

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AUTUMN EVENTS AT AGNES SCOTT FEATURE INDIAN CULTURE, CONTEMPORARY DANCE, SCIENCE, STAR GAZING AND PHOTOGRAPHY

ATLANTA (Aug. 15, 2003) – Outstanding women in science, an evening to celebrate Indian culture under starlight, three Korean siblings and their music, and an array of art, astronomy, music and dance fill autumn 2003 on the Agnes Scott College campus.

- “Edges, Exposures & Mayhem” – Sept. 4-Dec. 7 – Lucinda Bunnan’s striking photography from the American South and beyond will be presented at the Dalton Gallery in Agnes Scott College’s Dana Fine Arts Building. During a career spanning more than four decades, Bunnan has never shied from exploring new processes for exposing and printing photographs. She has dedicated herself to expanding awareness and appreciation of photography within the Atlanta arts community. The exhibition is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday-Friday, and noon-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. More information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6244.
- “Sowing the Seeds of Science” – Sept. 10 – Rita Colwell, director of the National Science Foundation, speaks at 8 p.m. in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. The event is free and open to the public, but a ticket is required. Tickets may be reserved online at www.agnesscott.edu, or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430. Colwell was appointed director of the NSF in 1998, and has spearheaded the agency’s emphasis on science and mathematics education for students at all levels. She is dedicated to increasing participation by women and minorities in the sciences and engineering.

Fall Events at Agnes Scott College

Page 2

- “A Night Under the Stars/Aik Raat Sitaroon Kay Neechay” –Sept. 20 – Agnes Scott celebrates community, culture and the rich heritage of India. From 5-10 p.m., participants will gather on the college’s new Science Center Quadrangle to discover India’s cuisine, fashion and culture as the campus is transformed into a street fair and marketplace with Indian music and dance accented by the spontaneity of roving performers. Children can bounce on the inflatable “moonwalk” and have their faces painted. Those curious about Indian films will have the opportunity to sample “Bollywood” cinema. The entire family will marvel at planetarium shows scheduled every half hour. Admission is free, and participants can enjoy dinner for $5. More information may be obtained at www.agnesscott.edu or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430.
- Koresh Dance Company – Oct. 10-11 – Renowned for its powerful stage presence and eloquent style, Philadelphia’s Koresh Dance Company will perform Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. Hailed as an extraordinary newcomer to the national stage, choreographer and artistic director Ronen Koresh founded in the group in 1991 to provide opportunity and income for young professionals. This troupe takes pride in presenting a technically superior blend of ballet, modern and jazz dance molded into a style of choreography that is both uniquely complex and beautiful. The Koresh Dance Company’s critically acclaimed choreography is recognized for its story telling strength and ardent interpretations of significant social motifs. Tickets for the general public are $20, and $15 for seniors, Agnes Scott faculty, staff, alumnae and non-ASC students. More information may be obtained at www.agnesscott.edu or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430.
- “Women in Astronomy” 2003-2004 Open House Series – Oct. 10, Nov. 14, Dec. 12 – Agnes Scott College presents a monthly talk on topics in astronomy at 8 p.m. in the Bradley Observatory. In October, Chris DePree, Agnes Scott associate astronomy professor, will discuss “Women at the Harvard College Observatory.” In November,

Fall Events at Agnes Scott College

Page 3

Amy Lovell, Agnes Scott assistant astronomy professor, will discuss "The New Generation of Asteroids." In December, Cecilia Birnbaum, associate physics and astronomy professor at Valdosta State University, will talk about "Black Holes, a Dance with Gravity." All Open House lectures are free and open to the public. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-5142.

- A Tribute to Dylan Thomas: "Return Journey" – Oct. 21 – Actor Bob Kingdom grew up in Cardiff, South Wales, not too far from Swansea, where poet Dylan Thomas was born. Kingdom portrays Thomas in a theatrical event by blending stories and poetry to take his audience through Wales, past and present at 8 p.m. in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. In 2004, the world will observe the 50th anniversary of Thomas' death. Tickets for the general public are $15, and $10 for seniors, Agnes Scott faculty, staff, alumnae and non-ASC students. More information may be obtained at www.agnesscott.edu or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430.
- "A Midsummer Night's Dream" – Oct. 24-26 and Oct. 31-Nov. 2 – Agnes Scott's Blackfriars, Atlanta's oldest continuously performing theater troupe, present Shakespeare's whimsical comedy in the Winter Theatre in the college's Dana Fine Arts Building. Performances will be held at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, with a 2 p.m. matinee performance each Sunday. Tickets for the general public are $7, and $5 for seniors, Agnes Scott faculty, staff, alumnae and non-ASC students. More information may be obtained at www.agnesscott.edu or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430.
- Joseph R. Gladden Jr. Public Lecture Series – Oct. 29 – Willie Tolliver Jr., associate professor of English and director of Africana studies, delivers this annual talk at 5 p.m. in the Linda Teasley Classroom G-9 of the new Agnes Scott Science Center. The event is free and open to the public.
- Kathie Olsen, associate director, White House Office of Science and Technology – Nov. 6 – Agnes Scott College continues its focus on Women in Science at 8 p.m. in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. The event is free and open to the public, but a ticket is required. Tickets may be reserved online at www.agnesscott.edu, or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430. An accomplished scientist and public servant, Olsen joined the White House team in 2001. She served as chief scientist at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration from 1999-2001, and served at the National Science Foundation prior to her time at NASA. At NSF, Olsen held positions including director of neuroendocrinology and special assistant for neuroscience.

Fall Events at Agnes Scott College

Page 4

- Ahn Trio – Nov. 22 – Twins Maria and Lucia, and their sister Angella Ahn perform classical music by composers including Dvorak, Shostakovich, Villa-Lobos and Suk at 8 p.m. in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. With Maria on the cello, Angella on the violin and Lucia on the piano, each of the artists performs with superb technique and contagious excitement. The Washington Post said, "Their technique was impressive, and they balanced unanimity and individuality in a spirit that is at the heart of chamber music." Tickets for the general public are $20, and $15 for seniors, Agnes Scott faculty, staff, alumnae and non-ASC students. More information may be obtained at www.agnesscott.edu or by calling the Agnes Scott Information Center, 404-471-6430.
- Holiday Dance at Agnes Scott –December 2003 – The Agnes Scott College Dance Program produces a children's show "Peter Pan Returns to the North Pole" Dec. 3-5 at 10:25 a.m. and Dec. 6 at 11 a.m., and a show for all ages Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m., "Feets of Magic." All shows are free and open to the public, and will be held in Presser Hall on South McDonough Street on the Agnes Scott campus. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-5360.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

EMBARGOED UNTIL 12:01 a.m., Aug. 22 Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE AMONG TOP 50 LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES IN U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT RANKINGS

Ranked Top Women's College in the Southeast and Best Liberal Arts College in Georgia

ATLANTA (Aug. 22, 2003) – U.S. News & World Report today ranked Agnes Scott College among the top 50 national liberal arts colleges, the Southeast's best women's college, and Georgia's best liberal arts college in its annual "America's Best Colleges" survey.

"These findings affirm the longstanding opinions of Agnes Scott College students, alumnae, and those who employ our graduates," said Mary Brown Bullock, president of Agnes Scott College and a 1966 graduate. "Agnes Scott has enjoyed a strong reputation throughout the nation, the South and Georgia as one of the preeminent liberal arts colleges, and this report supports that longstanding perception."

For the first time in the history of the "Best Colleges" rankings, Agnes Scott moved into the top 50 of the "Best Liberal Arts Colleges" list from the position it held last year in the "second tier" of colleges ranked 53-112. Agnes Scott moved this year to the 50th spot, which it shares with Wabash College in Indiana. ASC joins only six other southeastern colleges on the top 50 list, including Davidson in North Carolina, Washington and Lee University in Virginia, University of the South and Rhodes College in Tennessee, Furman University in South Carolina and Centre College in Kentucky.

– MORE –

Agnes Scott College and “Best Colleges” Survey

Page 2

Agnes Scott College also received high marks for diversity. U.S. News & World Report ranked the college No. 11 among national liberal arts colleges for diversity, with 22 percent of its students African American.

In another academic ranking issued this week, The Princeton Review’s “Best 351 Colleges” report named Agnes Scott No. 13 for “Best Quality of Life” and No. 5 for “Dorms Like Palaces.” The study asks 100,000 college students to gauge colleges and universities for academics, quality of campus life and many other indicators important to those who are actually earning the grades.

The U.S. News & World Report guidebook, “Best Colleges in America,” goes on sale at newsstands Aug. 25. Rankings will be posted Aug. 22 on the U.S. News & World Report Premium Online Edition at www.usnews.com.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact:

Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

FACT SHEET

PROFILE

An independent, national liberal arts college for women • Founded in 1889 • Affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) • Ranked among the top 50 "Best Liberal Arts Colleges" in the nation and a "Great School at a Great Price" by U.S. News & World Report (2004)

CAMPUS

Located in the heart of metropolitan Atlanta • Twenty-six buildings and an apartment complex • Approximately 100 acres in a national historic district and residential neighborhood in Decatur • $120 million expansion and renovation, scheduled for completion in 2003.

STUDENT LIFE

Fall 2002: 910 students representing 42 states and 31 countries and 24 students in off-campus programs • 91 percent reside in College residence halls or apartments • 29 percent from under-represented groups (African-American: 21 percent, Asian-American: 5 percent, Hispanic: 3 percent) • 6 percent international students • One of the oldest and most respected student-governed honor systems in the country

FACULTY

100 percent of the tenure-track faculty have a Ph.D. or terminal degree in their field; of those approximately 60 percent are women • 10:1 student-faculty ratio

PRESIDENT

Mary Brown Bullock, a 1966 Phi Beta Kappa graduate, and the College's first alumna president • Ph.D. in Chinese history from Stanford University • Former director of the Asia Program at The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington, D.C.

ALUMNAE

Distinguished alumnae include: Georgia's first female Rhodes Scholar • Fulbright, Goldwater, Truman, Rhodes and Gates Millennium scholarship awardees • Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court • First woman to be ordained a minister in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) • First woman to chair the Federal Commodity Futures Trading Commission

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

Bachelor of Arts in 30 majors • Master of Arts in Teaching Secondary English • Post-Baccalaureate Pre-Medical Program for Women • Dual-degree programs with Washington University and Georgia Institute of Technology • Cross registration with 20 colleges and universities in the Atlanta Regional Consortium for Higher Education (ARCHE) • Study abroad opportunities with more than 115 institutions in 33 countries through the International Student Exchange Program (ISEP)

– MORE –

DISTINCTIVE PROGRAMS

The Atlanta Semester • Global Awareness and Global Connections • Language Across the Curriculum • Center for Writing and Speaking • Annual Writers' Festival

LIBRARY

215,138 volumes • 17,828 media materials • 32,357 microforms • 1,111 periodicals including 348 electronic journals • Online access to 156 electronic database subscriptions, including the GALILEO project of the University System of Georgia, PROJECT MUSE of The Johns Hopkins University and JSTOR, a distributor of historic periodical backfiles

ENDOWMENT

In excess of $281.4 million; ranks second among women's colleges, seventh among national liberal arts colleges and 22nd overall in endowment per student (For year ending June 30, 2003)

RECOGNITION AND ENROLLMENT

- U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT'S 2004 rankings put Agnes Scott among the country's best values among national liberal arts colleges, ranking it 23rd for "Great School at a Great Price" as well as among the top national liberal arts schools for diversity.
- THE BEST 351 COLLEGES (2004), published by Princeton Review, ranks Agnes Scott No. 13 for "quality of life," and No. 5 for "dorms like palaces."
- According to THE BEST 351 COLLEGES: "Students come to Agnes Scott College to enjoy a first-rate education in a homey, southern atmosphere. Few leave disappointed, thanks largely to a dedicated faculty, a caring administration, and a well-loved honor code."
- THE FISKE GUIDE TO COLLEGES 2004 proclaims that Agnes Scott "continues to be the South's leading women's institution." "An academically challenging liberal arts college across the board," Fiske continues, "Agnes Scott is highly acclaimed for its science and mathematics programs."
- The 2004 KAPLAN GUIDE says, "Agnes Scott provides a strong liberal arts education for women, with emphasis on 'research, independent experiences, and international education.'" "Science and mathematics programs shine; other popular majors are psychology, economics and English."

ENVIRONMENT

Atlanta offers the culture and entertainment of a metropolitan city: museums, professional arts companies, major-league sports, excellent public transport and work-study opportunities at the headquarters of international companies. Six miles from Atlanta's city center, Decatur is a tree-lined community of eclectic shops, restaurants and homes.

#

Agnes Scott College is a highly selective, independent national liberal arts college for women located in metropolitan Atlanta. The College offers a vibrant and intellectually challenging environment with a rich and active cultural life. Founded in 1889 by Presbyterians, Agnes Scott College is a diverse and growing residential community of scholars with one of the largest endowments per student of any college or university in the United States. In offering the world for women, Agnes Scott's curriculum encourages students to become fluent across disciplines, across continents and across centuries.

Dancy, Lee

Subject: View Mars at Agnes Scott College

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

<mailto:ldancy@agnesscott.edu>

VIEW MARS AT ITS POINT CLOSEST TO THE EARTH IN 60,000 YEARS
AT THE BRADLEY OBSERVATORY, AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

WHO: Chris DePree, associate professor of astronomy at Agnes Scott College extends an invitation to Atlanta stargazers.

WHAT: View Mars at its point closest to the Earth in 60,000 years.

WHEN: There will be two chances to view Mars at the observatory:

- Wednesday, Aug. 27
10:30 p.m.-2 a.m.
- Saturday, Aug. 30
10:30 p.m.-1 a.m.

WHERE: The Bradley Observatory at Agnes Scott College will be open to view the passing of the Red Planet.

WHY: Mars is expected to be spectacular late at night, and will grow increasingly bright. But the best times for viewing are late at night to early in the morning, so this is an event for night owls, not sleepyheads. More information is available by visiting:

<http://www.space.com/spacewatch/where_is_mars.html>

#

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
404-742-2831 (pager)
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE PRESENTS INDIAN FILM SERIES

ATLANTA (Sept. 17, 2003) – Accenting a special focus on Indian arts and culture during events for the 2003-2004 academic year, a film series at Agnes Scott College features the work of some of the best movie directors of Indian cinema.

The film festival will be launched at A Night Under the Stars/Aik Raat Sitaroon Kay Neechay Saturday, Sept. 20, a celebration of the community, culture and rich heritage of India, with a showing of “Monsoon Wedding.” On Thursday, March 25, Indian author Chitra Divakaruni will be the featured author at the Agnes Scott College 33rd Annual Writers’ Festival.

Films scheduled to be shown during the series include:

- Monsoon Wedding –Saturday, Sept. 20 – This exuberant family drama captures much of director Mira Nair's beloved Punjabi culture, where ancient tradition and dot-com modernity combine in unique and perfect harmony. As the romantic monsoon rains loom, the extended Verma family reunites from around the globe for a last-minute arranged marriage in New Delhi. “Monsoon Wedding” stars Naseeruddin Shah, Lillete Dubey, Shefali Shetty, Vasundhara Das. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 5:30 p.m. in the Hub at Alston Campus Center. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.

– MORE –

- Fire –Wednesday, Sept. 24 – Banned in India, “Fire” is the first film to confront lesbianism in a culture challenged to accept such a love ever could exist. In a barren, arranged marriage to an amateur swami who seeks enlightenment through celibacy, Radha’s life takes an irresistible turn. She discovers the love of her beautiful young sister-in-law Sita, who also finds herself in a loveless marriage. “Fire” is directed by Deepa Mehta, written by A. R. Rahman and stars Shabana Azmi and Nandita Das. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.
- The World of Apu – Wednesday, Oct. 8 – Invited to a wedding unexpectedly, Apu is persuaded to become the bridegroom when the intended groom suffers a nervous breakdown. Apu marries the girl to save her from a life of spinsterhood and prevent her family from being disgraced. “The World of Apu” was directed by Satyajit Ray and stars Soumitra Chatterjee, Sharmila Tagore, Alok Chakravarty and Swapan Mukherji. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.
- Gunga Jumna – Wednesday, Oct. 15 – This movie captures the story of Gunga and his younger brother Jamuna. Gunga works hard to provide for his brother’s education, but struggles with the consequences of love and conflict. Directed by Natin Bose, music for “Gunga Jumna” is written by Naushad. The film stars Dilip Kumar and Vyjayanthimala and is free and open to the public, and will be shown at 7 p.m. in the Buttrick Academic Building Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.
- Madhumati – Wednesday, Oct. 22 – A film about Déjà vu and reincarnation. Directed by Bimal Roy, the film features music by Saleel Chaudhry and stars Dilip Kumar, Vyjayanthimala, Johnny Walker and Pran. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.
- Do Ankhen Bara Haath – Saturday, Oct. 25 – More than 20 years ago in a small state in India, an idealist started on a great experiment to convert animals into human beings. This film is based on actual events and directed by V. Shantaram, with music by Vasant Desai, and starring Rajshiri and Shantaram. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.

- Mandi – Wednesday, Oct. 29 – A whorehouse in a remote town becomes the focal point of a dispute between politicians and the business community. The film was directed by Shyam Benegal, with music by Vanraj Bhatia. Starring Shabana Azmi, Smita Patil, Naseeruddin Shah and Amrish Puri. The movie is free and open to the public, and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.
- Lagaan – Saturday, Nov. 1, 2003 – At almost four hours, this spectacular musical tells the story of a ragtag group of farmers who form a cricket team to challenge the arrogant British. Directed by Ashutosh Gowariker, this epic movie stars Aamir Khan and Raghuvir Yadiv. The film is free and open to the public and will be shown at 7 p.m. in Buttrick Hall, Film Room G-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-6430.

Directions to Agnes Scott College, maps and information about other events to be held during the 2003-2004 academic year may be found at www.agnesscott.edu.

#

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451 (direct)
404-742-2831 (pager)
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Agnes Scott College Lecture Series:
"Ethical Issues at the Beginning of Life"

- Sex: What's it All About? – Sept. 22 – Alan Soble, professor of philosophy, University of New Orleans, will speak at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22, in conference rooms A and B of Letitia Pate Evans Dining Hall at Agnes Scott College. Soble will consider two contrasting positions about the moral relationship between sex and procreation. Soble has taught, lectured, and written about the philosophy of sex and love for more than 25 years. His books include "Pornography Sex and Feminism," "Sexual Investigations," and "The Structure of Love," and several editions of "The Philosophy of Sex: Contemporary Readings," of which he is editor. The event is free and open to the public. More information is available by calling 404-471-5364.
- "How to Reason about the Morality of Abortion" – Nov. 3 – Roger Wertheimer, former distinguished chair of ethics at the U.S. Naval Academy, will speak on Monday, Nov. 3, at 7 p.m., in conference rooms A and B of the Letitia Pate Evans Dining Hall at Agnes Scott College. Wertheimer will defend an alternative approach to reasoning about abortion, which does not begin with the presupposition that we know how to apply the fact-value distinction regarding the morality of abortion. Wertheimer has contributed much to the areas of theoretical and applied ethics. In addition to his book, "The Significance of Sense: Meaning, Modality and Morality," he has written numerous articles, including "Philosophy on Humanity" and "Understanding the Abortion Argument." The event is free and open to the public. Additional information may be obtained by calling 404-471-5364.

#

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
ATLANTA (Oct. 6, 2003)

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AGNES SCOTT STUDENTS TO DEBATE FOREIGN POLICY ISSUES

- WHO: Agnes Scott College students with diverse points of view debate the future of U.S. Foreign Policy.
- WHAT: The People Speak: America Debates Its Role in the World – Agnes Scott students will debate the pros and cons of two resolutions: one on the use of preemptive military force, and a second on the value of U.S. commitment to international institutions. The Agnes Scott debates will be two of more than 1,000 discussions about foreign policy held through October in communities across the country.
- WHEN: Monday, Oct. 13, 7 p.m.
- WHERE: Letitia Pate Evans dining hall, conference rooms A, B and C, Agnes Scott College.
- WHY: This debate series offers an opportunity for Agnes Scott students and others across the nation to discuss crucial aspects of foreign policy. ASC debate participants and organizers invite those interested and concerned about world affairs to attend this event and participate in the dialogue.

Organizations cooperating with Join the Debate include: United Nations Foundation, American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, Rockefeller Brothers Fund, League of Women Voters, Open Society Institute, National Peace Corps Association, United Nations Association of the United States of America, Empower America, The National Forensic League, The World Affairs Councils of America, Jesse Helms Center Foundation, Center for Women Policy Studies, Women's Action for New Directions, National Peace Foundation, Americans for Informed Democracy and the Ms. Foundation for Women.

More information on Join the Debate can be found at www.jointhedebate.org. The debates will be free and open to the public. Additional information on Agnes Scott College, including maps and driving directions to campus, can be found at: www.agnesscott.edu.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
ATLANTA (OCT. 15, 2003)

Press Contact: Mary Zimmik, Studio-MZ
(404) 296-4023, office; (678) 428-3540, cell
mary@studiomz.com

Media Advisory

'STROKE OF GENIUS,' ON THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GOLF LEGEND BOBBY JONES, TO FILM ON-LOCATION AT AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE OCT. 17

WHAT: Location filming for the new feature film, "Stroke of Genius," on the life of famed golfer and Georgia native Bobby Jones. The film, shot completely on-location in actual Jones locations in Georgia and Scotland, is scheduled to release in spring 2004.

WHERE: On the campus of Agnes Scott College, 141 E. College Ave., Decatur

WHO: Agnes Scott College students serving as extras and interns will join the cast and crew of Stroke of Genius: Director Rowdy Herrington ("Tales from the Crypt," "I Witness," "The Stickup," "A Murder of Crows," "Distance"); Cast includes: James (Jim) Caviezel as Bobby Jones (Mel Gibson's "The Passion," "High Crimes," "Angel Eyes," "The Count of Monte Cristo"), Claire Forlani as Mary Jones ("Basquiat," "Meet Joe Black"), Malcolm McDowell as Atlanta journalist O.B. Keeler ("A Clockwork Orange," "Star Trek: Generations"), Jeremy Northam as Walter Hagen ("Martin and Lewis," "Gosford Park") and Aidan Quinn as Harry Vardan ("Practical Magic," "The Playboys").

WHEN: Friday, Oct. 17, 7 a.m.-7 p.m. (REPORTERS and PHOTOGRAPHERS must call Mary Zimmik by 5 p.m. TODAY for clearance to set Friday. Call 404-296-4023)

WHY: Scenes at Agnes Scott College will be some of the last shot for Herrington's film. Aside from his extraordinary golfing ability, Georgia native Bobby Jones was one of the most popular athletes to have lived. Blessed with clean good looks and elegant manners, he was the very image of the all-American boy as gentleman and sports hero who drew crowds wherever he went.

Agnes Scott College has been the location for a wide variety of feature films, documentaries and television projects since the 1950's when "A Man Called Peter" filmed on campus (on the life of ASC alumna Catherine Marshall's husband.) Since then such major projects as "Scream 2," "Driving Miss Daisy," "Fried Green Tomatoes," "Four Seasons," the television pilot for "I'll Fly Away" and the HBO documentary "Women in Sports" have used Agnes Scott to play a variety of "roles." In "Stroke of Genius," Agnes Scott will play Emory University, Georgia Tech, Harvard Law School and Grady Hospital, among other locations for other scenes. As usual, ASC students will participate as extras and interns on set (and interns will receive on-screen credit).

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Abigail Babin of Tyler, Texas Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Abigail Babin of Tyler, Texas was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Babin graduated in 2000 from All Saints Episcopal School in Tyler. Her parents are Wayne Babin and Kathy Babin of Tyler.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Sofia Becerra-Licha of Tucker, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Sofia Becerra-Licha of Tucker, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Becerra-Licha graduated in 2000 from Home School in Atlanta. Her parents are Jose Becerra and Rosa Licha de Becerra of Tucker.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Terica Black of Memphis, Tenn. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Terica Black of Memphis, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Black graduated in 2002 from White Station High School in Memphis. Her parents are Terance Black and Joyce Black of Memphis.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Amelia Braeunig of Perryville, Ohio Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Amelia Braeunig of Perryville, Ohio was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Braeunig graduated in 2002 from Hillsdale High School in Jeromesville. Her parents are David Braeunig and Patricia Braeunig of Perrysville.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Mary Callis of Owensboro, Ky. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Mary Callis of Owensboro, Ky. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Callis graduated in 2000 from Owensboro High School in Owensboro. Her parents are James Callis and Karen Callis of Owensboro.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Elizabeth Casey of Knoxville, Tenn. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Elizabeth Casey of Knoxville, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Casey graduated in 2002 from West High School in Knoxville. Her parents are Jim Casey and Denise Casey of Knoxville.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Michelle Currica of Memphis, Tenn. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Michelle Currica of Memphis, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Currica graduated in 2002 from White Station High School in Memphis. Her parents are Michael Currica and Ingrid Currica of Memphis.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Deborah Dooley of Atlanta, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Deborah Dooley of Atlanta, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Dooley graduated in 2001 from Therrell High School in Atlanta. Her parents are and of

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Shireen Fischer of Martinez, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Shireen Fischer of Martinez, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Fischer graduated in 2001 from Lakeside High School in Evans. Her parents are Paul Fischer and Asma Fischer of Martinez.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Kristen Flaggs of Gaithersburg, Md. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Kristen Flaggs of Gaithersburg, Md. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Flaggs graduated in 2002 from Poolesville Senior Hs in Poolesville. Her parents are Christopher Flaggs and Anne Flaggs of Gaithersburg.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Emma Gant of Knoxville, Tenn. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Emma Gant of Knoxville, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Gant graduated in 2001 from Knoxville Catholic High School in Knoxville. Her parents are Robert Gant and Kathy Gant of Knoxville.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Martha Gaston of Highlands, N.C. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Martha Gaston of Highlands, N.C. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Gaston graduated in 2000 from Winter Park High School in Winter Park. Her parents are John Gaston and Lucinda Gaston of Highlands.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Laurel Henninger of Chattanooga, Tenn. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Laurel Henninger of Chattanooga, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Henninger graduated in 2001 from Chattanooga Arts/Sciences in Chattanooga. Her parents are Melissa Gannon and William Henninger of Chattanooga.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Kateena Johnson of Brunswick, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Kateena Johnson of Brunswick, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Johnson graduated in 2000 from Glynn Academy in Brunswick. Her parents are Charlie Johnson and Beverly Carter of Brunswick.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Arsed Joseph of New Orleans, La. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Arsed Joseph of New Orleans, La. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Joseph graduated in 2002 from Academy of the Sacred Heart in New Orleans. Her parents are Charles Joseph and Desra Joseph of New Orleans.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Kim Kouch of Statesboro, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Kim Kouch of Statesboro, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Kouch graduated in 2000 from Statesboro High School in Statesboro. Her parents are Veng Kouch and SuPun Kouch of Statesboro.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Rose Conklin of Washington, D.C. Named
2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Rose Conklin of Washington, D.C. was named a 2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar at Agnes Scott College.

Conklin graduated from School Without Walls in Washington. Her parents are Toni Conklin and Michael Conklin of Washington, D.C.

Stukes was dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott College from 1938-1957. Students selected to receive the $1,000 scholarship for 2003-2004 were evaluated for their work during 2002-2003 and hold the highest grade point average for their class.

“In his 20 years as dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott, Dean Stukes worked tirelessly to maintain integrity and academic excellence at the college,” said Rosemary Lévy Zumwalt, dean of the college at Agnes Scott. “Through their hard work and creativity, these students represent that same level of achievement.”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Catherine Jordan of Cedar Falls, Iowa Named
2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Catherine Jordan of Cedar Falls, Iowa was named a 2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar at Agnes Scott College.

Jordan graduated from Cedar Falls High School in Cedar Falls. Her parents are Susan and Phillip Jordan of Cedar Falls, Iowa

Stukes was dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott College from 1938-1957. Students selected to receive the $1,000 scholarship for 2003-2004 were evaluated for their work during 2002-2003 and hold the highest grade point average for their class.

“In his 20 years as dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott, Dean Stukes worked tirelessly to maintain integrity and academic excellence at the college,” said Rosemary Lévy Zumwalt, dean of the college at Agnes Scott. “Through their hard work and creativity, these students represent that same level of achievement.”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Mary Findley of Hoover, Ala. Named
2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Mary Findley of Hoover, Ala. was named a 2003-2004 Samuel Gerry Stukes Scholar at Agnes Scott College.

Findley graduated from Hoover High School in Hoover. Her parents are Mary and Harry Findley of Hoover, Ala.

Stukes was dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott College from 1938-1957. Students selected to receive the $1,000 scholarship for 2003-2004 were evaluated for their work during 2002-2003 and hold the highest grade point average for their class.

“In his 20 years as dean of the faculty at Agnes Scott, Dean Stukes worked tirelessly to maintain integrity and academic excellence at the college,” said Rosemary Lévy Zumwalt, dean of the college at Agnes Scott. “Through their hard work and creativity, these students represent that same level of achievement.”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Sara Scoles Named Presidential Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA –Seminole High School 2003 graduate Sara Scoles was named a Presidential Scholar at Agnes Scott College, an independent liberal arts and sciences college for women founded in 1889.

Presidential scholarships cover a student's tuition, room and board and activity fees, which total about $28,250 a year. Those selected to be presidential scholars must hold a grade point average of 3.8 to 4.0, rank in the top 2 percent of their high school class, and score at least 1480 on the SAT 1 or 30 on the ACT standardized assessment exams.

Scoles' parents, Darla and Ronald Scoles, live in Geneva, Fla.

Agnes Scott awarded three presidential scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scoles shares the honor with Michelle Turney of Ramsey, Minn. and Jayme Walton of Washington, D.C.

Criteria for Presidential Scholars include balanced extracurricular experience, which suggests they will give back when they arrive at the College. The selection process requires an essay and interviews with faculty and current scholars. Academics are important, but students are encouraged to explore interests outside the classroom. Contributing factors are leadership, athletics and community service projects.”

– MORE –

SaraScoles Named Presidential Scholar, Page 2

“We want to attract the brightest women to Agnes Scott,” said Stephanie Balmer, associate vice president for enrollment and director of admission. “Having women of this caliber in the classroom raises the bar for all of our highly qualified students.”

“These women choose the most selective schools in the country,” Balmer said.

“Presidential Scholarships certainly prompt them to think ‘I can see myself making a difference here at Agnes Scott.’ ”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Michelle Turney Named Presidential Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA –Anoka Senior High School 2003 graduate Michelle Turney was named a Presidential Scholar at Agnes Scott College, an independent liberal arts and sciences college for women founded in 1889.

Presidential scholarships cover a student's tuition, room and board and activity fees, which total about $28,250 a year. Those selected to be presidential scholars must hold a grade point average of 3.8 to 4.0, rank in the top 2 percent of their high school class, and score at least 1480 on the SAT 1 or 30 on the ACT standardized assessment exams.

Turney's parents, Margo and Jerry Turney, live in Ramsey, Minn.

Agnes Scott awarded three presidential scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year. Turney shares the honor with Sara Scoles of Geneva, Fla. and Jayme Walton of Washington, D.C.

Criteria for Presidential Scholars include balanced extracurricular experience, which suggests they will give back when they arrive at the College. The selection process requires an essay and interviews with faculty and current scholars. Academics are important, but students are encouraged to explore interests outside the classroom. Contributing factors are leadership, athletics and community service projects."

MichelleTurney Named Presidential Scholar, Page 2

“We want to attract the brightest women to Agnes Scott,” said Stephanie Balmer, associate vice president for enrollment and director of admission. “Having women of this caliber in the classroom raises the bar for all of our highly qualified students.”

“These women choose the most selective schools in the country,” Balmer said.

“Presidential Scholarships certainly prompt them to think ‘I can see myself making a difference here at Agnes Scott.’ ”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Jayme Walton Named Presidential Scholar
At Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA –Mary Persons High School 2003 graduate Jayme Walton was named a Presidential Scholar at Agnes Scott College, an independent liberal arts and sciences college for women founded in 1889.

Presidential scholarships cover a student's tuition, room and board and activity fees, which total about $28,250 a year. Those selected to be presidential scholars must hold a grade point average of 3.8 to 4.0, rank in the top 2 percent of their high school class, and score at least 1480 on the SAT 1 or 30 on the ACT standardized assessment exams.

Walton's parents, Peggy and Andrew Walton, live in Washington, D.C.

Agnes Scott awarded three presidential scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year. Walton shares the honor with Michelle Turney of Ramsey, Minn. and Sara Scoles of Geneva, Fla.

Criteria for Presidential Scholars include balanced extracurricular experience, which suggests they will give back when they arrive at the College. The selection process requires an essay and interviews with faculty and current scholars. Academics are important, but students are encouraged to explore interests outside the classroom. Contributing factors are leadership, athletics and community service projects.”

JaymeWalton Named Presidential Scholar, Page 2

“We want to attract the brightest women to Agnes Scott,” said Stephanie Balmer, associate vice president for enrollment and director of admission. “Having women of this caliber in the classroom raises the bar for all of our highly qualified students.”

“These women choose the most selective schools in the country,” Balmer said.

“Presidential Scholarships certainly prompt them to think ‘I can see myself making a difference here at Agnes Scott.’ ”

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Nicolette Lee of Panama City Beach, Fla. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Nicolette Lee of Panama City Beach, Fla. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Lee graduated in 2000 from Bay High School in Panama City. Her parents are Michael Lee and Linda Lee of Panama City Beach.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Susan Lee of Rock Hill, S.C. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Susan Lee of Rock Hill, S.C. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Lee graduated in 2001 from George Rogers Clark High in Winchester. Her parents are Steve Lee and Starr Lee of Winchester.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Rosemary Lokko of Oakland, Calif. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Rosemary Lokko of Oakland, Calif. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Lokko graduated in 1999 from Achimota School in Accra, Kenya. Her parents are and of .

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Adrienne Lowe of Taylorsville, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Adrienne Lowe of Taylorsville, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Lowe graduated in 2002 from Woodland High School in East Point. Her parents are George Lowe and Angela Lowe of Taylorsville.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Megan Morris of Atlanta, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Megan Morris of Atlanta, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Morris graduated in 2000 from Home School in Atlanta. Her parents are Linda Morris and Jeffrey Morris of Atlanta.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Mary Osterbind of Jacksonville, Ala. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Mary Osterbind of Jacksonville, Ala. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Osterbind graduated in 1999 from Jacksonville High School in Jacksonville. Her parents are Carter Osterbind and Kelly Osterbind of Jacksonville.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Kristen Ralph of Pooler, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Kristen Ralph of Pooler, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Ralph graduated in 2002 from Herschel Jenkins High School in Savannah. Her parents are Michael Ralph and Sherri Ralph of Pooler.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Natalie Reckard of Acworth, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Natalie Reckard of Acworth, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Reckard graduated in 2001 from Harrison High School in Kennesaw. Her parents are David Reckard and Pamela Woodcock of Ft. Lauderdale.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Shikina Reid of Stone Mountain, Ga. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Shikina Reid of Stone Mountain, Ga. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Reid graduated in 2000 from Columbia High School in Decatur. Her parents are Gwendolyn Hunt and of Stone Mountain.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Alissa Schram of Keene, Texas Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Alissa Schram of Keene, Texas was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Schram graduated in 2002 from Cleburne County High School in Gmund. Her parents are Wes Schram and of Keene.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Anna Shebs of Tallahassee, Fla. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2006 student Anna Shebs of Tallahassee, Fla. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Shebs graduated in 2002 from Lawton Chiles High School in Tallahassee. Her parents are Nancy Suellau and of Tallahassee.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Sarah Simmons of Blue Springs, Mo. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Sarah Simmons of Blue Springs, Mo. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Simmons graduated in 2000 from Blue Springs High School in Blue Springs. Her parents are Ben Simmons and Patricia Simmons of Blue Springs.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Nina Tioleco of Granada Hills, Calif. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Nina Tioleco of Granada Hills, Calif. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Tioleco graduated in 2000 from Alemany High School in Mission Hills. Her parents are Romnaldo Tioleco and Ruby Tioleco of Granada Hills.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Erin Turner of Tallahassee, Fla. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2003 student Erin Turner of Tallahassee, Fla. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Turner graduated in 2000 from Alfred B MacLay Jr Day School in Tallahassee. Her parents are Nicholas Turner and Nancy Turner of Tallahassee.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Mary Vesser of Powell, Tenn. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Mary Vesser of Powell, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Vesser graduated in 2001 from Powell High School in Powell. Her parents are Sarah Vesser and Charles Vesser of Powell.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Jennifer Wiese of Orlando, Fla. Named

2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2005 student Jennifer Wiese of Orlando, Fla. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Wiese graduated in 2001 from Colonial High School in Orlando. Her parents are Lihui Wiese and Frederick Wiese of Cape Canaveral.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

Shannen Williams of Memphis, Tenn. Named
2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar at Agnes Scott College

ATLANTA – Agnes Scott College Class of 2004 student Shannen Williams of Memphis, Tenn. was selected as a 2003-2004 Charles A. Dana Scholar for her outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in college activities.

Williams graduated in 2000 from Craigmont High School in Memphis. Her parents are U.D. Williams and Vidonia Williams of Memphis.

“Agnes Scott College students selected as Dana Scholars are motivated to achieve their best in most everything they do,” said Gué Hudson, vice president for student life/community relations and dean of students. “This scholarship acknowledges academic and extracurricular achievement.”

Each Dana scholar is awarded $500 for the 2003-2004 academic year. Scholars are selected based upon their performance during the previous academic year.

Charles Dana was a philanthropist who gave not only to Agnes Scott, but to many other colleges. The ASC scholarship first was funded by Dana in 1960 and later expanded by the Dana Foundation to be available to other colleges. Agnes Scott and other colleges that award Dana Scholarships today have created endowments to fund them.

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location – offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451 (direct)
404-742-2831 (pager)
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AGNES SCOTT'S PHYLLIS TUGGLE TAKES EIGHTH OVERALL IN NCAA DIVISION III CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS: NAMED ALL-AMERICAN

ATLANTA (Nov. 22, 2003) – Phyllis Hines Tuggle, 42, pushed through a pack of cross country runners half her age today to finish in eighth and be named All-American with a time of 22:13.6 at the NCAA Division III Championship at Hanover (Ind.) College.

Tuggle, a return-to-college senior at Agnes Scott College, earned her trip to the championships after a first-place finish almost 45 seconds ahead of her closest competitor at the Nov. 15 southeast regional championship at Emory University. In today's race, Missy Buttry, a junior at Wartburg (Iowa) College, secured her second consecutive championship with a time of 20:00.2.

Runners crossing the line between Buttry and Tuggle included Liz Woodworth, a junior at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, who finished a distant second at 21:03.3. Kathleen Brice, a senior at Elmhurst (Ill.) College, crossed the line third at 21:23.2, and Amherst (Mass.) College junior Carter Hamill secured fourth place with a time of 21:40.8.

Finishing fifth with a time of 21:44.5 was Kristin Igielski, a senior at Carroll (Wis.) College. First-year Principia (Ill.) College student Amy Alshire finished sixth at 22:08.7, and Jess Maner, a junior at Middlebury (Vt.) College finished seventh at 22:11.7.

Complete race results are posted online at:

<http://www.ncaasports.com/crosscountry/womens/results/2739>.

“Phyllis achieved her goal today to finish in the top 10,” said John Roberts, Agnes Scott cross country coach. “She had a great season.”

A veteran distance runner and 2002 women's winner of the Atlanta Marathon, Tuggle was encouraged to run cross country this year by teammate Megan Morris, a junior who met Tuggle last year in German studies class. Tuggle, a Nashville native who grew up in Tullahoma, Tenn., where her parents still live, ran with Vanderbilt University before she left college in 1983 to train with the U.S. Olympic Team for the Marathon.

– MORE –

Tuggle, 42, Places Eighth at NCAA Cross-Country Championships

Page 2

After an injury later in 1983 in the New York Marathon, Tuggle turned to cycling and was named to the U.S. Women's Cycling Team in 1985. Over the next 10 years, she became one of the most decorated women's cyclists in the United States, earning six national championships, two world championship medals, two world records in the 40-kilometer time trials, and leading the U.S. team to numerous international victories, including the Tour de France. After returning to her studies two years ago at Agnes Scott, she learned she still had NCAA eligibility to compete.

"My hamstrings hurt, my feet hurt and my ankles hurt today. There were a pack of us running together and I had to be really smart," she said. "But the crowd was really great. It seemed like everyone knew who I was, and anyone over the age of 20 was cheering for me."

#

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE
THE WORLD FOR WOMEN

Office of Public Relations

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
ATLANTA (Nov. 24, 2003)

Contact: Lee Dancy
Manager, News Services
Agnes Scott College
404-471-5451 (direct)
404-742-2831 (pager)
ldancy@agnesscott.edu

AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE HOSTS PROJECT KALEIDOSCOPE CONFERENCE DEC. 5-7

- WHAT: Story Idea: Searching for the Perfect College Science Space
Project Kaleidoscope (PKAL), one of the leading advocates for building and sustaining strong undergraduate programs in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM), will present: "Building Vital Undergraduate STEM Departments and Programs."
Editors' note: This event is not open to the public, but media interested in coverage are welcome.
- WHERE: The new Agnes Scott College Science Center, which was designed according to PKAL principles. Conference participants also will tour PKAL-inspired facilities at Spelman College and Emory University.
- WHEN: Friday-Sunday, Dec. 5-7. The event agenda can be found at:
http://www.pkal.org/template2.cfm?c_id=706
- WHO: Some of the leading science educators from colleges and universities across the nation. A list of planners/presenters for this event, including Agnes Scott's Chris De Pree, associate professor of astronomy, can be found at:
http://www.pkal.org/template2.cfm?c_id=711
- WHY: "In order to make change happen, you need leaders making a difference. Leadership may be initiated by the college president and faculty, but we aren't really successful until the students contribute through their leadership," said Jeanne Narum, Project Kaleidoscope director. "These are academic centers where faculty are engaged actively as scholars – as passionate about the quality of their students' learning as they are about the quality of their research."
"Agnes Scott's new science center reflects PKAL principles by fostering both formal and informal learning," said Mary Brown Bullock, president of Agnes Scott College. "Ample classroom and lab space engage both students and faculty in formal learning and research, and comfortable chairs and tables in common areas invite students to pursue ideas informally."
"Students construe their careers along the route their learning fosters – where their research and education responsibilities go hand-in-hand."

#

Agnes Scott College educates women to think deeply, live honorably and engage the intellectual and social challenges of their times. Students are drawn to Agnes Scott by its excellent academic reputation, exceptional faculty, and metropolitan Atlanta location offering myriad cultural and experiential learning opportunities. A diverse and growing residential community of scholars, this highly selective liberal arts college opened a new $36.5 million Science Center recently to complete a $120 million building program. Encouraging study abroad and presenting its curriculum with international context, Agnes Scott College delivers on its promise: The World for Women.