Melanie and Debbie, what can I say? I am grateful for your dedication. Even with your Section Editor quitting on us, you stuck it out, and I thank you. Jennie and Brook: your Sports section turned out great! I am so proud of you guys! Editing your section was a breeze. Hopefully, you can teach others your magic tricks next year. Mendi: outstanding! If only we all could have finished our work as quickly as you did. You must teach me your time management skills. Much appreciation! Shondra and Dela: I know you two were in the dark the majority of the time, but I'm hoping that you learned a lot and will both join us again next year. Thanks for your time and effort. Andrea and Sharon: I'm sorry about all the confusion at the end, but you guys did great. I did miss your faces at the meetings, but classes come first. Thank you both. I want to thank everyone else that helped out through the course of the year. To those of you that were there at the start, but had other obligations: I wish you could know the satisfaction I feel having worked on this yearbook. It truly is worth it. I invite everyone to come join us this next year and be a part of history. I want to thank my boyfriend, Jason, for putting up with me this summer. He drove me to ASC, sat with me for hours so I wouldn't be alone, brought me food late at night and dealt with my whining. Thank you so much, sweetheart, I love you for it.

Finally, I would like to thank Pat. Thank you for helping me this summer. Thank you for coming to ASC all those times to show me the way. I know you had a rough year too, Pat. Casey, thanks for saving us with the production of this masterpiece. Here's to a long and happy relationship!
Amber

You Must Be A Player, 'Cause Here You Are:

After another (adjective) semester of classes and a(n) (adjective) exam week, (friend's name) and I decided to pack up the (mode of transportation) and head out to (U.S. tourist destination) to see the sights. (Number) hours later we finally found the (plural noun) pointing us in the right direction. Thirsty from our long journey, we drank a few glasses of (liquid) at Aunt (animal)'s (adjective) Cafe, and has some (adjective) (plural food) before heading out for a night on the (noun). We changed into more (adjective) clothes and ducked into a(n) (adjective) (occupation) who just loved (gerund/-ing verb) and would not leave (same friend's name) alone. Needless to say, we left early to get a good night's sleep and then (adverb) (past tense verb) the next day. It was a(n) (adjective) trip, and we especially enjoyed the (an activity). Next summer I want to go to (place) because I love to (verb)!
